"I can afford to spend thirty thousand men a month," said Napoleon to Metternich in 1805—and from about then European statecraft adopted the idea that ability to afford a like luxury was necessary to the success of its game.

Revolutionary France, threatened on all sides by a monarchical coalition, had adopted a military levy en masse to defend the country; but it is interesting that Carnot, the great organizer of the defensive victories of Revolutionary France, was opposed to conscription and that the system immediately became, in fact, an instrument of aggression abroad and of autocracy at home.

The obscure Council of Five Hundred, representative of nothing in particular, sitting on the ashes of the Revolution and in awe of the army, passed the law that set up conscription in France—to be rapidly perfected by Bonaparte, extended by him to conquered territory, adopted by Prussia, and so to become the universal system on the Continent.

The basic principle is that every able-bodied male of a certain age must undergo thorough military training and serve a given term with the colors—virtually with no exemptions and no hiring of substitutes.

This is the system that many British observers expect—and wish—the new ministry to introduce into their country. Government command of pretty much the whole male population may be turned to great account in peace as well as in war. This was shown in France, where the government broke a railroad strike by virtually putting the strikers, who were also army reservists, under military orders—disobedience to which is punishable with death. The Prussian Government's grip on employees of the state-owned railroads and other public utilities is undoubtedly strengthened by the fact that the men are subject to military orders. That the introduction of the system into England will be attended by a very lively row seems fairly certain.—Saturday Evening Post

by E. R. BRANSON

"Good-will" Can Be Sold

Q. May what is known as the "good-will" of one who is engaged in a profession be the subject of a sale?

A. Yes.

Architect, Contractor and Builder

Q. Does an architect have the power to settle all disputed questions between the contractor and the man who is putting up the building?

A. This depends upon the nature of the contract. If the parties to the contract agree to refer all such questions to the architect, his decision will be binding unless fraud or mistake on his part can be shown.

Disposing Of Property

Q. I have a relative who made a contract with a person outside the family, agreeing to dispose of his property, by will, in favor of this person. Has he a legal right to do so?

A. Yes.

They Are Living Apart

Q. Where a man and his wife are living apart, does the Illinois law require him to support her?

A. If the wife left him without good cause and against his consent, he is not liable even for necessaries furnished her. If the separation was due to the husband's improper treatment of her, or if he assented to the separation, he is liable for her necessary support, and to this extent she will be entitled to have credit on his account.

This Applies To Reno

Q. Please tell me whether dower is recognized by the laws of Nevada.

A. It is not.

Minor Responsible For Necessities Only

Q. Is a person under age responsible for his contracts?

A. If the contracts were for the necessaries of life, he is liable. All other contracts he may make are voidable—that is, he may either ratify them or refuse to be bound by them after he becomes of full age.

Death Dissolves Partnership

Q. What will be the effect, with reference to the continuance of a partnership of the death of one member of the firm?

A. The effect usually is that the partnership, by the mere fact of the death of one of its members, will be dissolved. However, the partners may provide against such a contingency if they so desire by arranging, in their articles of agreement, for a continuance of the partnership after the death of a member.

Auctioneer's Authority

Q. Is it necessary, according to the law of Illinois, for an auctioneer's authority to be in writing?

A. No.

Teacher's Certificate Revoked

Q. My cousin was engaged to teach school in a certain locality in Illinois. Subsequently, and before she had entered upon the employment, her certificate of qualification was revoked by the county superintendent of schools. Her friends have told her that she cannot sue him unless she shows that his action was prompted by personal malice. The county superintendent claims it is not a personal matter at all. Do you think she ought to bring suit?

A. It is not necessary for your cousin to show personal hatred or ill-will on the part of the county superintendent. If she can show that he acted rashly and wantonly in revoking the license, the jury will have the right to infer malice, in the legal sense of the word.

Railroad Injured Passenger

Q. Where a passenger, in leaving a railroad company's premises after alighting from a train, is injured as a result of the defective condition of the premises, may he recover damages?

A. Yes, provided he was in the exercise of ordinary care for his own safety.

You think you are tolerably busy. How would you like to be the woman who cooks batter-cakes for a husband and six children?

After an elderly man has apprised you of the state of his health he has practically exhausted the subjects for discussion in which he personally is interested.

It is about an even break between the people and the actors. The people "roast" the show and the actors "roast" the town.

Formerly when a woman wanted to show her love for a man she knitted a crocheted tie and gave it to him for a birthday present. Now she buys a revolver and goes out and shoots him full of holes.

Be thankful that you are not the orchestra. The orchestra has to stay until the show is over.

Generally speaking, if you try it in the dark you will succeed only in kissing the girl on the ear.

The public is always pretty well satisfied with a divorce if the newspapers print the testimony in detail.

A good many of us who are fairly nimble as to tongue, stutter in the head.

Buck Kilby says Heaven will suit him all right if they'll let him trade his harp for a trombone.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—What the Tree Earned For Being Good.

"I MUST tell you about the tree that was always good and the reward it received for so being," said daddy to Jack and Evelyn as they ran to him for the evening story.

"Why, daddy," objected Evelyn, "you talk as if the tree were alive!"

"Why, of course the tree is alive!" explained daddy. "It's alive just the same as you and I are, though in a different way. It strikes its roots deep into the soil, and the soil is the same to it as bread is to you kiddies or perhaps potatoes, and if the soil is rich the tree thrives. The sap runs through it, which is the same as the red lifeblood for you or for me, and its leaves breathe the fresh air, and altogether I think the tree is just as glad to be alive as are you and I.

"But I must tell you about the little tree that started in to be good and the reward it got in the end when it had grown to be a great deal bigger tree.

"This little tree in the first place was hardly larger than a twig. It had sprung originally from an acorn—yes, one of the little acorns like you children have sometimes picked up in the woods. You remember—

"'Great oaks from little acorns grow.'

"So the little tree grew from the acorn, and before very long it began to look up in the world, and I think about that time was when it began to resolve that it would always be good.

"'Heigh-ho!' said the little oak tree. 'Am I not fortunate? I think I am one of the luckiest little oak trees I know. Here am I deep in the quiet woods, protected by larger trees that grow all around me, with the sun to search me out when it gets high overhead and the shade to protect me when it seems too hot. Along comes the warm rain to soak into the ground near my tiny roots, and after it I can just feel myself growing. I am always going to be a good little tree, and maybe something nice will happen to me when I grow up.'

"'Why,' whispered a mischievous breeze which was passing at that moment, 'don't you know that some day you will be made into lumber?'

"'Why, what's that?' asked the little tree.

"And the breeze told the little tree how the big trees were cut down and taken to a sawmill and cut up for lumber to use in houses and for furniture and things like that, and the little tree felt bad at first, but it made up its mind that that was its destiny and it would make the best of it.

"So the oak tree grew up and was good and served as a home for squirrels and bestowed kindly shade, and after a time, when it had grown to be big and old, it was cut down.

"Then it was made into a beautiful heavy chair, and a great man sat in it."

Household Hints

THINGS WORTH KNOWING

Flour Preserves Rubber—To preserve fruit jar rubbers, cover with dry flour. When wanted for use, wipe off flour with a dry cloth and the rubber will be as good as new. Any rubber goods may be preserved for years in this way. Keep your hot water rubber bottles during the summer this way.

Morning Cap—The front of your old waist that buttoned in the back will make a very pretty morning cap.

To Thicken Gravy—To thicken gravy with a batter so it will not be lumpy, make the batter quite thin and do not stir while pouring it into the boiling liquid.

Varnish Suitcases—Varnish your suitcases and shopping bags. It improves their looks and they will wear much longer.

Washing Dish Towels—Every day take the dish towels, put them in a pan with a small piece of soap and cover with cold water. Place on the range and allow them to boil ten or fifteen minutes, then let cold water run on them and rub towels gently. Rinse in several waters. This method keeps them white and clean with little labor. Another point: they are washed by themselves, a fact one cannot be sure of it they are sent to the laundry with the general wash.

RECIPES

Egg Vermicelli—Six slices of toast, three hard cooked eggs, one cup white sauce. Cut three slices of the toast in squares and put them on a warm platter. Chop the whites of the eggs, add them to the sauce, reheat and pour over the toast. Rub them through a strainer (or ricer) over the top. Garnish with the remaining slices of toast, cut in points.

Flank Steak Rolled—Have your butcher scar steak thoroughly. Cover it thickly with flour, season with clove, summer savory, pepper and salt, then sprinkle with a little vinegar. Roll up tightly and tie with twine. Let stand in refrigerator an hour, then place in stew pan, cover with boiling water and stew gently for three hours. Slice like a rolled jelly cake, and is good either hot or cold.

Scalloped Tomatoes—Put in a dish, alternate layers of buttered bread crumbs with sliced tomatoes, sprinkled with pepper, salt and sugar, spread bread crumbs and butter over the top. Bake one hour.

Cheese Omelet (or Souffle)—Two tablespoonfuls of butter, a speck of cayenne, three tablespoonfuls of flour, one-quarter cup grated cheese, one-half cupful of milk (scalded), three eggs, one-half teaspoonful salt. Melt the butter, add the flour and when well mixed add gradually the scalded milk. Then add the salt, pepper and cheese. Remove from the fire and add the yolks of the eggs, beaten until lemon colored. Cool the mixture and fold into it the whites of the eggs beaten until very stiff. Pour into a buttered baking dish and cook twenty minutes in a slow oven. Serve at once.

Peach Pudding—Fill pudding dish almost full with whole peeled peaches, cook as for canning. Pour off the juice (there should be about one-half cup), and let cool. Add to it one cup milk, three eggs well beaten, one cup sugar and two cups flour, with two teaspoons baking powder, a little salt. Beat hard four minutes. Sprinkle little sugar over peaches. Then pour batter over peaches in dish. Bake to a rich brown and serve with cream.

CLOTHES CLOSET

For the summer traveler a portable clothes closet is indeed a boon. These closets are made in chintz and sell for a not exorbitant price, but they are cheaper made in a khaki colored cloth. They can be packed into a remarkably small space, and yet when they are opened up they afford ample protection for a large wardrobe. Their price varies with their size and quality

EXCELLENT EARLY-FALL DRESS

With the advent of August we must begin to prepare for fall—schools will soon be opening, dances will become more frequent, the cooler weather will be at hand—a thousand and one variations of our summer habits will be necessary, all of which affects our clothes. A new and delightful fall dress is Ladies Home Journal Pattern No. 8819 shown above. It has the new sleeveless bolero one frequently sees. The 4-gored skirt is gathered to a darted foundation waist with full length sleeves, over which is worn a sleeveless jacket with small revers and applied trimming sections embroidered with design No. 14303. This transfer pattern costs 15 cents. The dress pattern No. 8819 cuts in sizes 32 to 42 inches bust measure, requiring in size 36, 6¼ yards 36-inch material with 2 yards lace edging and ⅞-yard 27-inch silk for girdle.

Glimpses of Married Life

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

The night was sultry and the household had gone to bed with the doors and windows wide open. The hooked screens furnished the only protection against burglars.

After Olive returned from her fruitless attempt to discover the identity of the shadowy woman in black whom she discovered creeping through the nearby pastures she fell asleep, wearied by the heat and exercise.

During the night a slight sound made her open her eyes. The moonlight streamed across her bed and flooded the room with light. Standing in a square of moonlight in the center of the room was a tall, sheeted figure. As Olive looked it slowly raised one arm, from which the white draperies fell, and pointing directly at the girl said in a somber voice:

"You will never live to marry Dr. Ellson. Be warned in time."

Olive sprang from her bed and grasped the extended arm, at the same time twitching at the draperies that covered the face of the intruder. In the struggle that ensued the sleeve of Olive's gown was torn. Just as the face was exposed to view the moon went under a cloud, and the panting woman broke away from Olive and vanished down the stairs and out of the house.

Olive caught up a kimona and followed instantly. The screen door stood wide open, but no trace of the ghostly intruder could she see, though she looked up the street and down.

Trembling with excitement she tapped at Nell's open door.

"Nell, dear," she called, "come out here, will you?"

The sleepy Nell appeared, rubbing her eyes.

"What is it?" she asked, as Olive seized her and drew her to the open door.

"Look and see if you can see anything of a figure all in white," commanded Olive excitedly.

They both gazed into the moonlit night.

"What is it, Olive?" asked the bewildered Nell.

"'I've seen a ghost,' laughed Olive hysterically; "a sheeted figure appeared at my bedside and warned me of impending doom if I married the doctor."

"No!" ejaculated Nell. "You've been dreaming, girlie; that dreadful woman has got on your nerves."

"Dreams don't tear your clothes." Olive pointed to the torn sleeve of her gown. "Nor scratch." She exhibited a red mark on her arm. "The woman fought like a tiger when she found I had her in my grasp; the moon went under a cloud just as I snatched her veil off, so I did not get a view of her face."

"Why, Olive!" Nell sat down weakly in a chair and stared at her friend in dumb surprise. "How dared she come into our house at night that way?"

"She thought I would be frozen with terror and she could vanish at her leisure. My springing out of bed and grasping her arm gave her a surpise party. When she fled I followed instantly. The screen door was standing open, but no trace of her was to be seen anywhere. She had sunk into the earth, apparently."

"I'm going to call Dick," and Nell disappeared into the bedroom. Olive heard low voices and hurried movements and soon Dick appeared partly dressed, his feet in slippers.

"I'm going out to hunt your ghost." He grinned as he strode through the house and down the path. While he was gone Olive told Nell of her excursion earlier in the night, shadowing a figure in black and of her finding the footprint in the whitened grass back of the syringas.

"There's no question about its being Mrs. Ellson," said Nell wearily.

When Dick returned he had been unable to find any trace of the visitor.

"It's going to rain," he prophesied. "It's clouding up in the west."

Seek not to pour the world into thy little mould,

Thou art but as a string in life's vast sounding board,
And other strings as sweet may not with thine accord.

—W. W. Story.

Good Citizenship.

Good citizenship is promoted by forming habits of co-operation in play. People who play together find it easier to live together. Individuals enjoying a wholesome happy play life are more loyal as well as more efficient citizens. Family unity is most easily secured when the members of the family have formed the habit of playing together in their leisure hours. Community spirit is most easily developed through play in which all members of the community may share. Democracy rests on the most firm basis where a community has formed the habit of playing together. Social progress depends upon the extent to which a people possess a play.

Calculating Selfishness.

I do not believe in the reckless marriages where the man is unable to support a wife nor in couples who recklessly and thoughtlessly have multitudes of children whom they are unable to bring up properly, nor in the man who forces upon an unfit wife excessive and unlimited childbearing. But this form of reckless and brutal selfishness is not as wicked as the cold calculating and most unmanly and unwomanly selfishness which makes so many men and women shirk the most important of all their duties to the State. Incidentally when they show this sordid and selfish cowardice they deprive themselves of that highest type of earthly happiness which is to be found only in the companionship of the husband and wife, who with deep and tender consideration, facing life with high courage, love one another and who love and care for the healthy and happy children whom it has been their supreme blessing to bring into the world.—Theodore Roosevelt.

A Duty.

According to Countess Wirt-Rigendorf, who was Elsie Neylor, the popular Newport belle and horse show favorite, "every woman ough to be the foster mother of a child if she has no children of her own." In speaking of theories before sailing for Europe the other day, the countess said: "Every girl over eighteen ought to see to it that one little kiddie has enough to eat and wear. I am not speaking of working girls who must help support their families or women who are the mothers of families. It refer to the daughters of the well-to-do and to childless wives."

Wrong Time to Consider Faults.

"I wonder," said one mother, whose children are particularly happy little things, and also well behaved, "why so many mothers keep the things they want to talk over with their children until bedtime. I know at least three mothers who wait till their children are in bed then sit down and labor to bring them to the right side of feeling about the little naughtiness they've committed during the day." I'm reminded of the custom by something I read just now in a household magazine. A mother supposed to be an expert in child management—conducts a page on the subject—describes some little piece of selfishness of which her small daughter was guilty.

"I waited till night, till she was in bed," the account goes on, "and then I put it to her gravely, etc." Now we all know what "putting a thing to a child gravely" means. It means, in the part of the child, first, resistance, more or less, then tears, then remorse, at least that's the usual course, and its a gamut of emotions no child should be put through at bedtime. Before it lies down the child's mind should be wiped clear of everything but happiness. A gentle romp, unexciting stories, talk about happy things, some bedtime songs from mother—these things should go before every child's sleep.

PROCTOR'S THEATRE

"Buckshot John," with Hobart Boswarth playing the title role, and a cast including Courtenay Foote, Helen Wolcott and Carl van Schiller, is booked for the Proctor Theatre this evening. Here is a story of the West, the workings of a fakir, together with train robbers, with a streak of love as the golden thread which binds the tale together. Climaxes and scenes that are heartgripping are numerous in this production.

"Lady Audley's Secret," with Theda Bara playing the stellar role, the famous vampire woman in her best in this play. Miss Bara in herself is all sufficient to make this production a feature, as the story gives ample opportunity to show the full scope of her wonderful powers of dramatic and emotional expression. The story itself is one of love, loneliness and desire for richness. This picture is scheduled for the Proctor house tomorrow, both afternoon and evening. Together with this picture is coupled another episode of "The Romance of Elaine," with Arnold Daly and Pearl White.

The program for Saturday includes "Leah, the Forsaketh," a three-act Universal production with Vivian Prescott in the leading part, and another episode of the serial photoplay, "The Goddess."

JOE DICKINSON, WESTFIELD DRIVER, WILL DRIVE FOR RECORD AT FLEMINGTON TRACK

Joe Dickinson, of Westfield, with his powerful Stutz racing car, that has won more races in his class in the past two years than any racing driver on the circuit, will appear at the Flemington Fair grounds tomorrow to try and win his class events and break the track record.

Dickinson and Vail, after the Boston race, where Dickinson's Stutz was not up to the standard, having had engine trouble, will each try their best to show their supremacy, as these two drivers shared equal honors last season on half-mile tracks, Vail having won twelve firsts and nine seconds and Dickinson likewise.

The program of events will be one mile time trials, five miles for local cars (no entry fee charges), and the winner being eligible to enter the following professional event: 10-mile under 300 cubic inches piston displacement, 10-mile under 450 inches piston displacement, 10-mile free-for-all, 10-mile handicap free-for-all, and Australian pursuit race, open to four fastest cars, which will start at quarter-mile posts around the course, and upon a car being overtaken and passed the car is out of the race, and the last car on the track declared the winner. This will be the feature event of the day.

KINKEAD WANTS TO SEE "TED" MEREDITH RACE

Tom Cassidy, A. A. U. commissioner at Jersey City, on behalf of Sheriff Eugene F. Kinkead, of Hudson county, wired to Ted Meredith that Kinkead would have the old Guttenberg racetrack put in perfect condition if Meredith would care to try for the quarter-mile world's record of forty-seven seconds, made by Maxey Long over the same track in 1900. Sheriff Kinkead will stand all expenses which may be incurred to put on the trial

It is thought that Meredith will accept the offer to make a try, as he feels very much put out over the blunder made by the officials at the coast track Tuesday, when the timers failed to start their watches on the first send-off.

FEDS TO INVADE NEW YORK; BOSTON NOT YET READY

Boston, Aug. 12.—The proposed Federal League invasion of Boston has been abandoned, President James A. Gilmore announced here yesterday.

"Boston is not ready to take care of a third big league team," he said, "but we're surely going to New York with a team in 1916, and 10-cent ball is going to be the rule throughout the Federal League."

PITCHERS HAD EASIER TASK IN OLDEN TIMES

Occasionally the oldest inhabitant begins "harking back" to the days when pitchers worked every other day and played in the outfield when not performing in the box. It is asked: "Why is the modern flinger able to work but once in four or five days, resting from all labor in the interim?"

The answer is easy—pitching requirements are entirely different. Here are some of the conditions under which the hurlers worked in 1876, the first year of the National League's existence:

Pitching distance, 45 feet.

Three strikes out, nine balls allowed.

Pitcher's box six feet square.

Pitcher could take more than one step in delivering the ball.

Batter could not take first base when hit by pitched ball.

Imagine Walter Johnson shooting his fireball at a batsman only 45 feet distant, and with practically no restriction on the movements of his body in delivering the same.

Imagine the efforts of a batsman to "wait him out" until Walter wasted nine balls.

And picture the chance a runner would have to get a lead if there was no penalty on the pitcher for a false motion to first.

The miracle would be if any batsman ever got to first at all, if such pitching conditions existed today. Handicapped almost every way, pitching from a 15-foot greater distance, and laboring under increased strain, due to more scinetifically developed attack at bat and on the base lines, it is no wonder the modern hurler is not able to work more that once in four day.

KEEN RIVALRY FEATURES COMPETITION FOR ATHLETIC PRIZES IN MONSTER PICNIC MEET

Charles Walpole Wins Daily Press Trophy After Spirited Finish In the Mile Event—Feminine Athletes Also Perform In Novel Races—Program Varied and Well Managed By Officials.

Addresses made by Governor James F. Fielder and other prominent men at the Fanwood community picnic yesterday, were no more popular than was the program of senior athletic events which followed the talks. As told in yesterday's Press the athletic matches for the smaller children were run off in the morning, Robert Howell attaining the highest number of points, his efforts resulting in the giving of the cup, donated by A. Rutgers Nielson, Jr., to Wolf Patrol, Troop 2, Boy Scouts.

A few of the junior events had to be postponed until late in the afternoon, the final winner in the sack race being Harold Hodge and the silver medal competition being Marion Greyson, who was tied with Margaret Barrett. In order that the tie might be broken, the athletic officials decided that the two girls should run a 25-yard dash, the winner to receive the award. In this competition, Margaret Barrett lost, Marion Grayson taking the medal.

Fat Men Shine.

The most amusing feature of the afternoon athletic carnival was the fat man's race, in which three unusually rotund individuals competed. Emanuel Medonnis easily captured the prize, Charley Elliott coming in second and William Guest last. Movies were taken of this laugh creating race by a local "movie" photographer, who took about 200 feet of film of the various affairs.

Obstacle Race.

The obstacle race, run in four heats, produced quite a little excitement, resulting in a slight injury to one ofthe finalists, John Southard, who fell down one of the step-ladders. Those who contested were Robert Anson, Lou Caronna, Wright McAneny, Ernest Wahl, John Southard, James Caronna, Robert Hodge and Nick Von Vigleo. Lou Caronna won the event owing to the fact that his leading competitor sprained his ankle.

Two in Broad Jump.

Only two contestants tried for honors in the standing broad jump, James Caronna outjumping Joe Albert. Caronna's mark was 9 feet 2 inches, while Albert made 9 feet 1 inch and a fraction. Both men had two tries but neither could equal first mark.

High Jump Prize to Lee.

Robert Dolge, Gary Saunders, Frank Lee and Robert Anson competed in the running high jump. The bar was raised to the 4 foot mark and at the 4 ft. 3 inch section Hodge fell, Saunders failing at 4 ft. 5 inches, Anson at 4 ft. 7 inches, while Lee, the winner, leaped 5 feet 2 inches. Lee's leap gained him much well-earned applause, the ease and grace with which he executed the feat being responsible for the ovation.

Three in Shotput.

The shotputting contest came next, Emil Jahn, Edward Hatfield, Frank Lee and Nick Von Vigleo contesting. John hurled the 16-pound weight 24-6 feet, Hatfield 30.7, VonVigleo 30 feet and Lee 34-7 feet. In this event Lee was also an easy winner, while in the hop, step and jump run off shortly afterward, he carried off second place honors. Everett Marston, with a combination hop, step and jump of 32.6 feet captured the event. Ed Hatfield, with 29.28, and Frank Lee with 30.9 made creditable showings.

Lee Wins Broad Jump.

Another prize went to Frank Lee when the running broad jump was contested. The marks of the various contestants were as follows: Ed Hatfield, 14-2 feet; George Venizio 15 feet; Ernie Wahl, 14 feet; Robert Hodge, 15.7 feet, and Frank Lee, 15-95 feet.

Press Cup Contest Keen.

The competition for the Plainfield Daily Press cup was most keen, seven athletes starting the mile run to win it. Those who started were Robert Anson, Louis Caronna, Charlie Walpole, Louis Fitser, Louis Beatty, John Carmichael and Joe Marjo. The beauty of the largest cup so attracted Mr. Marjo that he made a post entry, although he was compelled to run in his stocking feet. The runners were bunched all the way, a final spurt by Walpole and Beatty giving them the last 50 yards to themselves. Walpole rushed across the tape barely 2 inches ahead of Beatty, Carmichael finishing third.

Senior Sack Race.

The senior sack race was easily won by Nick VonVigleo.

Men's Races Good.

The 100-yard dash, first heat, was captured by Eddie Hatfield, and the second heat by Frank Lee. Lee dropped out in the final run off, having gotten off to a poor start.

Wright McAneny had little trouble in taking the 440. The P. H. S. trackman led all the way, closely, but not dangerously followed by Bob Hodge and Lou Caronna. The 50-yard three-legged race was easily annexed by Everett Marston and Lou Caronna, the second duo being Chris Lewis and Ed Hatfield. The winners' time was 15 2-5 seconds.

Girls' Events.

Edith Houston captured the Courier-News cup in the girls' quarter mile run, Hannah Lambertson coming in second. Both girls fell exhausted at the finish and the rest of the contestants fell on top of them. No one was seriously injured.

The summaries in the girls' events were:

Three-legged race—Won by Emma Elliott and Edith Jahn; second, Mae Weller and Ivy Hargreaves.

Senior 50-yard dash—Won by Ida Bopp.

Baseball throw—Won by Ruth Dunn, 101.4 feet; second, Teresa Lewis, 78 feet; third, Margaret Jahn, 74.5 feet.

Trap Shooting Drew.

Trap shooting, under the leadership of Edward Hand, attracted many of the spectators, while the Benedict-Bachelor baseball fare created a myriad of mirth. Who won? That's still in doubt.

The winners of the four cups posed for the "movies." Charles Walpole held his precious Press-cup and bestowed several smiles upon the "movie" man; Elizabeth Houston Courier cup in hand, acted a little. Robert Lee, winner of the individual point cup, donated by the Fanwood Lumber and Supply Company; Robert Howell, whose great work captured the Scout cup for his troop, Wolf Patrol, posed with that cup in hand, and Emma Elliott, winner of the girls' individual point winners cup, did her little "turn." This cup was donated by the Fanwood Stone Crushing and Quarry Company.

Much credit is due Edward Hatfield, L. Morgan, Edward Tulloch and Marguerite Jahn for the able manner in which they conducted the athletic events.

NEW JERSEY FISH NOT BIG ENOUGH FOR CLARENCE HUFF

Clarence Huff, of Park avenue, secretary to "Pop" Thorn, the well known bicycle dealer, has left for the State of Maine where he will spend his annual summer outing. According to Clarence the Pine Tree State will be minus several tons of fish by the time his outing is concluded and he has notified his host of local friends to sharpen up their appetites for the best "feed" of fish dishes that they have ever tasted and incidently to prepare themselves for the reception of his yearly collection of Isaac Walton yarns.

His luggage included a unique collection of fishing tackle and lure designed to coax the biggest and juiciest water products from their covers. Pending Huff's return the "Big Five" Fishing Club will probably suspend its weekly trips.

FORMER LOCAL MEN TO AUTO IN FLEMINGTON FAIR RACES

Pedestrians in the vicinity of the postoffice late yesterday afternoon, formed a curious crowd around a white racer, which brought two occupants to this city. Inquiries brought the information that the two young men were Ira Vail and Victor Tillotson, of New York city, and were en route for the Flemington Fair grounds, where they are scheduled to participate in the races tomorrow. Both Mr. Vail and Mr. Tillotson are former Plainfield boys and are well-known throughout the city and borough, the latter playing on the Holy Cross football eleven for several seasons.

The car in question was a handsome white "Mulford Special" and had a large black "1" on the hood. Questioned as to the speed they would probably make, Mr. Vail answered that they would have to see the course first before determining. Mr. Vail will drive the car tomorrow.

BATHTUB MURDERER TO BE HUNG TOMORROW

London, Aug. 12.—George Joseph Smith, the famous murderer, known as the Modern Bluebeard, must hang tomorrow at Maidstone Prison. Smith was tried in June and convicted of the murder of three wives, each of whom was found nude and drowned in their baths. The motive for his crime was shown to be money, and it was claimed he had received $14,000 in this manner. The circumstances of each crime were almost identical.

The three victims of Smith were: Beatrice Mundy, whom he married in July, 1912; Alice Burnham, to whom he was married in November, 1913, and Margaret Lofty, who married Smith under the name of John Lloyd, in November, 1914.

The trial at Old Bailey began in June, and Smith was convictd on July 1. He was sentenced on July 31 to be hanged tomorrow. The trial was one of the most spectacular of recent years. Smith rose in a crowded courtroom and shrieked "Not guilty, not guilty! It's all a lie!" Smith is forty-three years old, a tall, thin man, with shifting eyes.

The evidence introduced showed that Smith had an uncanny influence over women. He charmed them wherever he went. They deserted homes, gave him everything they possessed and made wills in his favor. It was claimed by the prosecution that he had had six wives, including the three who met their deaths in the bathtubs. It was claimed that he had two wives before he met and wooed Beatrice Mundy. After this marriage, it was claimed, Smith deserted, taking $500 of his bride's money. But so great was his fascination that he won her forgiveness. In fact, he succeeded in gaining as a provision that he return to her a bequest of $12,500 on her death. Shortly afterward she was found dead in her bathtub, the first of the three victims of the Modern Bluebeard.

The defense set up that Beatrice Mundy suffered a fit and drowned accidentally was ridiculed by the prosecution. The position in which the body was found was the evidence which the crown relied on to prove murder.

It was claimed by the prosecution that Smith, after claiming his bequest, returned to one of his previous wives, named Pegler. Shortly afterward he met Alice Burnham, a nurse. This gril had saved up a modest sum, $500, and Smith married her in 1913. It was claimed that he induced her to will her savings to him and to insure her life for $2,500 in his favor. The Burnham woman was also found dead in her bathtub. Smith collected the insurance and soon afterward married Alice Revail, who is still living. Later on, under the name of John Lloyd, he marrfied Elizabeth Lofty, whose death in the same manner in her bathtub aroused suspicion.

One of the most important arguments used against Smith by the crown prosecutor was that in each of the deaths the woman was found in the bathroom of a lodging-house, nude and entirely dead, and that in all cases the bathroom door was unlocked. It was inconceivable, claimed the prosecutor, that a modest woman would enter a bathroom in a strange house without locking the door from the inside.

SCOOP, THE CUB REPORTER — IT SOUNDED PRETTY SOLID FOR A GHOST — BY "HOP"

99 YEARS OLD, FIGHTS DEVIL.

Cleveland, O., Aug. 12.—One of the most strenuous speaking campaigns is that of a ninety-nine-year-old minister, Rev. Albert Vogel, of Jeanette, Pa., who is touring Ohio, Michigan and Indiana. Rev. Vogel recently preached at the Lakeside camp meeting near this city. His tour takes him to Detroit then to Bucyrus, O., where he preached before the Civil War, and thence to Marion, Ind., and Gallion O. Two months of hard work does not discourage the aged minister. With remarkable mental, physical and spiritual power he is coenducting his evangelistic tour with the vigor of youth. His father was a soldier in Napoleon's army.

NOT TO APPOINT NEW COLLECTOR

Matter of Naming George F. Brown's Successor Defered For One Week.

COUNSEL'S SUGGESTION

Isaac P. Runyon Believes It Would Be Illegal If Made at Session Called For Tonight—Many In the Race.

There will be no meeting tonight of the North Plainfield Common Council for the purpose of selecting a tax collector and treasurer to succeed the late George F. Brown. Isaac P. Runyon, borough counsel, has rendered an opinion on the matter in which he advises the borough officials that the selection of a tax collector and treasurer at a special meeting would be illegal; that such business can be transacted only at a regular meeting of the Common Council or at an adjourned meeting. As Council stands adjourned to meet Friday evening, August 27, when bids for $35,000 worth of sewer bonds will be opened, the selection of a successor to Mr. Brown will go over until that time.

Mayor Robert Clark, Jr., and all six councilmen met together at the Mayor's residence last night and discussed this latest phase of the collectorship. Judge Runyon's opinion was rendered in typewritten form and plainly stated the case. Reluctant as the borough officials were to postpone the election of a new collector, there was no alternative in the face of the facts recited by Judge Runyon in the opinion.

The councilmen talked over the various candidates at the caucus last night. Mayor Clark would not intimate whom he intends to appoint when interviewed by a Daily Press reporter this morning. He declared, however, that all concerned in the appointment would be inclined to maintain a rigid silence in regard to candidates and their chances in view of the postponement of the meeting, for fear "a cog might slip in the interval." Besides the aspirants for the office mentioned in yesterday's Daily Press, William O. Worth is said to be a possibility.

Meanwhile the collector's office on Somerset street will be open every day in charge of Miss Julia Williams, Mr. Brown's efficient assistant, who will be permitted to receive money, checks, etc., which may be turned in, but not to give a receipt for them except as a private individual. All such money and checks, it is said, will have to be placed in envelopes and placed in the safe temporarily, as no one has authority to make deposits even until a new collector and treasurer is appointed. Because Mr. Brown's office combined those of tax collector and treasurer, the business of the borough is tied up completely for the time being. No embarrassment to the borough will ensue, however, it is said, as Mr. Brown's death did not occur until after all warrants passed at the last meeting of Common Council had been signed.

BIG CROWD EXPECTED FOR HOPE CHAPEL OUTING

Judging from the way tickets are selling for the annual excursion of Hope chapel, which will be run to morrow, the outing will undoubtedly be the second largest of the season. Two sections have been scheduled to accommodate the pleasure seekers and hundreds are going to make the trip because of the length of time they will be allowed to stay at the shore. A full twelve hours! Trains leave Plainfield and Asbury Park at 8 o'clock, morning and night, respectively. A large number of those who intend to make the trip tomorrow to the shore resort expect to stay over Sunday making it a week-end trip and returning to this city on Monday.

Tickets for the trip may be secured from the following committee: G. Herbert Condict, Donald McInnes, Thomas C. Hendry, Dr. D. G. Atwood, Frank Rimmer, Robert Sloran, William Baker and Walter Firstbrook.

EACH MAIL INCREASES DAY NURSERY FUND

Hundred Dollar Mark Is Well Passed, But There Is Always Need For More.

Passing the $100 mark, within three days after the appeal for additional funds was made, the money being raised through the Daily Press for the King's Daughters Day Nursery was today increased by $25. Accompanying some of the subscriptions were letters commending the work of the nursery, and hoping that a substantial sum would be raised for this most worthy of charities.

As has been repeatedly told, the money is used first for the purpose of buying milk to be used for the many half fed little tots who are brought to the nursery every day while their mothers go out to work for $1.50 or less a day. The only real ray of sunshine which reaches these tots comes while they are at the nursery, for their home life in many instances is much limited by the resources of the parents. If more than enough to supply milk is received it will be applied to necessary improvements at the nursery.

Some idea of the work done by the nursery may be gained from the fact that two of the children cared for are the babies of a family of five small youngsters, and the father earns but $1.25 a day, although he works faithfully. The mother frequently is able to get a day's work, and then the nursery has to care for the little ones. This is one of the most pathetic cases to be found, but a visit to the nursery at any time will demonstrate the splendid work being accomplished.

The fund to date is as follows:

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR THE LATE GEORGE BROWN

Conducted by Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong, assisted by Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, present and former pastors of the First Baptist church, the funeral of George F. Brown, collector and treasurer of North Plainfield, was held yesterday afternoon. The services took place at the residence, 87 Grove street, and were largely attended. Before Dr. Strong was ready to proceed with the services the house was crowded and late comers who wished to pay their respects were obliged to find seats on the porch.

Being intimately acquainted with Mr. Brown through association with him in church work, both Dr. Strong and Dr. Chambliss showed a depth of feeling in what they did and said at the funeral. Dr. Strong opened with the recitation of the Baptist service for the burial of the dead and was followed by Dr. Chambliss, who offered prayer. A duet, "Just for To-day," was sung very sweetly by George Smith and Mrs. Robert L. Giddes.

As a preface to his remarks, Dr. Strong recited a part of the fifteenth chapter of First Corinthians, St. Paul's "resurrection chapter," as he termed it, following with a eulogy of the deceased who was a deacon in his church and a staunch worker in church and Sabbath school. He spoke of Mr. Brown's unfailing good nature, his business integrity, his consideration for others and his ready wit, which Dr. Strong declared, was of a high order and was ready to burst forth spontaneously even when the body was racked with pain. He closed with a prayer. The services at the house came to a close with the singing of three verses of the hymn, "It Is Well With My Soul," by Mrs. Giddes and Mr. Smith. The accompanist was Mrs. J. Hervey Buchanan.

The remains lay in the north parlor in a black cloth covered casket with a background of banked flowers, standing pieces, wreaths and pillows.

Interment was made in Hillside cemetery following the services at the house, the pall bearers being Edwin L. Bonny, George H. Batchelor, Samuel Case, Frank Jones, Reuben Knox and Dr. Norman Probasco.

STRAWRIDE CALLED OFF.

Because of the inclement weather conditions prevailing the strawride of the Young People's Society of the Park Avenue Baptist church did not take place last night.

SUB-STATION IN THE EAST END TO CLOSE

Mrs. M. E. Mallison Will Discontinue Her Drug Store In That Section.

Postoffice sub-station No. 2, located in Mallison's drug store, at 1,136 East Second street, has been closed owing to the fact that the proprietor is planning to discontinue the drug business at this stand. Mrs. M. E. Mallison, who has been running one of Plainfield's oldest drug businesses since her husband, Alexander Mallison, died several years ago, will retire.

The closing of this store culminates the connection of one of the names longest affiliated with the drug trade here. Mr. Mallison, for seventeen years was clerk in the store formerly located at West Front street and Park avenue, where the City National Bank now stands. Later he opened a place at Watchung and North avenues, and at the time of his death he was conducting a drug store at Fourth and Liberty streets. Mrs. Mallison took hold of the business following her husband's death and opened the store on East Second street.

PROGRESSIVES NOT TO HAVE TICKET THIS YEAR

Passaic Valley News Quotes President of Elizabeth Club That Way.

The Progressives of Union county will not nominate a ticket this year, according to an article in the Passaic Valley News. They say that they are getting ready for a vigorous campaign next year. Many of the foremost Progressives throughout the State, such as Edmund B. Osborne, George L. Record and James G. Blauvelt, have openly renounced the party and are trying to get back into the Republican fold. W. W. Bender, who was a Progressive candidate for the Assembly in Union county last year, is quoted as saying that there is no nucleus left for the Progressive party to rally around in this county.

Edward A. Leach, secretary of the Union County Progressive committee, made it known that while he was strongly Progressive, he would stand by President Wilson in his foreign policy.

William R. Richart, last year's candidate for sheriff and president of the Elizabeth Progressive Club, has this opinion to express:

"From present indications there will be no county ticket this year, but we will be ready for the fight in 1916. We are red-hot for woman suffrage, and from what I hear from the West I believe a man like Hiram Johnson could be elected. Both the old parties are up in the air, some believing in "standpat" policies, so that the Progressives' chances are good. Even if we don't put up a ticket this year we will be able to enter the primaries next year."

FREDERICK A. MARTIN CO. HOLDS ANNUAL MEETING

Stockholders of the Frederick A. Martin Company met in the concern's offices on North avenue last night for the purpose of transacting annual business matters and electing officers and directors for the ensuing year. The following directors were named: William L. Smalley, George M. Clarke and Frederick A. Martin. Frederick A. Martin was chosen president; George M. Clarke, vice-president, Miss Catherine C. Leahy, secretary and treasurer, and Francis J. Blatz, attorney.

This company recently took in the local firms of Elston M. French and J. C. Pope & Company, and is operating on an extensive scale in the real estate and insurance field. One of the recent settlements made was one with Harry M. Gilmore, when the latter was allowed $500 on a Ford touring car which was destroyed by fire.

FRIDAY THE 13TH! LUCKY OR UNLUCKY?

City Judge DeMeza Leaves Rabbit's Foot Home, and No One Comes Before Him.

If you happen to see a fellow-being toying with a rabbit's paw; or closing his eyes as he passes a black cat; or possibly lugging a horseshoe around on his shoulder; don't for a minute believe him to be a fit subject for the insane asylum. Today is Friday the thirteenth and it is only to be expected that certain superstitious individuals will resort to foolish precautions to ward off a visit from Dame Misfortune. Taking into consideration the fact that Friday falls on the thirteenth of the month very infrequently, a Press scribe was unable to discover anything unusual that has made its appearance today to indicate that Dame Misfortune has been getting in any hard-luck tactics on a big scale.

One of the persons who holds the numeral thirteen as a harbinger of luck is City Judge William G. DeMeza. While the city magistrate has for many years cherished a bunny's foot, this morning he strode into police headquarters minus the relic. Queried concerning the absence of the bulky luck-bringer in his trouser pockets the judge informed his questioners that he had neglected to change all of his effects from one suit to another before leaving home this morning. Inasmuch as the magistrate was sporting a Palm Beach suit all present were willing to agree that a good-sized rabbit's foot wouldn't be an altogether appropriate token for pockets made out of material so thin.

The judge's assertion that he didn't need a rabbit's foot to keep in the good graces of "Miss" Fortune worked out to perfection a few moments later when Captain Flynn, who was doing desk duty, informed him that he could take a morning off, there being no cases on the docket for disposition. Coming as it did right on top of a similar condition yesterday morning, the announcement was a welcome surprise to the judge. Then again, there were other fortunate beings to be considered in this declaration of Captain Flynn's. The usual array of drunks and disorderlies were lucky enough to be on the outside looking in this morning, thereby escaping the scathing reprimands that the magistrate must certainly have had stored up since yesterday morning.

One thing we all have to be thankful for is that Jupiter Pluvius is keeping his head behind the clouds today. "Jup" has been such a regular visitor around these parts of late that his absence today was taken as an ill-omen by some office boys when they tore off the calendar leaf this morning.

East End residents have recorded on the thirteenth day's toll list the announcement that they will have to get along without postoffice sub-station No. 2 which has been located in that section. Postmaster Hoagland today abolished this convenience and henceforth when the luckless residents of the Netherwood section would make a one cent buy they will have to take a trip downtown.

Trinity excursionists are deploring the fact that they didn't hold their annual outing on Friday instead of Thursday, and Hope chapelites are hoping against hope that tomorrow will be a repeater as far as weather conditions are concerned.

Whether or not the day and date had anything to do with it or not we do not know, but it was made known this morning that the Borough Council had deferred appointing a new tax collector and treasurer until a later date.

RANSOME STRIKERS LURED BACK TO WORK

Firm Grants Weekly Reduction of Ten Hours After Short Rebellion.

Because the concern had refused to make an agreement granting its machinists an eight-hour day, the entire force of workmen employed by the Ransome Concrete and Engineering Company, with a plant located near Dunellen, walked out this morning. Indications that the men were prepared to stay "out" until the firm heads agreed to a shorter day were prominent on all sides and the men and officials held meetings of an informal nature discussing the situation.

Later an announcement was made to the strikers that the working week would be reduced from sixty to fifty hours and the ten-hour reduction met with approval. As a result the men returned to work immediately and the settlement, if lived up to, will probably prevent further trouble.

The trouble in the Ransome plant was entirely unexpected. Another singular feature of the strike came in the fact that the participating faction was not composed exclusively of machinists, but that the entire force rebelled.

PASSPORT USED IN WAR ZONE SHOWN

Sallo Kahn's Credentials On View In Samuel Rothberg's Window.

Copies of the passport and police permit used by Sallo M. Kahn, the Plainfield High School graduate, who recently returned from Europe after spending the winter and spring months in the war zone, are on exhibition in the show window of Samuel Rothberg's clothing store on West Front street, both documents giving Americans a splendid idea of the "red-tape" that a visitor to European soil has to go through at the present time. The passport, which is signed by William Jennings Bryan, who was Secretary of State when Mr. Kahn sailed aboard the Lusitania on December 5, contains among other things a photograph of the holder in the upper left-hand corner. Directly below this picture is a minute description of Mr. Kahn, giving statistics relative to his face, stature, age, hair, etc. Overlapping into the photograph itself is the seal of the United States, making it almost impossible to substitute one photograph for another as was done in the case of Reginald Rowland's passport some time ago.

Mr. Kahn's passport entitled him to visit France and England for "mercantile purposes," and on the back contained the signatures and seals of various government officials and inspectors of Europe who had occasion to inspect his passport after he arrived on the other side.

The police permit was given out by the "Quartermaster-General of the Armee," and entitled the Plainfield boy to admission to the battlefield, where he collected the array of war relics now on exhibition in Mr. Rothberg's window.

NON-SUIT GRANTED LOCAL MAN IN AUTOMOBILE CASE

Elizabeth, Aug. 13—Harold B. Schneider, of 224 Emerson avenue, Plainfield, was victor in a suit brought against him in the Elizabeth District Court yesterday, by Raymond Voorhees, of Raritan, which resulted in a non-suit at the hands of Judge Abe J. David. Schneider, in his auto, collided with Voorhees' horse and wagon in Raritan township, May 25, damaging the wagon and injuring the horse.

WARREN CHAPEL SOUNDS LAST EXCURSION CALL

If you have failed to take in any of the excursions run from Plainfield to Asbury Park this summer, you will be given your last chance to take a day's outing to "The Town without a Frown," next Thursday, when the annual excursion of the Sunday-school of Warren chapel will be run. Bathing is at its heighth of popularity just now and hundreds spend practically the entire time in the water and on the sandy beach.

Trains will leave this city at 8:15 and Asbury Park at 6:10 stopping at the Netherwood station both ways.

DID NOT CRITICIZE MEXICAN POLICY

Senator Martine Misrepresented In Interview Regarding President Wilson.

United State Senator James E. Martine was much surprised this morning when told that remarks of his regarding the Mexican situation had been taken by some newspapers as an attack on President Wilson's policy in the Southern republic. He said that the interview was given hastily as he was about to board a train for Flemington, and he had no idea that because he stated that in his opinion it would have been better never to have withdrawn the army of occupation sent to Vera Cruz a year ago, that he meant it as a criticism of the President.

"You cannot state too emphatically that I thoroughly approve of everything Mr. Wilson has done in the Mexican situation," said the Senator. "I merely expressed the thought that, in view of the recent developments in Mexico, we had made a mistake when we withdrew our troops from Vera Cruz a few months ago. I do not believe that there will ever be peace in that country now until the United States sends an army down there and makes them behave themselves."

In his speech at the community picnic at Scotch Plains on Wednesday, Senator Martine received enthusiastic applause following the remarks he made commending President Wilson's "watchful waiting" program, and the interview alleged to have been given by him yesterday made him appear in directly the opposite light.

CHILD SCALDED BY COFFEE; DIES LATER IN HOSPITAL

May Hartosh, the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hartosh, of 127 Liberty street, died in Muhlenberg Hospital last night following an accident which occurred yesterday morning. She was brought to the institution suffering from severe burns as the result of the overturning of a pot of boiling coffee on her. The child was a year and three months old.

The funeral will be held at the home of her parents this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock and interment will take place in St. Mary's cemetery.

SPICER PLANT WILL HAVE UNTIL OCTOBER 1 TO ACT

Machinists employed at the South Plainfield plant of the Spicer Manufacturing Company met in Trades' Council Hall last night for the purpose of discussing the attitude the heads of that concern have taken the demand for an eight-hour day, and decided to give the company until October 1 to meet the request. Although it was stated by Thomas E. Carroll, representing the International Machinists' Union, that the Spicer officials had agreed to grant the shorter day by last Monday, in his report of last week, the machinists of the plant are still working on the old schedule.

Despite the fact that their demands have not been met, the employes are inclined to grant their employers all the leeway possible, and it is with a view to effecting a satisfactory settlement in the meantime that the postponement was made.

FRIENDS PUT FORWARD NAME OF MARTIN FOR COLLECTOR

In an article regarding a successor to the late George F. Brown, as borough collector in North Plainfield, it was stated in the Daily Press last night that Frederick A. Martin had been mentioned as a possibility for the place. Mr. Martin said this morning that he had given no thought to being a candidate, that any mention of his name was the voluntary expression of his friends, and that he was in no way responsible for it being proposed. Mr. Martin is not one of the group which appealed to Mayor Clark for the appointment.

CROWN PRINCE FAILS AT VERDUN

Cannot Break French Defenses—Ordered to Get Through At Any Cost.

RUSH AID TO POLAND

Kaiser Reported to Have Sent 200,000 Veterans to Overcome Russians, Who Are Successfully Defending Petrograd Road.

Paris, Aug. 13—Crown Prince Friedrich Wilhelm's efforts to smash the French defenses west of Verdun have again resulted in failure. A communique issued by the war office this afternoon announces another repulse for the Germans in their Argonne attacks.

Unofficial reports from the front state that the finest troops in the German army have been sent to reinforce the Crown Prince and that he has been ordered to break through at any cost. The German attacks are made both night and day.

London, Aug. 13—The Germans are said to have brought five more army corps from the western front to fill complements on the Russian front, where their losses continue to be colossal, says the Petrograd correspondent of the London Morning Post.

The Russians for the time being are holding in check the Baltis flank of the German armies which are struggling to cut the Warsaw-Petrograd Railway, and are battling toward the Dvina, beyond which lie the roads to the Russian capital. This has been accomplished with the aid of reinforcements and by virtue of one counter attack after another.

The fortress of Kovno still holds out. German attacks toward Riga have been repulsed, and the railway junction at Dvinsk remains in Russian hands. From Ostrolenka, north of Warsaw, to Chalm, in the south, the Teutons claim to have made further progress but between the Vieprz and the Bug they apparently have been thrown back with heavy loss. It may be that Field Marshal von Hindenburg has not exerted his full power in the north, but is awaiting events in the south before hammering his hardest toward the Dvina, near the banks of which his cavalry has been for some time.

The fact that the Germans are able to advance with comparative rapidity due east from Warsaw, while being checked on the right and left flanks, has given rise to the impression in England and in Russia that the stout resistance offered by the Russian wings will insure the safe withdrawal of the main body of troops from the Warsaw salient. Contrary to many reports, the main line of communication between the Polish capital and Petrograd has not been cut through. It would be cut if the Germans were to take Dvinsk.

Reviewing the situation in Russia, the military correspondent of the Times first pays an enthusiastic tribute to the masterly retreat of the Russian armies. He says the stand made by the wings protecting the army falling back from Warsaw was magnificent and undoubtedly was entirely successful, as the Warsaw army is now assured of ample time to fall back to a prepared position.

The decisive front now, according to the correspondent, is admittedly in the far north where no real successes possible for the Germans until the fall of Riga and Kovno enables them seriously to threaten the retreat of the Russians' central and northern groups of armies to the northwest.

The 3,000-ton British steamer Jacona, which was engaged in the transatlantic trade, has been sunk. Her captain and nine members of the crew were rescued.

Petrograd, via London, Aug. 13—General Polivanoff, the Russian minister of war, in a statement printed in the Russky Slovoe today declares that the Austro-German victories over the Russians have been due to insufficient artillery, but that with the mobilization of industry the handicaps of the army will be overcome and that the Russians will continue the fight.

Copenhagen, Aug. 13—The Norwegian steamer Aura, 396 tons, has been sunk by a submarine. It is feared her crew of 16 men were lost as their rescue has not been reported from any source.

DATE FOR FUNERAL.

The funeral of Walter H. Dorlon, of 721 South avenue, whose death occurred after a brief illness, Wednesday night, will be held from the late home tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. Lewis Bond, of this city, will conduct the service at the home. Burial will be made in Hillside cemetery.

'Plains & Fanwood.

The jitney bus nearly came to life here last Wednesday, when the proprietors of the Scotch Plains garage tried to run a bus between Fanwood and Scotch Plains to take people to and from the "community picnic" for a nickel. The fact that they had no permit to run such a line, coupled with the protests of local hackmen, forced Borough Marshal Logan to stop the new project.

From present indications it would seem that when the various "community picnic" committees meet on Monday night it will be found that the sums realized from the athletic events and other things last Wednesday will nearly suffice to pay all expenses. At any rate the deficitpen 2 penses. At any rate the deficit will be known and everybody will get their heads together in an effort to contrive ways and means of raising the necessary amount, in the end probably relying on the generosity of local residents.

Miss Mattie Hull, of Westfield avenue, has returned from spending her vacation at Pen Yan, N. Y.

Charles Walpole has been receiving congratulations from all sides for the way he carried off first honors in the mile run at the "community picnic" on Wednesday, and by so doing capturing the elegant silver loving cup offered by the Daily Press. As it was, there were seven entrants, but it is a sure that that many more will enter the event in following picnics that proved to be the most popular number on the program of the meet last Wednesday.

It has not yet been learned definitely whether or not the members of the local Italian colony are going to hold their annual celebration on Labor Day. In previous years it has been one of the events of the local year, athletic meets and fireworks featuring, but it is said that the entrance of Italy into the war may cause the postponing of the affair for this year.

Jack Baker, one of the drivers for John Albert, the local liveryman, had a slight accident yesterday while on an auto trip to Butler. Baker had driven a local party over in his Ford taxicab and had stopped at a garage to replenish the oil tank. An automobile bearing a Maryland manufacturers' license came around a nearby corner, and in driving too near the gutter, backed into the front of Baker's car, damaging the mudguards and radiator badly. The car got away before Baker could get the license number other than the State, and as there is small chance of finding the party, Alberts will have to foot the bill.

The playing of the Westfield band at the "community picnic" has aroused considerable local interest in that recently organized body, and a large number will go to that place tonight to attend the weekly concert.

PROCTOR'S THEATRE

Very seldom is so powerful a story so ably produced with such a ramarkable cast as the recent William Fox photo-dramatic success, "Lady Audley's Secret." The story is, of course, well known, the legitimate production having a long-run on Broadway. It is especially noteworthy that in this play Theda Bara, the famous vampire woman of "A Fool There Was" and "The Devil's Daughter," will appear in this picture in the leading part, with a cast which is unsurpassed either on the screen or the stage. This wonderful production, all athrob with action from start to finish, is to be shown at the Proctor Theatre this evening.

"Leah, the Forsaken," a wonderful production with a wonderful story, a Universal three-act drama, is scheduled for tomorrow afternoon and evening at this house. Paramount travel pictures of an educational nature, another episode of "The Goddess" are also scheduled for tomorrow's program.

The management desires at this time to announce that "The Rosary," a seven-act Selig Red Seal production, is to be shown at the Proctor Theatre Monday, August 23, with no advance in prices. Bear the date, one week from the coming Monday, in mind, and see this picture.

U. S. ASTOR THEATRE

Victor Moore, famed as the original "Jimmy Burns" in the George Cohan plays, will appear on the screen of the U. S. Astor Theatre, Plainfield, this afternoon and tonight in the bright comedy, "Snobs," in which Frank M'Intyre scored a success in New York a few seasons ago. "Snobs" is one of the most delightful comedies ever adapted for the screen, and makes splendid summer entertainment. The plot is simple, but most fascinating, and contains many dramatic situations that develop in delightful humor.

The story relates the adventures of a milkman who suddenly hears that he has fallen heir to a princely estate in England. The humor surrounding his squandering of his fortune is thoroughly enjoyable. There is a touch of love interest interjected, but not enough to make the tale sentimental. Persons who enjoy a thoroughly artistic photoplay should not miss the opportunity to view "Snobs."

Tomorrow the youngest motion picture star in the country, Mary Miles Minter, will appear in the Metro Company's masterpiece, "Always in the Way," the story of which is based on the famous song of that name by Charles K. Harris. Little Miss Minter, it will be recalled, made her first success as the little girl in "The Littlest Rebel," with Dustin and William Farnum two years ago. In this film production she experiences many thrilling adventures that will grip the most blase audience.

DETROITER FACES SENTENCE FOR DYNAMITING

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 13.—William Lefler, of Detroit, who was found guilty in the Canadian courts of causing the dynamite explosion in the Peabody plant, on the Canadian side, some months ago, faces today a sentence of a term of years in a Canadian prison. A stay of sentence was granted until today in order that the case might be reviewed by the higher court in Toronto.

Judge Dromgole, who heard the case in the Sandwich, Ont., court two weeks ago, held that the evidence against Lefler was satisfactory. Throughout the border towns there is nothing but sympathy for the Detroit man. He is regarded as a weak tool of men higher up, and it is admitted in Canadian official quarters that had the authorities been able to get those higher up Lefler would have been freed.

The accused man, since his confinement in jail, following the blowing up of the Peabody plant, has been a model prisoner. He has become the leader in prayer and the religious adviser of his fellow prisoners. Before his arrest he was a member of a Detroit Methodist Episcopal church.

It is claimed by Lefler's attorney, in seeking a review of the case before the higher court, that the conspiracy charge was unproven, as it was not proven that Lefler had caused the Peabody explosion. In fact, he maintains, it had even failed to establish that the plant was blown up by dynamite as charged. Outside of a so-called "confession," Lefler's attorney claims the prosecution showed nothing to connect Lefler with the blow-up.

The crown attorney, who was sustained by Judge Dromgole, claimed that Lefler's connection with the explosion had been demonstrated again and again in the evidence heard. It was claimed that he had talked about it to his fellow-conspirators, that after the Peabody plant explosion he had expressed his astonishment at the failure of the sticks of dynamite placed at the rear of the armories to go off.

BLAZING AUTO RUNS ALONE

A heavy six-cylinder car ablaze from bonnet to tail-light performed the unusual feat of running for nearly half a mile without an occupant. The driver jumped, without shutting off the power, when the fire started. When he caught up with it, the car was a twisted steel skeleton. This accident happened near here on July 28th and proves the necessity of carrying fire insurance. Insure your car here, now, before you have a similar experience. Auto fire at 1%.

Mrs. Charles Snedecker has returned to her home in New Brunswick after spending a few days with her sister, Mrs. Harry Thomas, of this city.

Miss Anna Kelly, of South Second street is visiting relatives in the Bronx.

Miss Hilda Lane, of West Fifth street, is spending the month of August at the "Delphian," Asbury Park.

Mrs. T. P. O'Connor and daughter returned to their home in Brooklyn this afternoon after visiting Miss Marguerite Kress, of Duer street, the borough.

COLORED FOLK ON OUTING.

Fully ten thousand colored people spent yeserday at Bellewood Park, four or five hundred going from this city. The annual union excursion was run from Newark via the Lehigh Valley Railroad, and members of the several colored churches in this city joined the throng at Bound Brook. The return trip was made in good time, the last of the ten sections arriving in Bound Brook shortly after 9 o'clock.

ANOTHER WAR ORDER.

Greenville, Pa., Aug. 13.—The Russian Government has placed an order for 600,000 gun stocks with the McHugh Chair Company. The value of the order is estimated at $250,000.

REFORMATORY HAS ABOLISHED COUNCIL

Officials Put An End to Self-Governing Experiment After Failure.

Rahway, Aug. 13.—Flaws which developed in the working of the Council of Thirty, the organization of inmates at the New Jersey Reformatory, which for a year has controlled the discipline of the inmates in minor affairs, has caused the council to be abolished. The council, established along the line of Warden Thomas Mott Osborne's Mutual Welfare League, which has resulted in attacks on his administration at Sing Sing, was abandoned a few days ago.

"I told the men at chapel we had better abolish it," said Superintendent Frank Moore. "It was put to a vote and it was decided to abolish it by an overwhelming majority the vote being about twenty-five for its retention to 700 for its abolition. The vote against it was very enthusiastic."

Dr. Moore said the principal reasons for doing away with the council were that its members—elected by inmates themselves—were found to be strongly inclined to favoritism or resentment, whichever suited their wishes, and also disagreed among themselves often. The council had charge of such matters as permitting inmates to go outside, and attended to many other similar details, the reformatory management retaining control in the more vital matters of administration. The plan was tentatively adopted in the first place, said Dr. Moore, with a view of testing it.

The honor system is still in vogue at the reformatory, however, and works well. Young men are frequently paroled to attend funerals. In no case has the trust imposed been misplased.

Baseball games with outside nines and a baseball league at the reformatory, plenty of outdoor work on the farm and roads, and a half day at school are some of the other changes that Dr. Moore, who is an ordained minister and formerly head of Pennington Seminary, has put into successful practice.

SUMMIT AVENUE SEWER JOB WILL BE FINISHED SOON

Borough Engineer Harry C. Van Emburgh said this morning that the Summit avenue storm sewer will probably be finished this week. Considering the weather conditions which have prevailed since the work was started, he considers the progress made as quite satisfactory.

Contractor Alfred DeNise, when he has completed the Summit avenue job, will have laid about 750 feet of concrete storm sewer, 2 by 3 feet in dimensions, between Watchung avenue and Somerset street. The job is alluded to by the engineer as "quite classy." The top of the culvert forms the gutter on the side of the street where it is laid.

JOSEPH BLATZ RECOVERS HIS STOLEN BICYCLE

Joseph Blatz, of Somerset street, has recovered the bicycle which Clarence Garthwait, of Harmony street, confessed to stealing when arraigned before Justice Thomas H. Snape, in the North Plainfield police court this week. Put through a course of questioning, Garthwait named a second hand dealer in Bound Brook to whom he had sold the wheel for $5, and yesterday Hilaire Blatz, Joseph's brother, went to Bound Brook and recovered the bicycle, securing possession of it without any trouble. The second hand dealer is out $5. The wheel was intact and in as good condition as when taken except that a poor saddle had been substituted for the good one which was on the wheel.

TALK IS REVIVED OF NEW BOROUGH OFFICE BUILDING

The necessity for selecting a new tax collector and treasurer in North Plainfield has revived talk of providing an office for that official. The borough has to allow the collector office rent at the present time. The amount expended for Collector George F. Brown's office is only a small annual sum, however. It has been suggested that the borough build on the vacant ground to one side of the fire house, where there is room to erect an office large enough for the transaction of the borough's financial business. The type of building proposed would not cost much, $1,200 or $1,500. One wall of the present fire house could be used and the steam plant in the fire house would be adequate to provide heat enough for the small building also.

PROGRESS ON ORDINANCE.

The committee from the North Plainfield Board of Health to draw up a plumbing ordinance, composed of James L. Love, Cormick McDonough and Health Officer Louis Oliff, met last night in the borough Council rooms and made good progress with the work. It is probable that the completed ordinance will be in shape to present to the Board of Health at the next meeting.

Ask your doctor if these things ars important:

Wood Brook Farms maintains clean, concrete stables; washes all utensils and cows clean before milking; chills the milk quickly and packs it in ice; sterilizes all bottles and utensils daily; milk all packed in ice in delivery wagons.

The bacteria counts of the official Board of Health reports show the result.

Wood Brook milk is health insurance.

CARRANZA HOLDS UP WILSON PEACE PLANS

Big Obstacle In the Path of a Speedy Settlement of Differences.

Chief interest in the Mexican situation today continued to centre in the question of the extent to which Carranza means to carry his opposition and defiance of the efforts of this country to bring about peace in conjunction with Latin-American republics.

Although the border demonstrations are successful, no doubt is felt that they can be coped with easily by General Funston. The real anxiety of the administration concerns the nature of the reception which Mexicans will give to the peace plan. Consequently much interest is felt in the sending of the appeal of the peace conference to the various factions and its publication.

There is a belief here in many well informed quarters that the peace plan will fail because Carranza will hold out against it. Were it not for his attitude and his seeming determination to make himself a stumbling block to any proposal which does not contemplate his recognition, the peace plan would give much promise of success.

President Wilson continues to take the position that this country should not resort to an armed intervention except as a last resort. But the President continues to hope that even the lieutenants of Carranza will find the peace conference appeal sufficiently reasonable to convert them and ultimately bring pressure on the first chief to line up. Villa's action in coming out promptly in favor of an armistice has created a good impression.

W. B. Metcalfe, of Nebraska, son of Richard Metcalfe, has just returned from a trip to Mexico. He saw much of Carranza. Metcalfe thinks this government is making a mistake in not recognizing Carranza and says he would restore order in six months if recognized. Metcalfe says Carranza is much less anti American than represented, and he believes the government here is misinformed to a considerable extent as to Carranza's motives and purposes.

The Mission, Texas, Chamber of Commerce today, wired the National Rifle Association New York, asking for rifles and ammunition immediately "in view of the reign of terror in this section and the urgent need of arms and ammunition for protection." The National Rifle Association distributes condemned army rifles to rifle practice clubs.

Lieutenant Albert S. Jones, secretary of the association, said the Mission people would have to form a club before the guns could be issued. That would take three or four months. Lieutenant Jones says many rifle clubs have been formed in New Mexico and Arizona during the last two months, and that many have been supplied with rifles.

SPIES ARE "COVERING" MUNITION MAKERS

Bitter War Being Waged In America Between Spies and "Foreign Agents."

Washington, Aug. 13.—A contest of spies is being waged in America as bitterly as the war is being waged in Europe. It is known to government officials that "foreign agents" are covering each section of the United States, particularly those sections in which war munitions are being made. One set of spies is keeping the German Government acquainted with the progress of the ammuniation and guns for the Allies, and another set, reporting regularly to the British Ambassador, is watching the operations of the German agents. While there is an attempt to conduct this work of espionage within the limits of plain observation, there is a great deal of information concerning vital matters of American resources for war that is being picked up for use in event of trouble with America.

While it is not believed that this spy system has embraced the government departments, precaution is being taken in the way of inspecting visitors. Heretofore the public has had the freedom of the big government buildings, but a series of restrictions is now in effect.

To cope with the spy systems organized in the United States, which are similar to those in operation over Europe prior to the war, the United States is depending upon a small and poorly equipped secret service. The force is barely a hundred men, and they are loaded with duties which keep them busy on routine work.

Knowledge that the spies are at work had led munition plants and shipyards to bar suspicious persons. It is entirely probable that information of what is going on in the big plants is gained from workers, for such information is valuable, and money flows freely when information is wanted.

It is doubtful if ever before spies held such an important position in national affairs. Today they are men who determine actions of governments. Knowledge of accurate conditions in Russia, England and France gave Germany her assurance when she entered the European struggle. France found out too late that her secrets were for the most part known to her enemies. Russia realized long after the Germans had found it out that she was not equipped with modern guns and munitions for a long war. England has only now awakened to the realization that she was tabbed to a minute degree so far as her war resources were concerned.

Two Plainfield Infants Shared In Will Now Being Probed By Guardians.

New York, Aug. 13.—By appointment, as referee, by Surrogate John P. Cohalan, John F. Couch, a lawyer, of 271 Broadway, will, within the next few days, at his office, commence to take testimony of witnesses so as to ascertain whether or not Verna Van Geldner, 116 Hakhurst avenue, Weehawken, and Mary Ena Frances Smith, of 1,266 Park avenue, Plainfield, two infants, through their special guardian, Samuel J. Wagstaff, are justified in their contentions that the executrices of the estate of their late grandaunt, Mrs. Sara D. Scott, have, out of the funds of the estate, spent too much money for funeral, debts and administration expenses.

What the two contestants demand are that the executrices be surcharged with the sums of money that they have been too "excessive" or "exorbitant" with.

Mrs. Scott, who was seventy years old, was a housekeeper in the New York home of John D. Rockefeller, and received a salary of $75 a month. Her duties were to scrub the floors, wash the dishes, push around and brush the furniture, and, ossasionally do some washing.

In her will, which was admitted to probate here, she directed that the following be distributed among Plainfield heirs. To Mary Alice Smith, niece, of Plainfield, a sapphire and diamond ring, and a gold lorgnette and and chain.

To Grace Smith Olmstead, a niece, of Plainfield, a pansy stickpin, a ruby pin, a fancy hanging bracket, a set of silver toilet articles, a little gilt stool, and the fancy ornaments in the room.

To Angelina Stein, neice, of 309 Park avenue, Plainfield, a diamond and turquoise ring.

The rest of the estate she bequeathed to the executrices in trust for the erection of suitable headstones over the graves of herself, her husband and her two children.

The accounting, as filed by the executrices, which is now being contested, show that $3,051.99 have come into their hands, out of which they have paid out $1,645.33, leaving a balance of $1,4$6.17 for further distribution, sub, however, first, to their commissions and the expenses of the accounting.

COLORADO STILL SEETHING OVER THE LAWSON CASE

Trinidad, Col., Aug. 13—The stay of sentence for one month, granted July 12 to John R. Lawson, the labor leader convicted of murdering a deputy sheriff in the strike riots of 1913, is up, and unless further stay is granted he must begin his life sentence at hard labor.

The State is still worked up over the case, two factions maintaining opposing stands on its merits. It has been said that the curse of Colorado is that it is a coal State, with not enough of a population free from union influence or coal-operator influence to act as a leaven in the industrial struggle that is being fought so bitterly. Educational institutions, judges, county officers, all are alleged to have felt the impress of the contending influences, and the greater part of the population has been swept into the vortex of interests thus set whirling.

Lawson, though refused a new trial, has appealed to the highest courts. He claims that Judge Granby Hillyer, who presided at his trial was disqualified from acting, having been attorney for the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company, Rockefeller interests, and other coal companies in previous strikes and on account of expressions was put in charge of bailiffs who were Rockefeller mine guards, and were given improper instructions as requested by the prosecution.

The recent strike is responsible for the fight made to oust Juvenile Court Judge Ben B. Lindsey from office and then to abolish his court. Lindsey was recently held in contempt of court for concealing a boy's story. He has stated that he knew they were "after his scalp."

Another result is a bill authorizing a committee to stop "the slander of Colorado" and appropriating $25,000 for that purpose, a threat held over the newspapers, it is said. It is responsible for the breath of scandal that touched the Colorado State University, where it is known former Governor Ammons demanded that President Livingston Farrand discharge a professor for testifying in favor of labor before the United States Commission on Industrial Relations.

The strike is also responsible for the inquiry made at Washington by the Industrial Commission relative to the alleged misstatements made in a letter a year ago, signed by Dean Hart of the Episcopal diocese of Denver, President Slocum of the Colorado College, at Colorado Springs, and Dean Howe of the Denver University. President Farrand refused to sign the letter, and the other colleges have received $100,000 each from the general education fund of the Rockefeller Institute, while the university has received nothing.

The trial of Lawson was the first prosecution conducted against union men who were charged with murder and other crimes growing out of the big strike. He is a member of the national executive board of the United Mine Workers. The strike was called September 23, 1913. On that date thousands of miners laid down their tools. Many moved their effects to a tent colony at Ludlow. Violence began early in the strike. It was in one of the fights at Ludlow before the arrival of the State militia that John Nimmo was killed. Nimmo was one of a force of deputies stationed at Ludlow. On October 25, 1913, a fight started between the deputies and a body of strikers. Nimmo was shot in the leg and bled to death. Lawson was charged with the homicide on the theory that he was in charge of the tent colony and in command of the strikers during the battle.

The recent publication of letters that passed between Colorado and Wall Street relative to the strike has strengthened the claim of Lawson and his adherents that the strike was managed from New York and that he is a victim of industrial machinations.

November 2—General Election Day.

Republican leaders are well pleased with the prospects for their annual outing August 21, which will have Coney Island as its destination. The presence of some of the candidates for the Senatorial and Gubernatorial nominations will make the outing a starting point in the race for these honors, so far as Union county is concerned. The return of the Progressives will be finally indicated, too, it is believed, although the last election showed that they had practically all gone back then.

Matthew Jefferson, convicted prosecutorof Cape May county, has resigned. Josiah Stryker, of Attorney-General Westcott's office, will continue acting prosecutor for an indefinite period. Jefferson has appealed his conviction, and in his resignation, addressed to Governor Fielder, Jefferson declared that "while I am clearly of the opinion that my conviction is clearly and legally wrong, I cannot fail to realize that my retention of office under the circumstances would be misunderstood by many."

RESCUED TWO BOYS.

Leaping off Willett's pier, at Metuchen, Walter Eppinger rescued Jacob Tannenbaum, seven years old, and Thomas Bearman, six years old, from drowning in the South River. The boys could not swim and had fallen off the pier into ten feet of water. Each had grappled the other and were sinking when Eppinger leaped into the water and seizing one of the boys by the foot towed them both into shallow water.

APPLE STEALERS WARNED.

Upon their promise not to do it again, five small boys, caught in the apple orchard on the Truitt property, in North Plainfield, by Marshal Pope yesterday, were allowed to go today, after being talked to severely and warned that a repetition of the offense would result in their parents being brought into the police court instead of themselves.

It Pays to Secure a Tenant Who Pays.

The uncertain sort of tenant is easy to find. He is always answering the call of the window sign of "To Let." He is easy to please. Even a rather high rental does not frighten him away.

But the Stay-and-Pay tenant is not so easy to secure. He is surer of what he wants. He does not take the first house, or apartment, or store that he finds. He watches and answers "To Let" Ads.

And to secure him for your tenant is a good day's work—a good week's work.

Property that is advertised adequately in the Plainfield Daily Press is rarely rented injudiciously.

COME AGAIN, BROTHER!

Taken to task by a New Market gentleman who thought the Middlesex county detectives were not capable of giving results, Detective Richard Peltier has apprehended two men whom he and his chief believe to have been responsible for recent depredation at New Market. Mr. Peltier believed that the criticisms directed against him were unjust and he would seem to have demonstrated the truth of his position. Results were what the New Market critic wanted and "Dick" has surely "delivered the goods."—New Brunswick Home News.

Of course it might be added that the arrest was made by Captain John Flynn, of the Plainfield police force, and that Peltier told a reporter for the Daily Press that he "guessed we haven't got much on them, anyway." The Home News praise may sound all right in New Brunswick, but unless we miss our guess, it won't give a lot of satisfaction to the New Market people.

The latest State crop report shows a very forward and gratifying condition of New Jersey crops of grain vegetables and fruit. Average conditions of everything except pears are better than at this time last year. The pasturage is 91 as compared with a ten-year average of 75 at this date. The potato yield promises to exceed by 1,200,000 bushels the crop of last year. With crops better than usual the cost of living should be reduced, as the Camden Post-Telegram says. But the problem of getting the farmer's products into the consumer's hands is yet to be scientifically solved. The present methods are costly and wasteful, the consumer not getting anywhere near the benefit from Nature's bounty that should be his, while the farmer complains that a big crop year does not mean prosperity for him.

A petition is being circulated in North Plainfield urging Mayor Clark to again become a candidate for the office. Those in charge frankly admit that the Mayor had nothing to do with the matter, and are themselves in some doubt as to whether or not he will again run, as he has declared that he will not be a candidate for re-election. Whether he does or not, it must be encouraging to know that his friends think so much of him, that they are trying to force him into the race. We have said several times that the Mayor has a very large following of the people of the borough, and the petition in question bears this out. If by any chance he should oppose William L. Smalley for the nomination, the people are sure of at least one thing—they will have a good mayor no matter which one is elected, for the Republican nomination over there of late years has been equivalent to election.

The borough of Red Bank is determined that churchgoers shall not be annoyed by the honking of automobile horns any longer, and the Common Council of that place has adopted a novel method of correcting the evil. That body has instructed the police department to have signs hung up every Sunday morning at a certain distance from every church in the borough announcing that public worship is being held 500 feet away and warning motorists not to blow horns. This is an instance where automobilists as a class are urged to respect the Sabbath day, and it can be taken for granted that the request will be obeyed, for except in extreme cases, owners and drivers of cars can be depended upon to obey the laws, and to heed reasonable regulations which may from time to time be posted for their guidance.

The mad scramble for the job of tax collector in North Plainfield, before the late occupant was even buried, is a disgrace to every man who has sought the place, and to every person who has approached Mayor Clark on the matter. The borough executive said that fully fifty people called him up on Wednesday about the matter, before Mr. Brown's funeral, seeking favor for this or that candidate. Any man who has no more sense of the proprieties than to seek the office under the circumstances is not a fit man for the position, for it shows a lack of tact and other essential qualities for an office of this kind, which brings the occupant in constant contact with the people.

There are reports that Councilman Richard A. Claybrook may not seek re-election this year. It is hoped by hundreds that they are not true. He is one of the most valuable members of the Council, and it would be extremely regretable were he to retire. The mere fact that he is a Democrat in a strongly Republican community would make no difference, for the people of Plainfield do not care a rap about politics in local office, when a good man seeks election. Councilman Claybrook is known as such a capable member of the body, that the Republicans would do well to only run three men for councilmen-at-large, leaving the fourth place open to him.

Every small community in the State would benefit by the holding of a community picnic, such as that which drew the attention of everyone in Scotch Plains on Wednesday. The promoters of the affair are entitled to all of the praise that was given them by the various speakers at that time, and the decision to make it an annual occasion cannot fail to help develop a strong civic spirit there. Other places might well follow the example set by the Fanwood township people.

Very encouraging responses have been received to the appeal for the King's Daughters' Day Nursery, over $100 having been given up to this morning. But our charitably inclined people must bear in mind that the need is greater this year than for some seasons past, and we hope that we will be able to record many more contributions. The work reaches nearer home than almost any appeal that is annually made for funds.

"An Appeal for Bonnie Burn," is the subject of the contributed editorial for tomorrow. It was written by Rev. Cortland H. Mallery, rector of the Church of the Heavenly Rest, who has devoted much time to the religious welfare of the unfortunates at that institution.

CROSSES OCEAN 2,000 TIMES, NOW RETIRES AT SIXTY

Liverpool, Aug. 13.—When the American Line steamship St. Louis reaches her dock here tomorrow the purser, Howard E. Hinsley, will retire from sea service. He is completing his 1,000th round-trip to America, and has therefore crossed the Atlantic 2,000 times. He is sixty years old, and has been at sea since he was twelve. He has confided to his friends here that he has selected a little farm in Scotland, where he will settle down. It is figured that Hinsley has traveled over 6,500,000 miles on the ocean, and that if his journeys were continuous, he would have circumnavigated the globe 260 times.

HEALTH TALKS
by WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

The Skin Cancer

AN old wart or mole or little swollen spot that stays for years and years; a pimple that never seems to heal entirely; any little blemish on the cheek, the lip, the nose, the forehead, particularly, may, in time, become a skin cancer—epithelioma, as doctors call it.

The change is so insidious, so slow, so painless, that the individual himself is scarcely aware of the danger threatening him. But when he does begin to worry about it, what should he do?

There are pastes and salves and cerates and applications of various kinds which unquestionably will destroy a small skin cancer, or even a big one, and, if the patient has the strength and luck to survive the septic, poisonous strain upon his resisting power, in time perhaps the base will heal and a permanent cure result. However, the chances are rather desperately against the host, though the growth itself is completely destroyed by the paste, for there is no way of insuring what may be called aseptic, or surgically clean conditions during the many days or weeks required to heal over the open surface after the dead tumor sloughs away.

There is the X-ray; and radium; and direct sunlight focused on the spot with a lens—all of which agents will completely cure small skin cancers, but not in every case.

Last, and best because safest, least painful and most rapid in healing, is the knife. How simple it is to have these small lesions cleanly and painlessly removed under a local anesthetic, the trivial wound at once closed, sealed up and healed completely within a very few days. After the little operation is done it may be wise to have the scar exposed a few times to the X-ray, as an insurance against possible recurrence of the growth, from stray cancer cells which have been overlooked, being invisible to the naked eye.

There are many operations which we would not care particularly to undergo, but if we had the slightest suspicion of any little abnormality like that on our tender, cowardly hide we would have it excised in a hurry—in fact we have just had one excised, and it was a mere episode in the day's work, the "operation." Yes, we might have obtained nearly, if not quite as satisfactory a result from some other than surgical means—but didn't we say we are too cowardly to take a gambler's chance when we know of a sure thing?

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Some Long Distance Guesses

Mr. F. W. H., aged forty-eight, has always been what he calls "dyspeptic," but for three or four months his appetite has gone, he has lost twenty pounds in weight, he vomits occasionally, has more or less constant pain in the stomach, feels weak and trembly. He seems to think we should be able to say what is the matter without examining him.

Answer—We can only make some guesses. Here is what the history suggests: (1) Cancer of stomach; (2) Nephritis; (3) Diabetes; (4) Tuberculosis; (5) Lead poisoning (from occupation); (6) Two or three other possibilities we needn't mention. THE GREAT AMERICAN DESERT

THE great American desert was once located west of the Great Salt Lake. But a few years ago it got loose and can now be found in most of the passenger cars in the United States.

This was very unfortunate. Nobody used to suffer much while crossing the Great American desert, but since the common drinking-cup has come to be looked upon with more alarm to America than the peeved nation with a bigger navy, our trains have been full of gasping passengers looking at full ice-water tanks with helpless woe.

Nothing is so irritating as to perish with thirst in sight of a full water tank because a careful state government has prohibited the common drinking-cup in the interests of health.

The common drinking cup undoubtedly aided in the free distribution of microbes among the populace, but the uncommon drinking-cup on a hot summer day has spread the cause of anarchy and discontent among the masses who can't afford to hire a Pullman porter to take the common drinking glass out of a closet in which all the microbes have been smothered.

Still, travelers who have not oiled their throats in order to keep the dust down should not despair. There are many ways of extracting ice-water from a tank on a hot day, even though the common drinking-cup may be in the museum along with the clean street and other curiosities.

One can always make a drinking-cup out of an old envelope. An envelope which has hung around a pocket for some weeks picking up acquaintances in the microbe line is several times as nutritious as the common drinking-cup and will enable the user to acquire a full assortment of diseases while laughing merrily at the state law.

The shoe is also an excellent drinking-glass. Once only champagne was drunk from slippers by the speed limitless class. But nowadays wives and mothers fill slippers in the day coaches of a thousand trains and quaff merrily therefrom.

A man who is an acrobat can drink from a straw hat

A man who is an acrobat can drink from a straw hat, and a watch-case has saved many a traveler from season crack and blisters. In spite of all these, however, great thirst prevails on the trains of this land and no traveler should venture far without a canteen. The poor emigrant who drank enough out of the Missouri on his way west to last him until he sighted the Colorado has nothing on the modern traveler.

What Of Asia?

COUNT OKUMA, Premier of Japan, speaking before the Indo-Japanese Association, is quoted as saying that when Germany is defeated "there will be given a splendid chance to the races of the east to achieve success in all departments of life and to overtake the west in the race for progress." One of the most extensive facts just ahead of us is that Asia will become more conscious of herself, more of a unity, more determined to be treated as an equal, and to allow no more privileges than are granted to her. Any so-called "rights" of western nations in China will have to be kept satisfactory to China or they will be of short duration. Japan's power will depend on her ability to gain China's confidence, which she now lacks. England's hardest test ahead is to repeat in India the success in adapting government to conditions that she has shown in Canada, Australia and South Africa. It is her severest problem, but she may well accomplish it. After South Africa anything seems possible.—Harpers' Weekly.

One In Four Million

THE safety record of the steam railways of the country for the first quarter of the present year was a most remarkable one. During the three months only 65 passengers were killed and 1,972 injured in train accidents. Compared with the same period last year this was a decrease of nearly 50 per cent. in fatalities and of something more than 5 per cent. in the accidents reporting simply injuries.

As the railways carry more than a quarter of a billion passengers every three months, this means that from January 1 to March 31 of the present year only one passenger in every four million was killed and one in about every 130,000 injured. This gratifying showing is ample evidence that the "safety first" campaign conducted by the railroads has been well worth while. Who can dispute now that American railroads not only are the most comfortable to travel upon but the safest as well?—New York Globe.

The PEOPLE'S LEGAL FRIEND
by E. R. BRANSON

Wants To Sell Promissory Note

Q. I am living in Illinois and am the holder of a promissory note which contains a provision for the payment of an attorney's fee. May this note be sold?

A. Yes.

Wife's Signature Necessary

Q. In the State of Michigan, is a mortgage of a homestead valid without the wife's signature?

A. No, except in the case of a purchase-money mortgage.

He Wants To Be A Notary

Q. Where one wishes to become a notary public in this state (Illinois), how many signers to his petition are necessary?

A. The petition must be signed by at least fifty legal voters of the city, town, village or precinct in which he resides.

Divorce Proceedings In Illinois

Q. How long is it necessary for one to reside in this state (Illinois) before instituting divorce proceedings?

A. The statute provides that no person shall be entitled to a divorce who has not resided in the state one whole year next before filing his or her bill or petition, unless the offense or injury complained of was committed within the state or while one or both of the parties resided in the state.

Examining Mortgaged Furniture

Q. Does the holder of a chattel mortgage ever have the right to enter the premises and examine mortgaged household furniture in order to see what its condition is?

A. A clause may be inserted in the mortgage, at the time the mortgage is made, giving him the right to do so.

Can Either Partner Issue Notes?

Q. Has a member of a partnership the right to make promissory notes in the firm name?

A. The articles of agreement between the partners frequently determine this question. Sometimes a partner is expressly authorized to execute notes in the firm name and sometimes he is expressly forbidden so to do. If the articles of agreement contain no provision on the subject, or if there are no articles of agreement, a partner will have an implied authority with reference to transactions pertaining to the partnership business and on partnership account.

"Bequest" and "Devise"—The Difference

Q. Please tell me the legal meaning of the words "bequest" and "devise."

A. A bequest is a gift of personal property by will, or, strictly speaking, by a "testament." A devise is a gift of real estate by will.

She Worked For Love

Q. A certain young woman has been employed as a teacher in the public schools of my town, although she holds no certificate. She has been teaching a short time and was recently informed that she could not expect any pay and could not hope to enforce an agreement of this kind. Is this correct?

A. As a general rule, an instructor in the public schools must have a certificate of qualification. It has been held in a number of states that an agreement of this character—that is, a contract of employment with a teacher who does not hold a certificate—is void.

Votes For Women

Q. What is meant by the "separate property" of a married woman?

A. A married woman's separate property is the property which she has the right to own, use and enjoy free from any rights, created by marriage, on the part of her husband.

A Question Of Boundaries

Q. Has a state legislature the right to change the boundaries of a county or to divide one county into several counties?

A. The legislature has such power, subject to the restraints imposed by the Constitution of the United States and the constitution of the state in question.

Date Was Not Given

Q. If a deed contains no date, will it be good?

A. Yes. It will become effective as soon as it is delivered.

Not The Ghost Of A Chance

Q. A man made a contract by which he undertook to do certain work involving a peculiar kind of skill or ability. A short time afterward his death occurred. Could his executor be made liable, because of the failure to complete the work as provided for in the contract?

A. No.

Why Not Write It In English?

Q. Please inform me whether any technical or legal phraseology is necessary for a lease.

A. No. If the intention is plain, it will be sufficient. Unless you are in the habit of drawing leases, however, it would be better for you to consult your lawyer.

The Life Line

The Person Who Has No Faith In Us

He looms about us like a black fog, as we work. "The rent is due next Monday!" he reminds us drearily. Well! Doesn't he see us working? Aren't we right on the trail of that rent money? But the mere fact of our working signifies nothing encouraging to this pessimistic relative. And there's no use in defending ourself with, "Well, I'm going to have it by then!"; he'd merely insult us with, "You know, Cousin So and So offered to advance money on anything, at any time." Then we'd fly into just wrath. We'd stalk into our bedroom, and slam the door. We'd pace the floor. And after a lot of wasted time, we'd emerge, to take up our work again—not exactly fresh for it. No, it's not worth while to give ear to Mr. Skeptic, it only unfits us for our work. The sensible thing to do, is to let his words go in one ear and out the other. But wait, Mr. Skeptic. We don't forget this. We can't. When we get that rent money, on Monday, as we knew we should, we get, along with it, a little feeling of bitterness toward you.

You've tried to trip us up.

If you had your choice, would you rather be appointed receiver of a bankrupt business or find your money in some convenient spot?

A woman is always true to a man so long as she feels there is a chance of some other woman getting him.

When a man marries the first time he needs nothing but the consent of the girl and the authorities. But before he can marry a second time, his plan must have the approval of the neighbors.

Buck Kilby says you can't make him believe Solomon was wise. "Solomon," says Mr. Kilby, who is none too happily married, "had 900 wives."

Jasper Ellington's position is that if a man served in the war he has a right to wear a goatee. Otherwise, he hasn't.

Unless you have met a mother just after her baby cut its first tooth, you have never seen real excitement.

Another odor that is greatly overestimated is the scent of the new-mown hay.

I confess that I have little interest in the controversy as to whether we shall have a greater navy. Unless somebody dies and leaves me money, a greater navy won't cost me anything.

Look back on the funerals you have attended. You will find that most of them were of men who had been very careful in their diet.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

Why Rip Van Winkle Slept So Long.

He rose and hobbled most painfully.

"KIDDIES, I'm going to tell you a 'jingly' story tonight, and if you like it I'll tell you one quite often. Now listen:

"Ere the moon comes out and the young stars twinkle and the owl asks 'Who-o-o?' and the bluebells tinkle I'll tell you kiddies of Rip Van Winkle. Up where the Hudson river flows Rip tramped for miles in his oldest clothes, with a gun and a dog with a cold black nose. Now, Rip was as lazy as he could be. He'd rather go shooting each day, you see, than to work and provide for his family. Mrs. Rip Van Winkle was big and bold, a regular crosspatch, common scold, and she led her husband a life, I'm told. But Mr. Rip was too tired to chide her. He'd run away like a little black spider and go in the woods with his good dog Schneider. One night, when Rip and his dog came back, Mrs. Rip told them to up and pack and sent them out in the night. Alack, Rip's kiddies cried, for they loved their dad, the only dad they had ever had, but he had to go 'cause their ma was mad. So Rip Van Winkle, all forlorn like a moolie cow with a crumpled horn, wished he and Schneider had never been born. He wandered round in the mountain dark—it wasn't much like a city park—and Schneider, he was too scared to bark, when all of a sudden there came a sound of thunder rumbling along the ground. 'Heavens,' said Rip; 'we'll both be drowned!' He thought it a storm, but it was not, for all at once they came to a spot where was the funniest sight, you can't guess what. Some little dwarfs, with whiskers gray and trousers that looked as if stuffed with hay, were passing the time in a funny way. They were playing tenpins, Van Winkle found, and the balls that were rolling along the ground made a terrible thundery sound. It was funny enough to make Rip smile, and as he and his dog had gone many a mile they stopped to watch the play awhile. They were kind to Rip and gave him a drink with a funny taste. He began to blink, and then he found it was hard to think. And the moon grew pale, and the stars turned blue, and the little dwarf's pants looked more askew, and that was the last Van Winkle knew. When he woke up he looked around, but his little dog Schneider could not be found, and his gun lay rusted on the ground. When he went to sleep he was young and gay, but now his whiskers were old and gray and reached clear down to his knees, they say. A raggedy man, all tattered and torn, stiff in the joints and all forlorn, was Rip Van Winkle that waking morn. He rose and hobbled most painfully down to the town where he used to be, but no one knew him—he'd changed, you see. And he knew no one, for everywhere he looked he met just a wondering stare, and not an old friend's face was there."

Household Hints

BROWNED TOMATOES

Cut tomatoes in halves, lay them cut side up and cover with green peppers and onions chopped fine. Moisten bread or cracker crumbs with melted butter and put a layer over all. Place pan in oven and let them brown.

THE TABLE

Egg Timbales—One tablespoon butter, one tablespoon flour, one tablespoon chopped parsley, half teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper, few grains celery salt, two-thirds cup milk, three eggs and a few grains of cayenne. Make a sauce of the butter, flour and milk, add yolks well beaten, then seasoning. Beat whites of eggs stiff and fold into mixture. Turn into buttered molds, set in pan of hot water and bake in slow oven until firm. Serve with this tomato sauce: Melt one tablespoon butter, add four tablespoons flour, stir until well blended, then pour on gradually, stirring constantly, one and one-half cups strained tomatoes to which one-fourth teaspoon soda has been added. Bring to boiling point.

Bean Custard Pie—One cup lima beans, which have been cooked till tender. Mash them through a sieve, add well-beaten yolks of two eggs, half cup sugar, one tablespoon vinegar; season with nutmeg. Mix well and pour into crust-lined pie plate. Place in oven and bake until firm, then cover with meringue and return to oven to brown.

Pineapple Pudding—Very good for sick people and not expensive. First peel on pineapple and dice it. Don't use the center, where it is hard. Or, use one can sliced pineapple. Butter a cake pan and line with the fruit. Then make a cake batter of one egg, pinch of salt, four tablespoons sugar, one tablespoon melted butter, two-thirds cup milk. Beat this up well, add flour enough to make batter as for layer cake, then add two teaspoons baking powder. Pour over pineapple and drop cake pan two or three times on table, so it cannot fall in baking. Bake in medium oven till done. Turn out upside down on plate, so fruit will be on top.

Nut Cookies—One-third cup butter, two eggs, one-half cup sugar, three-fourths cup flour, one teaspoon baking powder, three-fourths cup chopped nuts, one teaspoonful lemon juice. Cream butter, add sugar and eggs well beaten. Sift flour and baking powder together. Add to first mixture. Then add nuts and lemon juice. Drop from a spoon on an unbuttered baking sheet, leaving an inch space between them. Sprinkle with chopped nuts and bake in a very slow oven. This will make two dozen cookies.

Veal Loaf—Three pounds veal, one-half pound raw ham, three eggs well beaten, three soda crackers rolled fine, one teaspoonful salt, one teaspoonful pepper, three tablespoonfuls cream, two tablespoonfuls boiling water. Chop the veal and ham very fine, then add the salt and pepper, the cracker crumbs, the well beaten eggs, the cream and hot water. Mix all together thoroughly, grease a bread pan and pack mixture into it, pressing it down firmly. Cover and bake in moderate oven one hour. Uncover and bake half an hour longer. Serve hot or cold. Garnish with slices of lemon. This will serve eight persons.

Veal Croquettes—To a cup and a half of cold chopped veal add one-half cup cracker crumbs, salt, pepper. Bind with cream sauce made of one tablespoon flour, tablespoon butter, one-third cup of milk. Form into cones, dip in egg and crumbs. Fry in deep fat.

Sponge Drops—Into one-half cup sugar stir two well beaten egg yolks and two tablespoons lemon juice. Add one-half cup flour sifted with one-half teaspoon baking powder. Fold in whites of egg and bake in small gem pans. Frost with white frosting, put half of a candied cherry on top.

Glimpses of Married Life

BY MRS. WM. LEONARD.

"Where she could have gone in the few seconds it took me to slip on my kimona and slippers is beyond me." Olive sat on Jo Parsons' porch relating her exciting experience with the ghostly visitor who tried to frighten her into giving up marrying the doctor.

"Do you know my theory?" Jo leaned forward eagerly in her chair. "I think the woman has a hiding place near there where she secretes herself to watch and listen. She fled to that and watched the searchers in their quest of her."

"It looks reasonable," mused Olive. "After we quieted down and went to bed she crept out. I hope she got under cover before the terrible thunderstorm came up. I'd hate to think of any human being abroad in that."

"Here comes Roger," exclaimed Jo. "Stay and have dinner with us, Olive, and tell him about your ghost. He's so hard headed I would like to know his opinion. I'll run and dish the dinner." Jo disappeared, waving her hand at her husband as he came up the walk.

"How are you, Miss Dunn!" Parsons extended his hand as he came up on the porch. "That thunderstorm last night washed the air and cooled us off in great shape." He put his hat on a rack in the hall and seated himself in the rocker vacated by his wife.

"There's quite an excitement in town," he began, leaning back luxuriously and crossing his knees.

"I did not know Fairport ever indulged in excitement." Olive swayed softly back and forth in the porch swing.

"Well, a genuine ghost would stir most any place. Fairport is alive enough to get a thrill over that."

"A ghost!" Olive sat up alert. "Tell me about it."

Parsons stared a moment in surprise at her sudden interest.

"Yes, a ghost; the real article this time. Old Gorsley—you know of our hermit who lives in a cave by the river, don't you? He flees human beings as he would the plague." Olive nodded. "Well, he has been jarred out of his seclusion by a visit from a spirit."

"When?" breathed Olive.

"Last night, in that terrible storm. I don't know why ghosts should mind a ducking, but I had always supposed they kept their beds in storms." Parsons chuckled. "Today old Gorsley came into town and asked the marshal if anyone was missing. The comfortable old soul began to feel himself to see if he was all there, while Gosley went on to relate that during the height of the storm he had heard a wild calling and screaming accompanied by a knocking on his door. That anyone should knock on his door at all was terrifying enough. It hasn't happened for fifty years; but on such a night! He looked out of his peephole of a window and a ghostly figure was standing there wringing its hands and beseeching him to open his door. Gorsley covered his face with his hands and rushed away to hide in his bed, thinking his hour had come. The knocking continued some minutes, accompanied by the crying. Then all was still. The old fellow stole again to his window and saw the figure going off through the woods toward the river. When he thought the thing over, it occurred to him that ghosts could enter closed doors, and he began to be afraid he had refused to give a human being shelter in a storm. The marshal assured him our population was intact, as far as he knew, and the old fellow ambled away comforted. He's a kind-hearted old curmudgeon."

"Dinner is served," said Mrs. Parsons, appearing in the door. "We have peas from our own garden for the first time today. I'm glad you're here to enjoy them, Olive."

EMPIRE LINES IN HIGH FAVOR.

No. 8991.

The Empire frock seems daily to grow in favor and has become almost universally popular. OLDEST IRONCLAD, 71 TODAY, STILL DOING ACTIVE SERVICE

Erie, Pa., Aug. 13.—*The Wolverine, formerly the Michigan, the oldest ironclad in the world, is completing her seventy-first year's service for Uncle Sam on Lake Erie. The old vessel was commissioned August 14, 1844, and since then it has been in active service, either as a warship or survey ship, or a training ship for the naval reserve of the Lake States.

The vessel was built in Pittsburg and shipped to Erie on wagons. Many Indian chiefs have been entertained aboard her and made to see the error of their ways. During the Civil War the vessel guarded some 2,000 prisoners on Johnson's Island, in Lake Erie. A plot was discovered at that time to capture the vessel and bombard the Lake Erie ports. It was the Michigan, as she was then known, that stopped the Fenian invasion of Canada, in 1866, by overhauling the transports carrying reinforcements outside of Buffalo.

Of a type of warship that has long passed to the junk heap, the Wolverine was the best that could be built. It is 16 feet long, and is pierced for twelve guns. She carries a battery of eight breech-loading two-inch rifles. During active service it carried a crew of 98 men, including eleven officers.

The old vessel is still in fair shape, although nearing the three-quarters of a century mark, and, if necessary, could easily sink anything afloat on the lakes. Frequent overhaulings have kept the machinery and equipment in repair.

LOVE LEADS TO GALLOWS.

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 13.—Louis Bundy, who killed a messenger boy in this city, for twenty dollars, with which to buy a present for his sweetheart, was hanged today. Governor Johnson gave him a reprieve from June 18 to August 13 in order that he might study the case, on appeal for clemency.

SOX SEND PENNOCK TO MINORS.

Boston, Aug. 13.—The release of Herbert Pennock, the Boston American pitcher, formerly of the Athletics, to the Providence Club, of the International League, was announced by President Lannin, of the Red Sox, tonight. Pennock had not pitched a full game since Boston bought him two months ago. As president of the Providence Club, Mr. Lannin announced the sale of Pitcher Ralph Comstock to the Cincinnati Nationals.

Game Tomorrow.
First Baptist vs. Netherwoods.

Very little activity will be put forth by City League ballists tomorrow, two cancellations causing the lack of playing. The Hope Chapel-Clinton Avenue tilt will not be played, as the Hopes' excursion will be taken in by most all of the players. For the same reason the Saurer-T. A. B. engagement was canceled, Britt Martin stating that many of his boys wished to enjoy the day's outing. The only game that will be played is the Baptist-Netherwood encounter. According to their recent performances the Baptists are due to put one over on the leading lights. "Hub" Stine is Dan Randolph's twirling choice for the morrow, although Stahl and Patterson will be held in reserve. James Coughlin, the Netherwood leader, has intimated that he may use Lou Slocum in the box, holding Clark and Russ Stewart as "relief" hurlers.

If the East Enders succeed in trimming the cellarites they will jump ahead of the idle Hopes and also widen the gap between themselves and the menacing T. A. B. S. Should the Netherwoods lose the Hopes lead alone, the T. A. B. S. being lifted a half game ahead of the Netherwoods. To avoid such complicated results, Manager Coughlin has ordered a victory at all costs. By winning the Baptist will enter into a tie for last place.

"Iron Man" Sidney Butler held no terrors for the league-leading Laurels in the daily baseball tilt at Parker Field yesterday, the "bushmen" banging his slants for eleven safeties, winning a 6 to 0 encounter. Oscar Dilts twirled for the winners and was a complete puzzle to his victims, allowing them only three bingles, two of which were made by Butler. "Kid" McNee, the fleet-footed center fielder of the losers, was the individual fielding star of the engagement.

That the Laurels won so handily was due mainly to the hurling of Dilts and the consistent and opportune clouting of Max Marsh and "Kid" Brennan, the former banging out a trio of lively cracks and the latter clouting out two terrific wallops, one going for two bags.

KINKEAD WILL LEAD INTERSTATE LEAGUE

Jimmy Clinton and Other Baseball Stars Sign On Basketball Circuit.

A new basketball circuit to be known as the Interstate Basketball League, has just been organized and efforts are being made to have Eugene Kinkead, the plucky sheriff of Hudson county, accept the nomination for president. It is thought that he will do so as he is very popular in sporting circles.

The league will be composed of eight clubs and perhaps more. Games will be played by each club three times a week and already the rosters of the various teams have been given out.

Frank Bruggy, Elizabeth's all around athlete and, at present, a Boston National League recruit, will play with his home town team, although four other outfits are angling for his services. Jimmy Clinton, the ex Central New Jersey League hurler, has been signed by the Jersey City club, while Kavanaugh will play with Harrison.

Final arrangements will be made at the next meeting of the promoters. This meeting will be held in the Hotel Hermitage, New York city, on August 23.

THIRTEEN-YEAR-OLD GIRL IN NINE-MILE SWIM

Miss Alice Lord, who is thirteen years old and does not look anything like her age, swam across Long Island Sound yesterday from the Morgan estate at Glen Cove to Oakland Beach, on the New York side. The little girl, who is entirely unknown in swimming circles, or was until yesterday, went over a "V" shaped course for a distance of nine miles, and her time was three hours and forty minutes.

The distance swim of yesterday was the second long swim made by Miss Lord in ten days. Incidentally they are the only two long-distance efforts she has made in her life. Following an eight-mile trail in the Sound waters last week, the girl's instructor, John M. Meyer, a professional swimmer, decided she could cross the Sound without difficulty, a feat which had been accomplished, it is said, but once before.

MC LOUGHLIN MAY MEET WILLIAMS FOR TROPHY

Seabright, Aug. 13.—Heavy, black clouds hovered over the courts of the Seabright Lawn Tennis and Cricket Club Grounds yesterday afternoon, but had little effect apparently on the eyesight of the players who qualified for the finals in the invitation tennis tournament, and it can truly be said that the gallery of ardent devotees enjoyed some of the best tennis ever seen on the local courts.

Maurice E. McLoughlin, the Pacific coast marvel, yesterday won his way into the final bracket in the upper half by defeating Nathaniel W. Niles, the Boston champion, by scores of 8—6, 6—2, and Karl Behr, of New York, Middle States champion, went to the finals by taking the measure of Theodore R. Pell, of New York, by scores of 6—1, 6—2.

The rivals of the West and East will meet tomorrow to decide the right to challenge R. Norris Williams, 2d, for his holding of the Achelis cup. Williams arrived here from Chicago today and turned up his strokes against Niles.

BIG ROWING MEET.

Springfield, Mass., Aug. 13.—The ancient sport of rowing brought 100 of the fastest oarsmen in this country and Canada to this city yesterday for the forty-third national regatta of the Amateur Association of the United States. Fourteen events will be rowed on the Connecticut River, four miles below the city, during the next two days, with seven races each day.

MORE TEN-CENT BALL.

Baltimore, Md., Aug. 13.—Ten-cent baseball will be inaugurated at the Federal League Park here today. Announcement to this effect was made by the management of the local team yesterday. Admission to the pavilion hereafter will be 25 cents, and to the grand stand 50 cents.

RANDOLPH TO TWIRL.

Billy Pfau's Amboy Pacers, with Cliff Randolph on the mound, will tackle the Empire City A. A. at the latter's grounds, in New York city, this Sunday. Randolph, fresh from his three-hit victory over the Brooklyn Suburbans, expects to exhibit a splendid brand of ball.

JUNIORS TO PLAY.

The Plainfield Juniors and the Westfield A. C. will clash at Parker Field tomorrow.

TABS WILL TACKLE ALL-STAR COMBINE

Good Attraction Substituted For Saturday City League Games.

Baptist Field tomorrow will be the scene of a hotly-contested T. A. B.-All-Star match. Owing to the fact that Britt Martin requested that the scheduled Saurer-T. A. B. game be postponed, the All-Stars were substituted.

The All-Star team has been picked by "Kats" Miller and Benny Aosenson and includes the best diamond talent in the city. Johnny Dixon, who held the Clinton Avenues scoreless for seven and two-third innings last Saturday, will attend to the pitching problem, while Eddie Bergen will receive his "stuff." W. Miller will adorn the first sack, "Tush" Jaeger second, "Chet" Harriman third, and Benney Rosonson short. The outer garden work will be taken care of by "Kats" Miller, "Henny" Alberts and "Hymie" Rosenson.

The T. A. B. S. will present their usual line-up, with Dick Lawton or "Kid" Brennan on the slab. It is likely that Frank Walls, the new artist from Bound Brook, will make his debut in local company tomorrow.

As the Abstainers are dangerously near the top rung of the league ladder, their work will be closely watched. The result of the game will have no effect on the league standing.

TEN-CENT BALL FOR WOMEN AT PERTH AMBOY FIELD

Following the example set by Federal League promoters, the Perth Amboy City League authorities have organized "ten-cent" ball—that is, as far as ladies are concerned. The "ten-cent" baseball idea comes in in this way: The Public Service will charge the usual "dime a trip," but the turnstile man at the Amboy grounds will admit all members of the fair sex free of charge.

Mere man will still have to pay his two bits. According to reports the wives of six of the members of the pacer team will be on hand to root for their hubbies. Mrs. Cliff Randolph will be among the sextette. The Franklins and the Pacers will indulge in their weekly pastime, Art Romer and Randolph being the opposing pitchers.

CURRY MINORS BEATEN BY HARTFORD PLAYERS

The Curry and Hartford Minor League teams battled on Parker Field this morning, the former losing 3 to 1. Martenis, the no-hit twirler, was reached for only six weak clouts, none of which were of the dangerous variety.

Baker, the Curry hurler, twirled fairly well but was not much of a puzzle to the Hartford swatters.

STARS WON'T SHINE UNLESS FANS DO A LITTLE COAXING

The proposed game between Smalley's All-Stars and the Royal Giants will not take place next Thursday unless the sport followers in this city wake up. At least that's the way William Kline feels about it. There can be no doubt but that a game of this sort, if scheduled for a Saturday, would draw unusually well, as the rivalry beween the two outfits is intense. Kline is anxious to book a game between his lads and the pennant-winners in the City League. He thinks that he ought to get a shot at the city championship, and says that if he is given the opportunity to do so, only local talent will be used.

PARKER FIELD LEAGUERS BATTLE OUT A CLOSE ONE

In a scheduled Parker Field Major League game this morning, Team No. 2 defeated Team 1, the score being 8 to 6. Despite the fact that they touched Brennan for sixteen hits the losers were unable to annex the decision. Ehlert's clouting featured, while the fielding of Semer was unusually poor, four errors being the whole of his day's work.

SPORT BRIEFS

Herbert Pennock, pitcher, of the Boston Americans, has been released to the Providence Club, of the International League.

Maurice McLoughlin and Ward Dawson, of San Francisco, won the doubles at the Seabright Lawn Tennis and Cricket Club yesterday, defeating Leonard Beekman, of Bronxville, and Lyle E. Mahan, of New York, in the final round, three straight set at 6—3, 6—4 and 8—6.

The petition to set aside the injunction restraining Armando Marsans from playing ball with any team other than Cincinnati Nationals was postponed until Friday morning by Federal District Court at St. Louis.

Announcement was made yesterday by the Baltimore Federal League Club that, starting Saturday August 14, ten cent ball would be inaugurated.

LINBARGER GETTING MANY SIGNERS TO CLARK PETITION

Mayor Robert Clark Jr., of North Plainfield, still disclaims any official knowledge of the petition being circulated by Walter C. Linbarger to have him run for office for a third term. Neither would the Mayor make any statement as to whether he will reconsider his decision not to be a candidate again this fall or stand pat on what he said several weeks ago.

Mr. Linbarger is meeting with great success in his canvass of the voters of North Plainfield, who are signing the petition irrespective of party affiliations. Mr. Linbarger will not say when he intends presenting the petition to Mayor Clark.

BOYS RETURN FROM Y. M. C. A. CAMP, BRINGING HONORS

Six Y. M. C. A. boys, sunburned and bronzed by sun and wind, returned from Camp Wawayanda yesterday when the third section broke camp. Eight Plainfield boys went up on the fourth section, to return August 26. Several of the Plainfield boys brought back high athletic honors with them.

Ellis Enander scored 285 points in aquatics, winning the 25 and 50-yard swims. He also secured 230½ points in athletics, tying for first in the 50-yard dash and getting a first in the running broad jump.

Harold Wilson secured 205 points in aquatics and 167 in athletics, and Daniel Randolph made 112 points in athletics. LeRoy Estes won the championship medal of the third section in pitching quoits.

Plainfield gets the credit of these points in the contest for the cup, which will be presented to the association getting the highest number of points during the season at the camp.

The boys who returned from camp yesterday are John Hamman, Ellis Enander, LeRoy Estes, Benjamin Satterfield, Harold Wilson and Daniel Randolph. The eight who went to camp were Harold Zeek, Alfred Smith, John Endress, Dorchester Walsh, Harold Allen, Martin Snyder, Ralph Faga and Douglass Highberger.

STOCKHOLDERS ANXIOUS ABOUT PUBLISHING CO.

Camden, Aug. 13.—Thousands of stockholders in the International Publishing Company, the twenty million dollar corporation formed six years ago to sell correspondence instruction in Europe and Latin-American countries, are awaiting with anxiety the report of an investigating committee which will be submitted at the postponed meeting of stockholders today. For a month the committee has been investigating the affairs of the company, for the stockholders demand a statement of its true condition.

When the stockholders met here a month ago they learned that the liabilities in capital stock and other obligations exceeded $19,000,000, and its assets were slightly over $18,000,000. The feature of this report which excited the anger of the stockholders was the statement that of the eighteen millions of assets, $11,000,000 was represented by "goodwill." The management of the big company was vigorously denounced.

Many of the stockholders are also owners of stocks in the other correspondence school ventures of T. J. Foster, at Scranton. These include the International Textbook Company, which owns the big correspondence schools; the Lackawanna Coal and Lumber Company, the Coal Lands Securities Company, and other Foster-Connell-Griffiths promotions. Among the stockholders are many aged men and women who have invested their all in the big corporations.

Since the beginning of 1911, it is claimed, the public United States and Canada have invested at least $40,000,000 in cash in the Foster enterprises. During the past few months there has been apprehension among the holders of stock as to the earning capacity of the investments, and the Foster enterprises are undergoing reorganization.

MORTGAGES AS INVESTMENTS FOR IDLE FUNDS

There is no better form of investment for those who desire a higher rate than the 4% paid in our Special Department, than mortgages on well selected property on a 50% basis.

This Company invests a certain amount of its funds in gilt edge mortgages and is willing to sell participations in these mortgages from time to time to persons desiring conservative investments.

We are always pleased to talk over the matter of investments with persons having idle funds in an endeavor to be of service and will be glad to submit our offerings to anyone who may be interested.

RACING CAR RUNS WILD, TWO HURT

Amos Miller, of Westfield, Dying in Muhlenberg Hospital From Injuries.

LAST FLEMINGTON RACE

Many Plainfielders Witness Thrilling Ending to Afternoon's Program—Joe Lambert, Also of Westfield, Has a Close Call.

Suffering from injuries that will probably cause his death, Amos S. Miller, of 567 Bradford avenue, Westfield, was received at Muhlenberg Hospital at midnight, following an automobile accident which occurred yesterday afternoon at the Flemington Fair. With a possible fracture of the backbone, three broken ribs, a jaw that has been smashed beyond recognition, and numerous other internal and external hurts, Miller is said by the hospital authorities to have very little chance of recovery, and his wife is constantly at his bedside. He also has one child.

The mishap, which may result fatally, happened on the last lap of the last race run in connection with the program of auto events at the fair, and put a sickening thrill on an otherwise excellent meet. T. B. Shoemaker, the referee of the races, in a statement given to a Daily Press reporter this morning, said that the accident was caused by the left rear tire of a car, driven by Joe Lambert, of Westfield, blowing out, causing the machine to leave the track below the grandstand and crash into the infield fence. Miller was the mechanician in the car, and when it turned turtle it pinned both men underneath. Lambert, who was at the wheel, had a miraculous escape from serious injury, due to the fact that the high steering gear protected his body as he slid underneath to the floor of the machine. Both men were pulled from underneath by witnesses and track officials, and Lambert was little the worse for his experience.

The Westfield car, together with the Mulford "special," driven by Ira Vail, of Brooklyn, were the only two left out of the four entrants in the Australian pursuit race and Vail and his mechanician, Victor Tillotson, of this city, stopped their motor and placed the injured man aboard. Miller was brought to Flemington and later to this city.

Many Plainfielders witnessed the bad ending to the racing program. Miller is well known both in this city and Westfield, where he was employed as an electrician.

CHILDREN'S FAVORITE AT NETHERWOOD CAMP

The speaker at the service at the Netherwood Fresh Air Home tomorrow afternoon will be L. D. Albin. He is a great favorite with the little people at the home, who always enjoy his illustrated talks. The services during the coming week will be under the direction of the Christian Endeavor Society of Grace church and the Epworth League of Monroe Avenue M. E. church.

The ever-increasing interest of the Plainfield people in this work greatly encourages Miss Curry, and no doubt the season, which is now nearly over, will be the best one every experienced by the home. The continued wet weather has put a ban on outdoor play for the little people, but withal they manage to have a good time, and will go back to the great city better prepared for the winter. The public is invited to all services of the home, and anyone desiring to inspect the home and see the little people will always find a warm welcome.

TELEPHONE RATES TO BE REDUCED SEPT. 1

New Schedule Filed With Utility Commissioners Affects Direct Lines In Plainfield.

Trenton, Aug. 14—Lower telephone service rates are provided in a new schedule just submitted to the State Board of Public Utility Commissioners by the New York Telephone Company, to become effective September 1. The lower rates will apply to all the larger municipalities in Northern New Jersey, including Plainfield.

The new schedule has been submitted after several conferences between the officials of the company and Dr. Philander Betts, engineer of the Utility Commission. The schedule involves material decreases, and Engineer Betts has recommended that it be substituted for the schedules now in effect. Under the new schedule there will be a reduction in the direct line rate for 600 messages from $39 to $36 per year, and material decreases in the charges to private branch exchanges. An effect of the new schedule will be that in a number of cases the direct line rate will be the same as the old two-party line rate. It is estimated that these reductions, together with the changes in inter-state toll rates between Bayonne and New York city, filed on July 1 last, will make a saving to subscribers of $100,000 per year.

5 KILLED IN ENGLISH TRAIN WRECK TODAY

Irish Mail Left Rails and Was Crashed Into By Following Train.

London, Aug. 14.—Five persons were killed and many injured today when the Irish mail train was wrecked near Stowe Tunnel, Northampton. The train was derailed and some of the cars were completely smashed, the passengers being buried in the wreckage. A few seconds after the Irish mail had been derailed another train crashed into the wreckage, part of which caught fire. The flames hampered the work of rescue and firemen were called from Rugby and Bilsworth, two towns between which the double wreck occurred.

ANOTHER FIVE DOLLARS FOR DAY NURSERY FUND

Probably no charity is so worthy or deserves as much support and cooperation as the splendid work carried on by the King's Daughters' Day Nursery at their roomy home on West Front street, where scores of tots are taken care of while their mothers earn the money that keeps the wolf from the door. Few have any idea of the number of such cases in this city, where the city fathers are unable to secure employment and the task of providing for the family devolves upon the mother. A more profitable half hour could not be spent than by inspecting for onesel' the institution directly opposite Liberty street on the main thoroughfare, and learning the scope of the work done by the organization. The little children will greet you with smiling faces and interviews with them are most interesting.

The quarters on West Front street are the outgrowth of a modest home owned by the King's Daughters on West Front street several years ago where the steady increase in registration made the house inadequate. In many cases the only opportunity the little boys and girls get to play freely and enjoy themselves is the day they spend at the nursery in companionship with other little boys and girls, under the watchful eye of competent nurses, who look after their physical health.

As has been the custom during the last few years, the Press receives contributions for the nursery through its columns. Within the last four days over $100 has been realized. Today's mail brought another check from S. H. Patterson, who contributed $5.00 to the worthy cause. Send your mite, it will help pay for the milk for some little tot.

The fund to date is as follows:

Previously acknowledged	$120.20
S. H. Patterson	5.00
Total	$125.20

LABOR MEN TAKE UP MATTER OF NON-UNION CONSTRUCTORS

Members of the Building Trades' Council met in the headquarters last night, at which time it was reported that the addition to the Saurer plant of the International Motor Company, now in the course of erection, was being built under conditions alleged to be unfair to union labor. It is expected that Hugh Riley, business agent of District No. 47, and William Lunger, the local business agent of the union, will visit the concern regarding the matter during the coming week.

It was also stated at last night's session that the ironworkers employed at the Levgar factory, in Dunellen, are anxious to have an eight-hour day schedule established at that place. Inasmuch as these mechanics are not organized the matter was not adjusted during the recent short day campaign that has just finished here. Thomas E. Carroll, of the International Machinists' Union, is expected to return to Plainfield next week, and the Levgar matter will be put up to him at that time.

TWELVE BRIDGES FLOOD'S TOLL

According to reports presented to Joshua Doughty, Somerset county's engineer, twelve bridges in the county were either carried away or were badly damaged in the recent flood. It is estimated that it will cost between $15,000 and $20,000 to replace or repair them.

STORM DAMAGE IN TOWNSHIP SECTION

It Will Cost Hundreds of Dollars to Repair Roads—Budget Adopted.

The monthly meeting of the North Plainfield Township Committee was held Thursday evening at the Town Hall. Many of the taxpayers were present and took an active part in the proceedings. Chief of Police E. Canning handed in his resignation, which, after a lengthy discussion, was accepted.

In answer to an urgent appeal by the fire department, it was decided to increase the appropriation for the coming year to $350. Reports on the damage done by the recent storm show that the Scotch Plains section of the township suffered most, especially near the Seeley Mill, on the New Providence road, where the whole roadbed was swept away for a considerable distance, making it impassable for some time. The lower dam of the pond, near the stone crusher, on the same road, was carried away bodily.

The new budget for the coming year was passed. Owing to the demand of the county and State for more money, the rate will undoubtedly be a little higher, possibly seven points. The several items of the budget for township purposes, exclusive of school appropriations, are as follows: For roads, $2,100; poor, $2,000; salaries, $1,234; police department $200; fire department $350; counsel fees, $150; rent, $100; oiling road, $100; cleaning Wilson Pond, $20; forest fires, $200; contingent, $546; a total of $6,000.

BAD MAN ARRESTED AFTER AN ASSAULT

"Goldey" Reed Gets the Limit Here and Is Said to Be Wanted Elsewhere.

Classed as one of the most desperate criminals ever brought into the city court, Albert Clark, alias "Goldey Reed," was sentenced by Judge W. G. DeMeza to pay a fine of $100 and serve 60 days in the county jail when arraigned this morning on a charge of assaulting Daniel Cole, of Netherwood avenue. Inasmuch as he could not raise the fine money the sentence is equivalent to a six month's term in the Elizabeth institution.

Clark, who is a negro, attacked Cole in a vacant house at 318 East Fourth street, yesterday afternoon, when the white man went there to clean. The negro remonstrated with him and told him to get out and when Cole refused to do this Clark picked up one of a dozen full bottles of beer and beat the other man over the head with it. Cole fell unconscious to the floor with a gash in his forehead that extended from one temple to the other and went through to the skull.

Captain Flynn and Patrolman Martin Welsh went to the scene of the trouble but Clark had fled before their arrival. They gave instructions concerning the removal of the injured man and then began a search. Patrolman Roland McIntyre, who was doing bicycle duty in the East End, picked up Clark on South avenue about an hour after the crime was committed and brought him to police headquarters. He later admitted his guilt.

When arraigned in court the negro assumed an insolent, defiant manner. When sentenced to the long term in jail he continued to grin. Clark was "mugged" this morning and his photograph will be sent out to other police departments.

WESTFIELD WOMAN'S WILL HAS CHARITY BEQUESTS

Elizabeth, Aug. 14—The will of Mrs. Jane E. Burtis, widow of Valentine O. Burtis, of Westfield, was probated in the surrogate's office here yesterday. The First Presbyterian church of Westfield is to have $200, the sum to be invested and the interest to go as annual contributions to the Women's Home and Foreign Mission Societies of that church. To care for the grave of her brother, W. F. P. Deveau, in Beechwood cemetery, New Rochelle, N. Y., the sum of $300 is devised.

The residue of the estate goes to various relatives and collateral heirs.

GERMANS MAY BE IN RUSSIAN TRAP

Grand Duke Nicholas Said to Have Endangered Several Army Groups.

MUNITIONS DESTROYED

French Cruiser Blows Up Plant at Jaffa, When Munitions and Boats Were Being Prepared to Attack Suez Canal.

London, Aug. 14.—Field Marshal von Hindenburg, upon whom the most difficult tasks are imposed, has personally taken command of the German army attacking Kovno, and, according to the German official report issued last night, has made further progress in the fighting against the Russians in that region.

The news that the civilians had commenced to evacuate Kovno as well as Vilna led to the belief in many quarters that the Russians either had decided to give them up or had no hope of holding them. Now, however, they are fighting hard to retain both cities, and in the latest official report from Petrograd it is claimed that the Russians have repulsed the German attacks, except at one point where a desperate artillery engagement is in progress.

Further north, between Poniowitz and Dvinsk, where General von Bulow a week ago was advancing rapidly toward the railway, the Germans apparently have suffered a setback, for the Russians now speak of pressing them, and declare they have reoccupied the town of Toviny, which is considerably west of the point to which the Germans had penetrated.

In fact, several army groups in this operation have fallen into the trap of Grand Duke Nicholas and are in the gravest danger, according to The Daily Telegraph's Petrograd correspondent.

South of Riga also the Germans are said to be doing little more than holding their own, so that the talked-of advance toward Petrograd seems to be developing very slowly.

On the other hand the Germans continue to drive in the Russians to the northeast and east of Warsaw, and with the capture of Siedlce are within a short distance of the Bug River, one of the main supports of the Brest-Litovsk line, which it was believed the Russians originally intended to hold, but which the German offensive to the northeast may prevent.

Paris, Aug. 14—The Ministry of Marine today issued the following:

"On August 12 after having given advance notice to the Caimazan (Turkish official) of the time set for the evacuation of the neighborhood, a French cruiser destroyed with shell fire the principal buildings of the German Wagner plant at Jaffa, which was making arms and munitions and constructing boats for an attack on the Suez Canal. The houses in the neighborhood suffered no damage at all."

Today's French war statement says: "Since August 6 the British forces that disembarked upon the shores of Sulva Bay have made important progress in the direction of Gabatepe. After violent fighting the British succeeded in gaining a foothold upon the slopes of Sarajbarr heights, taking more than 650 prisoners."

Petrograd, Aug. 14—The Russian war statement of Trans-Caucasian operations says:

"In the Passim Valley on Wednesday we repulsed two Turkish attacks with enormous losses. In the region of Darkosch our cavalry patrols successfully encountered the Turks."

London, Aug. 14—The British steamer Cairo, of Glasgow, 1,671 tons, and the fishing smack Amethyst were sunk by German submarines today. The crews of both vessels were saved.

Singapore, Aug. 14—Compulsory military training for all Britishers, resident in the Straits settlements between the ages of 18 and 55 is provided in a bill passed by the Colonial Legislature today.

Thompson Secures Dodge Agency.

Thompson Auto Co. has just closed the Dodge agency contract for Plainfield, township, Somerset and part of Middlesex counties. The Dodge agency is considered the most valuable automobile agency. All the local auto companies have been competing for this contract during the past year and Mr. Thompson is very fortunate in securing this most valuable agency. DUNELLEN

All the Happenings of the Day In Plainfield's Hustling Suburb.

TWO COURT CASES.

Two cases, one of Feldman against Tozze and the other of Tozze against Feldman, were heard in Judge David S. Campbell's court yesterday.

Both cases arose from the happenings on Wednesday when Louis Feldman went into Vincenzo Tozze's home, which he owns, to clean out a kitchen drain which was clogged up. In so doing he damaged the linoleum.

Feldman testified that when he asked Tozze who was going to pay him for his trouble, and, grabbing him by the collar, he threw him out of the house. Feldman also testified that Tozze followed up the assault by throwing a shovel at him as he was leaving the yard.

Tozze upon the stand admitted that he had thrown Feldman out of his home, but he denied Feldman's allegation that he had started the affair. Feldman's reply, according to Tozze, was a volley of oaths and indecent talk. Tozze said that his wife and children were present at the time.

In the morning Tozze was arraigned upon complaint of Feldman, and in the evening Tozze countered by having Feldman arraigned. Tozze's story was substantiated by Mrs. J. Handleman and Mrs. Elizabeth Johnson, both neighbors.

The outcome of the morning's case of Feldman against Tozze was a $5 fine for Tozze, and the result of Tozze's proceeding in the evening was a suspended sentence for Feldman.

REVIVES GREEK PLAYS.

Berkeley, Cal., Aug. 14—Miss Margaret Anglin, aided by Walter Damrosch, leader of the New York Symphony Orchestra and composer of the musical settings for her Greek plays, today presented the first of her Greek revivals at the theatre of the University of California. The performance of "Iphegenia in Auris," by Euripedes. Two other Greek plays will be given in the series.

PROCTOR'S THEATRE

"Leah, the Forsaken," a drama of unusual strength and character, is booked by the Proctor Theatre for this afternoon and evening. The fact that it is a Universal three-act drama, with Vivian Prescott as the star, is sufficient to note to feel that it is a production that one might want to see in the line of motion pictures. Another episode of "The Goddess" and Paramount travel pictures are also scheduled for the Proctor house today.

"Sunday," one of the recent five-part productions of the World Film Company, is booked for Monday, both afternoon and evening. Miss Reine Davies plays the leading role in this magnificent photoplay, and is ably supported by a strong cast, including Montague Love. The story is the same as that of the play of the same name, in which Miss Ethel Barrymore starred some time in the Broadway theatres, but the details are carried far beyond the possibilities of the legitimate stage, making it more interesting to those who have the occasion to see it.

Much interest has been manifested in the second victrola contest since it was started last Monday, and many guesses have already been registered of the number of the beautiful mahogany musical instrument. The purchase of a ticket to Proctor's popular theatre entitles the holder to a guess. The first correct guess wins the victrola.

A WOMAN'S BACK.

The Advice of This Plainfield Woman is of Certain Value.

Many a woman's back has many aches and pains.

Ofttimes 'tis the kidneys' fault.

That's why Doan's Kidney Pills are so effective.

Many Plainfield women know this.

Read what one has to say about it:

Mrs. O. C. Moore, 57 Manning avenue, Plainfield, says: "I endured much misery from backache, caused by my kidneys. Many nights I was unable to rest at all and in the morning, my limbs were so stiff and sore that I could hardly get out of bed. Whenever I caught the least cold, it settled on my kidneys and any strain on my back made the aches and pains worse. I was treated by physicians, but their medicine didn't help me and it was not until I got Doan's Kidney Pills at Randolph's drug store, that I had any hope of getting rid of the trouble. They made me feel like a different person and I have never had any serious trouble since."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Moore had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.—Adv.

BLAZING AUTO RUNS ALONE

A heavy six-cylinder car ablaze from bonnet to tail-light performed the unusual feat of running for nearly half a mile without an occupant. The driver jumped, without shutting off the power, when the fire started. When he caught up with it, the car was a twisted steel skeleton. This accident happened near here on July 28th and proves the necessity of carrying fire insurance. Insure your car here, now, before you have a similar experience. Auto fire at 1%.

THE WOMAN'S COLUMN

Berkeley, Calif.—One of the largest gatherings of college women ever held in the West is the Pan-Hellenic Congress, now in session here. Representatives of all the Greek letter fraternities are taking part, and Western women are joining hands with women of the East in building up the national gathering of college women.

London—The latest heroine of Russia is Princess Marie Slobodka. The story of her romantic meeting with Michael Angeloff, a Russian student who had just been commissioned in the army, their elopement, their honeymoon in Russian trenches, the bride serving in soldier raiment as her officer's valet, and finally the donouement, when both were wounded and taken to a hospital in Warsaw, has reached London. This daughter of a Russian nobleman, while traveling along in February, met the dashing young officer on a train. Their love ripened fast, and when they left the train they were married. Instead of a tearful farewell, the Princess planned a coup. She appeared before her husband in a soldier's uniform, her beautiful hair clipped short. For a week she endured the hardship of the trenches. Then came a terrific shell-fire, and both the officer and his orderly were wounded. The Grand Duke Nicholas, goes the story, decorated "Private Laurenty," as she was known in the trenches, with the highest award for valor, the Cross of St. George.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y.—Far away in South America, on a small and unfrequented island in Lake Titicaca, the alumnae of Vassar College will erect a monument to Professor James Orton, the noted explorer, who died there. Recently it was reported that only a crumbling stone marks the grave, and the memories of the Vassar graduates of forty years ago were awakened to the long neglect of the humble grave in the distant land. But Vassar women were equal to the occasion, and they are subscribing for a marble shaft to mark the grave of the explorer. Orton was a professor at Vassar, when he entered the wilderness for a third exploration in South America. He died in 1877 in the wilderness, from exposure caused by the loss of much of his equipment.

Pittsburgh—The members of the faculty of the Margaret Morrison Carnegie School are spending their vacations along useful lines. Miss Elizabeth Stoner is teaching aesthetic dancing at Santa Barbara, Calif. Miss Marie Belleville is doing settlement work in New York, and Misses M. E. Collet and M. A. Hayden are doing research work at the Marine Biological Laboratory at Woods Hole, Mass. Miss Bessie Merrill is teaching lace work and weaving at the summer school at Chautauqua.

London—The most notable psychological cleverness of its kind in the criminal history of England has been revealed by the deportation of Mme. Bertha Trost. For years she held secret many delicate matters, learned the intrigues of nations and furnished this all-important information to Germany. She escaped observation and the suspicion of Scotland Yard experts simply by reversing ancient theories and concealed her operations by making herself conspicuous. Her deportation came as a shock in English social circles, for the madame, who had been known as a beauty specialist, the lady of Marlborough Gate House, where she was often the hostess at parties attended by men high in government circles, courted notoriety. To get members of the foreign office, the war office or the naval department to her parties, invitations to which were much sought, to ply them with wine and the flatteries of her young women, was her favorite trick. Under press of drink and intimacy, according to the government, these men were stripped of secrets which she transmitted to Germany. On payments for such information she managed to sustain herself in splendor. She reached high in her luring and probing, and she went too far. It was a woman who brought the first suspicions against her. Her attentions to wounded officers and her insistent interest in matters at the front which no ordinary woman might be expected to know of, brought the raid and deportation.

It Pays to Secure a Tenant Who Pays.

The uncertain sort of tenant is easy to find. He is always answering the call of the window sign of "To Let." He is easy to please. Even a rather high rental does not frighten him away.

But the Stay-and-Pay tenant is not so easy to secure. He is surer of what he wants. He does not take the first house, or apartment, or store that he finds. He watches and answers "To Let" Ads.

And to secure him for your tenant is a good day's work—a good week's work.

Property that is advertised adequately in the Plainfield Daily Press is rarely rented injudiciously.

You can't, even through a "For Sale" ad, sell that used article for its original cost, nor near it; but you can get its cash value at the present time for it.

The John Wanamaker Store

Subway at Astor Place. Broadway at Ninth, New York.

The Wanamaker Store Will Hold During the Coming Week

A SERIES OF LITTLE FASHION OPENINGS

which will give to waiting America the first hint of the mode for the Autumn and Winter of Nineteen Hundred and Fifteen—a season which will usher in not only new fashions, but an absolutely new silhouette.

The NEW Silhouette

It is a far cry from the balon silhouette of the season just passed. The waist is smaller and while the hips are not actually very much larger there is what the French call "an illusion of hips."

The NEW Corsets

The first of the autumn corsets—some beautiful Parisienne models have just arrived.

A young woman will wear one of these new corsets in the Louis XIII. fitting room on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday from 11 until 12, and from 2.30 until 4, so that women may see exactly what the new silhouette is.

French Corset Salons, Third floor, Old Building.

The NEW Millinery

Georgette gives us the Turban Turco. Caroline Reboux gives us the Turban Bouillonne, and the distinguished buckled hat of the periode Napoleon. Jeanne Lanvin presents a petit callot a jugulataire. These originals, together with adaptations of French models, are having their first showing in the French Millinery Salons next week.

Second floor, Old Building.

The NEW Gowns & Suits

Wing skirts. A variety of sleeves; a Worth original shows them full above the elbow, and very narrow on the forearm; others flare widely at wrist.

A decided Russian note is struck in fur trimmings, embroidery, and coatee effects in tailored suits.

The NEW Blouses

Our Paris office sends us frequent shipments of the new French blouses which we speedily have copied, so that the Blouse Shop is full of the new and often exclusive models.

Third floor, Old Building.

The NEW Coats

Callot and Cheruit have designed tweed coats straight in the front and straight in the back, but at the sides, they have been faithful to the new silhouette—"the illusion of hips."

Second floor, Old Building.

Young Women's NEW Fashions

Adaptations of the always youthful models of Jeanne Lanvin and Jenny.

Second floor, Old Building.

The NEW Neckwear

High collars this season will take the form of a striking band of black around the throat.

Main floor, Old Building.

The NEW Gloves

Exclusive shipments in New York of Paris Reynier gloves, hand-sewn, in fine French kid and suede.

New gloves, too, of softest English doeskin. Main floor, Old Building.

The NEW Shoes

Plain black with cloth tops and long slender lines. The Shoe Shop has them. Main floor, Old Building.

The NEW Lingerie

Fine hand-made and hand-embroidered underclothes are in Little French Shops. They have come so recently from Paris that they stand for the latest ideas in lingerie needle-work.

WILSON WRITES ABOUT RITZ TELEPHONE SERVICE

A. B. Wilson, local manager for the New York Telephone Company, has written the following article for the Telephone Review about a local store's up-to-date business methods:

On the main street of Plainfield, N. J., a confectionery store, controlled by Ritz, Incorporated, acts as a caterer for the town, serves light lunches, and on Saturday evenings offers a cabaret performance.

A telephone has been installed for each table used in serving lunches and confections. The instruments are to be connected to a switchboard which in turn is connected to the Plainfield central office by trunks, the idea being that a patron can sit down at the table, and, after looking over the menu booklet, give his order by telephone, using the code designated on the menu. The message is relayed by the switchboard operator to the kitchen, where the order is prepared, and the waitresses immediately serve it. In this way, the switchboard operator, who acts also as cashier, keeps a check on the proper payment for orders served, the tables being numbered to correspond with the number of the extension telephone.

The menu booklet on each table suggests that patrons use the telephone on the table before them to call taxis and to communicate with their offices or residences. Thus an added convenience is offered the patrons of this progressive concern.

The use of the telephone in giving orders leaves the waitresses free to serve the orders as fast as the kitchen can arrange them.

This installation is exciting wide comment in New Jersey. Indeed, a similar concern recently communicated with the Ritz Company asking for details regarding the whole arrangement. Its further adoption is almost sure to follow, sooner or later, and then the visitor to Plainfield who never leaves town without a visit to the store may have to think twice before he repeats his recent remark that "he has traveled from Maine to California and has yet to find a confectioner and caterer who is as up to date in his method of dispensing his goods as the Ritz."

THE TELEPHONE GIRL.

In this world's busy marts,
With the rush and the whirl,
Let us throw up our hats
For the telephone girl.

—Henry Wm. Rose in The Telephone Review, New York.

CARRANZA REPORTED TO HAVE MORE SUPPORTERS

Houston, Texas, Aug. 14.—Claims that large bodies of revolutionary troops in Mexico have surrendered to Carranza on account of rumors of possible intervention by the United States, were made in a message received by Juan C. Burns, Carranza Concul at Galveston, from Mario Mendez, Carranza's director-general of telegraph lines.

The message said: "On account of the alarming news of prospective intervention which has been spread by the American press, many large bodies of revolutionary troops have surrendered unconditionally to First Chief Carranza. Among these are General Naera, with 5,000 men in Zacatecas, a thousand men in Acambero, the entire revolutionary force in Michoacan with machine guns and five trains, a large body of Zapatistas who had fled from Texcoco, and General Pedro Arrelano, with 500 men in Nuevo Leon."

WILSON TO SEE CAMPERS.

Plattsburg, N. Y., Aug. 14—President Wilson some time during the next three weeks will review the thousand amateur soldiers training at the military camp of instruction here. Major General Leonard Wood sent an invitation to the President asking him to visit the camp, and today has a reply that the nation's executive would do so. Invitations to visit the camp also were sent to former President Roosevelt, Secretary of War Garrison, General Hugh L. Scott, chief of staff; former Senator Elihu Root and other prominent men.

AT PLATTSBURG CAMP.

Dr. H. D. Corbusier, Charles H. Frost, Arthur Lovell and W. L. Righter, of Plainfield, are included among the business men seeking army instruction at the Plattsburg, N. Y., camp.

Buyers Are Found by Advertising—Because They Are Opportunity-Hunters!

If you have something to sell—real estate, personal property, of any sort—there's a buyer for it. You don't know who he is, or where he is. You'd be helpless in trying to locate him—but for the fact that he is trying to locate you!

For buyers are opportunity-seekers. And they have learned that the Plainfield Daily Press classified columns are 'the Happy Hunting Grounds' for opportunities. Thus, when your "ad" starts upon its quest it meets the man for whom it was written—also upon his quest. And that's how "results" follow classified advertising.

Keep posted on building news. See Saturday's Press.

A Galley o' Fun!

AUSPICIOUS.

Ted—Has the girl's mother intimated that she favors your suit?

Ned—Not exactly, but when we all go out in their motor-car she always lets us sit together in the back seat.

THE RURAL WAY.

Josh Juniper — That feller, Aaron Allred, has got less pride than any young farmer I ever seen!

Si Wank—How's that?

Josh Juniper—Why, when he goes to town he don't walk his team most all the way an' then whip up an' come whirlin' over the top of the hill an' down into the village, a-snortin' an' a-sawin'; but just comes pokin' along into town like he didn't care a durn whether anybody was lookin' at him or not.

CROWDS.

Crowds vary. When three teams are hitched in front of the Lanfronia postoffice on Wednesday afternoon everybody says: "My! What a big crowd's in town today!"

On the contrary, three hundred interscholastic football teams all yelling wouldn't make much difference at 6 o'clock p. m. on the Brooklyn bridge.

Seventeen people, including two dogs and three small boys, are a loyal, enthusiastic, cheering multitude if the political meeting they are attending is approved by the paper which writes it up.

On the other hand, a crowd of two thousand at an unorthodox political rally is merely "a handful of dispirited partisans."

When your candidate wins you are glad to learn that an orderly crowd cheered the returns.

But when the other fellow gets there you are pained to read that "a mad and drink-crazed mob patrolled the streets all night insulting pedestrians and breaking windows."

When is a crowd not a crowd? When you are standing up in a street car. Anybody with eyes can see that the people sitting down might scrooge up a bit and make room for you.

If, however, you are seated, it is plain that the crowd sitting down is about all the traffic can bear.

Let the Devil and the hindmost stand up together.

Keep away from crowds. A crowd has as much sense as a headless chicken. I make that comparison because I know a chicken so dealt with can't resent it.

Keep away from crowds. If you run with crowds you are liable to fall down and be stepped on.

If a crowd chases you, sprint for all you are worth. If they are after you with brick-bats it isn't so bad, but if they want to crown you with laurel you are lost. Perhaps the safest way is to holler "Stop thief!" for all you are worth.

Keep away from crowds. If there weren't crowds there wouldn't be pickpockets.

IN THE DARKEST SOUTH.

First Citizen—The Chinese ain't so far behind the times as we supposed.

Second Citizen—No, indeed! I reckon they could pull off a respectable lynchin' bee.

HIS APPEARANCE.

"And how does Mr. Publicman really look?"

"Well, he is a happy medium between his caricatures and his photographs."

ALL IS VANITY.

"Blase person, isn't he?"

"Blase? Why, he says that he's even tired of the automobile."

OFTEN THE CASE.

Askington—Fricklesmith is a very versatile chap, isn't he?

Teller—Oh, yes! He makes a different kind of fool of himself almost every day in the week.

Self-interest will induce hundreds of people to read and consider your "Business Opportunity" ad.

NO ADVANCE IN PRICE

Y. W. C. A. NOTES

The Saturday night supper will be served at the association from 5:30 until 7 o'clock, and is open to anyone. A large number of the business women of the city have been taking advantage of this opportunity to obtain at a nominal figure a nourishing supper, while many who do their shopping away from home stop at the building.

Home hour will be observed tomorrow afternoon from 3 o'clock on, and anyone is welcome to come to the service. Miss Helen Joy, temporary secretary of the association, in the absence of Miss Kathryn Aller, has arranged an interesting program.

If you have not advertised for a position, you are not competing with those who do advertise.

The lost article that is of enough consequence to worry about is of enough consequence to advertise.

PROGRESS AND PROSPERITY IN PLAINFIELD

HIGH WAR RATES GET SEVERE JOLT

Bottom Falls Out of the Decorative Metals Market During the Week.

CONDITIONS ARE BETTER

Prices Firmer In Most Materials—General Fall Revival of Building Promised—Situation In Hands of Manufacturers.

New York, Aug. 14—The bottom dropped out of the decorative building metals market this week, in so far as high war prices were concerned. Copper and sheet brass are not so stiff at high prices around thirty cents a pound. The actual price asked by jobbers being around 28 cents for the former and 29 for the latter. This drop, slight as it was, shows that there is no longer foundation for the fictitious prices made by speculators on account of war conditions. Plainly these interests have over-bought and in view of rumors of approaching peace abroad are not inclined to take chances in a slow market.

Structural steel and pigiron, on the other hand, shows that building constructions are getting better. At the new high price of 1.41c and 1.46c there was said to have been better buying movements this week than there was when the price was ten cents a pound lower. With more than $54,000,000 worth of held-over building construction to go ahead this fall, in which plans have already been figured and building permits granted, in addition to the new plan filings running close to 1,500 buildings a week with an aggregate value of approximately $17,000,000 a week not including subway and general road construction in New York and speculative building operations in the extreme outskirts of the metropolitan district, prospects are good for even another advance in steel prices before the end of the summer.

And as goes steel so goes other building materials. Common brick is not so much an exception to other market conditions as heretofore. Prices were reported to be a little firmer this week, mainly because of more consecutive brick-laying weather. Manufacturers up the river were inclined to wait and see what conditions are going to be rather than arbitrarily shut down with a scant supply of brick late this month and in the Raritan district there was no orders to be a decided change for the better. Prices which formerly were as low as $5 a thousand wholesale, New York, are today selling nearer $6.50 and good Raritan brick is said to be bringing a shilling more in Brooklyn and in Newark.

Portland cement continues to be extremely firm on future deliveries. There are at this day 375,000 less barrels of cement in the Lehigh district than there was at the same time last year which accounts for the stiffening tone of the wholesale market where quotations range from $1.53 to $1.58 a barrel, in 500 barrel lots, alongside of dock, New York, as against a quotation of $1.28 a barrel less than three months ago. There are only two companies that have any sort of a reserve supply at all, in the district supplying Eastern New Jersey and part of this city. The mill price today is 90 cents and, in some cases over that figure, and at least one company refuses to make quotations on fall deliveries at less than 95 cents nor 90-day deliveries at less than $1 a barrel. No actual order has been reported yet at a dollar a barrel, but the quotation shows how cement prices are trending for early winter use.

There is reported to be a great demand for composition material for use in quick construction work. This applies to roofing as well as siding and interior finish. Asbestos people say that there is a bigger demand for this material today than they have known in years, especially in industrial plant extension and alteration work. Tar paper is higher than it has been by several cents owing to the difficulty of getting raw materials from South America. All kinds of rope are higher, first because of the big demand for true manilla rope and secondly, because the Mexican situation has shut out practically all the sissal from which second grade rope is made. Glass discounts have been lowered, making prices higher.

Current indications point to a general revival of building this fall, but not boom conditions. Inquiries now in the hands of contractors are better in volume and competition is less keen, partly because jobbers and wholesale distributors are not inclined to carry over quotations. All figures are subject to immediate acceptance, which is a very safe basis of assumption that prices are going up whether builders take advantage of the present situation or not, and that the more building that comes out this fall the higher prices will go anyway. The situation is no longer in control of the prospective builder. It is firmly in the hands of the manufacturers who are pressed from other sources, for their goods or who see bigger profits in exports.

WHO OWNS THIS STRIP OF FRONT STREET LAND?

Many inquiries have been made of Christian Gloekler concerning a three-cornered strip of land between his new building at West Front and Somerset streets and that of the Drier estate to the west, for which there is no record of an owner. The strip is about three and one-half or four feet in width at the rear of the new Gloekler structure, and narrows to a point at the front. The survey for the Gloekler building revealed the existence of the narrow strip, but a careful search of the records failed to disclose the owner.

The strip is worthless to anyone except the owner of one of the two properties which adjoin it, and Mr. Gloekler has been asked why he did not build on it, to which his reply has been that some day the ownership of the ground may be established, in which event heavy damages might be demanded of him for encroachment.

WASTE LAND IN STATE TO BE RECLAIMED FOR USE

Following the organization of the new State Department of Conservation and Development recently, the aims of the body have been set forth. They are to grapple with the problem of reclaiming the 1,000,000 acres of unused and practically waste lands in this State; to guarantee the security of property through the elimination of forest fires; to develop the forestry reserves and other State lands as outing grounds for children and grown-ups in the congested sections of the cities; to improve agriculture through the dissemination of greater knowledge of soil conditions and to preserve the potable water as a State supply.

The million acres of waste land in the State referred to is the marsh land, the tracts covered with a stunted pine growth and the great sandy wastes along the seashore. If this is reclaimed it will mean that much more tillable soil will be available as well as more land for building purposes.

The department has organized on the basis of three divisions, and the work of conserving and developing the resources of the State will be worked out along the line of these divisions. They are: Division of Forests and Parks, in charge of State Forester Alfred Gaskill, of Trenton, who has been director of the new department; the Division of Geology, in charge of Dr. Henry B. Kummel, of Trenton, for several years State geologist, and the Division of Waters, to be organized in a year when the economy and efficiency act creating this department becomes effective as to the State Water Supply Commission. Next July the Water Supply Commission will pass out of existence, and its functions will all be taken over by the Department of Conservation and Development.

ACTIVITY AT EQUATOR PARK.

Contractor Raymond Whitford, of Dunellen, has been awarded the contract to erect two frame houses on Sanford avenue, in the Equator tract, for Samuel R. Schwartz. The houses will contain seven rooms and will cost in the neighborhood of $1,200 each. Work on them has already commenced. The two new houses in the same tract which Contractor Charles Wrage is erecting are about completed.

BUYS DUNELLEN HOME.

Francis Cottman, of Carlstadt, has purchased the Frank Broshart property on Front street near Madison avenue, Dunellen. Possession will be given August 20, when Mr. Cottman will move to that borough to make it his future home. Mr. Broshart is building a new residence on Lincoln avenue, Dunellen.

USE FOR NEW BUILDING.

The concrete and stuco building erected by Alvah Gray, president of the First National Bank of Dunellen, at the junction of Washington and North avenues, that borough, will be opened by Herbert Nelson as a taxicab waiting-room and office.

TO BUILD ADDITION.

Estimates for a concrete addition to its present plant on North avenue, Netherwood, are being obtained by the Vitaphone Company. Plans are out which call for an extension 23x100 feet in dimensions.

LOCAL PROPERTIES SOLD AT SHERIFF SALE

Through the foreclosure of a mortgage by the board of trustees of the Seventh-Day Baptist Memorial Fund of Plainfield, against Sadie Nathanson, the property on Monroe avenue, near West Eighth street, was bought in by the complainant for $2,000 at a sale held by Sheriff Otto at Elizabeth this week.

In a similar action brought by Alfred Spangenberg, of West Fifth street, against Morris Rabinowitz, the property on the southwest side of Halsey street, near West Third street, Plainfield, was sold to the complainant for $1,000.

COMMUNITY FARMS BUYS JOHN VAN NUIS FARM

The settlement on the Dunellen-Stelton road, known as the Community Farms, is soon to be enlarged by the addition of the forty-acre VanNuis farm. Joseph Cohen, representing the Community Farms, has entered into a contract with the heirs of the late John VanNuis to purchase the farm, which adjoins the Community Farms tract in Piscataway township.

The plan followed by the Community Farms is to sell one-acre plots to home-seekers upon which the purchasers build houses and seek to win a living from the soil. It is said that all the original plots have been sold. The purchase of the VanNuis farm will add forty additional plots to the tract.

ONLY TWO PERMITS ISSUED FOR BUILDINGS

This Week's Record Includes Work In Third and Fourth Wards.

The building department of Plainfield is beginning to experience dull times. Only three permits were issued this week, representing an estimated outlay of $5,150. Altogether this month but five permits have been issued. As one of the five was for a building estimated to cost $22,000, the aggregate amount of estimated cost for the month is $28,450. Building Inspector T. O. Doane has plans which he is examining and for which he will probably issue permits which will raise this sum considerably. Following are the permits by wards:

Third Ward.

Mrs. D. A. Williams and Mrs. Nellie W. Harris, of 119 Lafayette place, were granted a permit for the erection of a frame dwelling at 1035 West Sixth street, south of Monroe avenue. The house will be of frame construction, two stories high, 30x26 feet in dimensions, designed for one family. The estimated cost is $3,500. Mrs. Nellie Harris is given in the application as the architect while Frank Shirif will do the mason work and William Scriven the carpenter work.

Alterations to the residence of E. T. Barrows, at 739 West Eighth street, will proceed under a permit issued by Inspector Doane this week. The work will consist in the erection of a frame extension to the rear of the main residence for a flower house. It will be 10x10 feet in dimensions, one story high, and will cost $450. William H. Pangborn's Sons will do the mason work and Michael Rimmer the carpentering.

Fourth Ward.

Alterations to the store of Louis Kadesh, 19, 21 and 23 Somerset street, for which a permit was issued this week, will cost $1,200. The work will consist of a front extension, one story high. Architect William Clum drew the plans.

WAREHOUSE CONTRACTS FILED.

Actual excavating for the new building being erected on East Third street by the Plainfield Storage Warehouse Company was started this morning following the recent filing of the contracts with the county clerk at Elizabeth. B. F. Tallamy & Brother are the general contractors. George D. Wilson has the subcontract for the carpenter work. The papers as filed in Elizabeth give the contract price of the building as $32,623.

DALLEY PROPERTY SOLD.

To close the estate of the late George H. Dalley, of Plainfield, a sale of real estate was held in East Whitehouse, Wednesday. The house and lot formerly occupied by the Dalley family was sold to Mrs. E. V. Naylor for $1,400. Edwin Snover, of Somerville, bought a tract of sixteen acres of land near the town, on which there were no buildings, for $2,100.

U. S. ASTOR THEATRE

Mary Miles Minter, star of "The Littlest Rebel," will be the chief attraction at the U. S. Astor Theatre today in "Always in the Way," a melodramatic photoplay based on the song of that title years ago by Charles K. Harris. Miss Minter is the youngest star of the films, and is seen at the pinnacle of her dramatic form in this splendid subject.

One of the biggest photodramatic productions of the season, "The Chalice of Courage," produced by the Vitagraph Company, will be presented at the Astor Monday and Tuesday. This superb feature was given its first public presentation at the Vitagraph Theatre, New York, a week ago.

The new play was photographed at Bear Lake, in the Rocky Mountains, partly in the dead of winter, and the effects are said to be strikingly beautiful. There are many opportunities for fine acting, for delightful out-of-doors scenes, and for snow panoramas. William Duncan, Myrtle Gonzales and George Holt play the principal parts with convincing power.

RAISING SUBMARINE IN HONOLULU HARBOR

Special Pontoons Completed to Bring Sunker F-4 to Surface.

San Francisco, Aug. 14.—The mystery of the sinking of the submarine F-4, off Honolulu Harbor, which has long baffled the naval authorities because of their inability to raise the vessel from the bottom of the sea, is expected to be solved within the next few weeks. Four pontoons have been completed here for a new effort to raise the submarine, and the naval engineers have no doubt that the vessel, with its ill-fated crew, will at last be brought to the surface. The cruiser Maryland is taking the huge pontoons to the harbor of Honolulu, where the F-4 lies under the waves.

Whether the sinking of the vessel was due to explosion, defect of machinery, defect in the material of its construction or to some other cause unforeseen will be known when the F-4 is brought to the surface. The work of raising the vessel has progressed to such an extent that the F-4 has been brought from a 200-foot depth to a shelving about forty feet under the surface.

The submarine disappeared at the entrance of Honolulu Harbor, on Thursday afternoon, March 25. When definitely located, some weeks later, it lay on the ocean bed, 300 feet below the surface. The work of raising the vessel has been carefully conducted, and the submarine is intact, so that the cause of the tragedy of the under-water craft will probably be ascertained.

The pontoons, especially built to complete the raising of the F-4, are made of metal. One or more of them will be placed each side of the sunken vessel, and chains will be passed underneath the F-4 and attached to the pontoons, forming a sling. Air pressure will be applied, the water will be blown out of the pontoons, and they will rise to the surface, bringing the submarine with them.

A PLEA FOR BONNIE BURN.

The subject upon which I am going to write has not been suggested to me by any individual, but is the result of personal observation as to the need itself. For some two years or more I have had the pleasure and privilege in company with brother clergymen of adjoining Episcopal churches to hold religious services for the inmates of Bonnie Burn Sanitarium. These services I am sure have been appreciated and I trust helpful to those who have attended them. In addition to these efforts to help the splendid work being done at the sanitarium, kind and generous ladies and gentlemen of our community have given Christmas entertainments, provided flowers at Easter, held moving picture shows, and in other ways have endeavored to bring good cheer and a better spirit to those who so sorely need it.

While all this is commendable, yet it seems to me that it falls far short of what could be done at Bonnie Burn in this direction if adequate facilities were provided for doing it.

To my mind what is needed is a separate building which might be called an auditorium or recreation building and which could combine religious, social and recreational activities under one roof. In this building meetings in the interest of Bonnie Burn could be held, lectures, plays and moving picture shows given, dances, concerts and other social gatherings provided for and the present religious service more adequately given.

At present if any of these things are attempted they must be held in part of the dining room, which is entirely too small for the purpose, not appropriate, and necessitates moving and removing chairs, tables, etc., before and after whatever is held. May I therefore suggest to the Board of Freeholders especially, and to the people of our community; both of whom are interested in doing the best they can to help this important work to think this matter over and given it their earnest support if in their judgment they deem it desirable.

In conclusion let me say in connection with the subject that tuberculosis is unlike many other diseases in its effects upon the abilities and temperments of those afflicted. The patients in the earlier stages of it are not deprived of the use of their bodily faculties and therefore can enter into the recreation which such a place as I have mentioned would provide. Moreover in their case it seems to me that depression is one of the things which it is most important to guard against and a recreational centre would go far towards raising and sustaining the spirits of those who are unfortunate enough to be afflicted with this dreadful disease.

We have done nobly in providing the splendid institution that we have beautifully located, and with efficient medical services and all other needful things to cope with the physical ills of tuberculosis.

The body being provided for, is it not opportune to ask that we go on and complete this by erecting a building which shall minister to the needs of the soul and spirit so necessary to every person and especially to our afflicted brethren?

KURTZNERS GIVE THEIR SIDE OF MOTORCYCLE CASE

Editor Plainfield Daily Press:

An article in your issue of the 11th inst. affords great prominence to a complaint against us for the larceny of a motorcycle at New Market, on July 12 last.

The article states that we were seen in Lincoln on that evening, one of us driving an automobile, the other riding a motorcycle. The fact are: Neither of us was in the vicinit of New Market or Lincoln, and neither of us drove an automobile or motorcycle in the vicinity of either place upon said date. In fact, neither of us owns or rides a motorcycle. As to our automobile, which is a delivery auto, it was stored in the F. L. C. Martin Auto garage, this city, on July 12 last, where it had been since the middle of June.

We are at a loss to understand why we should be implicated in this matter since all the circumstances surrounding the taking of said motorcycle point to our absolute innocence.

We trust you will give this denial the same prominence you gave the false accusation against us.

Editor, Plainfield Daily Press:

Reading some time ago in your valuable paper that steps had been taken by the Common Council toward securing a site for a new school in the East End, I would like to know what is considered the most important point in slecting such a site.

Are not the needs of the children the most important thing to be considered?

The only time a poor man can afford to send his children to school is when they are too small to be breadwinners. Therefore, in order to accommodate the largest number of small ones new schools should be built in or near the congested districts, to save parents the expense of trolley fare. Of course, this does not affect the rich, but our free schools were established for the benefit of all the people, poor as well as rich.

HEALTH TALKS

by WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

Rubbing It In

JUDGING by the number of letters received from persons with dandruff and falling hair, these afflictions must be vulgarly common. Here are some afterthoughts which may be of value.

How often should one shampoo? As often as one likes. Washing the scalp never hurts the hair, provided all the soap is thoroughly rinsed off when you finish.

What kind of soap is best? Whatever kind you like. Except the so-called "medicated soaps." Soap is soap, and medicine is medicine, and you can't mix them with any considerable degree of success. There is a whole world of froth published about the alkali in soap. Soap which isn't alkaline isn't worth a tinker's time. If you want to clean your head you need soap; if you want to oil your hair you need oil.

What is a good hair tonic? There is no such thing, much as we wish there were. If the hair is coming out, or turning gray, or in any way wrong the scalp requires treatment suited to its and your conditions. Washing the hair with eau de this and that is a pleasant pastime only.

Brushing. The more the scalp is brushed the better for the hair. Use a fairly stiff bristle, but avoid scratching the scalp. We like the brush which has bristles set in a pneumatic rubber pad, because it reaches the roots and undergrowth and still you can't hurt your scalp, no matter how enthusiastically you brush it.

Don't wet the hair, except to wash the scalp.

Don't use a comb more than absolutely necessary.

Don't let the barber singe the hair, except when you are in a hurry to lose what you have left.

Don't cut a girl's hair on any silly theory that it will save her strength or improve the growth of her hair. Does it help in those respects to pare the finger-nails? Hair and nails are analogous modifications of skin.

Don't hesitate to dye your hair if there is some sensible reason why you would like to do so, but beware of the poisonous hair dyes.

Brush the scalp briskly at least five minutes night and morning. Massage it several times a day, with the flat hands, going over the whole scalp and pushing up rolls of tickled scalp between your fingers.

Whatever solutions or creams or ointments you may apply to the scalp for dandruff, or oily hair, or very dry, brittle hair, must be rubbed in. Part the hair, dip the finger-tips in the substance, and rub it in thoroughly, without smearing the hair with it. Then part somewhere else and repeat, covering, say, one-fourth of the surface area of your dome at a sitting. It is the rubbing in that counts more than the medicinal virtue of the substance itself.

DOMESTIC SCIENCE

DOMESTIC Science is the art of preserving husbands.

It is a comparatively new invention. Up to a few years ago, young brides treated their husbands with heartless cruelty. For many years humane societies protested against vivisection while allowing sweet young wives to make granite biscuits and feed them to husbands in order to find out whether or not they were edible.

Many an innocent husband has come to a sad end by eating insoluble pancakes and Harveyized cake fed to him with loving words by a wife who had too much faith in a cook book or a fluffy memory.

In domestic science the young woman does not use a husband for experimenting purposes. She goes to a college and learns to make cake out of a chemistry text book in a bomb proof laboratory. When the cake is finished it is examined by fearless experts with great care. Sometimes a domestic science student will waste two barrels of flour before she can produce an innocuous cake, but nobody cares. Owing to the scarcity and general skittishness of men nowadays it is considered better to waste flour than to get too prodigal with husbands.

When the domestic science student has spent a year of hard work with scales, test tubes, microscopes and other engineering instruments she is given a pile of raw material and is allowed to erect a meal. If the meal looks edible when finished it is fed to the board of trustees. If there are no vacancies to be filled on the board next day she is given a degree. There are three degrees in domestic science based on the result of the graduating meal. These are D.D. (Didn't Die), A.M. (Asked for

If the meal looks edible when finished it is fed to the board of trustees

More), and M.D. (Made a Date). The last is considered the greatest achievement.

Since domestic science has become popular much of the terror has gone out of early matrimony and our young men are beginning once more to rush more fearlessly into marriage. There is no more effective way of making a fixture out of a husband than to feed him highly nutritious food which can be eaten with an entire absence of effort.

Views Of The Press

Webster On Europe

GREAT men often say things that the future finds more apt than its own current speeches. The most famous funeral oration in the world is working very hard these days, and even in translation Pericles holds the field against all comers. We were rather struck the other day with those words of Daniel Webster:

"Unhappy Europe! the judgment of God rests hard upon it. Thy sufferings would deserve an angel's pity if an angel's tears could wipe away thy crimes! The Eastern Continent seems trembling on the brink of some great catastrophe. Convulsions shake and terrors alarm it. Ancient systems are falling; works reared by ages are crumbling into atoms. Let us humbly implore Heaven that the wide-spreading desolation may never reach the shores of our native land, but let us devoutly make up our minds to do our duty in events that may happen to us. Let us cherish genuine patriotism. In that there is a sort of inspiration that gives strength and energy almost more than human."

Webster spoke of the Europe of 1802. His words are eloquent, but perhaps they are only grandiose, where those of Pericles are grand.—Harper's Weekly.

What Time Did You Say?

Q. When a man rents apartments in a flat building, isn't he entitled to have the hallways lighted? I am occupying rooms on the third floor and return home every night about nine o'clock. It often happens that there is no light on the second floor and frequently none on the third. Couldn't I compel the landlord to light the halls?

A. Questions of this character are determined by the terms of your contract, by the statutes of your state and by usage and custom. It is of course the landlord's duty to make the premises habitable and accessible. If the terms of your written or verbal agreement with the landlord provide for lights in the hallways, or if the statutes or general custom and usage impose such duty upon him, he will be bound to comply. In general, it may be said that if a light in the hall is necessary in order to make the passageway reasonably safe, the landlord will be required to provide it.

Why Not Keep Out Of The Way?

Q. Jitney buses are operated in my town, but are not licensed. If some one should be injured by one of these buses, could he get damages?

A. The recovery of damages is not dependent upon the licensing of these cars. If the injury is caused by the negligence of the auto driver, and not by a want of ordinary care on the part of the person injured, there will be a liability.

A Physician's License

Q. Does a state board of health have the right to revoke the license of a physician in an arbitrary manner or without any excuse?

A. The statutes of the various states on this subject usually provide that a medical practitioner's license may be revoked for unprofessional or dishonorable conduct, or upon conviction of a felony or if the license has been obtained by fraud or misrepresentation. The state health authorities cannot exercise their right in an arbitrary or unreasonable manner and it may be said, generally, that a physician's license may not be taken away unless good cause is shown, nor may it be revoked without notice.

"Safety First!"

Q. What care is a railroad company required to use in carrying passengers?

A. It is held that a railroad company or other common carrier must "exercise the highest degree of care for the safety of its passengers reasonably to be expected from human foresight and vigilance."

Might Have Been Homesick

Q. I am the owner of a livery-stable and recently let a man have a horse and buggy for the afternoon. The horse was in good condition when it started out, but became sick on the journey and subsequently died. I am convinced that the man drove the horse too hard. Do you think I would be justified in suing this man?

A. When the horse became sick, it was the man's duty, upon finding that such was the condition of the animal, to stop using it. If he persisted in doing so and the horse died in consequence, the man may be compelled to respond in damages.

Q. If a check is indorsed, "Payable to John Jones or order," is it necessary for John Jones to add his indorsement before he can receive the money?

A. Yes.

Selecting a Guardian

Q. (1) At what age does a child have the right to select his own guardian? (2) After the child has made his choice, will the former guardian be permitted to act further?

A. (1) Statutes have been passed in almost all the states giving a child the right to appoint his own guardian, where a guardian is required, upon attaining the age of fourteen years. This right does not extend to the case of a minor who has a natural guardian—that is, a parent—or to the case of a guardianship provided for by will or by an order of a court of chancery. (2) The former guardian, in some states, is superseded after the child has made his selection; in other states the child has the right to have the former guardian displaced; in still others the former guardian continues to discharge his duties until the ward becomes of full legal age.

Willing Real Estate

Q. I wish to inquire whether a technical description of real estate is necessary in a will, where one wants to dispose of such property in this way.

A. Real estate does not need to be described with the same precision and technical accuracy required in the case of a deed. If the property mentioned in the will is described in such manner that it may be identified, the description will be sufficient.

Certifying A Check

Q. Please inform me whether the law requires any particular method of certifying a bank check.

A. The law in some states requires the certification to be in writing, while in other states a verbal certification will be sufficient. The practice usually followed is for an officer of the bank to write or stamp the word, "Certified," or the word, "Good," upon the check, and then affix his signature or his initials.

The Miff Tree

Not everyone has heard of this Tree—but there are few that have not climbed it. The Miff Tree is common to every Country and every Clime. Its name became general as soon as it was noticed that every time a person had a Grouch or manifested an accumulation of Pique, or became Pucker-mouthed, they immediately took to The Miff Tree.

The Miff Tree is always in plain view of everyone—so don't climb it.

Of course, to become Miffed is a common fault of us all, and always will be, so long as we stay human. But it is "bad form," as well as very foolish, to be always climbing The Miff Tree and exposing a Miffed condition to every one that passes or happens to be around when we climb The Miff Tree. If you must climb The Miff Tree, make your stay as brief as you possibly can.

The redeeming feature about The Miff Tree is that it is easy to get down from. A genuine Smile usually does the trick.

When The Miff Tree appears inviting to you, first think how foolish it will be to let its influence take possession of you, then consider how useless The Miff Tree will be to you, then tell it to wait for about five minutes—then, well then, it will probably be gone! There are many people who are in the business of trying to give to others special brands of Miff Trees that they grow. But have nothing to do with Miff Tree dealers. YOU get acquainted with the Rose-growers.

Then distribute the Roses that you grow—broadcast.

Snap Shots

By Jay E. House

Sunday comes too often, but in other respects this is a pretty fair world.

Do not attempt impossibilities. Do not, as an instance, promise to make a woman happy.

Life is chiefly made up of foolish questions and unsatisfactory answers.

Any joke is funny if the man for whom you are working tells it.

While the woman plan most of the parades, the men do practically all of the marching.

If a man is afraid to say it himself he nearly always asks a newspaper to do it for him.

If a man is sure a thing won't cost him any money he generally is for it.

There are all kinds of chumps, including the one who has a ship tattooed on his arm.

A champion lasts only five or six years, but a bore often outlives his generation.

The practice of combing the long hair over the bald spot never fooled anybody.

Daddy's Bedtime Story — The Elephant That Everyone Has Heard About.

They looked so tiny away up there.

"OF all the elephants that ever lived, which one was the best known?" asked daddy.

"Jumbo!" shouted the kiddies. "Tell us about him, daddy."

"Jumbo was a great, big, tall elephant that was captured by men in Africa," said daddy.

"He was taken to the zoo in London and was a captive there for years, and he grew to be the most popular animal in the world. You see, he was so big and kind. The keeper used to put a howdah, which is the Hindu name for a big saddle with seats in it, on his back, and this howdah would be filled with children, and Jumbo's keeper would lead him around, and the children would have the nicest kind of a ride. All the children in those days knew Jumbo, and that was nearly forty years ago.

"Well, after some years a great American circus man whom all the children of those days also knew sailed across to England and bought Jumbo for a big sum of money to exhibit him in America, and they took Jumbo across to New York in a big ship, and England was so sorry to see him leave that many of the little English children cried right out loud. They all loved Jumbo.

"This great American showman was Phineas T. Barnum, and he took Jumbo around in his menagerie, and America learned to know and love Jumbo as much as England had done. And the American children loved him most of all. Any number of them rode on his back in the howdah, as their little British cousins had done, and they looked so tiny away up there in the air, for you see, kiddies, Jumbo was over twelve feet tall.

"But though he was so much bigger than everything else and though he was so strong as such a giant should have been he didn't feel stuck up at all. He just stood meekly in his special spot in the menagerie and put out his long trunk for peanuts and loaves of bread and anything else you wanted to give him, and he enjoyed life and was happy for a long time, and he didn't seem to miss England any more than he had missed Africa, for he was a sociable fellow and made many friends."

"What became of him, daddy?" asked Jack eagerly.

"The poor old fellow was killed in a railroad wreck up in Canada," replied daddy regretfully, "while the circus was passing from one town to another on its special train, and many of the children cried when they heard of it, for you see they had grown to love the big elephant very much.

"But their mammas bought them jumbo crackers at the grocery, which crackers were made to resemble Jumbo, and consoled them, I hope."

Glimpses of Married Life

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

"Roger, Olive has an exciting ghost story to relate if she is sufficiently urged," began Jo when the strain of serving had been removed from the host.

"She has?" Parsons paused with his fork half way to his mouth. "I just told her one."

"Well, it's my turn now," said Olive gaily. "In fact, I've seen two ghosts, a black one and a white one; which color do you prefer?"

"Let us have them in stripes, first black, then white; it gives variety."

"You know, don't you, that Mrs. Ellson is very attentive to me?"

"Mrs. Ellson!" ejaculated Parsons, suspending operations to stare.

"Yes, I prefer to name my ghosts; it adds local color."

"I get you; go on." Parsons helped himself to more meat.

"She so hangs on my conversation that she hides behind the shrubbery to gather scraps of it."

"Do you know that?" asked Parsons.

"I heard her, found a footprint in a powder I sifted over the grass to track her with, and saw her creep through the pasture and cross the road up there at the corner. Wrapped in my draperies I followed her, but I lost her at Jacob's corner, having to stop to quiet a dog who was minded to eat me."

"Is this straight goods?" Parsons looked suspiciously at her, "or are you trying to get a rise out of me?"

"Cross my heart and hope to die," repeated Olive gravely.

"How do you know it is Mrs. Ellson?" he objected.

"Having a mathematical mind, I put two and two together."

"Who else would be so desperately anxious to keep her from marrying the doctor?" said Jo, bursting into the conversation.

"Easy now, Jo; I've lost the scent," said her husband, raising a hand to silence her. "So she filed objections to your marriage?" he turned to Olive with his question.

"After such good exercise as I mentioned I went straight to sleep when I got to bed the second time," continued Olive. "Something waked me suddenly. A white figure was standing in the moonlight and a hollow voice warned me I should not live to marry the doctor."

"Did you tell the doctor?"

Olive shook her head and continued: "I sprang out of bed to unmask my midnight visitor, and after we had given each other some scratches and torn clothing she fled. I followed, but could find no trace of her. I waked the Mortons and Dick went out and searched in every direction, but the ghost refused to appear to him."

"Our ghost stories fit together so well we ought to go around and tell them together," remarked Parsons after a silence. Then he told Jo of old Gorsley's apparition. "When we get right down to brass tacks I'm afraid the woman has done herself mischief. The doctor must know of this."

"I don't see why; she's no great loss to the community," said his wife.

"She can't be allowed to wander around alone in all weathers; it isn't decent." Parsons passed his cup for more coffee.

"I did not say anything to the doctor because it's all so distressing to him and he has had his dish so full of her. Is there no other way to proceed?"

"I'm afraid not. He must decide what it is best to do under the circumstances.

"Where do you suppose she is staying?" he asked, turning to his wife.

For reply she shook her head.

"There's his machine now," said Parsons, rising from the table. "I'll call him over and see if he has heard old Gosley's tale. Excuse me," and he left the table.

Household Hints

RECIPES

Creamed Minced Ham—One small can minced ham, one-half to one cup milk, one-half to one teaspoon flour. Heat the milk in skillet, add enough milk thickening to make a thin sauce, stir in the minced ham and serve on toast. Potted meat can also be used for this, and the quantity of milk to be used depends on the number of persons to be served.

Cheese Fondue—One and one-half cups bread crumbs, one and one-half cups milk, one and one-half cups cheese cut in small pieces, one egg, two tablespoons butter. Soak the bread in the milk, melt the butter and add the cheese. When cheese has melted add the soaked bread crumbs, the egg slightly beaten and seasoning. Cook a short time and serve on toasted crackers.

Tuna Fish Salad—One can tuna fish, celery and nuts cut up, cover with mayonnaise and serve on lettuce leaf. Delicious and tastes like chicken salad.

Mayonnaise—A cheap and reliable recipe: One level tablespoon flour, two tablespoons sugar. Moisten with water to make thin paste, add one egg, beat till creamy, add one-half cup vinegar and one-half cup water mixed, one level tablespoon butter, one teaspoon salt, and mustard if desired. Mix with cream, or milk, when used.

Steamed Cherry Pudding—Two tablespoons sugar, one tablespoon melted butter, one-half cup milk, one cup fruit; preserved cherries are fine; two cups flour, three teaspoons baking powder. Steam about forty or forty-five minutes in cups; makes six cups.

Sauce—One small cup sugar, one egg, two tablespoons water, one tablespoon flour, one tablespoon butter. Pour into one-half pint boiling water and flavor to taste.

Bran Muffins—Two cups Health bran, two cups flour, one and one-half teaspoons salt, two cups sour milk, one-half cup sugar, one tablespoon lard, one egg, one and one-half teaspoon baking powder, one-half cup water. Beat sugar, lard and egg until creamy. To the sour milk add the soda, dissolved in the boiling water, then the bran flour, salt and the egg and sugar mixture. Mix thoroughly and drop in buttered gem pans in a hot oven twenty minutes. This is enough for twice. (They are good reheated, and it saves time to have them ready for the next day.)

Cold Molded Cereal—Cooked the day before with part water and part milk. Put into cups and kept in a cool place. Served with berries, cream and sugar.

Salmon Loaf—One can salmon, three-quarters cup bread crumbs, one-third cup milk, three eggs, one tablespoon chopped parsley, one tablespoon lemon juice, salt and pepper, one tablespoon melted butter. Add chopped parsley and lemon juice to crumbs, then moisten with melted butter. Put in beaten eggs, milk and salmon (free from bones and skin). Pack in a mold, sprinkle bread crumbs over the top and bake thirty minutes. Serve hot. Especially good for warm weather.

THE TABLE.

Cucumber Salad—Six cold boiled potatoes, two onions; slice potatoes and onions; slice potatoes and onions, sprinkle salt and pepper over them, let stand a few hours, then add six medium-sized cucumbers, sliced, and mix all together with salad dressing.

Stuffed Tomato Salad—Peel as many tomatoes as guests. Cut smooth slices from stem ends, remove seeds and inside pulp, leaving the outside whole for a cup. Sprinkle cups lightly with salt, turn upside down, let stand twenty minutes. Fill with equal quantity of finely cut boiled veal and celery, mixed with mayonnaise dressing. Serve on lettuce leaves.

Green Beans—Clean and break beans, put into water. Put rounding tablespoonful of fryings into a spider or iron kettle; have it hot, put beans into it, with water to cover; salt to taste; cover and stir occasionally. When the water is boiled out, add a little at a time and keep covered until done.

ANTI-SUFFRAGE

Conducted by New Jersey Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage.

Infant mortality in Boston is the lowest of any large city in America, and strange as it may seem to suffragists, this proud distinction has been achieved without Votes for Women.

At the 16th convention of the Anti-Saloon League of America, recently held in Atlantic City, S. W. Small, of Georgia, stated that fourteen States south of the Mason and Dixon line have fewer saloon licenses than Chicago alone: and yet these fourteen States have only male suffrage, while Chicago has woman's suffrage!

A writer to the New York Times of July 10 deplores the lavish expenditure by the suffragists of their husbands', fathers' and fathers'-in-law money for the suffrage cause when the world's need is so great. In this connection it is worth remembering that at the beginning of the war, the President of the National Anti Suffrage Association urged that a truce be arranged between the suffragists and the anti-suffragists in order that the women of both factions might devote their time and money to alleviating the poverty and suffering of the world. The suffragists refused even to consider the suggestion. It is, indeed, little short of a crime that so much money and energy should be thrown away at a time like this, but perhaps it is too much to expect anything better from a movement, many of whose leaders, as Dr. Dana has pointed out, have the mentality of eleven-year-old children.

Suffragists have a new method for making converts. Mrs. Frederick Nathan, president of the Consumers' League, of New York, left New York for a tour through New Jersey, with a quantity of suffrage leaflets wrapped around coins. These were to be thrown out to the populace as her car rolled on its way.

Mrs. Julius Andrews, chairman of the legislative committee of the Massachusetts Federation of Clubs, spoke feelingly at the recent meeting at Marion of the disadvantage inherent in representing 65,000 voteless women. "If I represented 65,000 voting women, oh, who a difference," said Mrs. Andrews, and the convention applauded warmly; but if women had the vote in Massachusetts Mrs. Andrews would not be representing 65,000 women. These women would be divided int Republicans, Democrats, Progressives and Socialists, and Mrs. Andrews could not possibly he represeting more than one of these parties. It is because the the woman's clubs have been outside politics that they could combine and wield such a power for good legislation as they have done.

A despatch from Topeka, Kan., to the Newark Star states that since Kansas women got the vote, the clubs have not been lined up solidly for anything. Instead of throwing their influence now as a unit, for good legislation, the women are divided into political parties, and the friction among them is greater than ever before.

The suffragists seem practically to have given up all argument as to the justice or expediency of their cause, and to be devoting themselves to "bluffing" the public into believing that suffrage is bound to come. They give impressive lists of newspapers, labor organizations, etc., which have endorsed women suffrage. In this connection it is worth remembering that in Michigan practically all the papers of the State and many organizations endorsed woman suffrage, but on election day suffrage was defeated by 96,000.

Knowing the tendency of people to wish to be on the bandwagon, it is good tactics to try to make them think that the bandwagon is going toward suffrage; but in Missouri, Ohio, North and South Dakota and Nebraska the bandwagon turned out to be a hearse, and certain Massachusetts suffragists are beginning to realize that conditions are similar in Massachusetts. The chairman of the suffrage association in one of the Massachusetts cities, long considered a hot-bed of suffrage, is reported to have resigned recently because she did not wish to be associated with a losing cause. After suffrage was defeated in Missouri by 140,000, one of the leaders admitted that she had known all the time that they could not win, and that her confident talk was only bluff. This is worth bearing in mind when the Eastern suffragists assert so confidently that suffrage is bound to come.

(eiffienrikof?ca fl -ff-f,ffh

Even that ardent friend of suffrage, the Boston American, can, it seems, be shocked by the actions of the suffragists. On July 27, under the heading "A Degradation and a Disgrace to Woman Suffrage," the American says:

"A thing happened in New York the other night that ought not to happen again.

"A number of men, for the making of money, organized a brutal prize fight. And women—ordinarily respectable, we presume, in their methods and in their actions—appeared at this prize fight, and between the fighting talked about woman suffrage.

"Women ought not to go into the sewers to talk suffrage, or go into disorderly resorts—least of all appear in a prize fight gathering.

"We take a charitable view of the women who went to that particular prize fight, and assume that they were ignorant and ill-advised, rather than vulgarly seeking to advertise themselves and gratify a morbid interest. We do not assume that they belong to the limited class of women unfit to vote or share in any important undertaking.

We call the attention of intelligent and well-informed women in the suffrage movement to this particular piece of folly and bad taste. * * * Nothing would give more powerful backing to the argument of those who say that woman suffrage would be a step in the direction of woman's immorality.

"Those people responsible for this particular folly should be eliminated from the councils of the woman suffrage party."

YEAR OF WAR HAS SAVED $400,000,000 U. S. FARM INDUSTRY

For one American industry the European war has proved literally a life saver. This is the business of growing and making sugar, both from cane and beets. While sugar does not rank in size as an agricultural crop with corn or wheat yet the amount raised from American soil has reached large proportions, ranging from 3,000,000,000 to 5,000,000,000 pounds a year.

One peculiar thing about sugar is that it is grown in more different parts of American territory than any other crop. Cane sugar is the principal product of Louisiana, Hawaii, Porto Rico and the Philippine Islands while sugar beets are grown in sixteen states, from Ohio in the east to California in the west.

A year ago the industry of sugar production was on the decline. Following the action of Congress in reducing the duty on foreign-grown sugar and providing for its free admission after May 1, 1916, forty Louisiana mills and plantations had passed into the Sheriff's hands or had been disposed of at forced sale. A dozen beet sugar factories had closed their doors and it was expected that 1915 would be the last year during which sugar would be grown to any extent from American soil as growers declared that they could not meet the competition of sugar produced under the cheap labor conditions prevailing in tropical countries.

Then came the war, locking up the export sugar supplies of Central Europe and causing Great Britain, France and other European countries to turn to the American market for the purchase of sugar. Prices advanced rapidly and the American sugar grower, instead of facing destruction was once more able to produce his crop at a profit. Sugar experts assert that prices will remain at a renumerative level as long as the war continues. Thus the European conflict has been responsible for saving, temporarily at least, an industry representing an investment of over $400,000,000, and the crop of American grown sugar to be harvested during the present year probably will be of record-breaking proportions.

TOM ANDERSON, GOLF CHAMP, IS KILLED

Well Known Montclair Professional Crushed Beneath High-Power Motor Car.

Orange, Aug. 14.—Thomas Anderson, 30 years old, professional golfer at the Montclair Golf Club and open champion of Pennsylvania, was killed yesterday when the high-powered car which he bought two weeks ago struck a rut in Prospect avenue on First Mountain, near here, and pitched over the side of the road into a gulley ten feet deep.

The machine turned over and landed on top of Anderson, killing him instantly. Thomas Ward, steward of the Montclair Golf Club, and William H. Mitchell, a negro automobile demonstrator of Newark, were thrown out of the car, Ward escaping with lacerations and Mitchell suffering a broken leg.

Anderson had held the open championship of Pennsylvania for two years in succession. He had been professional golfer with clubs at Glen Ridge, and Pittsfield, Mass., and with the Inwood Club of Long Island and the Outmont Club of Pittsburgh. He was a brother of the late William Anderson, Jr., who was four times open champion of the United States, and a son of the late William Anderson, Sr., who was professional golfer at the Montclair Golf Club. He leaves a mother and three sisters in Scotland and one sister in this country.

Anderson was well known to many Plainfield golfers who have played at Montclair. He opposed Marty O'Loughlin, of the local club, in a number of important matches.

Stuart Blackton, which won the cup last year on Lake George, is again entered, and she has some fast competitors.

McLOUGHLIN BEATEN; BEHRS TURNS TRICK

Big Surprise Occasioned By Defeat of Conceded Victor In Big Match.

Seabright, Aug. 14.—Maurice E. McLoughlin, of California, rated as the world's best tennis player, has been defeated. Karl H. Behr, of New York, overcame him yesterday in straight sets, 8—6, 7—5, 7—5.

McLoughlin wasn't literally worn out through playing series after series. He has been showing good form in the Acehils challenge cup tournament at the Seabright Lawn Tennis and Cricket Club courts here. And it was only Thursday that McLoughlin and Ward Dawson, another Westerner, won the Seabright Club's cups for doubles.

Every point of every game of every set was fought for furiously, and every set went to deuce.

ROD AND REEL

The gunners are getting their equipment ready for the opening of the shore bird season, September 1. Of the shore birds, only black-breasted plover, golden plover, jack snipe or Wilson snipe and yellow legs may be taken, and the season runs from September 1 to December 15. All small shore birds not designated by name under the open season, including the little brown, sandhill and whooping cranes, swans, curlews, upland plover and wood ducks, are protected by a closed season until September 1, 1918. Rails, coots, gallinules and mudhens may be shot between September 1 and November 30. Reports from the South Jersey section indicate that there are plenty of birds on the meadows and marshes, and it is expected there will be a record crowd out on the opening day.

The weakfishing is improving right along. Down in Barnegat Bay some good catches have been made this week by boats out from Forked River and Waretown. The Raritan Bay fishing is also improving.

Among the many anglers who successfully fished the Raritan Bay yesterday was Abram Blum, Mayor of Nutley.

Hartie Phillips sends word that Charles White, a Long Branch coast guard, recently caught a forty-one-pound striped bass, which is the second largest striper landed on the Jersey coast this season. The top fish was taken by Jacob Wertheim, from his private pier at Elberon, and weighed more than forty-five pounds.

Large fluke are being caught in the grounds around the Ambrose Lightship these days. Nine-pounders have been landed daily.

The Hope excursionists will have a chance to get a glimpse of Frank Kramer to day. For the past few days the noted bike rider has been angling to his heart's content off the Asbury Park fishing pier.

The best spots outside for the sea porgies are the Black Warrior and Iberia Wrecks, the mussel beds of Coney Island, Buoy No. 4 off Long Beach and the Rockaway Shoals.

There wasn't much doing at the fishing banks yesterday for anglers, as fish were scarce. The wise chaps caught from a half dozen to ten seabass and fluke, and all because they know when to reel in their lines when the Taurus is about to move. When the captain decides to move the boat he blows one whistle, and quick as a flash the regulars reel in, while those who hesitate let their lines out and a great tangle results; then, when the anchor is dropped, the regulars have their hooks ready, while the others are busy trying to untangle all kinds of knots.

Because it has had some use, and is, therefore, "second-hand," may not greatly impair its usefulness to you. So watch the "For Sale" ads.

MRS. STOCKTON STAR OF BIG GOLF MEET

W. M. G. A. Tourney at Sea Girt Drew Many Women Golfers.

A field of forty women competed at Spring Lake yesterday, in a tournament held under the auspices of the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association. Many prominent women of the links took part and the tossing of a coin was necessary to determine the winner of the gross score prize in the eighteen-hole medal play. Mrs. Frederick A. Potts, of the Lakewood Club, who was tied for first honors with Mrs. H. Reeve Stockton, of this city, both scores being 96, won the toss and was awarded the cup.

Mrs. H. Reeve Stockton distinguished herself in the putting contest and captured first honors.

Another Plainfielder who competed was Mrs. C. B. Lawrence, who finished well up in the list, her score being 115 gross and 93 net.

Mrs. Manville, of Westfield, played well, returning a card of 105 gross and 97 net.

EXPECT GOOD TENNIS ON EAST END COURTS

Netherwood Club's Tourney Has Brought Out Some Fast Material.

At the Netherwood Tennis Club this afternoon the third round in the singles' competition will be run off. The semi-finals may be reached, in which event the finals will be staged to-morrow. The first two rounds were contested last week, and unusual enthusiasm on the part of both entrants and spectators was displayed. Thirty members remain to compete today, although the most prominent and most likely to reach the finals are Stanley Bellows, Jack Cornwall, John Uhler and Paul Collier.

The first three are paired in the upper half and Collier in the lower.

Immediately after the completion of the singles' tournament a doubles' event will be started, first, second, third and consolation prizes having been donated.

It is the object of the Netherwood Tennis Club to organize a team to represent Plainfield. Challenges will be issued to other local tennis teams, and outside competition will be solicited.

SHORT BRIEFS

Pitchers George Cunningham and Rube Matsuatt, of the Chattanooga Southern League Club, have been sold to the Detroit Americans.

Frank Moran, of Pittsburg, and Jim Coffey, the Dublin giant, were matched yesterday to box ten rounds at the Madison Square Garden A. C. on Tuesday, October 19.

At the Broadway Sporting Club this evening Battling Levinsky will meet Sailor Carroll, the California heavyweight, in the main bout of ten rounds.

Arguments in the petition of Armando Marsons to dissolve the injunction restraining him from playing with the St. Louis Federals will be heard next Monday by Judge Dyer, of St. Louis.

SOME LOCAL COLOR TO THIS.

The Franklin-Pacer tilt, in Perth Amboy, tomorrow, has some local color. Cliff Randolph is slated to twirl for the "Franks," while among the nine players opposing him will be Tommy Mullen, another local player. Then, too, Mrs. Cliff Randolph is going to be on hand, as Billy Pfau has requested that the wives of all the Pacers be present to help inaugurate "Ladies' Day."

The "turn-instinct" in people makes the "For Sale" ads interesting to them.

LOCAL BOY RIDES IN WINNING AUTO

Amos Miller, Fanwood Mechanician, Also In Races, But Is Seriously Injured.

Flemington, Aug. 14.—Joseph Lambert, of Brooklyn, was painfully bruised about the body, and Amos Miller, of Fanwood township, his mechanician, was seriously injured when Lambert's automobile crashed through the fence in the final lap of the special professional Australian pursuit automobile race at the Flemington Fair yesterday afternoon.

The accident occurred when the right rear shoe blew out on a curve. The machine dashed through the fence and turned turtle. Lambert's injuries were dressed by Dr. F. A. Thomas and he was able to return home. Miller was brought to Flemington, where Dr. Barclay S. Fuhrmann and Dr. G. B. Tompkins attended him. His jaw was broken in two places, three ribs fractured and he was otherwise injured.

The special invitation race of five miles, for a cup valued at $50 was won by Ira Vail, of Brooklyn, in 6 minutes and 18 seconds, with a Mulford Special. Joe Lambert was second and Archie Frazer, of Brooklyn, third. Riding in the winning car was Victor Tillotson, of Plainfield.

The five-mile race for cars under 300 cubic inches piston displacement was won by Vail in 6.39½. Joe Theobold, of Brooklyn, won the five-mile free-for-all in 6.15½, with a Mercedes. Vail was second and Lambert third. Alvin Duryea, of Somerville; Joseph Yost, of Allentown, and Ray Morton, of Philadelphia, also entered. The five-mile handicap race was won by Lambert. Vail was second and Jackson third. Vail also won the pursuit race. Others in the race were Jackson Lambert and Theobold. The prizes amounted to nearly one thousand dollars.

"Vic" Tillotson played quarterback on the Holy Cross football team, and is well-known here. He recently moved to Brooklyn.

JONES DICKERING FOR GAME WITH THE BEES

Manager Jones, of the Plainfield A. A., has opened negotiations with Manager Ebinger, of the Bound Brook Bees, relative to staging an engagement between that team and the locals. If the arrangements are successfully completed the match will take place in Bound Brook next Sunday.

Jones thinks that if Erfmier arranges the game, the locals will put it all over the Bees.

"CAP" SCHOOLEY READY.

With a fine entry list from each club in the championship events and a large number of competitors in the novelty races, the third annual regatta for the canoeing supremacy of Newark will be fought out on Branch Brook Lake this afternoon at 3 o'clock between the Tuscarora Canoe Club, holders of the Atlantic Coast, New Jersey State and city trophies, and the Wyona Canoe Club, of Wequahic Lake, former city champions. Each of the local clubs is struggling for a second leg on the big Bamberger trophy. Wyona lifted the cup in 1913, and the Tuskies won it last year. Bill Schooley, formerly of this city, captains the Tuscarora Club.

PLAINFIELD A. A.-TAB GAME A SUNDAY BILL

The only big game in this city tomorrow is the T. A. B.-Plainfield A. A. match. The last time these two outfits met the Plainfielders easily annexed a 5 to 1 victory. However, the Abstainers declare that a repetition of this trick is an absolute impossibility and to prove it is the ambition of the whole team.

The rival managers, Jimmy Monahan and Gifford Jones, have made known their line-ups, although it is likely that an eleventh-hour shift may be effected by both teams.

The prize at stake is the city Sunday baseball championship, although both managers realize that their teams will have to tackle more games before the title is undisputedly theirs.

The line-ups:

The Jr. O. U. A. M., Somerset Council, No. 104, will hold an athletic meet at Wayside Park next Saturday. The various events, among which the 440 and 100 yard dashes are most prominent, are open only to members of the council and their families. A baseball game between the married and single members will begin at 4 o'clock in the afternoon and will doubtless provoke quite a little amusement.

CENTURY TIRE PLANT IS THRIVING UNDER NEW OWNER

With the reopening of the Century Tire Plant, the local industry has practically regained everything it lost during the period the factory was closed down. Mr. Jaffess, the new owner, is a very enterprising and active business man of unusual ability. He took the plant over when it was in a run down condition and has put a spirit of life into the place that, heretofore has never been known, and by the looks of things, the new enterprise is going to be a brilliant success.

The management states that they have already secured orders large enough to keep the factory going at its present force for the next three months, and Mr. Jaffess has hopes of enlarging it to its maximum capacity.

It may be interesting to know that Mr. Jaffess is a self-made man. Starting but a few years ago as a dealer in scrap rubber, he at once conceived the utter wastefulness of the industry. Seeing so many useful tires discarded, he opened a small shop, in which to vulcanize and repair them. Perfecting his methods he developed a plan by which almost any blown out or rim cut tire he can reclaim in his factory at Harrison, and guarantee for 3,500 miles.

A short time ago when rubber fell in price, Mr. Jaffess bought up an unusually large amount of the best grade of para and first latex rubbers. Knowing that he could then manufacture a perfect brand of new tires, at a much lower cost, he cut the selling price 25 per cent.

The tires and tubes made at the local plant are made up of pure gum stocks, consisting of fine para and first latex crepe, two of the finest rubbers grown. The factory is open for inspection to all prospective customers as Mr. Jaffess is trying to improve on the old Century products to the best of his ability, and wishes every buyer of his tires and tubes to see and know just what goes into the products, and how they are made.

Mr. Jaffess is one of the very few tire manufacturers left, that is building an all hand-made tire, and which rubber experts claim to be the best tire for wear and resistance. By a new device recently invented every customer who orders a tire can now have his name embossed on its sidewall, and so minimize the chance of having it stolen.

Owing to the large amount of business now being done at the local plant, it has been necessary to send out of town for expert tire builders, as the concern is now working both night and day.

LAWN THE SCENE OF PRESENTATION

Impressive Exercises Mark Dedication of Two Shrines to the Sisters of Mercy.

ELOQUENT ADDRESSES

Assemblyman William N. Runyon, Mayor Robert Clark, Jr., and Rev. Dr. E. J. Griffen Laud the Work of the Sisters.

Memories of the past were forcibly brought to the minds of the larger portion of those assembled on the beautiful lawn surrounding St. Joseph's Villa, on Westervelt avenue, yesterday afternoon, when the two shrines, one of Mary and one of St. Joseph, relics from the old St. Joseph's church, were formally presented by the Holy Name Society of the parish and received by Rev. Father J. T. Baldwin, on behalf of the Sisters of Mercy. The two grottoes adorn the lawn on either side of the villa.

In introducing Assemblyman William N. Runyon as the chief speaker, Robert McCormack, president of the Holy Name Society, expressed to the former judge the sincere and hearty friendship of those present. A loud round of applause greeted the Assemblyman, who faced the throng. After voicing his appreciation at being a participant in the celebration, he congratulated the members of the Villa in getting two such significant shrines, which will be lasting places to excite devotion from the passersby. He rejoiced in the fact that men and women, whether of one Catholic creed or another, are gradually coming more and more together and paying loving tribute to the Master. The Sisters of Mercy received a beautiful tribute from the Assemblyman, who said: "So much have they given up that they have become noteworthy. In the exuberance of youth they have given up home, friends, the world, and have entered into a life of toil and labor for others. Theirs, indeed, is the life most nearly the life and teachings of the Master. In obscurity and away from the world's eye, they gladly give of all their talents, whether they be three, five or ten, for the sake of men, women and children. If I may so express it this afternoon is the glorious beginning of the end. I hope it means a wider and purer work. These shrines will ever be an inspiration to devotion, because they are here for the world to gaze upon. One, the shrine of the woman who was chosen to be the Mother of God, and the other of Joseph, her earthly husband. I wish th Sisters of this Villa all possible Godspeed and success in the great work they are doing. The treasures they are piling up for themselves in heaven are manifold and untold. May we all so live here that when the Prince of Peace shall determine our life's close, we may go down the Valley of the Shadow of Death gladly, and that the Master may say, 'Well done, thou good and faithful servant;

WARREN CHAPEL OUTING LAST OF THE SEASON

Thursday will be your last chance this year to make a day trip to "The Town Without a Frown." The excursion on that date will be run under the auspices of the Sunday school of Warren chapel and promises to be one of the biggest ever run by that church. Many who have neglected to visit the shore because of the variations of the weather feel that a period of ideal weather is due and have planned to accompany the borough church on Thursday. The temperature of the water varies from 70 to 75 these days, thus affording thousands an opportunity to splash in the surf.

Trains will leave Plainfield at 8:15 in the morning and returning leave Asbury Park at 6:10, making stops at the Netherwood station both ways. Two sections have been scheduled to accommodate the pleasure-seekers, including baggage room for any luggage.

ENJOYED TROLLEY RIDE.

Miss Aida Wild, of this city, who has been spending two weeks at Stroudsburg, Pa., returned home last night, accompanied by Sheriff Charles P. Sebring, who spent Sunday at the above named place. The return trip included a three hours' trolley ride from Stroudsburg to Easton.

CARS COLLIDE.

Anthony Morgan, of Madison, stearing his automobile into Somerset street from Front street, Saturday afternoon, hit another machine owned and driven by Herman H. Miller, of Martinsville. Morgan's car was damaged slightly but no one was injured.

MERCHANTS "HET" UP OVER "HOLY JUMPERS"

Complaints Made to Councilmen Regarding Congested Traffic Conditions.

Further emphasis to the general feeling that some immediate action should be taken by the city officials to curb street revivals in Plainfield was lent Saturday night when merchants doing business in the vicinity of Park avenue and West Second street complained to councilmen relative to the noise and traffic obstruction caused by the Pillar of Fire members at that intersection. During recent gatherings of this sect on the local street corners it has been necessary for Chief of Police Kiely to station extra men at the scene to prevent trouble developing from certain remarks attributed to their speakers, and members of the Common Council have also seen fit to attend the sessions.

One one occasion it was necessary for the chief to ask the revivalists to disperse, but they appeared again the following night. Curiosity has prompted many persons to gather about the speakers, thus causing a congested district at one of the busiest corners Saturday nigh's. The merchants complain that their doorways are "blocked" by those standing around and that pedestrians have considerable trouble in wending their way through the throng.

While no definite information has been given out it is understood that some action will be taken on the complaint at the next meeting of the Common Council. It is believed that the city fathers are keeping a watchful eye out for enough evidence to warrant some action being taken against the revivalists for blocking traffic.

MARRIED AT DYING MOTHER'S BEDSIDE

Parent's Last Wish Fulfilled By Young Couple and She Passed Away Yesterday.

Fulfilling her dying mother's wish that she be married to Clarence Shearman, of Warrenville, Miss Ethel Anna Snyder, of 325 Penfield place, Dunellen, Saturday night made hurried arrangements for a wedding that was originally scheduled to take place in October and the nuptial knot was tied at the bedside of her fast weakening parent at 7:15 that evening. Mrs. William H. Snyder, the mother, passed away late yesterday afternoon after a long illness, having witnessed the wedding ceremony performed by the Rev. George Bowers of Mt. Bethel.

Mrs. Snyder's illness dated back to January 4 last, when she sustained injuries while mounting the step of a trolley car. Complications developed and the woman gradually weakened until her death occurred yesterday.

She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Henry Schenck and was born at Somerville. Thirty-eight years ago last January she was married to William H. Snyder, of New York city, and lived in Somerville until 1902.

Besides her husband she is survived by her father, who lived with her, and four daughters, the Misses Ruth, Grace, Ethel and Naomi, and four sons, Harry, of Plainfield; Elmer, of Trenton; Frank, of New Market, and Nelson and William, Jr. The funeral will be held at the late home tomorrow afternoon at 2:30, the Rev. H. J. Polan, pastor of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, officiating. Interment will be made at Somerville.

WILL FORM NEWPAPER WRITERS' ASSOCIATION

Walter I. Firstbrook, a local newspaper reporter, has been in communication with J. W. Hays, secretary-treasurer of the International Typographical Union, in reference to the organization of a newspaper writers' association. Today he received a letter from W. M. Ryan, clerk to Mr. Hays, in which he was informed that his letter would be referred to the latter immediately upon his return from the West where he is attending a convention.

Mr. Firstbrook has been seeking detailed information as to whether such an association can be formed under the jurisdiction of the typographical union and what the qualifications would be. So far as known there is now no such association operating under the supervision of the union.

CERTIFICATES OF ELECTION FILED

David Bodine Chosen Chairman and Joseph M. Lambruskin Secretary.

OFFICERS SWORN IN

Board Will Meet With Judge Beekman and Clerk Anderson When Officials Will Be Drawn For the Fall Primaries and Election.

Certificates of election have been filed by the members of the Somerset County Board of Elections and they have been sworn in. David Bodine is the chairman for the coming year and Joseph M. Lambruskin the secretary. In two weeks or less the Board will meet with Common Pleas Judge Beekman and County Clerk Anderson, when the Boards of Registry and Election for the coming year will be drawn.

The political pot in Somerset county is boiling already, although but slowly. In a few weeks candidate galore will be circulating petitions. Of chief interest among Somerset county voters at the present time are the Assembly candidates. The office of assemblyman is the highest office to be voted for this fall, when the term of Assemblyman Ogden Hammond, of Bernardsville, expires. Mr. Hammond is a Republican, and will probably seek another term. He is serving his first.

Among the Democrats, Samuel S. Swackhamer, of North Plainfield, is being mentioned for the nomination. As far as is known he is the only Democrat so far spoken of for the office. Mr. Hammond may be unopposed.

Edwin Brown, of Somerville, a member of the Board of Freeholders for Somerset county, will be a candidate for the office for another term. He already has his petition in circulation. James H. Bolton will oppose him. Both are Republicans.

Freeholder Robert D. Shaw, of Somerville, Democrat, will seek renomination. Theodore L. Abbott, of Martinsville, has announced his candidacy as a representative from Bridgewater township. H. D. Dilts, of Raritan, the present freeholder from Bridgewater township, will be a candidate again. Charles F. Smith, also of Raritan, will oppose him.

Henry P. Williams, Democrat, of Warren township, will oppose Reuben Codington, Republican, the present freeholder. Mr. Codington will run again, as will also John C. Cooper. William I. Robinson will be the Democratic candidate from Montgomery township.

PEDESTRIAN RUN DOWN BY CAR AS HE CROSSED STREET

In passing Madison avenue on West Front street shortly after noon yesterday, Jacob Boice, of Harlingen, driving a Ford touring car, struck Albert Service, a pedestrian, with sufficient force to knock him to the pavement and necessitate his removal to Muhlenberg Hospital. Service lives at 321 West Third street.

At the hospital it was found that Service had sustained painful, though not serious hurts, but he was kept at the institution until today. In the auto with Boice were his wife and daughter and son-in-law. They were brought to police headquarters by Patrolman Harry Brower and later allowed to go on their own recognizance to appear when wanted.

EVENING SERVICE ENJOYED.

Many attended the evening service yesterday at the Park Avenue Baptist church, the Young People's Association being in charge. Elwood E. Waller, the president, was the leader. Assemblyman William N. Runyon was the speaker of the evening and he gave an interesting talk on "Lessons from the Life of Paul, the Missionary Apostle." His remarks deeply impressed the large congregation. Special music was a feature.

AMONG THE MISSING.

Health Officer Randolph Chandler added another bicycle to the list of missing at police headquarters Saturday afternoon, when he reported the theft of a Crescent wheel from in front of the health department headquarters in the City National Bank building. The bike was one ridden by Inspector John Casey. Casey left for a two weeks' vacation Friday night and the wheel just couldn't get long without him so it just naturally found a new keeper.

BUSINESS MEN TO MEET.

The Business Men's Credit Association will hold an important meeting this evening at 8 o'clock in the Frost building on Park avenue. A full attendance of members is desired.

DAY NURSERY FUND NOW TOTALS $135.20

"M. R. H." Contributes $10 to Aid King's Daughters In Their Work.

In response to the appeal made in Saturday's issue of the Daily Press, this morning's mail brought another check for $10 from "M. R. H." to apply to the fund being raised by the King's Daughters for the Day Nursery. Notiiwthstanding the very many demands which have been made upon the charity of the people of Plainfield during the past year, friends of the Nursery are coming forward with their donations in order that the work may be carried on this summer as it has been in the past. Contributors should remember that there is no stated amount solicited. No gift can be too small to help pay for the milk consumed by the little boys and girls of the poor taken care of at the West Front street home, while their parents are working. No gift can be too large to be used to a good advantage. The need is especially felt in this extreme hot weather. Mail your offerings to this office or send them direct to the Nursery, and they will be acknowledged through these columns. The total fund to date is as follows:

Previously acknowledged	$125.20
M. R. H.	10.00

HARD TO KEEP RUSSELL FROM BEHIND THE BARS

Wilbur Russell, colored, was no sooner released from the cell in North Plainfield police headquarters he had been occupying for five days than he got drunk again and soon found himself back in his old place. Finding that incarceration behind the bars had not cured him of the desire for drink, Borough Recorder Hand tried another method this morning, and sentenced him to a straight fine of five dollars.

Russell, 46 years old, of Fairchild's alley, was arrested a week ago Saturday night charged with being drunk. He was given the alternative of paying a fine or remaining in the borough lock-up for five days. Being unable to obtain the money, he necessarily chose the jail sentence. The period was up Friday and Russell was released, only to take to drinking again, and Saturday afternoon Marshal Pope found him on Somerset street badly under the influence of liquor, waving his arms and gestulating so furiously that he was deemed disorderly and locked up.

SMOKE CAUSES SCARE.

A refractory stove and a chimney which would not draw caused such a quantity of smoke to gather in the laundry of Alfred Lawrence, 512 Stelle avenue, this morning, that it was thought the house was on fire and an alarm was telephoned to fire headquarters. An investigation by the chief soon showed that there was no fire.

SLIGHTLY HURT; THEN MORTALLY

Thomas E. McCormick, Awaiting Surgical Aid For Cut, Instantly Killed.

ACCIDENT AT SPICERS

Victim Thirty-seven Years Old, Survived By Wife and Child—Had Been Employed In Crating Materials In Shipping Room.

Shortly after seating himself on a pile of steel to await surgical aid after he had cut his wrist in the shipping room of the Spicer Manufacturing Company's plant at South Plainfield, Saturday afternoon, Thomas J. McCormick, of 446 West Fourth street, this city, was struck by a huge steel bucket and died almost instantly from injuries inflicted. McCormick, who was engaged in the work of crating materials, tore a gash in his wrist while tightening a wire and went to the machine shop for treatment. Loss of blood had given him an ashen appearance and he was told to sit outside while bandages were being procured.

Faint and dazed he sat down on the steel pile and held his injured arm in the air. Several seconds later he was dealt a death blow by the big steel mechanism. One of his arms was torn from the socket at the shoulder and his breast was crushed in such a way as to force one rib through his lung, this latter hurt, together with the severe shock, being the immediate cause of death. He died almost instantly in the arms of fellow workers. The body was viewed by the Middlesex county coroner and later removed to the undertaking establishment of Patrick J. Casey & Son in this city. The victim is survived by a wife and one daughter. He was thirty-seven years old and had been a resident of this city for a number of years. The funeral service will be held at the late home tomorrow morning at 8:30 o'clock and at St. Mary's church at 9 o'clock. Interment will be made in St. Mary's cemetery.

Soon after the mishap occurred at the Spicer plant a call was sent into police headquarters for the ambulance, but when the policemen arrived with this vehicle they were turned back without any explanation. Inquiry at the plant by telephone one-half hour after the victim succumbed to his hurts resulted in obtaining only meagre information.

Superintendent Dana admitted that he had had his arm torn off, and when asked if that was the extent of his hurts he said yes. He failed to reveal the fact that the man had died although the body of the victim was at that time on its way to the Casey undertaking parlors on North avenue. Just why this evident attempt to conceal the news of the fatality was made is not known.

LOCAL SINGERS AWARDED DIPLOMA IN A CONTEST

A company of half a hundred singers from the Plainfield Gesang and Turn Verein went to New York yesterday and won a third diploma in the singing contest held there in the afternoon. While hoping to win the first award, the Plainfield singers returned home jubilant over their success in bringing away a third.

Leaving this city yesterday morning on the 9:34 train, the company was met at the New York side of the Liberty street ferry by a committee from the Vereinifte Saenger, of New York, their hosts. The singing contests took place in Ebling's Casino, St. Ann's avenue and 156th street, the Bronx, and hither the Plainfield company was escorted and entertained at dinner by their guests. The singing contests took place in the afternoon.

CHIEF AND FAMILY HAD NARROW ESCAPE

Police Head's Car Struck By Light Ford at Central Ave. and Sixth St.

Six persons had a narrow escape from serious injury at 10:20 o'clock yesterday morning, when a Cadillac touring car owned and driven by Chief of Police Kiely was struck by a Ford roadster operated by Mrs. George Endicott, of New Market, at the intersection of Central avenue and West Sixth street. As it was all escaped with a severe shaking up except the young son of the police chief who sustained a bad bump on his head. Mrs. Kiely and another son were also in the car and Mrs. Endicott was accompanied by a small child.

Chief Kiely was on his way home after attending services at St. Mary's church and was proceeding in an easterly direction while Mrs. Endicott was going north on Central avenue. It was raining at the time and the hood and flags on the side of the New Market woman's machine obstructed her view of the car as it approached on Sixth street. The touring car had just entered the intersection when it was struck in the right rear tire with sufficient force to do damage that will probably reach $300. The Ford car, being of a lighter type, bounced off after the impact and was turned completely around, the only damage being a bent crank.

The force of the two vehicles coming together caused the Cadillac car to rise up on its two left wheels momentarily and the chief had presence of mind enough to call to his wife to grab the smaller boy who was dangerously near toppling over the side. This probably saved the youngster from falling out into the roadbed.

CLARK WILL NOT CHANGE HIS MIND

So William L. Smalley Believes Despite Linbarger's Petitions.

Petitions circulated among North Plainfield Republicans during the past week endorsing Mayor Robert Clark, Jr., as a candidate for re-election to the mayoralty gave rise to the rumor that the present executive has been seriously contemplating reconsidering his statement made sometime ago to the effect that he would retire at the end of his present term of office. In answer to a query put to him by a Daily Press reporter this morning, relative to the probability of Mr. Clark running again, William L. Smalley, who has announced his candidacy on the G. O. P. ticket, said:

"I am positive that Mr. Clark will not seek the mayoralty again. I may differ with the mayor on some matters but I have the greatest respect for his word and when he tells me that he is not a candidate I believe he means it. In my judgment it will take men of a bigger calibre than Walter Linbarger or his followers to induce the mayor to break his word.

"Conditions are harmonious in the Republican ranks in the borough and I believe that they will remain so during the coming campaign."

BALKAN STATES MAY ENTER WAR

Long Awaited Decision Likely to Be Reached In Twenty-four Hours.

FEAR GERMAN DRIVE

French Capture Prisoners, Bomb Throwers and Rapid Fire Gun—Germans Reach Russia's Great Fortress, Novo Georgievsk.

Rome, Aug. 16—The long awaited decision of Bulgaria, Roumania and Greece on the question of participation in the great war is likely to be made in the next twenty-four hours. There is every hope that the massing of Austro-German troops along the Serbian frontier and the bombardment of Belgrade, coming at a critical time in the Balkan negotiations may throw the balance in favor of the Allies.

Despatches from Bucharest and Sofia early today said the greatest alarm has been caused there by the news that the Austrians have resumed the offensive on the Serbian frontier, preliminary to an Austro-German drive through the Balkans to the relief of Turkey. Both Russian and Bulgarian diplomats here fear such a move threatens the national existence of their countries, and are watching the developments near Belgrade with the greatest anxiety.

Both the Greek and Serbian Parliaments meet today. The decisions they are to make probably will settle the fate of the Balkan States and will have a tremendous influence upon the outcome of the world war. The meeting of the Russian Crown Council at Bucharest was another incident of greatest importance in the Balkan situation.

Within the past few days there has been an active exchange of views between Serbia and Greece. Despite contrary reports from Nish, diplomates here believe Serbia is ready to make important concessions to obtain Bulgaria's participation in the war. Ex-Premier Venizelos, who comes into power at Athens this week, has remained silent regarding his program, but the allied governments are hoping he will overcome the opposition to Bulgarian concessions on the part of Greece, removing the last obstacle to the renewal of the Balkan Alliance.

Three elements entering into the situation are counted upon by the representatives of the Allies here to force the Balkan States into quick accord. They are the certainty that the present lack of Turkish ammunition makes this a most favorable time for intervention; the fact that the Allies have landed re-inforcements and have registered fresh successes at the Dardanelles which might cause the Balkans to lose their opportunity to share the fruits of victory should the Allies reach Constantinople without them, and finally, the concentration of Austro-Germans against Serbia.

This last factor, the newest in the Balkan situation, is of the utmost importance. Both Bucharest and Sofia despatches today indicated that the latest move of the Austro-Germans has aroused the greatest dissatisfaction.

The fact that the Teutons have become active on the Serbian frontier after a long deadlock along the River Save was not made public until last night, when the Serbian war office gave out the following statement:

"At 2 p. m. on August 12 the enemy began to bombard Belgrade with heavy howitzers from Hill 109, west of Semlin. In order to force the enemy to cease this senseless bombardment we dropped shells on Semlin and Pancsova and fired on the heights north and northwest of Semlin, where the enemy's reserves were concentrated.

"Thick smoke was seen to rise from houses set on fire in Semlin and the inhabitants of Panscova fled in panic. The enemy ceased firing on Belgrade.

"Later more than one hundred shrapnel shells fell on our positions at Belgrade without result. Several shells burst in private houses, but there were no victims."

Paris, Aug. 16—The French war office gave out the following statement today:

"In the course of the night there was intermittent cannonades in the region of Souchez and on the plateau of Nouvron, to the north of the Aisne, combats with bombs and grenades in the sector of Quennevieres and in the Western Argonne.

"In the Vosges a mine attack on an enemy trench between lower Burnhaupt and Anmertz Weiller enabled us to take some prisoners and to capture two bomb throwers and a rapid fire gun."

A despatch from Rome states that the official Gazette publishes a de-

'Plains & Fanwood.

Being forgotten for years, a duplicate set of discharge papers and other Civil War relics were found by Peter Ritter, Sr., of Fanwood, last week, following the "community picnic." Mr. Ritter was present when Chief Doane, of the Plainfield fire department, made his address on behalf of the G. A. R., and as he saw the members of the Plainfield post sitting in a little group he remembered the papers that he had laid aside about ten years ago. First as a member of the 103d New York Volunteers and later transferred to the 9th Hawkins Zouaves, Mr. Ritter served through two and a half years active fighting. In 1905 he filed pension papers upon being urged to do so by his colonel when in the Zouaves, and thought no more of the matter until the picnic last Wednesday. Senator Martine has taken the matter in hand to secure Mr. Ritter a pension he could have had twenty-five years ago. Included in Mr. Ritter's interesting collection are several wartime photographs, one of himself in the uniform of the Zouaves taken at Newport News.

Madison Hare will spend the other week with them, the return being made on August 28. The new portable cooking stove was taken, as were the dog tents. Each boy supplied his own personal effects, and sufficient provisions for the first few days. After that food will be obtained from the vicinity where they camp.

MUSICAL SERVICE AT TEMPLTE BAPTIST

Thirty Singers From Netherwood Camp Provide An Enjoyable Program.

The third of the musical service for the Temple Baptist Bible school was given yesterday morning by about thirty of the best singers in the Netherwood Camp who have been organized into a choir by Clifford A Braider.

This choir visited the Temple school and assisted with the musical service. These young people from the East Side, New York, possess remarkable musical ability, and the hymns and special selections they gave were much appreciated and enjoyed by all.

The school provided an auto bus to call for the little folks and return them, and they seemed to fully enjoy their ride, as well as the pleasant reception given them by the members of the Temple school.

A neat little badge had been provided, with the greeting "Welcome to our Friends, Sunday, August 15, 1915." Each of the young visitors received one of these badges.

Just before the conclusion of the service, one of the officers of the school presented Clifford Braider with a book and assured him that the school most heartily appreciated his kind service and wished to express their thanks.

An especially attractive feature of the service was the music furnished by Mr. Hendrickson, of New York, with his crystal chimes. By the use of tumblers, some of the old time hymns were rendered with pleasing effect.

Whitney Frazee, cornetist, and Miss Bessie Carson, pianist, also assisted in the service. Souvenir fans were distributed for the entire audience and each of the visiting singers received a box of candy as an expression of thanks for their visit.

Miss Ethel Kinnaman, the contralto soloist, who has been with Pryor's Band, Asbury Park, is to be with the Temple school next Sunday and render some of her delightful music.

LAWN SCENE OF PRESENTATION

enter thou into the joys of heaven.'"

Mayor Robert Clark told of his friendship and work with the late Rev. Father William H. Miller, pastor of St. Joseph's church, for twenty-seven years, whose lifelong struggle to do good in the world always commanded the highest love and esteem from all who knew him. During his Mayoralty he has had the opportunity to see the work done by the Sisters of the Villa, and his respect for them was voiced in his speech.

Eloquent and convincing, Rev. Dr. E. J. Griffen, professor in the Catholic University at Washington, D. C., concluded the speech-making of the afternoon. After taking his auditors back to the first apostolic times, he told of the Roman persecutions, the spread of Christianity, the building of the catacombs and subterranean passages, where Christians worshipped, and the origination of shrines. Joining with the previous speakers, he praised the work of the Sisters. In part, he said: "Men, when you pass a Sister, lift your hats; women, when you meet a Sister, reverence her in your hearts; for you are meeting one of God's heroines on earth. Go wherever you will you will find the little Sister doing her daily round of help and aid to others. She lives a life for others. You will find her in the schools, colleges and higher institutions of learning, you will find her in the hospitals nursing the sick, you will see her in the orphanages caring for the little homeless ones, and you can find her on the battlefields of Europe today, amid the bursting of cannon and shrapnel, lifting the wounded, whether he be German, English, French or Italian and nursing him back to health; in many cases, when the patient is beyond human help, you will still find her by the bedside whispering hope into the ear of the dying." The speaker paid one of the strongest tributes to the name of "mother," and compared the dearest of the earthly mothers to the Heavenly Mother, whose watchful eye is ever for her children on earth. He pictured the two grottoes as being in a vast and beautiful cathedral, where the dome was the sky, the trees the pillars, and the birds and the winds the choir.

Gounod's "Ave Marie," sung by Mrs. Alfred Seidel, and solo, "Adore and Be Still," by Edward Harding J., were rendered in a beautiful manner while the choir, under the direction of Miss Mary O'Connor, gave several hymns. The service ended with benediction.

TELEPHONE COMPANY REDUCE ITS RATES

Revised Schedule Affecting 20,000 Subscribers Goes In Effect September 1.

The New York Telephone Company today announced a new schedule of reduced rates for measured telephone service, to go into effect on September 1, that will benefit over 20,000 subscribers in New Jersey. The rate reductions called for by the revised schedule affect private branch exchange service, individual line measured service where from 600 to 1,500 messages are used in a year, and all two-party line measured service, and these reductions together with those in certain local and interstate toll rates will mean a total saving to telephone users of approximately $100,000 annually.

Commenting on this announcement today, Mr. Wilson, local commercial manager of the telephone company, said: "The new schedule of rates, affecting private branch exchange and individual line measured service, is the result of a very careful study of telephone conditions made with the assistance and co-operation of the engineer of the Public Utilities Board, and is in line with the company's policy of making reductions in its rates wherever it is practicable to do so.

"This latest reduction of $100,000 annually brings the total savings to telephone users that have resulted from voluntary reductions by the telephone company in New Jersey during the past five years, to more than $700,000 annually.

"The new schedule will apply to the company's message rate service which is furnished in the central office districts of Arlington, Bayonne, Harrison, Hoboken, Jersey City, Webster, Bergen, Market, Branch Brook, Waverly, Mulberry, Union, Bloomfield, Elizabeth, Glen Ridge, Hillside, Montclair, New Brunswick, Orange, South Orange, Passaic, Paterson, Perth Amboy, South Amboy, Plainfield and Verona.

"The rates for 600 local messages under an individual line message rate contract, beginning September 1, will be $36 instead of $39; 800 local messages under the same class of service will cost $45 instead of $48; 1,000 local messages will cost $54 instead of $57, and 1,200 local messages will cost $60 instead of $63, in all central office districts except Arlington, Bayonne, Hoboken, Harrison, Jersey City, Bergen, Webster, Market, Waverly, Branch Brook, Mulberry and Union, where the reduction is from $66 to $63 for 1,200 messages.

"The new minimum rate of $36 for 600 local messages maks it possible for subscribers who now have two-party line service to get individual line service without added expense and because of this change, the telephone company will withdraw its present two-party line message rate schedule. Subscribers who now have four-party line service can change to individual service for only $6 more a year than they pay at present.

"The revised message rate schedule for private branch exchange service permits subscribers to contract for a switchboard with one central office trunk line where formerly a minimum equipment of two trunk lines was required.

"In Arlington, Bayonne, Harrison, Hoboken, Jersey City, Newark and Union, the minimum rate for private exchange service with a monitor switchboard, will be $114 instead of $156. When a standard cord switchboard is used, the new minimum rate will be $120 as compared with the [illegible] of $156.

"In the other central office districts affected by the pending schedule, the new minimum rate for monitor switchboard service will be $90 and for standard cord switchboard service it will be $96. The minimum rate for private branch exchange service in these districts is now $132.

"The rates for stations connected with a private branch exchange also have undergone revision. The new rate for the first ten stations will be $6 each; for the next ten stations, $4.80 each, and for stations above twenty, $3.60 each. The rate for additional working station drops on switchboards serving more than thirty stations, will be $1.20 each.

"No changes will be made in the existing local calling areas or in the rate for four-party measured service, flat rate service and toll service."

Until September 1 the Daily Press will go to press on Saturdays at 1 o'clock.

BELLOWS-COLLIER MATCHED FOR FINALS

Progress Made In Netherwood Tennis Club's Tourney Encouraging.

All but the final round of the Netherwood Tennis Club's singles' tournament was finished Saturday, the result of the day's play being the eliminating of all contestants except Paul Collier and Stanley Bellows, who will as a result clash in the finals. However, the final round will not be run off until the completion of the doubles' tournament, which will begin next Saturday.

Collier, who was paired up in the lower half, experienced little trouble in defeating Dan Berry and Art Van Zandt, 6—1, 6—2 and 6—1, 6—1, respectively. In the upper half, Jack Uhler had the time of his life beating Jack Cornwall, the scores being 6—3 and 6—4.

By his victory Uhler earned the right to meet Bellows, who had easily put out Miller. In the semi-finals Jack Uhler was forced to bow to Stanley Bellows, and as a result, the latter will have to settle things with Paul Collier.

MRS. PHOEBE FOWLER DIES IN 83D YEAR

After a year's illness, much of it spent on a bed of suffering, Mrs. Phoebe Fowler, aged 83 years, widow of Jesse Fowler, died this morning at 9 o'clock at the home of her daughter, Mrs. John Koch, 113 Westervelt avenue, with whom she has resided for many years. The funeral will be held Wednesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock from the residence. Complete arrangements will be made later.

Noted for her strong Christian character and patient fortitude in suffering, Mrs. Fowler maintained her cheerful spirit to the end. While seldom free from suffering during the long illness which preceded her death, she never murmured at her lot and spent her last days on earth in ministering to others and in prayer.

Mrs. Fowler was born in Westfield, but had lived much of her life in Plainfield. Three years ago she lost her husband.

Surviving are four daughters and one son. The daughters are Mrs. Emma Moore, of East Second street; Mrs. Frank Heiman, of East Fifth street; Mrs. John Kipfey, of Perth Amboy, and Mrs. John Koch, of 113 Westervelt avenue. Frank Fowler is the son.

GEBHARDT DISCUSSES WOMAN'S SUFFRAGE

Former State Senator Addressed a Large Street Meeting Saturday.

The suffrage street meeting Saturday evening drew a larger crowd than usual owing to the fact that the principal speaker was former Senator William C. Gebhardt, the introducer of the first resolution to amend the Constitution of New Jersey to enfranchise women. Mrs. Gebhardt had come to the meeting with her husband, and although unaccustomed to making public speeches, was persuaded to say a few words in support of the cause she so firmly believes in. Mrs. Gebhardt wore the white ribbon of the W. C. T. U., and she said in opening her speech:

"I would not be true to this ribbon if I did not seize every opportunity to promote woman suffrage." "By getting up and speaking," she said afterwards, "I wanted to show how much women all over the State do want to vote, in spite of what is said to the contrary."

Senator Gebhardt was the second speaker. He was introduced by C. I. Riley, who spoke briefly of the scanty support the suffrage bill received three years ago compared with the fine support it is receiving at the present time. "In almost every city and town in New Jersey," he said, "there are suffrage meetings going on tonight just like the one here. It is impressive to think that there are so many earnest believers in woman suffrage speaking for the cause at the same time in different places throughout the State."

Senator Gebhardt made a very strong plea for woman suffrage. He emphasized his personal belief that suffrage in a democracy is the inalienable right of sane adult citizens. A right as much of women as of men. "We came away from the old countries," he said. "We did not share the political belief that sanctioned the government of the people by a group of the people." He then quoted from the Declaration of Independence in support of his claim that to secure the rights of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, "governments are instituted among men deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed." "From the consent of the governed! Have anti-suffragists ever read that" asked the speaker, warming up to his subject.

Senator Gebhardt said that he had been nine years at the seat of government and knew whereof he spoke. He knew that in the days before Woodrow Wilson appeared on the scene the men of New Jersey were not really self-governing. The railroads, the political parties and the State Board of Guardians decided what laws we should have. "All this is changed now," he said, "but let me tell you that the same men who opposed Wilson's reforms are opposing woman suffrage today. The men who oppose the direct nomination of senators oppose votes for women. They do not wish to see the government return to the hands of the people." The Senator is a thorough-going Democrat. He would rather see the mass of the people raised than to have two or three eminent citizens in a community.

In closing, he begged his audience to remember that the torch store of civilization is the treatment of women. The more civilized the nation the higher the position of women. "Give the franchise to your women on October 19."

He believes that a government controlled by the people would find it difficult to go to war. If the term people included the women it would be impossible to have war, he declared.

YOUTH, KNOWN HERE, KILLED IN ACCIDENT

Classmate of George Townley and Herbert Stine in Springfield College.

Leon Veith, assistant supervisor of the Paterson playgrounds, and a classmate of George Townley and Herbert Stine, of North Plainfield, in the International Y. M. C. A. Training School, at Springfield, Mass., was killed in an automobile accident on the Boonton Turnpike late Friday night. Four other persons, two of them girls, were injured. The party left Paterson about 7:30 o'clock for Mountain Lakes, and the car was driven by George Tierney, of Paterson, a friend of Veith's. John Newell, another Springfield College student, well known in North Plainfield, was also seriously injured, now being confined in St. Joseh's Hospital with two broken ribs, a broken arm and painful lacerations about the face and head. Miss Mary Whitmore, a public school teacher, and Miss Theresa Tierney, a sister of the driver, were also hurt. Tierney was uninjured, but is suffering a nervous breakdown.

Stine and Townley both visited the Veith home in Paterson yesterday, and also the hospital in which Newell is confined. Veith was one of the most popular young men in aPterson. Despite his youth, he being only twenty-three years old, he possessed a remarkable herculean stature and had played baseball and all other school sports with the Paterson High School against the Plainfield and North Plainfield teams.

GERMAN AGENTS STIR WASHINGTON

Official Inquiry Is Expected to Follow Charges of Undue Influence.

Washington, Aug. 16.—Charges of a widespread effort by German officials to sway American public sentiment, as made by the New York World, are to be investigated by this government, it was stated on high authority today. Though the accusations have not been brought officially before the Administration, steps are already being taken to probe those particularly affecting the alleged activities of German agents diplomatically accredited to the United States.

Promotion of pro-German propaganda, not only is a legitimate activity, but comes near to being the diplomatic duty of German representatives in this country, officials privately said, but they agree that the methods of such a campaign might overstep ethical, if not legal bounds. This is the phase of the World's charges with which the government agencies will particularly concern themselves.

The Department of Justice and the Postoffice Department will probably take cognizance of acts that are now made the basis of complaints, particularly the allegations that persons supplied with money from German sources have been responsible for causing strikes in plants where combustibles and various parts of shells and guns are manufactured. According to one official a conspiracy affecting such industries would constitute a violation of State rather than the Federal laws, but on the other hand, it is held that if the conspiracy were promoted by use of the mails, it would come in contact with Federal laws, particularly those regulating interstate commerce.

NEW BRITISH ARMY REACHES GABA TEBE

Row After Row of Turkish Trenches Are Broken Down In Drive.

Athens, Aug. 16—British reinforcements, landed last week near Suvla Bay, on the Gallipoli peninsula, have fought their way southward and effected a connection with the New Zealanders near Gaba Tepe.

Despatches from Mytilene today said the new British artillery broke down row after row of Turkish trenches along the Gulf of Saros shore, the Turks beating a hasty retreat.

London, Aug. 16—French and British aviators have bombarded Galata, the largest suburb of Constantinople, according to an Athens despatch to the Daily News today.

Galata lies on the north side of the Golden Horn. To have bombarded the city allied aviators must have flown a distance of about 150 miles from Gallipoli peninsula.

THE NEW BRITISH INVENTION BOARD

Sir William Crookes Made a Consultant Member.

A number of eminent English scientists and inventors have been appointed to assist Admiral Lord Fisher, who was recently selected as chairman of the invention board, the duties of which will be to co-ordinate and encourage scientific work in relation to the requirements of the British navy.

The board consists of a central committee and a number of consultants who will advise the main committee on questions referred to them. Among these consultants is Sir William Crookes, one of the most distinguished of English scientists and the most venerable. He is eighty-three years old and is a past president of the Chemical society, of the Institution of Electrical Engineers, of the Society of Chemical Industry and many other scientific bodies. He is famous as the discoverer of solenocyanides, of the element thallium and for various advances in the application of electricity.

In a recent interview he said: "A great thing for men to convince themselves of is that the war will be won not by fury of attack and not by gallantry, but simply by hanging on. He who hangs on the longest will win."

A NEW CHAIR AT YALE.

C. E. A. Winslow Appointed to Recently Created Professorship of Public Health.

Yale university this fall joins Michigan, Pennsylvania and Harvard by establishing a department of public health in its medical school. Professor C. E. A. Winslow, who has been appointed to the newly created Anna M. L. Lauder professorship of public health, was born in Boston in 1877. He was trained in the biological department of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology under Professor W. T. Sedgwick, and taught public health in that institution for twelve years after his graduation in 1898. From 1903 to 1910 he was in charge of the sanitary research laboratory of the institute, directing its extensive studies on the purification of city sewage. In the winter of 1910 Professor Winslow served as exchange professor in the University of Chicago, and from 1910 to 1914 he was in charge of the work in biology and public health at the College of the City of New York. He resigned this position in 1914 to take part in the reorganization of the New York state department of health under Commissioner Hermann M. Biggs as director of the division of publicity and education, and this work being now well organized he returns to academic life by accepting the call to Yale.

Professor Winslow will continue to serve, as he has done since 1910, as curator of public health in the American Museum of Natural History, New York city, where he is building up a permanent health exhibit, and as chairman of the New York state commission on ventilation, which is now nearing the completion of its important researches on air supply and health. Professor Winslow is a past president of the Society of American Bacteriologists and is at present chairman of the laboratory section of the American Public Health association.

The man or woman who have not the habit of "trying again" very often fail as want advertisers, wholly for that reason.

EXPECT ARMTISTICE BETWEEN FACTIONS

Villa's Reply to Note Is Expected In Washington Today.

Washington, Aug. 1*.—The first of the replies from Mexican military and political chiefs, to the Pan-American peace's appeal was expected today. Gen. Villa's was reported on its way and favorable in tenor. Carranza's is not looked for before the end of the week.

There were reports that Carranza might call a conference of his military aides to decide on a joint reply.

In this connection, an armistice between the Carranza and Villa forces, by mutual consent, was in prospect. Except near the border, military operations of importance have been suspended, it is understood, pending the consideration of the Pan-American note.

While the success or failure of the peace move hinges largely on Carranza's attitude, the Pan-Americans do not propose to proceed immediately if the First Chief rejects their overtures. If enough favorable responses are received from Villa, Zapata and other Mexican leaders the conference will be called into session anew and another note will be sent to Carranza, calling his attention to the fact that practically everybody but himself wants peace, and urging him anew to join in discussing it.

Another report current today was that Carranza would ignore the United States in answering the Pan-American note and send his reply to one of the Latin-American envoys, whom he considers friendly.

cree authorizing a special naval credit of 83,265,000 lire or $16,236,675

Petrograd, Aug. 16—Novo Georgievsk, Russia's great fortress at the junction of the Vistula and Narew Rivers, has been invested by German troops, the war office stated today. A thrilling struggle is expected during the operation about the stronghold. The Russian troops left in Novo Georgievsk number, according to an official report, between 40,000 and 80,000 men.

London, Aug. 16—The British smack, Whitby City of Sunderland has been sunk by a German submarine. The Swedish steamer Sverige has been beached at Newcombe sands in a sinking condition. The damage to the Sveridge was caused either by a mine or torpedo. The crews of both ships were saved.

Tildury, England, Aug. 16—The Nelson liner, Hikhland Corrie, a British vessel of 7,583 tons, docked here today after a narrow escap from a German submarine at the mouth of the Thames River.

Christiania, Aug. 16—The Norwegian steamer Albis, 1,381 tons, has been sunk in the North Sea by a German submarine. The crew was saved.

Bucharest, Aug. 16—The recall of General Liman von Sanders, who was the German commander in chief of the forces at the Dardanelles is denied by despatches from Constantinople.

It Pays to Secure a Tenant Who Pays.

The uncertain sort of tenant is easy to find. He is always answering the call of the window sign of "To Let." He is easy to please. Even a rather high rental does not frighten him away.

But the Stay-and-Pay tenant is not so easy to secure. He is surer of what he wants. He does not take the first house, or apartment, or store that he finds. He watches and answers "To Let" Ads.

And to secure him for your tenant is a good day's work—a good week's work.

Property that is advertised adequately in the Plainfield Daily Press is rarely rented injudiciously.

The best position now open to one of your ability and experience will be secured by a want advertiser.

You can't, even through a "For Sale" ad, sell that used article for its original cost, nor near it; but you can get its cash value at the present time for it

HAITI AND THE NAVY.

The situation in Haiti is becoming daily more interesting. Admiral Caperton, who has charge of the affairs down there, seems to be receiving much praise for the manner in which he has handled matters thus far. Naval officers are educated in international law and diplomacy and it is not surprising that they manage such affairs with tact and discretion. The officers of the United States Navy are a very fine body of men. They are trained in the service and have to meet all kinds of conditions. A naval officer could by improper action get the government in no end of trouble, but they very seldom make mistakes.

The United States is in Haiti for the good of the people of that country. It should remain there with a strong hand and put the affairs of that county on a sound basis. The business men of this country have large financial interests there and there would be a much greater American interest in the county if it were felt that it was safe to invest foreign capital in Haiti. The government is not fair to people down there and the new President elected on Thursday must be convinced that his country must be made safe in the future for our business men.

All the finances of Haiti should be put under the control of honest men and be carefully managed and accounted for. It would be a rich country, and great prosperity could exist among its people, if strict honesty could be enforced in its financial dealings. The trouble in the past has been governmental looting of the treasury. We owe it to ourselves, as well as to the people of Haiti, to hold control and management of affairs until these things are assured, even if a new president has been elected.

DEPENDS ON WHOSE OX IS GORE

When a circus or carnival comes to town, and a lot of small games of chance are set on the grounds to entice nickels and dimes from the unwary, the police of almost every community swoop down on the show people, and make them quit doing business, or perhaps arrest them. But if the same games are set up at a local picnic or fair, under the auspices of some church or lodge, not a word is said anywhere. In the case of the showmen they are not supposed to have any friends in the communities they visit, while in the other the law is ignored because the promoters of the scheme happen to be local people. The fact that both are equally transgressing the law does not seem to make any difference. This criticism is not aimed specifically at the Plainfield police, but is prompted by the fact that Bishop O'Connor, head of the Newark Diocese of the Roman Catholic Church, has forbidden the sale of chances at all fairs held by churches in his diocese. The Newark Evening News thus recently commented on the matter:

While many fail to see any harm in thus disposing of articles, it is unquestionably contrary to law, and the church should be the first in setting an example of law observance, even in those cases where it holds that there is nothing immoral in that which the law prohibits. Not so many years ago lotteries were regarded as an entirely legitimate method of raising money, but public opinion changed as their evil effects became more manifest, and now they are outlawed everywhere save in those countries where education, thrift and industry are still at a low ebb.

Its seeming indorsement of this form of gambling, too, has been frequently advanced in reproach of the Catholic Church by its enemies, and public officials have been accused of winking at violations of the law because of their affiliations or their fear of loss of popularity. It is the part of wisdom to close this loophole of attack.

The sale of chances has been a favorite method of raising money not only at church fairs but at those of regular organizations. This is because it is human nature to try to get something for nothing. Many a man will give up twenty-five cents with the possibility of winning an automobile who could not be induced to part with it by any appeal to his benevolent impulses. But in the long run it is to be doubted if such methods are as successful as those upon which there can be thrown no shadow of illegality.

That the United States government realizes the great need for many more submarines, in view of developments abroad, was shown at Washington today, when bids were opened for the construction of sixteen new submarines, which were authorized by the last session of Congress. They include two machines of the sea-going type, which are to have a surface speed of twenty-five knots or more. The total amount expended will reach nearly $8,000,000, and there is keen competition for the contracts. Certainly all ideas of preparedness are not given up, in spite of some of the jingos.

Probably the best plea for peace that could be made would be pictures of the battles in Europe as they are in their ghastly details. E. Alexander Powell, writing in the September Scribner, describes his experiences "In the Field With the Armies of France." It is a picture of war to stir the emotions, to appeal to every sense of humanity. The pity of it, the incredible sacrifice, the suffering, and the set-back to our boasted civilization. No one else has had such opportunities to see the trench fighting, the thundering duels of artillery.

INTERESTING SERVICES AT GRACE M. E. CHURCH

Inspiring enthusiasm continues at all services at the Grace M. E. church in spite of the fact that Rev. Charles S. Gillespie, pastor of the church, is away. The Gospel team under the direction of Miss Emily March has been in charge. Rev. Frank Fletcher preached at the morning service yesterday. In the evening, Miss Emily March preached. She drew a number of helpful lessons from the story of the sick man at the pool of Bethesda, who because of his impotency could not step down into the pool to be cured. She ventured the opinion that many were kept out of the pool, or church, or eternal life because of the inconsistency of the professed followers of Christ. Attention was drawn to the man of the present day who takes a stand for Christ and like the impotent man of old is immediately set upon by his critics.

Announcement that Miss March is to preach always insures a good audience and many strangers. Last evening was no exception notwithstanding the vacation season. In the absence of Miss Alice Carroll, the organist, David Smalley, a member of the choir, is substituted. The choir is lending him strong support and last evening rendered a selection creditably. A male quartet sang "Thou Art Drifting" with good effect. The members of the quartet were Joseph Lear, Thomas Wallis, Irving Stebbins and Louis Bullman. In the morning the Misses Stella Kline and Marion Major sang a duet. The prayer meeting on Wednesday evening will be in charge of Mrs. Stebbins, who has been attending religious services at Ocean Grove. Special music will be a feature.

America's Nature

We're all of us neutral by nature:
We're peaceful as lambs—when we are!
Each friendly-inclined fellow-creature
Is safe—till our pathway he bar.
'Tis peace we prefer—we are glad to
Just dicker and barter and sell.
We never have fought till we had to,
And then we have fought mighty well!

We carried no chip on our shoulder—
Not even in seventy-six.
Much less since we're wiser and older
Would Yankees be caught at such tricks.
We'll take what some think would degrade us,
And hold back the bellicose yell—
We never did fight till they made us,
And then we fought fearfully well!

We'd rather have peace if they'll let us—
This hope is the hope of us all.
We pray every night they wont get us
Involved in this foreigners' brawl.
There's nothing attractive in killing;
All humans we love pretty well.
The foe always found us unwilling,
Then we turned in and licked 'em like—everything!

Natural Query

"See that man?"

"Yes; who is he?" I ask you the answer.

He is a Presidential Possibility.

From what part of Ohio does he come?

Bryan, Banker

"Seems Mr. Bryan doesn't rate President Wilson very high financially."

"Eh, what?"

"I understand he is out of the cabinet because he refused to indorse one of the President's notes."

Misunderstanding

The Minnesota farmer went to his provision dealer to settle a grocery bill of his farm hand, Ole Peterson.

"How much does Ole owe for butter?"

"We don't serve oleo for butter!" shouted the dealer, with what might appear undue sensitiveness.

We Should Hope Not

A contributor scolds, in a brief but emphatic note, because so much of this "advice about how to raise kids is written by old maids and others who have no more children than a rabbit."

Misleading Term?

A great many of the smaller-town or amusement park stock companies are believed, by their agonized bucolic observers, to have been recruited from the stockyards of the larger burgs.

New Interpretation

"De mortuis nil nisi bonum" means "Say nothing of the dead if he wasn't good." That's why we keep so still about a lot of our late lamented friends.

Poor Cuss!

He was a kleptomaniac—took things and couldn't help it!
Perhaps 'tis wrong of me to tell,
mayhap I shouldn't yelp it.
But the last hotel he stopped at before he reached the Tombs
He stole the Gideon Bibles from all the lodging rooms!

Some Consolation

(Don't tell this in Richmond, Va.)
The Five Foolish Virgins had just found out that they had broken their plates, because of the non-oleaginous condition of the interior of their lamp-bowls.

"O well," said the optimist among them, "we can at least lay claim to having formed the very initial chapter of the F. F. V."

You Could Have Thought Of This Yourself!

Might doesn't make right, but might certainly does make right a lot surer and more aggressive. The two combined are invincible.

The Young Lady Across The Way

The young lady across the way says she saw in the paper that more attention ought to be paid to trimming the excursion boats, but for her part she thinks they look very well plain.

HEALTH TALKS
by WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

The Deceptive Reflex

NOW and then a reader, ignoring the rule which prevents us from diagnosing or prescribing treatment for persons we have not examined, describes in more or less detail his or her symptoms and asks for a remedy.

The most solemn individual has a "funny bone." As a matter of fact most people have "funny bones" all over the body. The funny bone, however, is no bone at all, but the ulnar nerve; when you injure, irritate or in any way interfere with a nerve in its course, the sensation carried to the brain is misinterpreted, perhaps. A blow on the ulnar nerve or pressure on it as it crosses just behind the inner knuckle of the elbow joint causes tingling or numbness or pain in the ring and little fingers, to which the nerve gives sensation.

But that is nothing remarkable. There are cases of angina pectoris (alias "neuralgia of the heart")—angina pectoris means literally choking in the breast—in which the pain is felt down the left arm or perhaps only in the little finger, though the trouble is in the coronary arteries supplying the heart muscle itself.

Why Symptoms Delude

Why should angina, or breast pang, cause pain down the arm? Simply because the cables are pretty close together in the neck and the nerve current jumps a cable. The insulation is unreliable, and so is the symptom, without a careful medical examination to corroborate the patient's statements.

Cough caused by irritation in the back of the nasal passage, the throat or the larynx commonly seems to come from deep within the chest. Thousands of deluded mortals are taking cough medicine for "bronchial trouble" which in reality is nothing but a polyp, a thickened turbinate body in the nose or a diseased tonsil.

The human stomach is habitually dosed with worthless "dyspepsia" remedies in the futile endeavor to relieve pain or "gas" or distress actually due to chronic gallstones, chronic appendicitis, heart disease, kidney disease, Pott's disease of the spine, locomotor ataxia, pleurisy, tuberculosis or goodness only knows what.

A symptom, or a big array of symptoms, without the indispensable physical examination of the patient, can lead a doctor to but one conclusion—a good guess.

Take backache. Outside of stone in the kidney, abscess of the kidney and certain tumors, kidney trouble is never a cause of backache. Yet just think of the gallons of alleged "kidney cure" poured down the throats of those who diagnose their complaints by the almanac.

UPPER BERTHS

AN upper berth is a sort of second-story worker harbored by the sleeping car companies. It is a place where an man can sleep if he is a good athlete. It is located over a lower berth about 18 inches from a million candle power lamp and a little over two miles from a ladder. It contains room enough for a medium sized man and about half enough clothes to wear in a particular community. After the man has taken off these clothes and hung them up, he disposes of the rest by wrapping them around his neck.

A lower berth has shelves and a stunted hammock in which clothes may be deposited, but only the Great Northern and Northern Pacific railroads recognize that a man in the upper berth wears clothes and provide a rack for them. However in all sleepers the upper berth man is allowed to store his shoes with the porter. One of the heart-rending sights of American life is that of a frenzied man poking his head over the railing of an upper berth and pleading with an absent porter to give him back his shoes.

The sleeper company kindly provides a ladder with which an upper berth may be entered. Most men do not wait for the ladder on descending, however, but grasp the rail and swing lightly down, planting one foot in the face of the sleeper below and the other in the bosom of space about two feet from the floor.

Upper berths are very comfortable when one has learned to sleep in them without getting tangled up in the chain which runs the shebang. However, the Interstate Commerce Commission has decided that they are only four-fifths as comfortable as a lower berth and has fixed their rates accordingly. It is remarkable how many people have found out that upper berths are really preferable to lower ones since this decision was made. Many travelers who used to write to the president of the company whenever they were given an upper now ask for it, because of its superior location and altitude, and feel very much disappointed when they have to content themselves with a lower berth.

Most men do not wait for the ladder on descending

Which teaches us, that the easiest way to make an inferior article popular is to stop working it off at superior prices and to make a bargain out of it.

Views Of The Press

Why Business Looks Better

IN the August American Magazine a well-known American banker writes an article entitled "The Money Side of War" which is full of news and important financial facts. Of the present business prospects in this country he says in part:

"Suppose we come back now to the situation in America: Those perplexing and even agonizing days seem now to have passed. There has, in effect, been a tremendous reversal of conditions. Money is easy; we are importing gold on a good scale, having already brought back over $80,000,000 of what we sent out last year. Our stock exchanges are opened, with the trading free as air; not hampered by the minimum limits which still rule on the London Stock Exchange. As to foreign holdings of our securities, they are still being sold to us in large volume, and we are easily absorbing them. We even welcome such sales, for they serve to ease up the foreign exchange situation, which now has turned almost as heavily in our favor as, last September, it was against us.

"In fact, sterling exchange has now fallen to a point far below normal, around 4.78 and 4.79, while francs are at 5.30. German marks are at twelve per cent. discount. This, of course, is as bad for the foreigners as the high rate was bad for us. It means now that the allies, who are buying munitions of war, grain and other supplies here, at a rate of, I suppose, not less than $5,000,000 a day, are obliged to lose heavily in each payment.

"Many of our manufacturers and merchants have been doing wonderful business in articles relating to the war. So heavy have been these war orders, running into the hundreds of millions of dollars, that now their effect is beginning to spread to general business which, even if it is still depressed, shows distinct signs of improvement.

"And as a climax to all this improvement America is becoming a large factor in the international loan market. These foreign loans have been so scattered that perhaps the total of them has not been fully appreciated, but just let me enumerate: To various municipalities and provinces in Canada, American investors have since January 1, 1915, loaned over $60,000,000; to Russia $25,000,000, in addition to private credits which that Government has arranged to almost the same amount; to France $40,000,000, or thereabouts; to Germany about $10,000,000; to Switzerland $15,000,000; to Norway and Sweden about $3,000,000 apiece; to the Argentine $40,000,000. The grand total, therefore, of these foreign loans that we have made since war broke out, is about $225,000,000."

The PEOPLE'S LEGAL FRIEND
by E. R. BRANSON

Nine Points Of The Law

Q. Please tell me what is meant by adverse possession of land and what is its effect?

A. Adverse possession is an actual, visible possession of land by some one who claims to have a right to the land and who intends to assert such right to the exclusion even of the real owner. Such possession must be continuous and uninterrupted and must be, further, what the law esteems to be "notorious." Adverse possession will give a good title to the land if continued for the length of time specified in the statutes of the state.

How Much Has He?

Q. Where a wife is granted a divorce and is allowed alimony, how is the amount determined?

A. There is no unvarying rule as to the amount of alimony that will be allowed, as this matter rests within the sound discretion of the court. Many circumstances will be taken into consideration by the court, such as the age of the parties, their station in life, the husband's financial means and the care and education of the children. An amount of alimony that would be suitable and proper in one case might be wholly inadequate or wholly disproportionate in another.

Altering A Legal Paper

Q. Please inform me whether a slight alteration made in a legal paper, after it has been signed, will affect it.

A. If the alteration is immaterial—that is, if it does not change the meaning of the instrument and does no harm to the rights and interests of either party—it will have no effect.

Security On A Lease

Q. Is security on a lease ever required?

A. Yes, frequently.

Whither Thou Goest—

Q. Please inform me whether a husband has the right to determine the place of residence of the family. I have been thinking about moving to another city, where, it seems to me, business prospects are better, but my wife does not want to go.

A. The husband, as the head of the family, has the right to determine the place of residence. Where he exercises such right in good faith, the wife is under a legal obligation to accompany him and make her home with him where he provides it.

Must Have Official Seal

Q. Is a commissioner of deeds required to have an official seal?

A. An official seal is required by the laws of your state (Maryland).

Did The Play Come Off?

Q. About a month ago some of the young men and young women of my town planned to have a home-talent play. I was one of the number and we decided to hire the use of a piano, to be placed in the opera house. The piano was secured and was installed two days before the date announced for the play. That evening, a fire broke out in the opera house and partly destroyed the building. The piano was badly damaged and rendered unfit for use. Could the piano dealer sue us and get damages?

A. When you hired the piano, you were bound to exercise the care that ordinarily prudent and careful persons would observe and for any loss occurring through your negligence you would be liable. From your statement of the facts, it appears that that the loss was not caused by any fault or negligence on your part, and in such case you will not be under any legal liability.

Daddy's Bedtime Story— Why the Little Doggie Chased His Tail.

"THERE was a little doggie that chased his tail," said daddy. "And I suppose he would be doing it yet, only, you see, my dears, he grew older and wiser."

"Why, daddy," cried Evelyn, laughing, "that sounds funny!"

"I hope so," smiled daddy. "Maybe it will be useful, too, though that doesn't matter. Kiddies like to be entertained.

"Well, let's see about this pup dog of ours. He was a very little pup with a name much bigger than himself. His name was Theopilus.

"Little Theopilus was fuzzy and fat and black and white, and he had dark eyes that shone with love of everybody and everything and the cutest bark and a yelp that was as joyful a yelp, I think, as was ever yelped, but he hardly knew how to express himself.

"But he found a way. It was on a lovely summer morning, with the trees all green and the sky all blue and the bees buzzing and all that, and Theopilus looked at those bees, and he had to laugh. They seemed so serious. They had so much work to do. But to Theopilus life was all play.

"So he barked and barked and barked, and he ran up and down the lawn in front of the house, and he did everything he could think of, and then he sat down and thought funny little thoughts of what he could do next.

"And he looked down and saw his funny little wiggly, waggly tail lying on the lawn beside him. Ah, there was something he could do!. He could chase his tail.

"So he jumped up, and he chased his funny tail round and round and round. But, do the best he could, he could not catch up with it.

"And along came Geoffrey, the great big St. Bernard next door. Geoffrey was very old. His eyes were dim, and he was stiff and rheumaticky. But anybody could tell by looking at him that he had been a good dog once.

"'Why do you chase your tail?' asked the old dog, smiling sadly.

"And do you know, kiddies, for the life of him that pup dog couldn't tell the old dog why he chased his tail.

"But the old dog looked wise and nodded and said: 'I know why you chase your tail. You think you will catch up with it some day, but you never will.'

"The little pup dog looked rather worried at that, but the old dog said encouragingly: 'Don't you worry, son. You just keep on trying to catch it. You see, you're young and you need the exercise. Why, do you know, once I used to chase my tail too!'

"And the big dog walked away, all stiff and rheumaticky, and the pup dog looked after him as if he didn't believe what he said. But it was true."

Glimpses of Married Life

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

Olive opened the bedroom door where Nell was bathing the baby, wide enough to admit her head. "Mrs. Ash has been to the marshal to get him to help find Mrs. Ellson. She was visiting her, she said, and disappeared the evening of the big thunderstorm. She has not seen her since. The marshal was naturally disturbed over this news and began inquiring around to find out if anyone had seen her. Someone suggested that she might be the ghost that knocked at Gorsley's hut, but Mrs. Ash assured them she was dressed in black when she left the house."

"What does the doctor think of the situation?" asked Nell, putting the baby in the tub. "Now watch him splash! He throws water all over the room," said Nell proudly.

For once Olive was oblivious of the baby's charms.

"The doctor drove out to Gorsley's yesterday and inquired about his visitor and called at the nearby farm houses to learn if they had seen or heard her, but they had seen nothing. Doesn't she beat everything for mysterious disappearing?"

"I hope the doctor will do nothing to drag this thing before the public. That would not be fair to you when you are to marry him so soon, or to me either, for that matter. I do not care to have the scandal stirred up again," said Nell gravely.

"Do you suppose she killed herself?" Olive was by this time sitting on the side of the bed.

"No, I suppose she's resting in some farm house and will reappear when she can make some more trouble. If she had committed suicide her body would have been found."

"I'll try to persuade the doctor to do nothing about it. If she's alive she will turn up when it comes time to pay the alimony, though she can't legally collect it, as she has broken the terms of the contract. She should be obliged to work and have something to occupy her mind."

"Have you decided when you will be married?" continued Nell.

"The exact date is not set, but it will be this fall some time, I think."

"What will the doctor's sister do?" was Nell's next question.

"There is a cozy cottage around the corner from the doctor's house, and she will move in there. She has a small income of her own, you know, and there is an older sister, a maiden lady, who may come to live with her. You see, the doctor was the youngest child and his mother died when he was a baby; so this sister is more like a mother, as she took care of the children." Olive rose to leave the room.

"Oh, did the doctor tell you Fairport is to have a big sugar beet factory? The land is sold and the contract let for the building. Dick is quite excited about it, says it will be a fine thing for the place. The man will, of course, move his family here, and if he is a hustler we may get electric light, sewer and decent sidewalks. You see neither the Scotts nor Frazees have ever taken much of a hand in local affairs. They are here for a few weeks in the summer to look over the situation, and their country homes are so far away from town that they have been indifferent and never influenced the situation much," continued Nell excitedly.

"That will mean a big increase in population, won't it?" suggested Olive, "and in railroad facilities?

"I hope the family will be enjoyable. Did Dick say what the man was like? You see I am taking as much interest as if I were a resident," she added, blushing.

"Why not? You belong to us, and what interests one interests all. There will be a fine new house, for there is nothing suitable for the Jaynes—that's the name—to live in."

Household Hints

CANNING AND PRESERVING.

Raspberry Butter—One quart raspberries cooked and strained through fine sieve, six large apples (Yellow Transparent) cooked and strained through sieve. Mix berry juice and apples, add three cups sugar, cook all together until thick. This makes an excellent butter. Elderberries can be used same way.

Red Raspberry Preserves—For every cup of berries take two of sugar, place in small kettle and cook seven minutes without adding any water. Remove at once and put in jelly glasses or pint cans. This recipe is equally successful with black raspberries or blackberries.

Blackberry Jam—Mash blackberries, take about one-third the amount of sugar as berries; pour in small amount of water; cook slowly until berries have a waxy appearance, then pour into a jar and seal.

Any Kind of Butter or Jam—Mash fruit fine as possible, add as much sugar as fruit. Mix well together, put in oven, cook slowly until well done, stirring occasionally.

Garnet "Spread"—Cut rind of watermelon into small pieces, cook until tender, drain, run through food chopper, put in jelly bag, hang up to drain about two hours. Cook red currants, run through colander and to every three cups of currants give one of the watermelon pulp and two cups of granulated sugar and juice of one orange. Cook over slow fire about two hours or until clear and thick. Stir often, as this burns easily. This is a beautiful garnet color and very good.

Watermelon Preserves—Cut off outside of rind, cut inner part into cubes; make thick sirup of granulated sugar. After cooking watermelon until you can run a fork through pieces pour into the hot sirup; slice lemon and drop into the mass. Cook together until desired thickness is reached.

Watermelon Pickles—Scrape off what red part remains on rind, then peel away the green skin. Cut in three or four-inch lengths and soak in salt water over night. In the morning strain. Then boil rinds in fresh water until rinds look clear (from one-half to one hour). Strain again. Put rinds in jars and pour over them a mixture of half water and half vinegar boiled together with sugar to taste. Add cloves and cinnamon or cloves and nutmeg. Seal jars.

THE TABLE

Bean Salad—String beans, boil till tender in salt water, drain well, add finely chopped onions, pepper, salt and vinegar. When cool, add olive oil or butter. The onions may be omitted.

Blackberry Fruit Cake — Three eggs, one cup sugar, two cups flour two-thirds cup butter, three tablespoons sour cream, one teaspoon each of soda, cloves, cinnamon, allspice, one grated nutmeg, one cup blackberry jam. Bake in layers with white icing for filling and top.

Lamb Chops With Sausage—Roll chops in beaten egg, then in cracker crumbs. Having cut the fat from the chops in tiny pieces, brown them in the skillet and when piping hot lay in the chops, also a few good pork sausages which have also been rolled in egg and crumbs. Cover and let brown, then turn chops and brown other side. Sprinkle with pepper and salt, and serve at once.

Cantaloupe Ice Cream—Scald one quart milk and pour gradually upon four eggs, which have been beaten with three cups sugar. Cook to a thin custard in double boiler. Cool and flavor with one teaspoon vanilla or a few drops of almond extract; add one pint rich cream and four cups cantalopue pulp which has been mashed through a colander. Add a little green vegetable coloring before freezing, if you like. This makes one gallon.

LINEN OR COTTON FROCKS ARE BEST IN THE SIMPLER STYLES.

No. 8812-8931.

The summer linens make up best in the simpler styles; but it is well established that simple lines, well chosen, are far more effective than elaborateness. The dress shown above, Ladies' Home Journal pattern No. 8812-8931, has excellent lines, being a well-cut pattern of few pieces. The sleeves, waist and upper part of the skirt are cut in one, while the lower part of the skirt consists of a circular flounce giving the new full effect at the hem. This dress can be charmingly decorated with an embroidery design. Ladies' Home Journal transfer pattern No. 14303. The pattern cuts for misses in sizes 32 to 44 inches bust measure, requiring in size 36, 5 yards of 42-inch material.

HEARING FOR RECRUITERS.

San Francisco, Aug. 16.—Lieutenant Kenneth Croft, of the British army, indicted in connection with the alleged hiring of British recruits in this city, will appear in court with others today on the charge of violating the neutrality of the United States. The British Government will be represented by counsel at the hearing in the Federal Court. The British officer is charged with assisting British citizens to return to Europe for military service. He is alleged to have had charge of a big party of recruits. One of the recruits rounded up is William Stables, who deserted from the United States army recently.

That $200,000 has been expended by mysterious agents in this city in securing recruits to the British army and sending them to Europe, and that at least one of the recruits is an American citizen, is the statement of a high government official, who has seen some of the evidence.

MERCHANTS IN BIG CONVENTION

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 16—That business is on the jump in the Northwest, and a great boom for this section of the country is already begun, was the report brought by the delegates to the third annual convention of the Northwest Merchants, who met here today. The busy industrial leaders have spared this week for a get-together convention in Seattle, and have brought exhibits to the industrial fair showing the development of their industries. Nearly every city in the Pacific Northwest is represented, and the feeling of optimism is general. Governor Lister will address the convention on Wednesday, and many other able speakers will discuss the trade questions of the present day.

U. S. SELLS BIG MONTANA TRACTS

Kalispell, Mont., Aug. 16.—Government grazing and agricultural land in the former Flathead Indian Reservation is offered today at public sale in Kalispell. Another sale will be held in Missoula on August 23. In all there are 145,000 acres to be disposed of. One hundred thousand acres will be sold to the highest bidders in tracts of 160 acres each, or less, for cash, most of it at prices varying from $1.25 to $2 per acre. No person will be permitted to buy over 640 acres. The remaining 45,000 acres, classified as barren, burned over and small timberland, will be sold at prices that do not exceed $1 per acre.

MONEY BY REGISTERED MAIL.

Washington, Aug. 16.—All government money and securities, beginning today will be transported by registered mail, instead of by express. The express companies, who have been handling the traffic for over a quarter of a century, will lose nearly a half a million a year. The government will save hundreds of thousands of dollars a year, and Secretary McAdoo believes the fund and securities will be fully as safe in the mails.

NORTH IOWA FAIR OPENS.

Mason City, Ia., Aug. 16.—The North Iowa Fair will be held here all the week. The feature of the fair this year is a combination sale of live stock under the direction of the exhibitors. The events of the week are many and varied. Saturday will be Automobile Day, with a parade of motor cars and races.

PERSUASIVE.

Far from concealing anything of pertinency to the issue, the old serpent freely confessed that, if Eve should eat the apple, it meant clothes from that time forward.

"But," he argued, and never more cogently, "clothes will be something to talk about when you are tired of the weather and don't happen to be brainy!"

And the first mother, bethinking her how many of her daughters were destined to find themselves in suchwise circumstanced, thereupon yielded the point, with what result is only too well known to the present generation of mankind.

THE FIRST INTIMATION.

A poet, once upon a time, was tossing off some trifles light as air. He was not particularly different from other poets, yet when, by chance, he tossed off a trifle lighter than air, he fell for a moment thoughtful.

"What does it suggest?" he mused soberly.

But the day of the birdman was not yet come; so the poet, after an interval of meditation, returned as it were to his muttons, and the world wagged peacefully on.

NO DANGER.

40,000 TEACHERS GATHERED FOR NATIONAL CONVENTION

Oakland, Cal., Aug. 16.—Fully 40,000 school teachers from all parts of the United States are gathered here for the convention of the National Education Association, which opens this afternoon in the new Municipal Auditorium. Dr. David Starr Jordan, president of the big association, will be the leading speaker at the opening session today. This big conference on education is the fifty-third annual meeting of the leaders in all kinds of education throughout the country. Colleges, universities, trade schools and private schools are represented, as well as the great American system of public schools.

The conference will be unusually lengthy this year, extending until the 28th. Sessions will be held daily in the big auditorium here, and many sectional meetings will be held. Among other topics to be considered at the mass meetings of the teachers are war and peace, especially in their relation to education. Rural education, the education of the negro, the teaching of mothercraft and the vocational aspect of home economics. Next Saturday the teachers will formally transfer their activities to the Panama-Pacific Exposition in San Francisco.

The program of speakers is representative of each phase of education, and some of the ablest leaders will be heard during the next two weeks.

LABOR CONVENTIONS.

- Proctor's Theatre -

At Proctor Theatre Tonight.

"Sunday," with Reine Davies playing the leading role, is being presented this afternoon and tonight at Proctor's Theatre. Here indeed, is a picture of adventure that will appeal to old and young alike, a World Film production of the great stage success in which Miss Ethel Barrymore played. Today's program is rounded out by "Hello, Bill," a B. P. O. E. comedy with Billie Ritchie, the English comedian, playing a prominent part.

Tomorrow afternoon the Proctor house will again observe the bob-o-link souvenir bracelet matinee for the young women patrons of the "movies." The feature picture is the great five-part Universal photoplay, "The Garden of Lies," with Jane Cowell in the stellar part. "The Garden of Lies" needs no other recommendation than to say "Universal." Another episode of the serial "The Diamond from the Skies," is also scheduled for tomorrow, together with an installment of "You Know Me, Al," the baseball "bugologist" serial.

Two important announcements are to be made concerning coming pictures. Gaby Deslys in "Her Triumph," Wednesday afternoon and evening, and "The Rosary" to be shown next Monday with absolutely no advance in prices. These photo productions are to be shown at the Proctor house at popular prices.

∴ Plainfield Theatre ∴

"The Law of the Land," New York city's recent success, and which had a year's run at the Forty-eighth Street Theatre, has been secured under a heavy guarantee, and comes to the Plainfield Theatre Saturday afternoon and night. The play was written by George Broadhurst, which in itself is a guarantee that a treat is in store for our theatregoers. Mr. Broadhurst has surrounded the play with a strong cast, and the entire production will be carried. Miss Adelaide French, who will be remembered here for her wonderful portrayal of Madame X., a part she created and played with great success for three seasons, will be seen in the title role, a part particularly suited to Miss French's talents.

The grim tragedy with which the play opens grips the spectator's heart with pity for the young mother who takes the law into her own hands against her husband to protect her child from his brutality. She must pay with her life, and scandal and ruin to her child, or sacrifice the man she loves. For a while it looks like a tragic finish for the play; but then comes the marvel, the wonderful chivalry of the men around her. Each is willing to protect her with his life. It is the chivalry largely which furnishes the delicious comedy relief and brings many a gasping laugh. The cast consists of such well-known people as Adelaide French and Coates Gwynne.

"POLE VAULTING IS A CINCH," SAYS PRETTY GIRL ATHLETE, "I'LL SHOW THE BOYS UP"

Who says girls can't jump? If there are any who do, let them read of the exploits, as a pole vaulter, of pretty little Pauline Siebenthal, a student in the junior class of Indiana University. Miss Sibenthal recently broke the world's record for women jumpers in this sport.

Recently, at a meet at Bloomington, Ind., this remarkable girl athlete easily eclipsed all records at clearing the bar previously made by girls by vaulting 6 feet 1 inch, which is five inches higher than the best record previously made.

Miss Siebenthal's record is made all the more remarkable from the fact that it was accomplished with little previous training in track work. When Miss Siebenthal was first permitted to vault for height, after only a few days' preliminary practice, she cleared the bar with ease at 5 feet 6 inches. Then she did 5 feet 11 inches, which broke the record by three inches, but to eclipse this, a few days later she made her best jump of 6 feet 1 inch.

Although track athletics are new to Miss Siebenthal, ever since she was a small girl she has been interested and has participated in basketball, and among the other championships she won this spring was her class championship in tennis.

She is also keen on baseball, and attempted to get up a girls' team in college this year, which she believed would, with a little practice, put it all over the boys' team, but the college authorities interfered with this ambition.

Coach Childs has been almost as much astonished at Miss Siebenthal's remarkable athletic powers as anyone else. He has stated that, in his opinion, she is today the most remarkable and proficient girl athlete in the United States.

"Hub" Stine Met His Waterloo In Netherwood Regalia Saturday.

The leading Netherwood City Leaguers hung up a 13 to 2 victory at the expense of the First Baptist clan Saturday afternoon. The East Enders met Stine's curves and pounded them to the four corners of the lot. In the second half of the first frame "Dipper" Smith, the first man up, landed on one for a single, M. Terry following with a like smash advancing Smith, who had stolen second, to third. Matty Coughlin failed in the pinch, striking out, but his brother, Eddie, upheld the family fame by clouting out a single scoring two men. He registered on Bill Dodd's clout. The Netherwood guns were noiseless until the fourth frame when two loud shots registered on the score-board, two more following in the fifth and seventh cantos. As a grand climax Coughlin's Boys counted out four big ones in the eighth. All told, eighteen hits were made off Stine.

Russ Stewart was absolutely invincible, allowing only five weak hits, all of which were made by the first four men in the batting order. Eight errors were committed by the losers, Wren Townley and Herbert Stine each slipping twice. Wild throws were very prominent, and at least three of the Netherwood tallies were made as a result of these useless heaves.

The heavy hitters for the winners were M. Terry, Eddie Coughlin, Bill Dodd and V. Terry, while Wren Townley performed well at the bat for the victims.

"Shakey" Clarke, the ex-P. H. S star, played second for the Baptists and did very good work, fielding faultlessly and infusing a lot of "pep" into the whole Baptist team.

WITH "UMP" HURLING STARS WALLOP TABS

Katz Miller a Puzzle to Grape Juice Batters During the Afternoon.

When the T. A. B. manager goes so far as to invite competition from an All-Star team and then is forced to taste the bitter dregs of a 10 to 4 defeat, he has indeed a sad tale to relate. But when a superb hurler like "Kats" Miller is the main reason, a little leeway must be shown the victims. Thirteen hits were taken away from Richard Lawton, while Miller was relieved of about eight. At that, Miller fanned but few of his opponents, only three taking a nip of the dust.

Art Kyle and Jamie McCarty worked splendidly with the willow, while Eddie Bergen clouted out two doubles for his team.

You'll know what the old adage-makers meant by urging that "time is money" if you delay advertising for a tenant. Hundreds are thinking as much about the inevitable home-hunt as about the great war. Let your "To Let" advertising help them.

spectively. Joe Harter, Wally Cosgrove, Bill Stallings, Lennon and Swanson were the mainstays of the winning aggregation.

"Red" Grimes, the Somerville star, performed in right field for the losers and later entered the box, issuing one pass and striking out one man during his stay there. Clinton fanned seven Washingtonians.

TABS PUT TO ROUT BY JONES' ALL STARS

Manager's Offer of Batting Prize Aid In Pulling the Trick.

The Plainfield A. A. trimmed the T. A. B. S. on Avon Oval, yesterday, the score being 9 to 1. Johnny Dixon, the winning hurler, was at his best, the Abstainers finding his shots unusually difficult to solve. Jim Scott banged out two hits, while Frank Lawton and Tone Denny got the only others. "Dip" Jones donated a money prize to the man on his team who registered the best batting average. Eddie Bergen, with an average of .500, carried home the bacon, driving home two men each time he hit the pill. Eleven T. A. B. S. players struck out, while seven A. A. men bit the dust.

Two new men donned A. A. uniforms, Billy Mullin and Albert Jaeger making their debut.

SAURER SECONDS PUT OUT BY BOY SCOUTS

Dunellen "Get to" Pitchers and Pound Out a 10 to 7 Victory.

The Dunellen Boy Scouts defeated the Saurer seconds, of this city, on Saurer Oval, Dunellen, Saturday afternoon, by the score of 10 to 7. The game was featured by heavy hitting, the Scouts obtaining 17 hits and the locals 13. Another feature of the game were three fast double plays, two of which were made by the locals and one by the Scouts. The double play of the Scouts occurred in the first inning, and would have been a triple but for a wild throw by Huff.

Brown, of the Clinton Avenue team, of the City League, played with the locals, as did Mullin, of the Plainfield Juniors. Both of these teams were idle on account of most of their players having gone on the Hope Chapel excursion.

Both Brown and Mullin played their usual calibre of ball. Brown started off behind the bat. He caught until he relieved Stevens on the mound in the sixth. During the three innings he twirled he struck out six men and allowed nine hits.

Lewis, who twirled for the Scouts, kept the hits of the locals well scattered, and was only in danger in the fourth.

Huenke, who played left field for the locals, made a great catch in the fifth inning, when he ran over to left center and robbed Huff of a home run.

Tinsman played a very poor game for the locals in right field, and was largely responsible for their defeat.

Dealaman played a great game at shortstop for the Scouts.

CONTI BROTHERS WILL PLAY IN CITY LEAGUE

Determined to plug up the hole left vacant by the jumping of Schott and the non-appearance of a few regulars, the Hope Chapel manager intends entering the Conti brothers on his roster at the City League meeting tonight.

One of the brothers, Frank, has played for the Hopes before, although at that time the Chapel aggregation was an independent one.

AN ORDINANCE

TO VACATE AN UNOPENED AND UNUSED STREET ON PROPERTY OF JOHN GRAY, RUNNING THROUGH THE BLOCK BOUNDED BY PUTNAM AVENUE, WEBSTER PLACE AND WOODLAND AVENUE, AND BEING THE UNOPENED AND UNUSED CONTINUATION OF BERCKMAN STREET.

WHEREAS, it appears that the hereinafter described unused portion of the street, which street is particularly described in a return of the Surveyors of the Highway recorded in Book 1 of Road Returns for Union County at page 54 and which appears by the Surveyor's map to have a width of sixty-six (66) feet instead of sixty (60) feet as shown by the return, has never been opened to public use, to wit, the portion thereof hereinafter particularly described; and

WHEREAS, it appears that John Gray is the owner of all abutting lands on said portion of said street, and that he and his wife have applied to the Common Council of the city of Plainfield to vacate said portion of said street; and

WHEREAS, the said portion of said street has not been opened to public use for more than twenty years, or at all since it was laid out by the Surveyors of the Highway as aforesaid; and

WHEREAS, it appears that the opening of said portion of said street to public use would involve a large expenditure of public funds, and that the opening of said portion of said street to public use would be of no public benefit; and

WHEREAS, all of the owners of abutting lands on said portion of said street have consented in writing to such vacation by filing in the office of the city clerk in the city of Plainfield such consent duly acknowledged as in the case of an acknowledgement to a conveyance of lands; and

WHEREAS, it appears to the interest of the city that such unopened and unused portion of said street should be vacated and the Common Council judges the public good requires the same be done:

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

1. That the unopened and unused portion of said street hereinabove referred to and more particularly hereinafter described, which was laid out by the Surveyors of the Highway by their return dated October 20, 1865, recorded in Book 1 of Road Returns for Union County, at page 54, and which unopened and unused portion is particularly described as follows:

Beginning at a point in the centre line of Berckman Street as the same is now laid out and opened, said point being distant one hundred and eighty-nine and one-tenth (189.1) feet in a magnetic course of south forty-two degrees and thirty seven minutes east along said centre line of Berckman Street from its intersection with the centre line of Webster Place said beginning point also being in the division line between lands formerly belonging to Evan Jones and Stephen Vail thence running south forty-two degrees and thirty-seven minutes east through lands of said Vail and J. H. Adopted by the Common Council, August 2, 1915; approved by the Mayor August 3, 1915.

Mayor.

ROYAL EDWARD SUNK BY GERMANS

British Transport Torpedoed, In Aegean Sea; 1,000 Lives Lost.

CARRIED LARGE CREW

According to Admiralty Statement About 600 Were Saved—Berlin Reports the Capture of 4,500 Prisoners and 24 Cannon.

London, Aug. 17—The British transport Royal Edward has been torpedoed and sunk by a German submarine. Announcement to this effect was made officially today. Six hundred men were saved out of 1,382 troops and 220 other persons on board.

The text of the announcement is as follows:

The British transport Royal Edward was sunk by an enemy submarine in the Aegean last Saturday morning. According to the information at present available, the transport had on board thirty-two military officers and 1,350 troops, in addition to the ship's crew of 220 officers and men.

The troops consisted mainly of reinforcements for the Twenty-ninth Division and details of the royal army medical corps. Full information has not yet been received, but it is known that about 600 have been saved.

So far as has been reported officially, this is the first instance in which a British transport has been attacked successfully by a submarine. It has been a matter of pride with the British government that it had transported hundreds of thousands of troops across many seas without the loss of life. It is probable that the number of troops sent to France and Belgium since the beginning of the war is considerably in excess of 700,000. In addition, large numbers of men have been transported to the Dardanelles, Egypt, South Africa and Serbia.

Troops have been brought in from Canada New Zealand, Australia and India for the defense of the mother country. To guard these vast movements elaborate precautions have been taken. Transports are accompanied by an escort of warships, chief reliance being placed on destroyers for warding off submarine attacks.

The British announcement shows that the Royal Edward was engaged in conveying troops to the Dardanelles front, having been sunk in the Aegean Sea. German submarines sent to these waters to assist the Turks have been very active. One of them, the U-51, under command of Captain Otto Hersing, made the voyage from Wilheimshafen to the Dardanelles and sank the British battleships Triumph and Majestic.

The Royal Edward apparently has been engaged in the transport service since early in the war, and for a time at least was detailed to take Canadian troops to England. An August 11, 1914, she sailed from Montreal with 500 French reservists on board. A despatch from Montreal at that time said the steamship probably would be taken over by the British Admiralty after completing her eastward voyage. The last report of the Royal Edward in maritime records is her arrival on October 18 at Avonmouth, England, from Montreal.

An unofficial despatch from Berlin on February 21 reported the sinking of a British transport with troops and of a steamer that was accompanying the transport. Later it was said that a prize offered in Germany for the sinking of a transport had been distributed. No official statement was made on this subject, however, either in Berlin or in London.

Details regarding the movements of transports have been withheld as a matter of precaution by the British government and the precise nature of the methods employed to Guard them has not been disclosed. It was reported some time ago, without official confirmation, that two heavy wire nets had been strug across the British Channel, forming a lane in which transports might travel in safety.

The Royal Edward, was 11,117 tons gross and 526 feet long. She was owned by the Canadian Northern Steamships, of Toronto. She was bulletin Glasgow in 1908.

Servia is delaying the Balkan negotiations. Final decision as to ceding territory to Bulgaria will not be reached for several days.

Paris, Aug. 17—The French war statement today follows:

"There was rather violent cannonade in the course of the night at different points notably at Boesinghe at Quennevieres and in Lorraine. There was a combat wih grenades in the Argonne at Fontine Aux Charmes and at Haute Chevanchee. At the

DAY NURSERY FUND GETS A BIG BOOST

Philanthropic Citizens Contribute $40 In Aid of Worthy Charity.

Philanthropic citizens of Plainfield, continue their generosity, through the Plainfield Daily Press, the mail bringing $40 this morning to add to the King's Daughters' Day Nursery fund. It is, indeed, a worthy object to be a contributor to, and each mite, however small will be appreciated, inasmuch as it will help pay for the milk consumed at the home.

From twenty to twenty-five children are being cared for on an average nowadays, while during one month over 600 little tots were cared for. Children all the way from ten days to eight years are taken in for the day while their mothers go out to work in order to help carry the expenses incurred in keeping a house. In many cases the mother is a widow whose only maintenance is the little she earns while the Nursery keeps the children during the day.

In the rear of the building a large playground equipped with swings, sand boxes and other forms of amusement keep the youngsters at play all day under the eye of a competent matron. Nourishing food is given them, and their health looked after, while instructions in many cases are given the mother to carry out while the child is at home. In several cases, when the children have come to the home in weak health, the care of the nurses and doctors has bloomed the youngsters into healthy little tots full of the joy of living. You cannot apreciate the remarkable work done by the Nursery if you do not visit the institution for yourself and actually see the routine. If you think your money is given toward a worthless cause spend a short investigation tour for yourself, if only ten minutes, at the West Front street home and judge for yourself. Not one contributor has done so and gone away a wiser and happier person because of their contribution. The total fund to date is as follows:

Edward H. Lutz, of 19 Warren avenue, Jersey City, this morning communicated with the local police requesting that a search of the city be made for his eighteen-year-old son, Edmund, who has been missing from home for the past two weeks. When last seen he wore a blue serge suit and russet shoes.

The youth is well acquainted in this city where relatives of the family lived until recently and it is the belief of his parents that he has been stopping here.

COST THEM $10 EACH FOR FUN THEY HAD AT PARTY

For the part they are alleged to have played in breaking up a social gathering at the home of Mrs. Lena Harris, on Dunellen avenue, Saturday night, Thomas Wyckoff, Edward Hannon and Earl Haver, Dunellen youths in their early twenties, were sentenced to pay a fine of $10 each with the option of spending twenty days at Elizabeth, when arraigned before Judge DeMeza in the city court, this morning. Included in the array of witnesses giving testimony against the alleged combatants and cabbage-throwers were a number of young women who were invited guests at the Harris house.

Owen Mohan, son of Dunellen's police chief, was also one of the com*plaining witnesses,displaying two va*cancies in his upper row of teeth which he said had been caused by a blow from Hannon when he (Mohan) sought to play the role of protector for the other guests and wandered out into the open to "shoo" the disturbers away. In each case the defending parties had never been arrested before and in passing sentence Judge DeMeza extended leniency in view of this fact.

SUFFRAGISTS PLAN TOUR OF THE STATE

Mrs. Robert G. Shaw, of Boston, and Party Will Spend a Week In New Jersey.

Mrs. Robert Gould Shaw, chairman of the Equal Franchise Committee, of Boston, is coming to New Jersey in her automobile on September 8, with a party of speakers, who are to tour the State for a week under the auspices of the New Jersey Woman Suffrage Association. In the party will be Margaret Foley, probably the most famous outdoor speaker in this country; Mrs. Richard Fitzgerald, president of the Massachusetts Political Equality Union, and Mrs. Francis Peabody Magoun, of Cambridge. Miss Foley's services are being contributed by the Massachusetts Woman Suffrage Association, and Mrs. Fitzgerald's by the Massachusetts organization of which she is president.

The party will reach New York city on the morning of September 8. They will be met there by an escorting party of the New Jersey suffragists in a dozen or more gaily decorated automobiles. After speaking at a street meeting in New York, the whole party will proceed to Jersey City, where the first of the New Jersey series of meetings will be held. During the week a luncheon will be given in honor of the Massachusetts party by the State executive board of the New Jersey Association, at the Carteret Arms, in Elizabeth. During the stay in the State, this party will speak in Jersey City, Paterson, Passaic, Newark, Bayonne, Elizabeth, New Brunswick and Trenton. Miss Foley will probably leave the party for one day during the trip and go to Camden to address a large meeting of factory workers there.

The Capital Branch of the New Jersey Woman Suffrage Association at 438 East State street, Trenton, will be formally opened tomorrow afternoon. Mrs. E. F. Feickert, the State president, will preside at the meeting, and there will be visitors from several New Jersey counties besides a general rallying of workers from nearby places in Mercer, Hunterdon and Burlington counties. The National Association is contributing the services of one of its field workers, Miss Lavinia Engle, as manager for this headquarters, which will be open every day and every evening during the rest of the campaign.

DOOR AND POLE REPAIRED.

The large door to the North Plainfield fire house, which was ripped off its hinges and broken when the apparatus was dashing for the fire on Wilson avenue last Saturday morning, has been repaired and hung in place again. The pole to the apparatus, which was broken on that run, also has been repaired. A spare pole, kept in the fire house, put the apparatus in condition for use pending the return of the broken pole.

MIDNIGHT SCARE FOR BORO RESIDENTS

William Nagle Becomes Frantic When Arrested For Being Drunk and Disorderly.

What residents of Upper Somerset street last night thought was a tragedy being enacted proved to be only a marshal arresting a drunken man, but he made so much noise that it was the general belief in that part of North Plainfield that someone was being robbed or murdered. The offender was William Nagle, sixty-five years old, whose home is in Highland Park, New Brunswick. He is a harness maker by trade, and the North Plainfield police say he frequently visits the borough and imbibes too deeply. That was what he did yesterday, and when Special Marshal Sohl undertook to take him in custody on Westervelt avenue early this morning, Nagle let out a screech that could be heard for blocks.

When the marshal would let go his hold on him, Nagle would cease to shriek, but as soon as the arresting hand was put upon him again he would scream like a woman. Finding that he would never be able to get the man to the station house unless he disregarded the yelling, Sohl seized hold of Nagle in a fresh place and started towards the lock-up with him, the man screaming all the way to headquarters.

Acting Chief Marshall Keller was busy this morning explaining to inquirers the cause of all the disturbance last night. Telephone calls and personal inquiries came in quite fast before 9 o'clock, every inquirer hazarding a different guess about the noise. The arrest took place about 2 o'clock, and the screaming prisoner awoke householders from their sleep all the way to the lockup. Even Mayor Clark, whose home is on Jackson avenue, east of Watchung avenue, was awakened by the noise, which traveled all the way from Somerset street.

Nagle was in a contrite mood when arraigned before Recorder Hand this morning, and on account of his age and his business interests, was allowed to go on a suspended sentence upon his promise to leave the borough at once. He went.

In previous years the playgrounds of the city have had a joint exhibit staged on Parker Field, but through different arrangements this year the individual shows will be exhibited in the various playgrounds.

MAYOR ROBERT CLARK STILL NON-COMMITTAL

Still maintaining silence regarding his future plans in reference to the nomination for the office of chief executive of North Plainfield, Mayor Robert Clark, Jr., had no comment to make this morning on the interview with William L. Smalley, an announced candidate for Mayor on the Republican ticket, published in the Plainfield Daily Press of yesterday.

Mayor Clark, who some time ago, declared that he would not accept renomination to the office, is aware that a petition requesting him to run again and signed quite generally by borough voters is being circulated, although he disclaims any official knowledge of the petition. The petition will be presented to Mayor Clark by Walter C. Linbarger, who is circulating it, and a few prominent men of the borough who wish Mayor Clark to run again, at a time to be decided upon later.

EDISON SOUGHT AID OF SENATOR MARTINE

Plainfielder Tells of Plan to Bring Chemicals to This Country For Inventor.

United States Senator James E. Martine was much interested this morning, in the revelations made in the New York World as to plans of the German government to buy supplies, and especially so in that part which the Edison Phonograph Company is reported to have played in the matter.

Shortly after the war broke out, Mr. Edison and his son sought an interview with the Senator, and asked him to aid them in procuring from England certain necessary acids, which they said were needed for the manufacture of phonograph records and which could not be bought in this country. They visited Mr. Martine at Washington, and told him that the English government had put a ban on the shipment of such acids, because they might by some method or other get in the hands of Germany for the manufacture of munitions of war. After hearing the story, Senator Martine went with the two Jerseymen to see the then Secretary of State, William J. Bryan, and the latter arranged an interview with the British ambassador, at which time arrangements were made to bring the chemicals into this country in bond.

According to the World the Edison Company made a contract with the American Oil and Supply Company, of Newark, to sell them 1,212,000 pounds of phenol (carbolic acid) and the supply company contracted to resell this to Hugo Schweitzer, a German-American chemist, of New York city. Copies of contracts are shown which indicate that Schweitzer was acting for the German government.

LEO M. FRANK, NOTED PRISONER, LYNCHED BY GEORGIAN OUTLAWS

Life Termer, Sentenced For Murder of Mary Phagan, Kidnapped From Prison and Driven to Scene of His Fate In Fast Automobiles—Warden Bound By Mob—Barefooted Body Found By Farmers This Morning.

Marietta, Ga., Aug. 17.—Leo M. Frank, serving a life term for the murder of Mary Phagan, the Atlanta factory girl, and who was taken from the Prison Farm at Milledgeville last night, was lynched two miles east of here early today. He was hanged to a tree.

Frank was brought one hundred miles from the prison farm to a point almost within sight of the former home of Mary Phagan.

Frank's body, barefooted, and clad only in prison trousers and shirt, was found at 8:30 o'clock this morning. It is believed he was lynched about daylight.

Several automobiles, well loaded, left here in the direction of Milledgeville last night. After the return of some of the machines today officers started out on the road which they believed the automobiles had traveled. They had gone only two miles when they saw the body of Frank not more than 150 yards from the roadside.

J. K. Jackson, a white farmer living near a bridge over Little River, said that shortly after midnight he heard several automobiles stop there. Soon afterward he said he heard loud talking and then many shots. He heard the automobiles leave in the direction of Eatonton after the firing.

The armed men arrived in the vicinity of the prison farm practically unnoticed and proceeded methodically to business. All means of wire communication from the institution to Milledgeville, three miles away, were destroyed, and all wires, except one telephone line from Milledgeville, also were cut.

Five men went to the house of Warne J. T. Smith, awakened him and made him prisoner. At the same time a small squad of men went to the home of J. M. Burke, superintendent of the farm. Burke was forced to go with them to the gate nearest the dormitory where it was believed Frank was kept. The two guards on duty there were ordered while guns were levelled on them, to open the gates.

The party then rushed in, quickly got Frank, and hurried him to one of the waiting automobiles. He was forced down into the car, while a member of the party is said to have flourished a rope in front of him.

Without delay those who had been guarding Warden Smith left him and joined the party at the gates. The automobiles then started off swiftly in a northerly direction.

With only a limited number of guards at the prison, and wire communication with Milledgeville interrupted, immediate pursuit was impossible. Some time elapsed before word could be brought here and officers started in the direction taken by the party. None of these officers reported for several hours after they left. The first report of the route taken came from newspapermen who left Macon at about the same time the officers got started from Milledgeville.

Mrs. Frank, who had been almost consantly with her husband since William Creen attacked him, was informed of last night's developments shortly after they occurred. She was reported to have maintained her composure and declined to comment.

"I was called to the door just as I was preparing to retire," said Captain J. M. Burke, superintendent of the State prison farm. "When I passed the threshold two strong [illegible] grabbed me and snapped handcuffs on my wrists. Four others stood guard over me, two with shotguns and two with pistols. I remonstrated, and they declared it was no use for me to squirm, as they had come for Frank and were going to get him.

"I told them that Frank was not at my house and they said they knew that, but that they were going to take me where they knew Frank was quartered. I was marched up to the penitentiary building by a guard, which was doubled as we proceeded.

"When we reached the building a demand was made that the gate be opened, and when the trusty prisoner awaited official orders,one of the men began cutting the wires and informed the prisoner if he did not open it he would be killed as soon as an en*trance was effected. The gate was* then unlocked, and S. Hester, a night guard, came forward, but he was immediately covered and ordered to throw up his hands.

"Half way up the steps I was halted while half a dozen men rushed me and made a dash for Frank's room. One of the prisoners who witnessed this scene declared that four men took Frank by his arms and legs, while a fifth grabbed him by the hair and he was dragged out and stamped

THIS HORSE HAS A HABIT OF SHAKING ITS DRIVER

For the third time in less than a fortnight a horse belinging to S. Joseph, of 197 Somerset street, ran away shortly after 11 o'clock yesterday morning and placed the life of the owner in jeopardy and did considerable damage to an automobile owned by R. H. Trippe, of 3 Lenox avenue, East Orange.

This animal is the same one that raised havoc on Somerset street early last week and later ran through the business section of Plainfield, being caught at Park avenue and Front street by Patrolman Harry Brower after it had narrowly missed hitting numerous other vehicles and pedestrians in its flight.

PLAINFIELD DAILY PRESS APPRECIATED BY TOURISTS

Three thousand miles away from home and still keeping in touch with affairs in Plainfield and New Jersey with much interest, is the experience of Miss Mae F. Wahl and Charles L. Wahl, Jr., of 201 Washington avenue, Dunellen, who are traveling in the West at the present time. The young people who have a host of acquaintances in both this city and the borough, send the following letter mailed from San Francisco, August 11:

"While at the New Jersey State building at the San Francisco Exposition yesterday, we had the pleasure of finding the Daily Press, of Plainfield, among other papers of cities in New Jersey. Was sorry to read of the awful cloudburst that visited the East.

"We wish to state that this Exposition here is just wonderful and our only wish is that all the people of our State could see it. The New Jersey building is very, very pretty indeed, so comfortable that one just hates to leave it. It is fashioned after the barracks at Trenton. Can see that Plainfielders are also quite numerous upon looking over the register. Located three from there yesterday.

"We wish again to say how it makes us feel at home to read our own newspaper over three thousand miles from home."

TOO MUCH TEMPTATION; WOULDN'T SIGN PLEDGE

"If you feel that way about it you should vote for woman suffrage on October 19," said Judge David S. Campbell to Charles Dodd, alias "Moonlight Charlie," whom he had fined $5 for being drunk again. This advice from the court was elicited by the attitude which Dodd took when asked to sign the pledge by the judge. "I won't sign the pledge," Dodd had replied, "because there is too much temptation in the way. Saloons are licensed by the county and stuck under our very noses, and when we yield to the temptation and become intoxicated we are arrested and fined. I call this two-faced justice and the rankest kind of hypocrisy on the part of the government."

Dodd, didn't say whether he intended to vote for woman suffrage or not. He was arrested Saturday night by Marshal Patrick Tarpey while in a pitiful condition from drinking too much whiskey. His fine of $5 was paid by Ralston Dunbar, the milkman, who employes him on his farm.

The meeting of the workers for the first annual "community picnic," held on August 11, was held in the Parish House last night and brought out excellent reports from all of the committees, the success of the affair being doubly shown by the fact that a balance of $16.13 is in the treasury after all bills are paid. The amount realized from subscriptions, concessions and other sources totaled $199.90 and the expenses reached the sum of $183.87. It is expected that the surplus will be doubled by several donations not yet received. The first executive committee will continue in charge of the arrangements for the coming year, and already they have received communications from all of the speakers present last Wednesday evening asking that they be invited to be present at the next picnic. It was moved and seconded that the treasurer be instructed to make a present of $10 to Clinton Clark, not as a fee, but as a mark of appreciation for his courtesy in granting the use of his property on which to hold the affair and helping in other ways to make it a success. WILSON TO REVIEW GRAND ARMY VETS

Forty Thousand Marchers to Pass In Line Before President and Cabinet.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 17—In the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the Grand Review which is one of the principal features of the forthcoming annual encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic to be held in Washington, September 27 to October 3, forty thousand marchers will pass in line before the President of the United States and his cabinet. This was the announcement made today by Col. George A. Bosley, of Boston, the national chief of staff, who is here making arrangements for the event.

The grand review of the victorious veterans of the Civil War which occurred in Washington immediately following the close of the great struggle was one of the most spectacular military incidents in the history of the world. It was the most impressive pageant which had ever occurred in warfare up to that time, and elaborate preparations have been made by the old soldiers to commemorate it at their coming encampment. The line of march will be from the Capitol to the White House along historic Pennsylvania avenue which today presents a vastly different appearance from what it was a half century ago when the returning warriors passed in grand review before President Johnson, his cabinet and the general staff of the army. It will rival any inaugural parade which the city has ever witnessed.

The greater portion of the marchers will be veterans of the blue, most of whom participated in the march fifty years ago, but it will also include those who belonged to various army corps which did not take part in the concluding event of the Civil War. Augmenting the veterans will be the Sons of Veterans and kindred organizations as well as troops from the regular army, members of the Marine Corp, sailors from battleships, cadets and independent military bodies as well as civilian escorts.

Washington citizens have perfected all arrangements for entertaining and housing the large number of veterans and their families as well as the great number of visitors who are coming here to participate in or witness the event.

A Galley o' Fun!

IN 1300.

Brother Giles.—I tell you, this over-production of books is getting to be a great evil.

Brother Absalom. — You speak sooth. Look at Anselm, over there, finishing inscribing his third book since I have known him, and that is barely thirty-five years.

Mack—I understand that Van Dyke has been dropped by Society.

Wyld.—Yes, he made himself unpopular because he paid his debts instead of his social obligations.

THE REASON FOR HIS ABSENCE.

Parent.—Is my boy precocious, do you think?

School Principal.—Very; he told the teacher he had been sitting up with a sick friend.

For the Telephone Girl.

THE AIRSHIP'S PREDECESSOR

"Stephenson broke another record to-day. His 'Rocket' made a flight of five miles, carrying four passengers, and left the rails only twice."

"Very remarkable achievement, very—but you can't tell me that the steam-engine will ever be of any real practical value."

THRIFT AND FORETHOUGHT.

The young husband and wife were charmingly busy feathering their nest.

"A little pains now," quoth they sagely, "may mean an extra cylinder or two when we come to mortgage later on!"

Showing that thrift and forethought were traits by no means extinct after all.

HIS ARDOR.

Miss Gladys Guggles (coyly).—Does yo' rully love me, Cla'ence?

Clarence Snuckles (passionately).—Love yo'? Why, I analyzes yo' so dat I'd radder heah yo' chew gum dan to listen to a minstrel band Dat's how I loves yo'!

SUCH A QUESTION!

Dentist.—Will you have gas, Madam? It rests with you.

Puritanical Patient.—You don't suppose I'm going to let you grope around in the dark, do you?

A PROTRACTED ADIEU.

How swift the magic hours took flight!
I must be gone, the clock near by Now strikes eleven, silverly,—
Sweetheart, good-night!

And yet,—I cannot leave your sight,
Although the clock, we can but hear,
Is striking midnight loud and clear—
Sweetheart, good-night!

At the front door I clasp you tight;
The clock is striking one. Your pere
Is striking matches on the stair—
Sweetheart, good-night!

THE PACE.

The Rhinoceros surveyed the world complacently. "After all, I set the pace, in a manner of speaking!" quoth he.

Whereat the other beasts burst out laughing.

"Well, it's a fact," the Rhinoceros insisted. "Tell me, please, where would civilization be if it were not for men with hides like mine?"

SATISFIED.

Rastus.—I see dat bank dat you had youah money in done fail. An' you was expectin' six per cent. off dat money, wasn't you?

Sambo.—Don't you knock dat bank. Dey dun give me six per cent. ob my money back jest ez soon as dey busted!

WELL, RATHER!

Uncle Jackson (showing city boy the farm).—With all your city eddication, sonny, I'll warrant you don't know which side you milk a cow from?

The Boy.—Sure, I do! It's the under side!

THINKING OF SACRIFICE SALES.

Mrs. Bargandy (at ball game).—Dear me! What a miserable little hit that is! He ought to be ashamed of himself.

Bargandy (excitedly).—Why, you marble-top, that's a sacrifice.

Mrs. Bargandy.—O-o-o-oh! And is that why so many players rushed to it?

NEVER.

Mr. Willis.—But why don't you take your bank-book in to have it balanced?

Mrs. Willis.—I don't want that snoopy-looking cashier to know how much money I've got in there!

THE HERETIC.

Sunday-School Teacher. — Why, Willie, I'm surprised; what part of the Bible is it that you don't believe in?

Willie.—That part in the middle where they keep the family ages.

The best position now open to one of your ability and experience will be secured by a want advertiser.

Plainfield Theatre

Scene from "The Law of the Land," at Plainfield Theatre, Matinee and Night, Saturday, August 21.

Adelaide French, who heads the cast of the new George Broadhurst play, "The Law of the Land," which comes to the Plainfield Theatre, Saturday afternoon and evening, has written the following letter to stage-struck girls:

"Your letter has reached me. To the beginner, I suggest careful thought before entering an already overcrowded profession, which, at its best, is full of heartaches an disappointments. As to the moral side, there may be more temptations, but the girl who goes down under them would do so in any other walk of life. A girl who has no home to go to during the off season and no income sufficient for her needs during that time, should not attempt to go on the stage.

"It is uncertain work, and the salaries paid beginners are small. The money earned the first few years will scarcely pay for one's wardrobe. But having decided firmly that you must enter our ranks, find a good stock company with an experienced stage director. Personally I do not approve of schools of acting and play parts. Acting can be learned by experience only.

"Every accomplishment and grace one possesses is of value on the stage. The most important quality of all is a clear enunciation. Many an otherwise good actor or actress is ruined by a provincial accent. Find a standard of pure English. Watch and listen to our best actors. There is no accent in the voice of Forbes Robertson or of Miss Julia Marlowe. Go to the theatre all you can. You can even learn from bad acting what to avoid. Study dancing, fencing, etc.

- Proctor's Theatre -

"The Garden of Lies," with the well-known actress, Jane Cowell, in the leading role, is apearing this afternoon and tonight at Proctor's Theatre. Coupled with this Universal five-part production, is another episode of "The Diamond from the Skies," another installment of "You Know Me, Al," a baseball serial and today, and others, will round out a well balanced program of motion pictures.

Followers of the legitimate stage who thus far have been unable to see Gaby Deslys, will be able to witness her silent appearance on the screen at the Proctor house tomorrow, both afternoon and night when she appears in "Her Triumph." Certainly a large number will be attracted by this attraction to witness the acting of this actress of which so much has appeared in the columns of the newspapers of the world. "Frisco by the Cartoon Route," by the well-known newspaper cartoonist Homer Crow, is also scheduled for tomorrow. At the afternoon show two guesses in the Victrola contest will be given with each admission ticket.

The program for Thursday includes John Emerson in the Paramount production, "Bachelor's Romance," and the Cameron Sisters in the Universal photo-vaudeville service.

U. S. ASTOR THEATRE

Light from the opening of Cyrus Townsend Brady's big scenic drama, "The Chalice of Courage," exhibited for the first time in Union county at the U. S. Astor Theatre, yesterday, the hero is placed in an extraordinary position. The horse being ridden by his wife, along a mountain trail makes a misstep and rolls down a steep cliff. The woman is mortally injured and he does the only humane thing under the circumstances. Later, this hero, by name, becomes a recluse in the mountains, where the other threads of the story are drawn together.

Myrtle Gonzales plays the part of an Eastern girl, who through the workings of fate becomes snowed in through the long winter months with Newbold as her only companion. A romance that buds in the beginning of their sojourn, blossoms into full flower when the warm breath of spring brings a rescue party. The recluse is acted by William Duncan, the support being George Holt, Nathilie DeLongman, William V. Reynous, Anne Shaefer and Otto Ledere.

"The Chalice of Courage" is one of the strongest blue ribbon features released through the V. L. S. E., its general attractiveness even taking precedence over "The Juggernaut" and "The Sins of the Mothers." It is a photoplay that combines all that is best in motion picture production.

FIREMENS RELIEF TO MEET.

A call for a special meeting of the North Plainfield Firemen's Relief Association tonight at 8 o'clock in borough fire headquarters has been issued.

Don't forget that classified advertisements must be in by noon on Saturdays.

CHARLES DRAKE, VETERAN PRINTER, WILL RETIRE

After working at his trade of printer for a period of twenty-six years in one printing office in Elizabeth, Charles N. Drake, of Cranford, has decided to retire. He is well known throughout Union county, having served for three years on the Republican county committee.

Mr. Drake will be seventy years old next December 12. He was born in Elizabeth. He is a veteran of the Civil War, having enlisted when he was only seventeen in the Twentieth Pennsylvania Cavalry. He belongs to Ulric Dahlgren Post, G. A. R.

START WORK ON PURLIC SERVICE TROLLEY LINE

Work has been started on what is to be known as the Carteret extension of the Public Service Fast Line. This is a branch line about one and one-half miles in length, which will afford transportation facilities to the residents of Carteret and Chrome by directly connecting them with the Newark-Perth Amboy line.

The extension will leave the main line at Port Reading Junction and will be carried across the Central Railroad tracks on an overhead bridge. Continuing thence along a private right of way which has been reserved in the center of Carteret avenue to the eastern end of the borough.

A contract has been given to the American Bridge Company for the construction of the crossing of the Central Railroad. It calls for a viaduct about 00 feet long, about 200 feet of which will be solid approaches on either side, and 500 feet of steel structure. The main span will be 120 feet long.

This part of the work is expected to take about ten weeks, and the track laying will be pushed rapidly, so that the road may be opened this fall. It will be operated under interurban conditions—that is to say, at high speed.

"SUNNY" CLAASSEN GOES HOME FOR A REAL TRIM

Jens Claassen, a local fireman stationed at headquarters, left Sunday for Baltimore, Md., where he will spend several days of his annual vacation. Claassen's father is the Oriole town's leading tonsorial artist and it is for the purpose of visiting his parent that the local fire laddie made the trip. According to "Sunny," as Claassen is familiarly known around fire headquarters, Mr. Claassen, Sr., has all of the other Maryland barbers "beaten to a frazzle" when it comes to moulding anything from a "Teddy Bear" to a "Vernon Castle" haircut.

Yesterday "Sunny" was "operated" upon by his father and when he comes back to the Queen City Thursday, his comrades will be given their first glimpse of a tonsure built up under the supervision of a scissors expert.

The local fire laddie is also somewhat of a fisherman and he will take his new head disguise to the fishing banks with him to spend the latter part of his vacation period.

G. O. P. TO MEET.

LANSING DENIES RUMOR.

Washington, Aug. 17—It became apparent today from several sources that the Administration was preparing for a formal declaration by Great Britain placing cotton on the list of contraband. That such a declaration had been received or that even an intimation that it was to be issued had been given by England was emphatically denied by Secretary Lansing.

ROYAL ARCANUM REGENT DEAD IN NEW YORK CITY

Many Plainfielders who were acquainted with Harry R. Ward, past grand regent of the Royal Arcanum of New Jersey, will be pained to learn of his death, which occurred Sunday at the Polyclinic Hospital, New York. Mr. Ward was in his forty-fourth year, and was known to many people here through his visits to both the Arcanum lodges.

Mr. Ward was born on Staten Island, and made his home at 159 Garrison avenue, Jersey City. He was in the real estate business with a brother under the firm name of Ward Brothers.

NEW YORK AMUSEMENTS

LILLIPUT ISLAND IN LUNA.

It is doubtful if there was ever seen so numerous an assemblage of little people than is now comprised in the Midget City in Luna Park, Coney Island.

There are two score of these diminutive specs of humanity, representing all the civilized nations on earth, and collectively presenting one of the most curious and interesting sights one can imagine. Any one of these human atoms woud be considered a great attraction if exhibited individually, but when viewed as a gathering they most certainly present an extraordinary sight and convey a splendid idea of just what the Lilliputians were like who made Gulliver a captive. For there are among them tiny bits of women no bigger than good-sized babies, and wee mits of men, beside whom Tom Thumb would appear a giant. And, by the way, in the group is the famous Count Magri, whose marriage to Mrs. Tom Thumb created a great sensation in New York some years ago.

All these microscopic people, men and women, are accomplished in various ways, and in their several occupations give ample evidence of possessing most of the abilities of people of full stature. They operate and perform in their own Grand Opera House, manage a theatre and a well-equipped circus containing dwarf ponies, toy dogs and use little articles and objects corresponding in size with the elfish people handling them.

In the Midget City the inhabitants are represented engaged in the same daily avocations, occupations and pursuits as big people in big cities. One may see dwarf policemen, door tenders, ticket sellers, waitresses, cooks., cashiers, opera singers, actors, acrobats, clowns, gymnasts, ringmasters, riders, in fact, see the greatest number of epitomies of men and women doing all the stunts tricks and acts that are done by people of mature size. it is a real miniature city, inhabited by the greatest number of pocket editions of humanity every seen grouped together since the world was made.

RECREATION NOTES

This evening the Zephers will meet in the High School gym. There are to be two games of basketball. The colored girls are enjoying the gymnasium work, and new members are coming in each week. Games with out-of-town teams will be an important part of the club's activity this winter.

The colored young men are to have the use of the High School gymnasium for basketball and other athletic pursuits in the fall. Just at present many of them are co-operating with the Zephers, coaching the girls in the rules of the game and giving exhibitions of some very pretty team work. The young men are proud of the girls' team, and desire to help them so that they may become an invincible team.

The "Plainfield Five" will meet in the gymnasium tomorrow night.

WRECKED THE THEATER.

When London Playgoers Rose Against an Increase In Prices.

There occurred in London something over a hundred years ago a series of riots called the "O. P. riots," which grew out of an increase in theater prices.

In 1809, after Covent Garden theater had been burned to the ground and rebuilt, it was reopened under the management of John Kemble, one of the Kemble family of great actors, with an increased scale of admission prices. The new theater was all right, and Kemble was popular, but the theater going public resented the increase of prices.

On the opening night when Kemble, who was to play Macbeth, attempted to make an explanatory speech he was hooted down by demands for "old prices," and night after night people crowded the house, danced on the seats and interrupted the players with cries of "O. P.," old prices.

The disturbance continued for several weeks, the people wearing "O. P." badges and displaying big "O. P." placards. The theater was closed for several days, but when it was opened the trouble began again. Seats were destroyed and windows broken.

Legal proceedings were taken and failed. The municipal authorities, assisted by a governor of the Bank of England, finally brought about a compromise.—Philadelphia Press.

Addison and "Clio."

Joseph Addison, the English essayist, used the pseudonym "Clio." When he wrote a manuscript in the city he annotated it with a "C." when in London, "L." when in Islington, where he lived, "I." and when in his office, "O," the whole spelling Clio.—London Express.

DENY THAT PRESIDENT WILL SUPPORT SUFFRAGISTS

The New Jersey Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage reported yesterday the receipt of advices from Washington that President Wilson had repudiated the assertion that he had announced himself as being in favor of woman suffrage. The association quotes Mrs. E. F. Feick, of Plainfield, president of the New Jersey Suffrage Association, as saying at the dedication of the memorial tablet to Lucy Stone, last Friday, in Orange:

"We ought to win in New Jersey because we will have the help of President Wilson. Through Mr. Tumulty he has given us his assurances that before referendum day he will not fail to take the right side of a question which is so much a part of democracy."

The Anti-Suffragists say they received this report from Washington: "President Wilson is indignant over published stories that he has made up his mind on the suffrage question and will support the woman's claim to the ballot. It was declared at the White House yesterday, that the President had not been indicating in any way his views on the subject except those already voiced. These are that he believed the woman suffrage question to be a local matter for the States to settle themselves. It was said that the President will not indicate his leaning for or against the subject until just before the New Jersey State primary next month."

NEW JERSEY RAILROAD IN HANDS OF RECEIVER

Morristown, Aug. 17—The New Jersey and Pennsylvania Railroad, which has been in the hands of a receiver for three years, and which was closed by the Public Utility commission nearly two years ago, will be sold at auction here on Tuesday, September 21, by the receiver, Frederick V. Pitney. The rule is ordered to satisfy the following indebtedness: Receiver certificates, $7,000, with interest; State railroad tax $15,000, if paid before October 1; expenses of receivership, and $200,000 bonds.

Several attempts have been made to resume the operation of the road since it was closed. Public meetings have been held with a view of reorganizing the company, but all have failed, due to the high price the bondholders demand and the large amount of accumulated State tax, which was recently reduced from $38,000 to $15,000. It is thought the Morristown & Erie Railroad will make an effort to get hold of the road and make a connection at Morristown.

Business men along the line of the road are in favor of organizing a company and taking over the road. They plan to electrify it and purchase power either from the Eastern Pennsylvania Power Company at Morristown, or the Public Service Company at Whitehouse. Traffic arrangements would also be made with the Morris County Traction Company.

Hunser and Alden Hemley, members of the relief association of West Hoboken; Major Rush, of the Jersey City Exempt Association, and Thaddeous O. LEO FRANK LYNCHED down the stone steps. While I looked on Frank did not utter a word, but apparently was suffering intense pain and groaned from pain inflicted in handling him in his wounded condition. The affair was all over within five minutes, it seemed to me.

"During the entire time I was handcuffed and under guard. When the crowd brought Frank down and started off, I asked the fellow who had snapped the handcuffs on me to unlock them, but he laughed and said if I would accompany they they would take off the irons.

"The whole procedure was well ordered and methodical and only a few words were spoken. That evidently was agreed upon. A leader did all the talking. Only two of the men were masked, but I did not recognize any of them. Just as they started off the leader said, 'Now, boys, for the swamp.' Then, in less time than it takes to tell it, they were off, and I could see the lights flashing as they went over the hill toward Meriwether."

The highest altitude ever reached by an airship is 10,600 feet.

A form of the camera obscura has been invented by a Frenchman to inform an aviator when he deviates from a given course.

The "ocean to ocean" telephone line makes use of 2,900 tons of copper.

POOLS SCORED BY BARNEY DREYFUSS

Baseball Magnate "Rides" Individuals Running Crooked Gambling Games.

Fans playing in public baseball pools will do well to read how they are "stung." The September Baseball Magazine has an article exposing the crooked work. Following is part of the magazine article.

"A gambling spirit seems to have seized upon the national game. In many parts of the country colossal crooked syndicates, lotteries or pools have sprung up, attained a mushroom growth, sucked a tainted fortune out of the lifeblood of the game, and withered away in the fierce glare of legal retribution, only to be succeeded by other syndicates elsewhere. So widespread is the evil, so menacing in its scope, that the concerted effort of baseball, aligned with the authorities of law and order, is imperatively required to preserve the game from that same malignant influence which has blighted so many other favorite sports.

"Honest baseball pools are no new thing. They exist in a small and amateur scale in almost every office building in every hamlet in the country. It has become a habit with many men to set apart 50 cents or $1 a week of their savings to place in a pool with their associates, the whole sum going, at the end of the week, to the fortunate individual who selected the team scoring the greatest number of runs. This custom is a rather mild symptom of a general lev of risk and chance which reaches a far more sinister form in the patronage of public pools.

"But fake public pools, the open law-defying swindles of the professional gamblers, merit no such passive indifference. These pools, like poisonous growths, have no proper place in the sphere of the game, but rather batten upon its public popularity and confidence, and in the end tend to break down and destroy the solid structure of the sport itself. Such pools are a real menace.

"As typical of the methods pursued by these parasites may be taken the case of a pool operated in Pennsylvania, but it had ramifications all over the Eastern United States and the Middle West. A list of its prize winners for one week shows names scattered over no less than six States.

'Some revelations of the size and scope of the company were brought to light in the trial which exposed the working of the colossal swindle.

"We quote from the sworn evidence as produced in that trial, when the superintendent of the printing concern which did all of the printing for the syndicate was undergoing examination:

"'What was the average number of lottery slips and tickets printed for the company?'

"'It ranged from 25,000 to 75,000 three times a week.'

"'How many tickets did you print weekly for the pool?'

"'Well, the highest for a week was 250,000.'

"'Well, what was the average week's quantity?'

"'They started at about 150,000 a week and kept increasing every week.'

"In passing, it is well to mention that the gross receipts from these tickets at 30 cents apiece was, for the highest week, $75,000.

"President Dreyfuss, of the Pittsburg Club, said, in the Baseball Magazine:

"'We investigated and found that the pools were getting more money out of Pittsburg than the Pittsburg ball club. In one week we estimated as nearly as we could on the actual figures that they absorbed $30,000 from that one city. We also investigated and found that a considerable number of alleged prize winners did not live at the addresses that appeared or were missing from the city directory or hadn't received any prize money. One of the worst features of all these pools is that even with the heavy odds against him that are the nature of a lottery, the purchaser of one of the lying tickets doesn't get a fair chance to win. He has members of the concern to compete against and all kinds of crooked work to contend with, so that the prizes which are actually given are the smaller ones and in no case the larger amounts alleged in the lists.'

"The Pennsylvania distributed its tickets through fifty agents, who in turn had 300 subagents, who supplied 65,000 steady customers. Its payment for police protection and other forms of illegal connivance with the authorities totaled $17,000 for one week. It maintained an office staff of thirty clerks, and yet its weekly profits were $50,000. Another pool averaged a profit of $18,000, another $25,000, and many others all cut their individual slices from the juicy melon of public gullibility. For amid all these colossal operations the fact stands out conspicuously that the only prizes given were the smaller ones, except in certain well-marked cases, where new territory was being exploited. There may be honor among thieves, but the lottery kings were pikers. Sure of enormous profits, they hogged the whole."

Plainfield, N. J., Aug. 17, 1915.

The Elizabeth Journal is bemoaning the fact that "Elizabeth's mistake in not purchasing land for a large public park is becoming more and more apparent as the years go on. "Hundreds of our people are now forced to go to Weequahic Park in Newark for rest and recreation," says the Journal, and on one afternoon last week more than a score of Elizabeth women were gathered there with their sewing; Elizabeth families were enjoying the liberty of the broad green lawns and the many natural attractions; Elizabeth young folks were found in the tennis courts and using the other facilities for out-of-doors recreation. Should Newark confine the use of this beautiful park to its own people there would be much sadness in Elizabeth."

While Plainfield is not suffering in this respect to the extent of the county seat, her citizens for several years have deplored the fact that the Common Council has not taken steps to provide the municipality with a city park worthy the name. To be sure, there is Parker Field, and a small park on West Eighth street as well as the various recreation centres established in the public school yards, but the opportunity to provide an attractive city park, centrally located, and large enough for Plainfield's rapidly increasing population, is growing less every year. Civic pride in this respect does not appear to be very strong in this city, especially among the councilmen, and one of these days when the need for such a playground becomes more urgent, it will be found almost impossible to secure a suitable tract of land within a reasonable price.

Of course, Plainfield has not the congested centres to be found in Elizabeth and other cities of a similar character, but everyone will agree that a large city park is a valuable asset to any community and it is a matter of regret that years ago the city fathers did not have foresight enough to realize this fact when land was cheap and such a park could have been established for very little money.

Apropos of the position in the world's eyes which some of the South American republics are maintaining at the present time, it has been predicted that the nations at war will one day reach those sublime heights of religious thought and action already attained by two of them—Chile and the Argentine Republic. For years these countries were continually waging war upon each other, until at last the people awoke to a consciousness of the folly of it all, so by mutual consent war was abolished among them for all time. But did they rest their promises in a treaty or peace pact alone? The answer to this question is a monument erected by these two republics high up in the Andean Mountains, where the boundary lines of the two countries come together. There is a granite base on which stands a gigantic figure of the Christ. One hand is extended in blessing while the other supports a huge cross. On the base of the monument are these words: "Sooner shall these mountains crumble into dust than Argentines and Chileans break the peace to which they have pledged themselves at the feet of Christ, the Redeemer." While these two republics cannot lay claim to a place among the seven or eight greatest nations of the earth, they can show evidences of that highest type of Christian brotherhood which the world awaits. War with them shall be no more.

Plainfield merchants are right in their contention that the Pillar of Fire, which has been holding meetings at Park avenue and West Second street, is a serious hindrance to Saturday night trade. Why should these taxpayers and business people interested in the welfare of the city be annoyed by a group of trouble-making transients whose only accomplishment since invading the city has been to make trouble and create anxiety among city officials? Councilmen have been on the scene every Saturday night for some weeks past and it does seem as though enough evidence was at hand by this time to rid the city of this sect. Is it going to be necessary for the suffering merchants to put up with the nuisance until the time comes for the September meeting of the Common Council? It is true that women and children; yes, and even men, have selected long detours in preference to wending their way through the crowd of curious individuals who gather around the revivalists.

Two years ago the world would have declared that humanity had reached such a high degree of cultivation in moral and spiritual thought that war between Christian nations was an impossibility. But how their ideals have been shattered in the supreme test Christianity has been called upon to go through during the past few months!

Since the operation of the jitneys between Dunellen and Plainfield it is now possible to get a seat on most any Main Line trolley. This has not always been the case as many strap-hangers can prove. It is also noticed that trolleys are not now so apt to go by waiting passengers at stopping points.

Plainfield has been pretty well represented at the Panama Exposition this year. Since the fair opened there has scarcely been a week when someone from this city has failed to register at the New Jersey Building.

The Washington Star prints a picture of converts being baptized in the Morris Canal. If they have religion enough to stand for that, they certainly have been converted.

SHERIFF KINKEAD MAY REPLY TO HIS CRITICS

Sheriff Eugene Kinkead read with interest yesterday the report made by George P. West and C. T. Cherney to the Commission on Industrial Relations relative to the Bayonne strike. In the published report the sheriff is criticised for his handling of the strike. After he had finished the sheriff acted as if he wanted to talk, but checked himself and said:

"I will at once send for a certified copy of the committee's report. I want to read it in full and study it. After I have done so I may reply, but at present I have no comment to make."

PATRIOTIC ORDER MEETS FOR TWO-DAY SESSION

The twenty-seventh annual convention of the State Camp of New Jersey, Patriotic Order Sons of America, opened in Turn Hall, Elizabeth, this afternoon, for a two-day session. One hundred and ninety-one camps are represented by over 40 delegates.

Reports of the State officers featured the opening session of the convention this afternoon. The nomination of officers will close the afternoon session and the election will take place tomorrow. The leading candidate for the office of State president is W. P. Steinhaeuser, State vice-president, of Asbury Park.

Forty-six new camps of this order were established last year, six of them being in New Jersey. The last of these was in Union county, July 30. There are 1,804 active camps in the United States with a total membership of about 200,000.

The Real Friend

I'm prone to serve my friends all right;
No ingrate would I be.
I want to treat folks mighty white
When they've been kind to me.
Some folks, however, I forget
When we're no more in touch,
But ne'er have I forgotten yet
The man who said: "How much?"

The ones who loved me when I throve
Were godsends all, 'tis true.
The ones who cheered my progress wove
Some love-ties strong and new.
They're finer far than fine enough,
But finest yet are such
As come to you when "luck is tough"
And only say: "How much?"

HEALTH TALKS

by WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

Arteriosclerosis

HARDENING of the arteries is a degeneration of which we hear much these days. Physiologically, or at least generally, a rigidity or palpability of the radial artery (in the wrist where the pulse is felt) and the temporal artery (ascending upon the temple) is noticeable in the average individual of forty-five or fifty. When the arteries lose their youthful elasticity and impalpability (that is, un-feel-ability under your fingers) and assume a palpable hardness, that is arteriosclerosis. It is old age coming a little ahead of schedule.

Don't Remember These Symptoms

One way to stay young is to keep your mind on pleasant things. If we mention here a few symptoms of early arteriosclerosis it would be just as well to ignore them, should you happen to have any of them, because many cases of advanced arteriosclerosis never have them and many more individuals with fine young arteries have them like the dyspeptic who reads the nostrum ads.

A feeling of drowsiness—we have this ourself every little while—with morning fatigue, headache, cold extremities—why, this grows serious!—noises in the ears, neuralgic attacks and elevated blood pressure, as measured by the doctor's instrument are commonly noted in early arterial hardening. A slight pallor is notoriously suggestive in men beyond thirty, and this is generally followed after a time by slow degradation of nutrition with the appearance of dried, flabby skin. In arterial hardening the patient's pulse rate does not slow so much when he is lying down as in health. In health the adult pulse rate should be about ten less per minute sitting than it is standing, and five less lying down than it is sitting. In a pronounced case of hardening of the arteries there may be little difference, or the pulse may be even more rapid lying down than in the erect position.

Mere increase of blood pressure above the normal for one's age is of little or no significance in itself. In any case, if the individual's health requires consideration at all, an examination of the heart, the urine and the patient as a whole must be made before an intelligent opinion can be arrived at. To take medicine alone with a view to lowering blood pressure would be as foolish as to swallow some shotgun "kidney" remedy for a pain in the back or a general failure of health. Diet, exercise, bathing, rest, recreation and regulation of habits must go with any medicine if advantageous results are expected. And of course these measures are to be prescribed according to the needs of each individual case.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Weight Is Increasing Nicely

Says Miss S. L., a stenographer of slight but optimistic type, I wrote you some time ago for advice about increasing my weight. Answer—We believe it will.

Vest Pocket Essays

by GEORGE FITCH

WRIST WATCHES

WRIST watches were invented in an attempt to issue a declaration of independence against the pocket.

Pockets have long been among the greatest tyrants of man. As soon as a boy becomes old enough to have anything valuable in his pockets he becomes a slave. He ceases to stand on his head and goes through life nervously guarding the contents of a dozen pockets.

Man carried his watch in a pocket for several centuries. A watch in a pocket is a bigger care than an Indian baby. Any one of forty things can happen to it. After a man has left a watch in a hotel and has thrown it onto a hard knobby chair with his vest and has jolted it out while running for a train and has had it disappear with his clothes from his bedroom and has leaned against a bar rail with it and has left it in his other clothes 456 times, he becomes a pessimist regarding watches and sighs for a land where yesterday is just as good as tomorrow.

Nevertheless, when the wrist watch was invented these men who had found the pocket as big a nuisance as a gopher hole sneered at the new idea and compared the man who wore his watch on his wrist with the man who wore ribbons in his cuffs. They seemed to think that the only manly place for the watch was in the pit of the stomach or nestled against the vermiform appendix. Doubtless a good many men who have never done anything more thrilling than to raise a camel's hair moustache have worn wrist watches, but so have plenty of explorers, aviators, soldiers and automobile drivers, none of whom are distinguished for Flossyism. If there is anything manly in attaching a watch to a fathom of chain and lowering it into a vest pocket from which it will presently disappear, it has not been recorded.

When the wrist watch was invented, men sneered at the idea

A great many women also wear wrist watches, but nothing which any woman does with a watch is worth recording in plain dispassionate language.

The wrist watch sticketh closer than a brother and does not fall overboard in case of trouble. If it is ever improved so that it will keep time, it will be a boon to humanity and will enable the recording angel in the horological profanity department to take Saturday afternoons off.

Views Of The Press

Torture In Noises

EVERYBODY has heard the story of the nervous old man who was disturbed when a lodger in an adjoining hotel room dropped a shoe on the floor in the middle of the night, then, becoming suddenly considerate of his neighbors, carefully and silently placed the other shoe beside it. After half an hour of suspense the old man cried out: "When in hades are you going to drop that other shoe?"

It does not take a wide stretch of imagination to understand the intensity of the old man's feelings, but his were naught compared to the nervous or sick person disturbed by the monotonous cry of the scissors grinder's bells. The scissors grinder usually has four bells pitched in different keys operated by the wheels of his cart as he trudges along the street.

The nervous person or the invalid is aroused by the first clash of the bells as the grinding cart turns into his street a block or two away and then has to stand for the slow crescendo and diminuendo of the torturing monotony until the grinder turns at the corner or passes beyond earshot. This is bad enough, but it is not the worst. If perchance the grinding cart gets a job the cart stops and the jingle of the bells ceases. The sick or nervous one above the torture is only postpone and defies there fuming and wishing for a divine dispensation to go out and kill, until the ding-dong, ding-dong is again taken up and driven out of his hearing.

Until the scissors grinding one has a place in the economic scheme of things. But how about the school and church bell? [illegible] in the days when somebody proudly hemmed the discovery that metal could be made to ring and so about manufacturing bells there was a legitimate place for the noisy, not to say blatant, sound of the bell. At that time, perhaps, there may have been only a single clock in the whole village and [illegible] signals and church-bells welcomed the [illegible] that reminded them of the time. But in this day of the dollar watch and the coupon-won clock, when every nook and cranny fairly bristles with timepieces from kitchen shelf to bed-room dresser and parlor mantelpiece, and when every school boy and girl has his or her watch—in this modern day the school bell can have no legitimate place—From the Milwaukee Free Press.

CARTOONS OF THE DAY

MY WORD

—Westerman in Columbus State Journal

The PEOPLE'S LEGAL FRIEND

by E. R. BRANSON

Was He Rough?

Q. If one offers a five dollar bill to a street car conductor, in payment of fare, and requests the change, and the conductor tells him he cannot change the bill and puts him off the car for non-payment of fare, can he sue the company and get damages?

A. The tender of a five dollar bill, in payment of fare, with a request that the conductor make change, has been held by most courts to be unreasonable. Street railway companies frequently adopt a rule providing that the conductor need not make change for a larger amount than two dollars and this has been held by almost all courts to be a reasonable requirement.

Order And Bearer Check

Q. Please tell me what distinction is made, in banking circles, between an "order" check and a "bearer" check.

A. An "order" check is a check made payable to a certain designated person or order. He must indorse it before receiving payment. If he wishes some one else to receive the money, he may indorse to the latter or order, or he may indorse "in blank" by merely writing his signature on the back. In the last-named case, the check will be payable to any holder. A "bearer" check is a check made payable to a certain person "or bearer" and may be cashed by the holder.

Better Find Another Job

Q. A man made a written agreement with me by which it became my duty to do certain work for him at a fixed price. Nothing was said as to when my duties should be commenced. I have been waiting and have been ready to start the work, but am unable to do so until he says the word. Could he keep me waiting indefinitely?

A. He has no right to do so. The contract should be performed within a reasonable time. What is a reasonable time must depend upon all the circumstances of the case.

Get A Receipt

Q. If receipts for the payment of money are worthless, in law, as I have been told, why is it that so many business men keep their receipts? Why should one bother with them?

A. They are not worthless. They afford what the law calls prima facie evidence. Although they may be explained or contradicted, the person who attempts so to explain or contradict must show by stronger evidence that such receipts are not correct or true. It is important to keep receipts, for they often furnish a very satisfactory form of evidence.

Sale Of Property By An Agent

Q. When one employs a real estate agent to sell a piece of property for him, will a verbal agreement be sufficient or is it necessary that the agreement be in writing?

A. This is a matter to be determined by consulting the statutes of the state in which the agreement is made. In some states, the contract must be in writing; in others, a verbal agreement will be sufficient.

The Meaning Of A Dower

Q. (1) Please tell me what is meant by "dower." (2) Is it recognized in every state of the Union?

A. (1) Dower is the life interest or estate which the wife has in one third of the real estate owned by her husband. It becomes complete and effective upon his death. (2) Dower exists in many states of the Union but not in all. In some states it has been modified by legislative enactments; in others it has never been recognized; in still others, it has been abolished by statute.

A Family Affair

Q. Please inform me what is meant, in a legal sense, by the terms "family agreement" or "family settlement."

A. A family agreement or settlement is an agreement made between certain members of a family concerning the disposition of property. Such agreements are entered into frequently between a father and his children or between brothers and the purpose is to provide a definite specified mode, different from what would otherwise be the case, of disposing of property.

Don't Forget The Canary

Q. Does the fare of a passenger on a railroad train entitle him to free transportation of baggage?

A. Yes, within certain limits. Ordinarily, however, the baggage must be carried by the same train as the owner and called for within a reasonable time after its arrival.

Life's Line

The Vigilant Hostess

"Just drop work and run out for the week end," she writes us. "You shall have a thorough rest, I assure you." And we go—to our sorrow. When, Oh where, is that "thorough rest"? When we'd like to wander peacefully in her garden, we are dragged severely to a tea-table. "You mustn't mope around that way!" she admonishes us. "I can't let you meditate; you know you came here for a rest. Now own up that you were thinking about your work!" Well, what if we were? She doesn't know that to rest is to do what one wants to do, not what someone else wants one to do. "She brought us out here to work—work hard," we storm to ourselves; "to work at tea and talk." And it's the last time we'll seek her roof for a "thorough rest," you may be sure. She doesn't know the meaning of the word. The hostess who aims at popularity had better modify her hard and fast definition of the word hospitality. She must learn that the best hospitality is sometimes seeming neglect.

Daddy's Bedtime Story— The Cow That Jumped Over the Moon. Tra La.

She'd jumped so hard she jumped clean over.

"LET me see, children," said daddy, with a smile. "I think tonight that I will tell you part of an old Mother Goose rime in the fashion of a verse."

"Oh, goodie!" cried Jack and Evelyn. "We like those, daddy."

So daddy told them the funny little story in just this style:

"Now once, as sure as you are born, there lived a cow with a crumpled horn, milked by a maiden all forlorn.

"And every eve her horns she'd toss when maiden called, 'Co, boss; co, boss!' And then the pasture green they'd cross.

"This bossy liked the grass which grew, to please her taste and soothe her view the farmer's finest pasture through.

"But one a certain summer night the cow ate on with all her might, and no fair maiden came in sight.

"The cow at first she did not mind because the maiden lagged behind, but soon she missed the damsel kind.

"This cow was peevish as could be and asked: 'Where is my maiden? She should be by now a-milking me!'

"So feeling that she'd like to cry, so lonesome that she thought she'd die, she looked right up into the sky.

"And while the evening breeze did croon and all the frogs did sing a tune, down at that cow did gaze the moon.

"The cow looked in that jolly face that grinned at her far up in space and said: 'I never saw that place.

"'Perchance that girl who should milk me has stopped up there to have some tea. I think I will go up and see.'

"So sure as this old world is round that cow, with one tremendous bound, rose right up off that pasture ground.

"Up through the summer night she scooted, while doggies barked and owlets hooted in trees all green and deeply rooted.

"Past twinkling stars that cow did fly, shot like an arrow through the sky and cried out, 'How is this for high?'

"She never touched the moon, this rover; forth from her field of fragrant clover she'd jumped so hard she jumped clean over.

"And now's the funny part, my dears. It really has been quite some years since bossy leaped, and it appears the moon is quite so far away; she's going yet, or so they say. She is not back unto this day.

"And in the field a crone forlorn—it's been some time since she was born—awaits her cow with the crumpled horn."

Glimpses of Married Life

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

"A letter?"

"Yes."

"Anything wrong? You look worried."

"Oh, just a business letter." Dick stuffed it into his pocket impatiently.

"What's the matter with that boy?" He always said "that boy" when particularly aggravated with him. "It seems to me it's about time he was made to behave himself."

"Remember he isn't grown up yet," said Nell pacifically.

"I should hope not when he squalls like that. When I'm worn out with business worry and the heat I have to come home and listen to his tantrums. There is no sense it it; it's time he learned there are other people in the world besides him."

"Are you ill, Dick, or what's the matter?" asked Nell anxiously.

"Oh, just overworked, I guess." Dick dropped his head on his hand.

"Why don't you take a vacation?" Nell laid a sympathetic hand on his shoulder.

"Can't afford it." It sounded as if he groaned.

"Well, you certainly can't afford to be sick, or to let yourself get so run down that you can't be civil," chided Nell.

"I can't do a thing to suit you. You pounce on me for the merest trifle and you are so impatient with little Hal; when a man gets so cranky that he makes his family suffer it's time he did something to tone himself up or down." There was a pathetic droop in Nell's whole figure.

Dick ground his teeth, flung himself out of his chair and started for the door.

"I'll clear out until I can get a grip on myself," he snapped.

"Give me the coat; you don't need it tonight, and the sleeve is ripped." She held out her hand for it.

He tossed her the garment and went out into the sultry dusk and threw himself face down on the grass under the tree.

"I'll mend this right now," thought Nell. "If I put it down something will happen to interrupt." She lighted the gas and drew out her sewing basket. The gas made the already warm room insufferable and she hurried with the small repair job. As she finished, a letter dropped to the floor. She was about to slip it back in the pocket when the printing on the envelope attracted her attention. "Kansas City Oil Development Co.," she read. "What can that be?"

She drew the letter from the envelope and read:

"Dear Mr. Morton: I regret to be obliged to inform you that another assessment of $5 per share has been made on all stockholders to obtain the necessary money to complete the new wells we are sinking.

"We had confidently expected that the wells now in operation would pay the expense of sinking these, but they have not done so, as the flow is decreasing and one has been abandoned. There is, however, no cause for anxiety. The new wells when completed will soon return the money and yield a good interest on the investment.

"Hoping to receive your remittance for $20 at an early date, I am

"Very truly yours,

"A. L. Marshall, Manager."

"Humph! So that is his worry! He has sunk money in oil wells." Nell scornfully stuck the letter in his pocket. "Twenty dollars! And that is at least the second $20. There may have been several assessments, and he can't afford a vacation." She turned out the light with a spiteful twist. The baby cried out in his sleep and she stepped into the bedroom and felt of the moist little hands and damp forehead. "Poor little chap! He cried himself to sleep," she whispered. She went softly out onto the front porch, still thinking rebelliously of the lost money.

PLAITS SMART AND POPULAR.

No. 8988.

The plaited skirt for the young girl is proving a great success, if we take the great number seen at the summer resorts as a criterion. When the whole dress, shirtwaist and skirt, is made in plaited effect, the result is very pleasing indeed. The dress above, Ladies' Home Journal pattern No. 8988, has a raised waistline and consists of a waist opening in front with yoke finishing with a turn-down collar, full-length sleeves with open cuffs, and a fitted lining, a seven-gore skirt perforated for deep hem facing. The pattern cuts in sizes 14, 16, 18 and 20 years, requiring in size 16, 11⅜ yards 36-inch material.

Patterns can be purchased at the store of A. E. Force & Company.

Household Hints

RECIPES

Stuffed Tomatoes—Peel as many medium sized tomatoes as desired and cut smooth slices from stem ends. Remove the seeds and inside pulp, leaving the outside whole for a cup. Sprinkle cups lightly with salt, turn upside down and let stand twenty minutes. Fill with finely chopped celery, cabbage and the pulp of the tomato (mixed thoroughly), with mayonnaise dressing.

Peach Gateau—Cut sponge cake in thin slices; pare and slice ripe peaches, sprinkle with sugar as needed. In a glass dish dispose layers of cake and peaches. Whipped cream on top.

The iced tea for the midday dinner is delicious, with either a slice of orange or lemon in it.

THE TABLE

Squash Croquettes—If you try squash this way you will never eat it any other way. Take summer squash, cut in pieces about one inch thick, parboil in salted water until tender; remove from water and drain, then roll in beaten egg and cracker crumbs and fry in butter or drippings.

Marbled Potatoes — Three cups mashed potatoes beaten light with salt, butter and cream. Divide in half. In one-half stir the white of one egg beaten light; in the other half stir the yolk of an egg and half cup strained tomato. Grease a pan and put potatoes in alternate layers, dropped by spoonful. Sprinkle with bread crumbs. Bake until brown and serve in dish in which it was baked.

Drop Cookies—Two cups granulated sugar, one cup butter and lard (half of each), three eggs; put this all into bowl and beat to a cream. Then add one cup sweet milk. Four even cups flour. Two teaspoons baking powder, one teaspoon soda in a little hot water. Let the dough raise one hour, then drop by spoonful onto greased pans and bake in hot oven.

Maple Glace Bisque—One cup maple syrup, one cup light cream, four egg yolks, one cup heavy cream, one-half cup chopped English walnuts, strips of sponge cake. Make a custard of the maple syrup, light cream and egg yolks. When cool, set mixture in icewater and beat until thickened. Fold in heavy cream whipped, and serve in glasses lined with strips of cake. Serve cold. Excellent for ice cream.

Peach Ice Cream—Two quarts ripe peaches, one pound sugar, one quart rich milk, crush peaches, add sugar, then milk, freeze hard. Make about three quarts. Can use berries or muskmelon in place of peaches. Very good and cheap.

Mangoes—Take large green peppers, cut open tops and take out seeds. Soak peppers in water twenty-four hours; break up a head of cauliflower, green beans, small cucumbers, radish seeds, small green tomatoes and little onions; let them stand in strong brine one-half hour; then drain and stuff peppers almost full. Slice cabbage fine and fill top. Fasten the top down by sewing, pack in stone jar and pour over them cold vinegar; add mixed spices and horseradish root.

Pepper Hash—One dozen green and one dozen red sweet peppers, three small hot red peppers, fifteen medium-sized onions, two cups sugar, one quart cider vinegar, two teaspoons cinnamon, three teaspoons salt. Put peppers and onions through meat chopper, place in jar, cover with boiling water, let stand fifteen minutes; drain, scald and drain again immediately. Add seasonings, boil fifteen minutes and can; makes five pints.

Stuffed Tomatoes—Dip tomatoes in hot water and peel. Place on ice; when chilled, remove inside and fill with Neufchatel cheese, well blended with mayonnaise and finely chopped sweet green peppers. Chill thoroughly before packing; then wrap each one in paraffin paper. When ready to serve slice and lay on bed of lettuce.

THE W. C. T. U.

Always Water for Christening.

There seems to be some confusion on the part of certain good people concerning the attitude of the W. C. T. U. with regard to the christening of ships with champagne. The Outlook says editorially, "The opposition of extreme temperance advocates has always been difficult to understand." It contends that inasmuch as "a bottle smashed on the bow of a battleship is one bottle that can never be drunk, such an event ought to be regarded as another blow to the consumption of liquor."

Miss Anna A. Gordon, president of the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union, being asked to give the white-ribboners' viewpoint, said: "Our friends, the non-'extremists,' are taking a narrow and superficial view of the question. They are losing sight of the symbolism of the rite itself. Consider the root meaning of the word 'christening.' One of the dictionary definitions of to christen is: 'to name, as a ship, by a ceremony likened to baptism.' Always baptism in the Christian economy has been with water. If in days gone by spirituous liquors were supposed to give long life and to bring good luck, the revelations of science have thoroughly exploded that theory. Water is a symbol of life, alcohol a symbol of disease, destruction and death, the enemy of life and of efficiency; hence the christening of any ship with champagne is an absurdity and an anachronism."

Out With Him.

Chicago's Chief of Police, Charles C. Healey, addressing a conference of his subordinates, took occasion to deal a blow at John Barleycorn, who has been "hail fellow, well met," with the police force for so many years. "John Barleycorn," he said, "is the worst enemy we have. He is a mocking liar, a seditious scoundrel, a traitor and a poltroon, and no man who wears the city's star may keep him company. It is easy enough for you to do good work when John Barleycorn isn't with you. He cobwebs your brain, he dulls your eyes, he slackens your nerves, and whispers false whispers into your mind. So blackball your friend who is not a friend, or else you may find yourself, too, on the outside of the department with your friend. Raus mit him!"

New Study in the Colleges.

Statistics compiled by the Intercollegiate Prohibition Association show that the liquor problem is now a subject of systematic study in some two hundred colleges of the United States. At least sixty-five universities and colleges offer courses in this study for which curriculum credit is allowed. Many others are planning such courses for next year, while more than a hundred have classes where credit is not given.

It is stated that less than 2 per cent. of the men of America go through college, yet that from this 2 per cent. the nation draws 7,700 of its 10,000 leaders in all walks of life. Hence it is seen how significant is the fact that the colleges are giving attention to the alcohol question. The grip of the "Great Destroyer" on our colleges is being broken.

Italy, Too!

Without any noise and almost without discussion, the parliament of Italy not long since passed an act prohibiting the sale, except within very narrow limits and under rigid conditions, of all liquors. The government, it is said, takes this step in the interests of the Italian's efficiency as a citizen, as a workman, and as a soldier.

A Wineless Official Banquet.

No intoxicating beverage was served at the Independence Day banquet given by the State of Pennsylvania. This was in accordance with the unanimous ruling of the commission appointed by the Governor that "no liquor of any kind shall be provided at the expense of the State at a banquet to be given by the State at the Hotel Adelphia, in Philadelphia, July 3."

Prohibition Scores.

The Republican floor leader in the lower house of the coming Congress will no longer be supported in his anti-prohibition fight by the leader on the other side. The Democratic floor leader will not be a henchman of the liquor interests, but a tried and true Prohibitionist—Claude Kitchin, formerly Governor of North Carolina, a dry State. Score one for the temperance forces!

It is stated that the municipal fund of Cincinnati shows a deficit of nearly $500,000. We wonder if the liquor journals will give this fact conspicuous place as a news item!

Printers Fall in Line.

A toast to President Wilson was drunk in sparkling water by the 300 delegates and guests at the annual banquet of the International Stereotypers and Electrotypers' Union, in Washington, D. C. The banquet was reported as being one of the most striking witnessed in the capital city in many a day, abounding in demonstrations of patriotism. That the printers should drink "To the success of President Wilson" in the beverage which never beclouds judgment or impairs efficiency shows a keen sense of the fitness of things.

BRIDE SELLS FATHER'S HORSE AND DISAPPEARS

Elizabeth, Aug. 17—John Tibus, yesterday afternoon, received a letter from his seventeen-year-old bride, who disappeared from his home Thursday night. She is alleged to have sold a horse that she took from the stables of her father, Joseph Bishop, of Summit. In her letter, mailed in New York, Sunday, Mrs. Tibus says:

"I grew tired of Whippany. I have made up my mind to see something of the world outside of New Jersey, and I am now where there are trolley cars and taxis more frequently than one a day."

Mr. Tibus did not seem greatly worried about his wife's disappearance and said:

"She will probably return when the $40 Eugene Sully gave her for her father's horse is gone."

CHURCH TO AID POLAND.

South Orange, Aug. 17—For the purpose of obtaining financial aid for the people of Poland, sufferers by the war, Bishop J. J. O'Connor has requested the rectors of all the churches of the diocese of Newark to take up special collections during the month of August or September. Bishop O'Connor says it is not sufficient merely to continue the prayers ordered by the church that the war may be speedily ended.

THE WOMAN'S COLUMN

New York—Because college graduates are particular to bring up no more children than they are able to educate and rear properly is the cause assigned to the small families of the college graduates by Frances Fear in Leslie's. More than half of Vassar graduates do not marry, she writes, and those who do bear less than two children. Bryn Mawr's record is even worse—only one-third of her graduates have married, and they have borne one-third of a child each, speaking statistically. The college man and college woman, because of the long period of preparation, are later than others in entering the business or professional world. Marrying later in life they naturally have fewer children than those who marry early. Nor would the investigation be complete unless it took account of the intellectual quality of the children whose parents are, compared with those whose parents are not, college graduates. Parents today desire to hav no more children than they are able to educate and bring up properly, and no doubt college graduates think of this more than many others.

Oakland, Cal.—The annual gathering of the teachers of the United States began today in Oakland. Many thousands of women teachers are attending, and more than ever the women are taking a leading part in the directing of the big educational association. It is believed Miss Grace C. Strachan, of New York, will be elected to the presidency of the N. E. A., in recognition of woman's great work in the educational field.

Philadelphia—Deciding that the word "widow" cannot be recognized as including "widower," a Philadelphia judge has ended a puzzling question raised in a law suit. A woman member of a labor union recently died, and the by-laws of the union conferred death benefits only on the "widow" and dependents. The husband sued for his "widow" benefit, but the court decided against him. And so henceforth a "widow" is legally a woman.

Washington—Friends are coming to the aid of Mrs. Belva Lockwood, who in her younger days was the most prominent woman in America, and who is now practically penniless and dependent on voluntary aid in her 85th year. Andrew Carnegie has recently granted her a pension, and others are aiding the venerable woman. It was she who secured equal pay for women in the government service, and secured the right for women to practice law before the Supreme Court. She has taken a prominent part in the peace movement, in temperance and in woman suffrage. She was twice nominated for the Presidency of the United States by the Equal Rights Party.

Washington—Strewing flowers on the waves on Memorial Day, the beautiful naval memorial custom in tribute to those who died on the waters during the Civil War, was originated by Mrs. Armitage S. C. Forbes, of South Pasadena, Cal. The thought which had come to her found its way to others, when she invited all school teachers who lived beside the waters of California to join with her in remembering the sailors. This movement began in 1900, the President endorsed it, and it is now generally carried out on Memorial Day in the seacoast cities.

Battle Creek, Mich.—Taller, darker women, clothed in more sensible dress, will typify the "eugenic woman" of the future, says Dr. A. J. Read, of the Normal School of Physical Education, in this city. "The ideal woman of the eugenic age," he says, "will be plump and well-rounded, but not fat. She will be ruddy, not pale as the present-day woman, because the pale skin is a badge of disease rather than of health. Woman's dress is much more sensible today than twenty years ago. The hygienic dress, however, should be suspended from the shoulders, leaving the waist free."

New York—Lieutenant Maria Morales, one of Mexico's famous women military leaders, has been killed, according to advices contained in a Vera Cruz newspaper which has reached this city. The senorita, who has repeatedly shown courage in many engagements at the head of her men, was shot while leading the defense of a train that was attacked by Zapata's followers. Lieutenant Morales was a Carranza adherent. According to the report, she led the escort of the train and forced the bandits to give ground, and would have won a complete victory if she had not been shot down.

VALUABLE TIPS FOR THE "WEAKFISHER"

Second Half of the Season About to Be Sent On Its Way.

Sewaren, Aug. 17—With the second half of the weakfishing season about to start, anglers for the "sea trout" are looking forward to from five to eight weeks of good sport. The dominant hope in the hearts of the followers of the rod and line are that the weather will change—the nor'east winds take a vacation and the Rain King call time for a while. The weakfish season so far has been disappointing, and this is practically due to the elements.

"Weaks" began to bite, and bite well, about June 18, and there was every prospect of a merry old time for fishermen. But the wind and rain kept chopping and lashing the water, and the "weaks" became scared. They hugged the bottom or went way out into the ocean. But there is one consolation that all have, although it is not a very consoling one. It is that the waters of this locality are no worse, as far as "weaks" are concerned, than those of other localities. All over the weather has driven the "weaks" to cover.

When weakfishing is good Sewaren, at least along its shore, buzzes with activity through the summer. There are few anglers, outside of those who can't see any fishing except that for trout and bass in mountain streams and lakes, who do not enthuse over the battling "weak." As with other fish, there are many methods of catching the "weak," rather than luring the "weak." The great majority of anglers, it would seem, however, favor the shedder crab as bait.

Bob Acker, local boathouse keeper, whose business makes him a student of bait, and especially of weakfish bait, insists that there is nothing like the shedder crab for attracting the denizen of the sound for which thousands of fishermen come here annually. There is only one drawback to the shedders, and that is their cost. Just now they are bringing about $1.50 per dozen. Most of the shedders, if not all, sold here come from Maryland, and Acker says the high price is due to a big demand for soft shell crabs in that State, the shedder, of course, eventually becoming a "softie." The shedders do not always sell at $1.50. Sometimes they are down to $1.10. They go a pretty good ways, too. Two men going out in a rowboat for a day take about one-half dozen along, and generally manage without replenishing the supply. One crab will make about eight or ten baits.

Those who, for some reason or another, do not take to shedders as bait use shrimp, sandworms and bloodworms. When shedders are used the fisherman should see to it, Acker says, that they are kept alive, but the chances are against the angler using this kind of lure. Care should be taken that the shedders are not exposed to the sun's rays. They should be kept in a basket that will not fall apart, and a generous dousing of water should be given them now and then. The dead and dying should be kept away from the others. They should not be discarded, however, for they may come in handy should the supply of live crabs give out.

Most of the weakfish seekers hereabouts use a 4-0 Carlisle hook, with a three foot leader. Weakfish travel in schools and run, as a rule, from one pound to one and one-half. They are generally found close to the bottom. Both poles and handlines are used. One argument the hand-line men use is that a more steady pull can be had with the line in direct touch than through the intermediary of a pole. There is no danger, either, they point out, for a man with a hand-line, as to some with reels, who wind the wrong way in a moment of excitement. Wrong winds of this kind, they say, cause the loss of more fish than the ordinary man would suppose.

Flounders, which have been biting pretty well in local waters, take to weakfish bait, as well as to killies. The flounder is found, like the weakfish here, mostly at the bottom, so that every move for the one kind of fish might be a move for the other. About the middle of June the fluke, too, started biting, and they are likely to continue through September. Occasionally some are caught in October.

In fishing for fluke some like to sit still in the boat and leave the sinker undisturbed until the fluke finds the bait. Others want to take the bait to the fish by moving their boat or just dragging the sinker. The latter seem to have the most success. A fisherman for fluke, warns Acker, should not be too quick to haul in after getting a bite, as fluke are great nibblers, and hasty action may lose the fish.

Crabs have not been as plentiful here as in some other years, but they are unusually large. They are caught in about ten feet of water, with old meat or fish heads as bait. A few use traps, but the great majority stick to the old method of netting.

SOME STUNT FOR OLDTIMER.

Disgruntled with the work of the pitcher for the McConnells Mills, Pa., baseball team in a game with Westland, W. C. Bedillion, sixty-eight years old, manager of the former team, went to the slab and by air tight pitching won his game, the final score being 8 to 5. Bedillion obtained prominence in the game in the early 70's. With the score 4 to 2 against his club, Bedillion went in the box in the sixth inning. He gave a fine exhibition, striking out four men, giving one base on balls and hitting one man. He allowed no hits. It was the first game he had pitched in twenty-five years.

RUNYON ON "EDGE" FOR SHORE MEET

Will Compete Saturday Afternoon In Monster Affair At Keansburg.

What is expected to be one of the biggest athletic meets ever held in this State will take place at Keansburg, Saturday, on the Seeley Avenue Oval. Many of the best athletes in the sporting world will compete. Ralph Runyon, junior metropolitan vaulting champion and P. H. S. athlete, being among the many entered. Runyon will compete in the running broad and high jumps and, as usual, in the pole vault.

Among those who will be on hand as judges will be Paul Pilgrim, one of the leading lights in the A. A. U. Pilgrim will be one of the judges at the finish while Harry Obertubessing will be the official handicapper.

Art O'Leary, the Dunellen athlete, may enter in the "applied for" class as he is not, as yet, an A. A. U. athlete.

FORMER BIG LEAGUERS FAIL ON FEDS' CIRCUIT

Former star pitchers of the American and National Leagues who jumped to the Feds are having a tough time.

Russell Ford, a sensation several years ago, has been released because he could not win. Ad Brennan has been worked in only three games and lost all of them. Cy. Falkenberg has just broken even. Hendrix and Bedient have lost more games than they have won, and Chief Bender, former world's series hero, has won three games and lost twelve.

ROD AND REEL

Sunday was an ideal fishing day. Just enough breeze to make it comfortable and enough sun showers to keep one on edge. All the boats that started for the outside grounds reached their destination safely.

The weakfishing is improving and unless there is another series of bad storms, we may look for some excellent sport before the end of the month.

Excellent surf and deep sea fishing has been afforded anglers in the region of Corson's Inlet. Channel bass are expected in a short time.

Fluke are nowhere near as plentiful as they should be along the shore. Heavy storms and East winds, of which we have had our fill this summer, are assigned as the reasons.

Yesterday, 'tis said, was the first day in a long while that fishermen could see bottom. Some anglers even claim they could see them in four feet of water off Seidler's.

To catch a twelve-pound bass at the Highland Beach bridge in the middle of summer is some feat. Blackie Brenner, a well-known angler, accomplished this last week. His catch is the second large one caught there this season.

Bill Wyckoff fished off Seidler's Sunday, and for a youngster, did unusually well. Bill intends trying again.

Kingfish are taking the hook in good numbers in the surf at Long Branch.

Hartie Philips sends word that one of the liftguards at Asbury Park caught a 41-pound striped bass recently. We wonder if it was "Fat" Hurtt.

Until September 11 the Daily Press will go to press on Saturdays at 1 o'clock.

FEW CHANGES MADE IN PLAYERS' LISTS

City Baseball League Appoints Ira R. Vail a Substitute Umpire.

Aside from a few changes in the list of players and a discussion regarding postponed games, there was little doing at the weekly meeting of the City Amateur Baseball League in the office of the Plainfield Daily Press last night. All of the teams were represented and several minor matters were quickly disposed of. It was finally decided to defer the fixing of dates for postponed games until a week before Labor Day for the reason that in case of rain there may be other games to be arranged for on the schedule.

There was some discussion as to whether in the case of postponed holiday games the fifty-fifty rule of dividing receipts should be adopted. This matter was laid over for settlement.

Manager Thomas Apgar, of the Clinton Avenue team, posted the name of Casey Lamberison and dropped A. Brick. Ernest Luthman, representing Hope Chapel, posted the names of F. Conti and W. Conti, dropping B. Hand and A. Thorn, while Manager Daniel Randolph for the Baptists, posted the name of Dills in place of George Townley and dropped Stahl from the list.

Ira R. Vail made an application for the position of umpire and was appointed a substitute official. It was voted that he be given a trial at the earliest convenience.

It was announced that the Clinton Avenue team will play Netherwood at Netherwood on Saturday. The other games scheduled are T. A. B. vs. Baptist on the latter's field, and Hope vs. Saurer on Hope field.

Secretary Daniel Randolph reported progress concerning the plans to secure the watch fobs from Spaulding for members of the team winning the city championship.

BILL SCHOOLEY AGAIN THE SHINING LIGHT

Little Blonde Captains His "Tuskies" to a Newark City Title.

Paddlers who sport the silks of the Tuscarora Canoe Club continued their winning streak Saturday afternoon, when they captured the city championship title at the regatta held at Branch Brook Lake. It is the third title the Newark canoeists have won in the past month. A few weeks ago at Asbury Park they won the Atlantic Coast and the New Jersey State title. In the city championship regatta the Tuscaroras paddled on their home course and rolled up a total of 28 points against their rivals, Wyonas Canoe Club paddlers' 8.

William Schooley, formerly of this city, is captain of the Tuscaroras and was their star performer in Saturday's events. In the quarter-mile doubles the Tuscarora four, of which Schooley is a member, easily captured first honors, while in the quarter-mile doubles he and his partner, William Burtt, experienced little trouble in annexing honors. The eighth-mile city championship hurry-scurry (100 yard swim, 120 yard paddle) was pie for Bill. The tug-of-war match was also won by the "Tusks," but Schooley, being a light man, did not compete in this event.

Four thousand people witnessed the races, all of which were keenly contested and fairly won.

BALL PLAYER, RELATED HERE, DIES IN NEW YORK STATE

A brother of Ben Egan, the Cleveland catcher, who has been given such flattering notices for his playing in the recent Yankee series, died last week in Oneida, N. Y. He was the second brother of Ben's to die within the last six weeks. The deaths disrupt the only known team of brothers that played in the country. There were ten Egan boys before these deaths, and they had a team which played independent ball around their home town. When the season was over Ben always joined his brothers and they "barnstormed" in New York State.

Neither of the two brothers who died recently were in the big show, Ben being the one best bet of the ten. Another Egan is at present catching for Baltimore, and was formerly with Cincinnati. Ben is recorded as being the seventh best catcher in the American League today.

Thomas Burke, of West Third street, is an uncle of the Egan boys, who have at various time visited him.

BEAGLE CLUB SEEKS SEASON EXTENSION

William L. Smalley Presided At Meeting In Roseland Yesterday.

The Legislature will be asked next winter to extend the season in which hound dogs may be trained in hunting rabbits. This was decided yesterday afternoon by members of the New Jersey State Beagle Club at the first annual clambake held yesterday under the club's auspices at the home of H. M. Vosburgh, Laurel avenue, Roseland.

Under the present law rabbits may be shot on days between November 10 and December 1, when there is no snow by which the bunnies may be tracked. The law provides further that on and after October 1 of each year until the season closes owners of dogs may trail rabbits as a training for the animals, but none may be killed until November 10. It is the desire of the club members that the season for training be advanced to September 15, thus giving hunters an additional two weeks to get their aides in shape.

The club holds field trials each fall. Last year the event was held on grounds leased by the club at Roseland during the first week in November. It is desired to have the trials during the last two weeks of October, but if this is done with the present laws owners will have little opportunity to get their entries in shape for the event.

About 120 members of the club, with their wives, were at the bake. They came from every municipality in Essex county, and from nearly every county in the State. The vice-president, William Smalley, of this city, was master of ceremonies, the president, Dr. J. Roland Teed, of Roseland, taking charge at the brief business meeting. Miles Hanchet, of Orange, superintended the bake.

Former State Senator Thomas Anderson, of Somerset county, and L. Freeman Lloyd, of the American Field, a sporting publication of Chicago, were the guests of honor.

Preceding the dinner, the club members had a series of field sports, interest being centred in the wheelbarrow race. Prosecutors Detective William Parker Teed and Mrs. George A. Flammer, both of Roseland, were the winners of the event for men and women, respectively. Harry Lang, of Gillette, proved himself the best quoit tosser.

George Hooley, of North Plainfield, is also a member of this club, and both he and Mr. Smalley intend placing their best entries in the coming competition.

IMPORTANT MEETING.

Members of the "Plainfield Five" will meet in the Plainfield High School gymnasium tomorrow night. A new name for the organization will be submitted at that time and several new members taken into the club. It is important that all members be present.

ANOTHER JUMPER.

Providence, R. I., Aug. 17—Ralph Comstock, one of the best pitchers in the International League, who was sold to Cincinnati, has jumped the Reds for the Pittsburgh Federals, according to his teammates. It is said he signed a two-year contract.

P. H. S. NOT INCLUDED.

According to the schedule just completed by the manager of the Rutgers "Prep" football squad, only three High School teams will be met this year. Plainfield High is not among the chosen trio.

LEVIS M. BOOTH CONSENTS TO RUN

Choice of Second Ward Republicans For Councilmanic Nomination.

CLAYBROOK ENDORSED

Third Ward Councilman Will Be Urged to Enter Primaries—Allen E. Beals and C. S. Sminck Possible Candidates.

Second ward Republicans met last night with Howard H. Williams, chairman of the ward club, and secured the consent of Levis M. Booth, of Cedarbrook road, to become the candidate of the party for the Common Council. It was also voted that the city committee be asked to bring about the nomination of Councilman Richard A. Claybrook, Democrat, as a Republican candidate as well as in his own party. George S. Clay, president of the present City Council, and a colleague of Mr. Claybrook's, brought up the matter, paying the highest tribute to his associate, and saying that there was no place for politics in local affairs, when a man of the type of Mr. Claybrook was considered. There was but one dissenting vote against putting a regular Republican petition in circulation for Mr. Claybrook.

Republican City Chairman John J. Carroll was present, and made a few remarks. He said that it is getting harder and harder each year to get the proper type of men to run for Council, and that unless there is a decided change for the better, commission government is to be the only alternative. Mr. Booth, the councilmanic candidate, who was present at the meeting, said that he would listen to the pleadings of his friends and neighbors to become a candidate, and that although he was a firm believer in the commission manager form, he would, if elected, do his best to serve the interests of the ward and city.

The petitions for placing his name on the primary ballot were immediately placed in circulation, and secured a number of signers at the meeting. Mr. Booth is an engineer, being head of the Booth Water Softener Company, and in his business comes in contact with a large number of municipal problems. It was the consensus of opinion at last night's meeting that he is better fitted for the Council than has been any man who has been a candidate for many years.

At the close of the meeting a vote of thanks for Mr. Booth for consenting to run, and to President Clay for his splendid work during the seven years that he has been in office, were unanimously passed.

There is every reason to believe that Councilman Thomas F. Hylan, of the Third ward, and Councilman Charles C. Graves, of the Fourth ward, will run again. They are both being urged to seek a renomination. It is reported that Councilmen Juan A. Babcock and John H. Cose will retire at the end of their terms this year, in which case it will leave two vacancies to be filled.

There is still some doubt regarding the Republican candidates in the First ward. The names of Charles S. Sminck and Allen E. Beals have been suggested. Either one would undoubtedly make an efficient member of the Council. Mr. Beals has been especially active in local affairs, being the head of the Boy Scout movement in this city as well as a member of the Playground Commission.

DAY NURSERY FUND PASSES $200 MARK

$35 Contributed Today to The King's Daughters' Worthy Charity.

Impressed with the splendid work being done by the City Union of King's Daughters and co-operating with the former contributors to the fund being raised each year through the columns of the Daily Press, $35 was added to the fund this morning, $25 coming from "G. S. C." and $10 from Mrs. C. A. Marsh. Both contributors spoke in the highest terms of the work being conducted under the auspices of the King's Daughters.

The total amount raised thus far is $210.20 and just $80.20 short of the $300 mark that was reached and passed in previous years. It is hoped that public spirited citizens of the city and borough will keep up the good work and pass the established record.

This work of caring for the sick children and babies is increasing and there is urgent need for funds at this time of the year, to meet the expenses incurred in maintaining a diet kitchen and employing a trained nurse who visits the homes, gives mothers instructions and advice as to the proper way of preparing food for children and also gives her services to sick children.

Send your donation, however small, to this office. It will be acknowledged through these columns and turned over to the nursery where it will be applied to a most commendable charity. The total fund to date is as follows:

Previously acknowledged	$175.20
"G. A. C."	25.00
Mrs. C. A. Marsh	10.00
Total	$210.20

WANTS TO PRESERVE JERSEY BUILDING

Steps Taken to Establish a Park at the Panama-Pacific Exposition.

San Francisco, Aug. 17.—Prominent citizens and commercial organizations of San Francisco have paid New Jersey a great compliment in starting a movement to raise funds for the preservation of the New Jersey building at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition. The idea of making a public park of the Exposition grounds originated but a short time ago, has been so popular that President Moore has appointed a committee of architects to investigate the feasibility of the proposed action. The plan at present is to preserve the beautiful Palace of Fine Arts, the California, New Jersey and Massachusetts State buildings, to be used as exhibit places for State and government exhibits. The popular demand for the preservation of the New Jersey building among the seventy-eight main buildings on the grounds is a great compliment to the State and a tribute to the good judgment and efficiency of the commission in charge of the New Jersey affairs at the Exposition.

Many visitors from the entire world continue to make the New Jersey building their headquarters, and residents of New Jersey are proud of their building and its reputation for beauty and hospitality. Among the New Jersey viscitors registering this week are the following Plainfielders:

Ethel Van Zandt, Miss Marion, Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Van Zandt, Edith E. Lowry, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Floersch, Mrs. W. E. Stelle, W. E. Stelle, Mrs. A C Penn, A. C. Penn, Jr., Dorothy E. MacClymont, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Moore, Sadie D. Grabt, Marguerite Van Zandt, Charles R. Bostwick, Harold G. Davis, E. Dean Bryer, Dorothy Stelle, Mary Bostwick, Alice S. Chamberlain, John W. Viebroch, A. Agnes Leighs, Mrs. George T. Leighs.

CLARK MAY SEEK RE-NOMINATION

Citizens' Committee Urge Borough Mayor to Enter Field Again.

TO CONSIDER MATTER

Executive Is Assured That He Will Have Support of Both Republicans and Democrats Independent of Politics—Petitions Presented.

Mayor Robert Clark, Jr., of North Plainfield, was waited upon last evening at his home by a committee of six representative citizens of the borough and urged to enter the field for mayor again this fall. At the same time the petition, which Walter C. Linbarger has been circulating among the voters requesting the same action on the part of Mayor Clark, was presented to him. Mr. Clark has taken the whole matter under advisement and has promised to let the committee know his decision in a few days.

Mr. Linbarger was the first to arrive at Mayor Clark's residence last night. The caller's errand was to present the petition about which there has been so much talk in the borough. Mayor Clark looked it over and found that it contained the names of quite a number of representative men of North Plainfield in addition to some lesser lights. Soon after Mr. Linbarger's arrival a committee of six borough residents was ushered in.

This committee consisted of Dr. H. K. Carroll, Augustus VanDeventer, A. E. Faber, Sr., former Mayor Samuel Townsend, Judge Isaac P. Runyon and Herman Schwed. Dr. Carroll was spokesman for the party. The speaker declared that he and his colleagues came as a committee of North Plainfield citizens independent of politics, to urge the Mayor to reconsider his recently announced decision not to allow his name to go before the primaries this fall for reelection to the office he has already filled for two terms.

Dr. Carroll is a Republican, as is also Mayor Clark, but to show that the committee was not a party body at all, the petition was handed the Mayor by a Democrat, Mr. Linbarger, and of the same political faith as Mr. Linbarger were Messrs. VanDeventer and Schwed and former Mayor Townsend, while Dr. Carroll, Mr. Faber and Judge Isaac Runyon are known as Republicans.

The representations made to Mayor Clark by Dr. Carroll were to the effect that the members of the committee had been inquiring what the voters in North Plainfield desire Mr. Clark to do, retire at the end of his present administration or run again, and they declared that the consensus of opinion throughout the borough is that he run again.

Mayor Clark replied that he was affected by the demonstration in his honor and felt deeply gratified that his administration of the office had met with such evident favor. As he considered the matter of running for another term a serious move, he said that he must take a few days to consider the subject in its every phase. He promised Dr. Carroll as representing the committee that he would communicate his decision to him in two or three days.

There were about 200 names on the petition, which was in circulation about a week. Mr. Linbarger said he made an effort to get the names of men on it who had weight in political and municipal affairs. Mayor Clark will advise the committee of his decision in a letter to Dr. Carroll, the spokesman of the committee.

Mr. Clark was in the North Plainfield Council prior to being elected Mayor and was urged to run for that office long before he consented to do so. When he retired from business and felt that he had time to devote to the office, he accepted the nomination and was elected. This was four years ago. His opponent was the late S. St. John McCutchen, ostensibly a Democrat but said to have been backed by Republican interests. Mr. McCutchen was defeated by about 150 votes. Requested to run for a second term two years ago, Mayor Clark was unopposed. He has given the borough a business-like administration, his friends claim, and has acquainted himself with all the details of the borough affairs.

BOROUGH HOSTELRY CHANGES OWNERS

Frederick S. Moore Succeeds Hillaire Blatz As Proprietor Of Hotel Chatham.

Frederick S. Moore took over the business of the Hotel Chatham, on Somerset street, from Hillaire C. Blatz, proprietor, today, and will conduct the hotel along the same lines which Mr. Blatz followed. The license was transferred from Mr. Blatz to Mr. Moore at Somerville this morning, after which the new owner took possession. Mr. Blatz has no definite plans for the future, although he is considering entering the stationery business in New York State. For the present he is residing with his family on Mountain avenue.

Mr. Moore is a native Plainfielder and has been employed here for twenty-six years, starting to work as a japanner in the old oilcloth factory. Taking up another line of work, he entered the employ of John Schorb, Sr., in the hotel which E. C. Wescott now conducts on East Front street. At that time the postoffice was in the same building, being over the saloon, but it was later removed to another location. Mr. Moore was next employed b yJoseph Miller in the old Elkwood; by Henry Windham and Daniel Crowley; at the old City Hotel, now the Queen City Hotel; by A. D. Findlay and then by E. C. Wescott, on East Front street, where he started at tending bar. Mr. Moore says he found the same fixtures and everything inside looking just as it did when he started in to work a quarter of a century before.

Mr. Moore is an exempt fireman. He was a member of the old volunteer department, belonging to Zephyr Hook and Ladder Company. He was foreman of the Zephyr Company for seven years, until it was superseded by the paid department.

The Hotel Chatham has been conducted at the same stand for thirty years, and has always been in the Blatz family. The new proprietor finds the hotel in excellent condition in every way, and does not expect to make any important changes or improvements.

JUDGE'S PATIENCE AT LAST EXHAUSTED BY AUTO DRIVER

Frequent appearances before Judge DeMeza, in the city police court, for infractions of the taxicab and hacking ordinance this morning culminated in severe punishment for John Barry, of 18 Howard street, North Plainfield, a driver at the North Avenue depot. He was arrested by Sergeant Andrew Saffron on North avenue, at 1:45 o'clock this morning, charged with fast and reckless driving, and in court this morning he was sentenced to pay a fine of $5 and his automobile license was revoked for a period of thirty days.

Barry has a card at police headquarters denoting many appearances for similar offenses, and he has been repeatedly warned by the city judge to correct his ways. Because of the hardship it would force upon the boy's family Judge DeMeza has time and again given him a chance to "make good," and it was only after all other means had failed that the punishment was inflicted this morning.

GEORGIA DEFENDS FRANK LYNCHING

Southerners Seeth Under the Attacks of the Nation's Press Denouncing Act.

PROBE TO BE THOROUGH

Governor Incensed Over Attitude of People—Body Being Brought North—Believe Well Known Men Formed the Plot.

Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 18.—Seething under the probability of a thorough probe into the lynching of Leo M. Frank and the tragic denouncement the State of Georgia has been subjected to by the entire nation, defenders of the crime today declared that the slayers would never become known to those who would bring them to justice. The body of the noted prisoner is this afternoon speeding over the Southern Railway for the family home in New York city, while prominent citizens both in Marietta and Atlanta openly scoff at Governor Nat R. E. Harris' declaration that he will exhaust every known legal proceeding to get at the bottom of the whole affair.

It is the boast of Atlanta's best known people that the identity of the assailants is known to many business men and influential city officials. It is common report that the lynching was carefully planned during weeks of preparation, and the smoothness with which the abduction of the prisoner was brought about and the means used to whirl him to Marietta indicate this. Substantial citizens of Marietta are thought to have been aware of what was being planned for days and even weeks, and it is no secret that they connived at the conpiracy which many others denounce as the "greatest disgrace in Georgia's history."

Furthermore the citizens openly declare that the mob was justified in snuffing out the life of the convicted slayer of Mary Phagan, and boastfully tell of the hanging. It is said that the plans were ready to be put into operation a month ago, but that someone talked, and that another month's lease on life was accorded Frank as a consequence.

Twenty-five well known and reputed rich citizens, officials and business men of Atlanta and Marietta are reported to have been the ringleaders in formulating the plot, and the systematic and businesslike precision with which the lynching was carried out indicates that it was promoted and engineered by individuals of high probity.

Governor Harris is greatly perturbed by the attitude Georgia people are taking toward the affair, and much alarm has been occasioned by the many threats of violence should the State leader put into operation his present plans for running to earth the guilty parties. The Governor is incensed over the action on the part of the Atlanta police in allowing the body of Frank to be exposed in a local undertaking establishment last night to satisfy the curiosity of morbid thousands.

IDEAL WEATHER PROMISED FOR TOMORROW'S OUTING

Two sections will convey pleasure-seekers from this city to "The Town Without a Frown," namely, Asbury Park, tomorrow, when the annual excursion of Warren chapel will be run. Because of the fact that it is the last one of the season to be run from this city this year, a large number from both this city and the borough anticipate making the trip. Many of the store employes signified their intention of going, inasmuch as all the department stores are closed on Thursdays during August.

Trains will leave the North avenue station tomorrow morning at 8:15, stopping at the Netherwood station to take on any possible passengers from that section of the city. Returning the Plainfielders will leave Asbury at 6:10.

DISCUSS CANDIDATES.

The City Democratic Executive Committee held a meeting last night in headquarters, North and Park avenues, at which an informal discussion of prospective candidates took place, but nothing definite about endorsing any of them was done. Another session will be held soon at which the committee expects to get down to business.

NOONDAY MEETING.

Rev. Franklin E. Wieder, pastor of the Palatinate Reformed church, Philadelphia, spoke at the men's noonday gospel service in the W. C. T. U. rooms at 12:30 o'clock today. Good music was a feature of the service. These meetings are growing in interest as well as attendance.

CLAIMS THAT SHE WAS MISQUOTED

Mrs. E. F. Feickert Resents "Antis'" Misrepresentation of Her Statements.

Mrs. E. F. Feickert, president of the New Jersey Woman Suffrage Association, expressed herself today as being indignant at the twist the anti-suffragists are trying to give to her remarks at the Lucy Stone celebration in Orange last Friday. What she said on that occasion (as correctly reported in the Newark News, Newark Eagle, and many other New Jersey and New York newspapers) was as follows: "We hope that one of the factors which will contribute to our success in October will be the support of the President of the United States. His secretary, Joseph P. Tumulty, has stated that the President will make public his position in regard to the New Jersey suffrage amendment prior to October 19. We do not believe that Woodrow Wilson, the greatest living Democrat, will oppose woman suffrage, which is merely the last step in the development of democracy in this country."

"What on earth can the most censorious critic find in that to make a fuss about?" said Mrs. Feickert, "and yet, here are the antis filling the papers with the statement that I said the President has given us his assurance that before election day he will not fail to come out for suffrage! If he had said that, no further declaration would be needed to define his stand on the suffrage question, and I should not have undertaken the role of a prophet last Friday. For once the antis and I are agreed! Their President says, 'We are content to wait with patience the decision of President Wilson on this question, and not to embarrass him or heckle him in any way.' So are we; and the record of the New Jersey Suffrage Association is spotless as far as either harrassing or heckling the President are concerned, for we have never approached him either directly or indirectly on the question of the pending suffrage amendment. We admire the President so much, however, that we are fain to believe he will not be found on the side of the opponents of complete democracy for the United States."

GERMANS TAKE KOVNO FORTRESS

Russians Lose 600 Cannon and Quantities of War Booty.

TURKS ARE REPULSED

Several Persons Killed In Zeppelin Raid On Outskirts of London—Russian Submarines Join Black Sea Fleet Raiding Commerce.

Berlin (via wireless to Sayville), Aug. 18.—The great Russian fortress of Kovno was captured by the Germans last night. An official announcement from the War Office today declared:

"The fortress of Kovno, together with all the forts and war material not yet counted, has been in German hands since last night. More than 600 canon were taken. The fortress was stormed in spite of the most tenacious Russian resistance."

Petrograd, Aug. 18.—Latest reports from the front to the War Office said that Kovno was still holding out.

German siege artillery of all calibres and Austrian howitzers, it was declared, had been pounding at the western and southwestern forts of Kovno since early Monday.

The Teutons have lost heavily in massed assaults. Great gaps were torn in the ranks of General von Eichhorn's army when the Germans threw themselves in close formation on the positions facing Kovno from the southwest. The enemy was exposed to the crossfire of Russian works on either side.

The General Staff's latest bulletin follows:

"In the region of Riga and in the directin of Jacobstadt there has been no particular change. In the course of Sunday and Monday attempts of the enemy to progress failed.

"In the direction of Dvinsk stubborn fights continue, but all German attacks have been repulsed.

"At Kovno there has been fighting of the most desperate character. Sunday and Monday the enemy, having made careful preparations by the use of heavy artillery of all calibres up to sixteen inches, launched a series of violent attacks in full strength with the object of storming the fortifications on the left bank of the Niemen. Toward Monday evening he succeeded in carrying a small fort which had been greatly damaged by artillery fire and in breaking into intervening spaces betwen some of the other forts in the northern sector. The fighting continues.

"On the left bank of the upper Narew we repulsed on Sunday a series of fierce German attacks in the direction of Bialystock and Bielsk. The enemy's offensive between the River Nrstry and the Bug has been successfully contained. The enemy has suffered heavy losses.

"On the Bug, above the village of Janow, there has been skirmishing between outposts.

"In the Vlodavo region the enemy is endeavoring to establish himself on the right bank of the river.

"In the Novo Georgievsk region there has been severe artillery firing and the enemy has brought up guns of the largest calibre. During Sunday night the Germans delivered a series of attacks, principally against the fortifications between the Narew and the left bank of the River Wkra."

London, Aug. 18—The following report of Sir Ian Hamilton, the British commander of Gallipoli Peninsula, has been made public:

"In the southern zone the situation remained unchanged on August 14 and 15. The Turks kept up their usual artillery fire without much effect. In the northern zone the right flank of the Australian-New Zealand Army Corps was heavily attacked on the night of the 14th to 15th. All the attacks were repulsed.

"At Sulva the troops of our left flank made a short advance on the afternoon of the 15th with a view of straightening out the line they moved in forward under considerable gun and rifle fire and gained about 500 yards, capturing Turkish trenches and taking two officers and 20 other prisoners."

The outskirts of London were raided last night by Zeppelins. Several persons were killed. The damage to property was not important.

Two more neutral ships have been sunk by German submarines, it was announced today. They were the Norwegian steamers Mineral and Romulus. The crews of both vessels were saved. The British steamer Bonny and the Spanish steamer Isidoro have also been sunk by submarines. The crews of the two ships were landed today. The Isidoro is the first Spanish ship sunk by a U boat.

PAVILION TO BE ERECTED IN PARK

Dunellen Council Accepts Suffrage League's Proposal to Build Structure.

ORDER STREET REPAIRS

Public Service Contract Awarded—Many Minor Matters Relative to Sewer Work Also Discussed By Council.

Application was made by the Equal Suffrage League of Dunellen and New Market at last night's session of the Dunellen Council for a permit to erect a pavilion in Washington Park, the same to be used as a meeting place for the suffrage workers, and to be presented to the town upon its completion. In view of the fact that such a building would do away with the expense entailed in erecting a temporary structure every time occasion demanded, the proposal was accepted.

A communication was received from Dr. Curry, of Madison avenue, calling the attention of the Council again to the fact that Third street, opposite his home, has not been placed back in the shape in which the sewer contractors found it. The doctor said that he had fixed a stretch of this street up at his own expense about a year ago, and he would like to have it put back into its former condition, so he could get in and out with his automobile. He stated that in getting in and out since the road was torn up he had damaged one car to such an extent that he had had to sell it and purchase a new one, and that several days ago he came dangerously near to wrecking his car. The car which the doctor had to dispose of sank into the back fill of the sewer trench upon the evening of the great storm, the latter part of last month and came near turning over. Street Commissioner Isaac V. Smalley was ordered to fix up the street.

The Public Service Lighting Company was awarded the contract of lighting the borough for a term of five years. The contract is so worded that in the event of any decrease in the rates during the five years that the borough will get the advantage of such a decrease. Mr. Reed, of the Public Service Company, was present, and he stated that the rates in his company's bid had all been approved by the Public Utilities Commission.

Chairman Castner, of the street committee, reported that he was trying to get the Public Service Railway Company to fill in along its rails on North avenue. These rails are so high that it is difficult for a vehicle to cross them, Mr. Castner explained. Mr. Castner, in his report, called attention to the condition of the gutters leading to two catch basins at Madison avenue and Front street, and to one catch basin at Madison avenue and Mountainview terrace, suggesting that these gutters be placed to grade, so that water would drain into the basins. This was ordered done.

Mr. Castner also said that the attention of those living in the vicinity where the storm sewer is operative should be called to the importance of not letting their children throw refuse into the catch basins. He said that he had found tin cans, sticks, a baseball bat and even a pair of trousers in the catch basins.

Under the report of the street committee, Mayor Latham brought up the matter of fixing up the north side of North avenue, which is to bear all of the traffic while the sewers are being laid on the south side of the thoroughfare. The Mayor stated that the work of laying the sewers along the main thoroughfare was progressing slowly on account of water, and it did not look as if it would be completed before spring, and that something should be done at once toward fixing up the portion of the street which is to bear the traffic. The street committee was instructed to get estimates for putting the north side of the thoroughfare, between Washington and Jackson avenues, back into shape. Mr. Castner also reported that his committee has selected nine places for the laying of crosswalks.

Chairman Williams, of the collecting sewer committee, reported that the sewer work was progressing slowly on Bound Brook road, where water had been encountered, and on Whittier avenue, where it was necessary to blast shale rock. In other sections the work is making fair progress.

The following bills were ordered paid: Joint sewer work, $1,167.28; collecting sewer work, $118.70; Frank Broshart, $10; W. H. Snyder, $3; L. T. Churchill, $42; J. S. Hawkyard, $7.75; Joe Muilek, $17; John Coon, $2; New York Telephone Company, $3.30.

TORCH FINDS THE WAY BLAZED.

Mayors For Suffrage.

Five mayors have joined the suffrage ranks since the beginning of August. They are Mayor R. O. Walling of Keyport, Mayor Francis C. Beile of Matawan, Mayor J. H. VanMater of Atlantic Highlands, Mayor Ferd. Garretson of Perth Amboy and Mayor Robert E. Torrance of Kearny. Mayor Mark M Fagan, whom suffragists had already claimed, also declared himself in writing.

These suffrage declarations by the mayors of five towns came in response to a letter from Mrs. Richard T. Newton, who had charge of the journey of the unlighted suffrage torch. Since the torch was to be handed on from town to town on its first day in the state, Mrs. Newton wished to be sure that it would be well received and wrote to the mayors. Each one replied, announcing himself in no uncertain terms in favor of the woman suffrage amendment. The suffragists are rejoicing in the certainty of the votes of these five leading men on Oct. 19.

Youthful but Sufficient Reasons For Suffrage.

The suffragists of Elizabeth a short time ago resorted to the ancient feminine plan of raising funds by making and selling cakes. Their sisters of the opposite party imitated them.

Little Margaret Ogden, aged nine, tasted both lots of cakes and, finding her own reasons for the suffrage faith within her, presented her mother with the following original essay on suffrage:

"Suffrage is better than anti many ways. One they make more money. They don't get so sick as antis. another they work harder. another they dont crow like chickens. another they make better cake. another they dont kill people. they work for the yellow till they are tired. Are banner always has the word in black over the yellow VOTES FOR WOMEN."

New York Times Calls to New Jersey Battle Line.

In a long editorial of Aug. 11 the New York Times points to the significance of the New Jersey special election on woman suffrage, which falls on Oct. 19. It says in part:

"Fresh from its many successes in the west, it thunders at the door of the long indifference of the middle and eastern states. Whether it would work well or ill, it is a matter of grave moment, passionately advocated or opposed by those keenly alive to its value or its danger to the public weal and to women. * * * Irrespective of the merits, friend and enemy of woman suffrage must desire a great 'turnout' of the Jersey voters on Oct. 19. Not by an indifferent electorate, not by a scanty handful of ballots, should the decision be made."

Advice to Rebels.

"American women will win the vote because their campaign has been polite, dignified and tactful."

When the barons faced King John
They were civil as could be;
Doffed the crowns they all had on—
They were well, they said, and he?
Thus their liberty was won,
Pretty manners set them free

When the commons killed the king,
Their behavior was the same.
"Yes," they said, to draw the sting,
"Really, sire, it's a shame!"
For they knew the slightest thing
Rough or rude would lose the game.

Washington was most polite
To the British long ago.
Said he fancied he was right;
But, of course, one couldn't know.
Had he tried to sulk or fight
They'd have thought him simply low.

These examples, ladies, all,
Should control your every act.
Never argue nor recall
Any crude, unwelcome fact.
Revolutions rise and fall
By the rebels' social tact.

HAMILL FAVORS WOMEN'S VOTES.

Congressman Says He Hopes New Jersey Will Grant Suffrage on Oct. 19.

Congressman James A. Hamill has come out unequivocally for woman suffrage. He says:

"I have observed with great interest and pleasure the rapidity with which women are coming into their political rights in this country. The cause of 'votes for women' is achieving the remarkable success it deserves. This success is to a large extent owing to what women have already accomplished in those parts of the country where the right to vote has been given them.

"Experience has demonstrated beyond question that they vote intelligently and for the best interests of the community. This has been especially notable where women have had the right to vote on certain questions relating to the welfare of children. The entry of women into the field of politics will have a most beneficial effect.

"I believe New Jersey should take the place it should rightly occupy in the column of progressive states by granting the right of suffrage to women. The election will be held on Oct. 19 next, and I will gladly do all in my power to help bring about the triumph of their cause."

Brashear and Edison For Suffrage.

New Jersey's greatest man, Thomas A. Edison, and Dr. John A. Brashear, Pennsylvania's "greatest citizen," are both suffragists.

In wishing other women to have suffrage both in glowing tribute give the credit to their wives.

Dr. Brashear, recently chosen by Governor M. G. Brumbaugh and Pennsylvania editors to represent Pennsylvania at the Panama exposition as its representative citizen, said, "My success in everything I attribute to my dear wife."

Dr. Brashear's second thought was the fight of other women for the right to have a voice as part of the governed in the government.

Considering this he said:

"There is no reason why a woman should not vote if she wants to.

"During the life of my wife I always desired that she should have the same privilege I was enjoying, and in November I shall certainly vote so the wives of other men shall have the privilege I wished for my own."

At a banquet given in his honor in connection with the presentation of a gold medal Mr. Edison, following glowing tributes from numerous speakers, paid a glowing tribute to his wife, to whom, he said, he owed in large part the success that had come to him.

"Every woman in this country is going to have the vote," he said. "This is certain," he added.

A Suffrage Daily.

The Daily Suffragist, the paper within a paper, made its appearance in the New Brunswick Home News during the Woman's Political Union campaign there recently. It was the idea of the editor, but the staff of the Daily Suffragist consisted of Miss Emily Pierson, Miss Alyse Gregory, reporters, and Miss Violet Dean, the editorial writer.

One notable feature of the Daily Suffragist is the support of the weather man, for the weather is "always fair."

"Woman's place is in the home, but under special privilege she is sometimes allowed to send her wages as a substitute," said Alice Duer Miller, commenting on the finding of the Michigan commission on industrial relations that thousands of wives support their husbands.

KEEP THE KIDNEYS WELL.

Health is Worth Saving, and Some Plainfield People Know How to Save It.

Many Plainfield people take their lives in their hands by neglecting the kidneys when they know these organs need help. Weak kidneys are responsible for a vast amount of suffering and ill health—the slightest delay is dangerous. Use Doan's Kidney Pills—a remedy that has helped thousands of kidney sufferers. Here is a Plainfield citizen's recommendation.

Mrs. Anthony Wahl, R. F. D. No. 1, Plainfield, says: "I had such distressing pains in my back that I could hardly stand and it was out of the question for me to stoop. I was all crippled up and I knew perfectly well that my kidneys were the cause of the trouble. Doan's Kidney Pills gave me almost immediate relief and three boxes changed me from a chronic sufferer to a healthy woman. I still take Doan's Kidney Pills occasionally, when a cold settles on my kidneys and they act as a preventive of any serious trouble."

TESTING THE VALUE OF THE KINDERGARTEN

Miss A. M. Winchester Discusses Subject In a Practical Way.

The value of the kindergarten as tested by its results is discussed by Miss A. M. Winchester in an annual review of kindergarten work just issued by the Commissioner of Education.

"For several years investigations have been undertaken in different cities," says the review, "for the purpose of ascertaining the advantage gained by children with kindergarten training over non-kindergarten children. The emphasis in these investigations has been placed usually upon the rate of speed with which the children make the successive grades."

"The fallacy of drawing conclusions from such surveys," says Miss Winchester, "is manifest at once. It is well-nigh impossible to gauge the speed correctly, because in the first grade both kindergarten and non-kindergarten children are placed together, and by the rule of uniformity which seems necessary in school systems, the teacher unconsciously standardizes the progress of her class. The laggards are brought up by dint of conscientious work, and the forward ones are held in leash, so that by the time the Fifth or Sixth grade is reached, whatever special impetus may have resulted from the child's kindergarten training has ceased to be measurable.

"In any event the permanent value of the kindergarten has little if any connection with the number of years required to go through the grades. The kindergarten's concern is with the content of the years rather than with their number; with the fullness of the life of the child rather than with the mere economy of time. Power to think and do, a tendency to assume right attitudes toward life, and ability to work and play happily with one's fellows—these are the results of training based upon the belief in education by development."

An investigation about to be undertaken by the International Kindergarten Union in this field, Miss Winchester points out, will involve making a study in several different cities of one set of children who entered kindergarten five years ago and another set in the same school who did not attend kindergarten. The records of these children will be examined with reference to their interests, attitudes, spirit toward one another, and with reference to their proficiency in school studies. The quality and spirit of the teachers of these children as well as the quality and spirit of the homes from which the children come will be taken into consideration.

HANDEL'S "MESSIAH" TO BE GIVEN AT OCEAN GROVE

Handel's Messiah is to be sung at the Ocean Grove Auditorium on Saturday evening, by the combined choirs of Tali Esen Morgan, numbering over eight hundred voices.

The soloists will be Anita Rio, Gwyn Jones, Dan Beddoe and Henri Scott. The orchestra will number sixty, and will be supplemented by the big Ocean Grove organ.

Special trains over the Pennsylvania Railroad will take thousands from New York, Newark, Elizabeth and neighboring towns. There will be morning and afternoon sections, leaving Jersey City at 8:18 and 1:40; Newark 8:35 and 1:58; Elizabeth 8:45 and 2:08. Returning, leave Asbury Park at 11:05 (express to Elizabeth, Newark and Jersey City); 11:10, first stop Rahway; 11:15, all necessary stops after Long Branch; 11:20, all stops to Atlantic Highlands.

This will be an opportunity for people from this neighborhood to spend a delightful day at Asbury Park and Ocean Grove, and hear possibly the finest rendition of the "Messiah" ever given at the auditorium.

On Labor Day night, the famous tenor, John McCormack, will give a recital in the auditorium. Special trains will run over the Jersey Central from all points, and returning after the concert.

LEHIGH WILL OPERATE SIGNALS BY ELECTRICITY

The Lehigh Valley Railroad has just made an interesting change in the method of operating and lighting the block signals over Nescopek Mountain, in the neighborhood of Wilkes-Barre, Pa. Heretofore the signals were operated by a primary battery and lighted by oil lamps. Under the new plan a storage battery will be installed along with a primary battery, and by using the one to constantly charge the other all danger of battery failure will be eliminated. At the same time it will be possible to operate the signal lights by electricity. In this connection another saving will be made. Under the old lighting system it was necessary the lights should burn all the time; by the use of electricity it can be arranged so that the lights will show safety, caution or danger only when trains are approaching.

SHRINERS TO ATTEND MASONIC FESTIVITIES

Salaam Temple and Arab Patrol Plan Trip to Atlantic City.

Salaam Temple, of Newark, with Illustrious Potentate Augustus W. Schwartz, of Elizabeth, Chief Joseph D. Lowden, with his Arab patrol, drum and bugle corps, and a company of well-drilled men, will attend the Masonic festivities which will be held in Atlantic City on Friday and Saturday, September 17 and 18. At least 100 nobles of Salaam Temple will also participate in the event, and it is expected that there will be at least 10,000 nobles present.

The big time will start on Friday, when the Knights Templar commanteries of the entire State will have a beat up under the direction of the Grand Commandery of New Jersey. There will be a parade in which about 3,000 men will participate. Competitive drills will follow and there will also be [illegible] lasting well into the night and concluding with an entertainment on the steel pier.

On Saturday there will be a ceremonial session and initiation of candidates which is held each year on the steel pier by Crescent Temple of Trenton. Thirty-five temples in nearly every section of the country have been invited to send their illustrious potentates, the other members of their divans, their bands, drum and bugle corps and their uniformed Arab patrols and as many nobles as can find it possible to make the pilgrimage to the resort.

In the parade there will be many novelties and spectacular effects. The ceremonies on the pier will be preceded by another street demonstration, which promises to be even more spectacular than that of the afternoon. For the actual Shrine session on the steel pier it is promised that Crescent Temple will eclipse any of the previous performances in Oriental splendor and novelty.

CRACK RIFLEMEN TO PARTICIPATE

National Rifle Association to Engage In Conference On Defense.

TRAINING OF CITIZENS

One of the Many Features Planned In Connection With the G. A. R. Encampment at Washington in October.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 18—Announcement today that the National Rifle Association of America will participate in the conference on National defense, which is to be held in Washington, October 4-7, will be of great interest to the veterans who will attend theencampment and the conference.

In the Union armies of the Civil War were hundreds of thousands of good shots and thousands of expert marksmen and sharpshooters. Many of these "dead shots" will attend the Washington encampment and will pay particular attention to that section of the national defense conference which will consider the training of the citizenry of this country in the use of the military rifle.

Col. John McElroy, past senior vice commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, says that training in the use of the rifle is one of the most important subjects to be considered at the conference.

"Good riflemen among the citizens are the best nucleus for our volunteer armies," declared Colonel McElroy today.

The National Rifle Association of America claims to be the oldest and most practical peace society in this country. It was organized in 1871 for the purpose of teaching the citizens of the country how to efficiently handle the army rifle, thus making its citizens capable of becoming efficient volunteers to defend their country in time of need. Officers of the association claim that if we had in this country a million citizens trained in the use of the service arm that it would be a more potent factor in the maintenance of peace than the orations of a million peace-at-any-price men. The national association receives no Federal support and its work has been maintained by the donations of patriotically inclined citizens through the taking out of life memberships. Among such men may be mentioned ex-Presidents Taft and Roosevelt, ex-Senator Root, former Secretary of State Robert Bacon, former Secretary of Navy Mayer, former Secretaries of War Dickinson and Wright, Senators Wetmore and Warren and such prominent business leaders as Judge Gary, John Wanamaker, H. C. Frick, George Westinghouse and hundreds of others. Ex-Senator Root says of the work of the N. R. A.:

"The purposes of the National Rifle Association of America are of the greatest importance and the methods by which it proposes to attain them are simple, direct and suited to American life and character."

The association is carrying on a campaign for one thousand life members, the income from the fund to be used for the promotion of rifle shooting as a recognized sport in the schools and colleges of the country.

A great impetus was given to rifle training among citizens by the passage of an act by Congress last year authorizing the free distribution of Krag rifles and ammunition to rifle clubs and the work organizing the clubs and carrying on the training was put in the hands of the National Rifle Association by the Secretary of War. Since that time over 200 clubs have been organized and to them has been issued 806 Krag rifles and 550,150 rounds of ammunition.

The National Rifle Association has asked the War Department to approve a measure for the adoption of a national policy of range construction, claiming that the proposition to train civilians of the country can never amount to anything from a national standpoint until ranges are provided where the citizens can shoot. There has been a great demand by writers on military subjects and the press in general for the adoption by this country of a modified Swiss system, but most of these writers overlook the fact that the sine qui non of that system is rifle training, the important feature of a soldier's duties which are greatly neglected in this country. Provision also must be made to furnish government rifle clubs with ammunition and target supplies as well as ranges, and army officers should be detailed as instructors and supervisors for these clubs.

At the present time there are enrolled as members of the National Rifle Association shooting under its rules and regulations, and making annual reports of their work, 500 government rifle clubs, 110 school and 57 college clubs,all training with the military rifle.

SPARKS FROM LOCOMOTIVE CAUSES $500 DAMAGE

The city fire apparatus was called out yesterday afternoon at 4:30 to extinguish a fire in the group of buildings in the rear of James B. Guttridge's store, 1101 South avenue. The conflagration evidently originated from the sparks of a passing locomotive and spread rapidly. Beside the damage done to the buildings, three wagons and a number of farming implements were totally destroyed. Mr. Guttridge places his loss at about $500.

A new motorcycle, including several new tires, belonging to Arthur Brick, the news agent at the Netherwood station, was stored in one of the buildings and was also destroyed.

In addition, Judge Beekman placed the women on two years' probation.

Judge Beekman also transferred two hotel licenses, one being that of Hillaire C. Blatz to Frederick S. Moore, at Hotel Chatham, North Plainfield, and the other being that of D. B. Hoffman to Charles B. Stemdt for the hotel at Kingston.

PAN-AMERICAN NOTE REMAINS UNANSWERED

Washington, Aug. 18—The Mexican "manana" is delaying responses to the Pan-American peace appeal, officials here thought today. No formal reply has come from any of the Mexican leaders. That Carranza is planning to crush Villa's army before answering, was believed by many.

Disaffection in Villa's ranks is reported. Recent wholesale executions are said to have been prompted by conspiracies against him.

Gen. Funston reported all quiet on the border today.

The gunboat Sacramento, delayed by a storm, was due to dock today, with the Brazilian and Guatemalan ministers, at New Orleans.

THREE YOUTHS ALLEGED TO HAVE STOLEN CYCLE

Some good sleuthing on the part of Florence O'Sullivan, Scotch Plains chief of police, this morning resulted in the capture of three alleged motorcycle thieves, solving a problem that had been troubling the authorities of that place for twelve hours. Warren McCauley, of Bartle avenue, reported to the police this morning that his new $300 Hartley-Davidson motorcycle had been stolen from the shed in the rear of his house some time during the night.

Policeman O'Sullivan suspected Henry Swabach, a youth living in the 'Plains, and upon questioning him, learned, it is said, that he had been implicated in the theft, together with C. Pullock and Patsy Columbus, two other Scotch Plains boys. The last two were arrested near Roselle, while riding a freight train, and were brought back to the 'Plains by O'Sullivan this afternoon. All three will be arraigned in the morning.

THIS AUTOMOBILE HAS SEEN HARD USAGE

The attention of hundreds of local people was attracted this morning by an oddly-shaped automobile which bore a Michigan license and which was driven by Robert H. Miller, a representative of the Kellogg Ink Company. The car, which is a Ford, is made in the shape of a tube, the upper section being built absolutely of steel. The trip from Detroit was begun on January 8, Miller being the sole member of the party. From Detroit he went through Toledo and Cleveland to Erie where he encountered rough "sledding." From Erie to Westfield, N. Y., a distance of 30 miles, the trip occupied about ten hours, the slushy condition of the roads causing considerable delay. The engine did not stall once although the car, with its addition of 600 pounds of advertising steel, sunk up to the axles in the mire. However, he arrived in Buffalo without mishap and went from there to New York city, where he remained two months after which he motored back to Detroit and then East again to Newark. From there he came to this city and will leave tomorrow for New Brunswick.

He has been in the State of Texas during the past winter and can tell many interesting tales of that region.

In the region of Roye and Lassigny conflicts with bombs petards occurred. In the Argonne at Haute Chevauchee, at Fontaine Aux Charmes and in the forest of Cheppy.

"Our bombardment yesterday of the German position in the region of Linge destroyed two heavy batteries and blew up several ammunition depots. On the crest of Sondermach two new and violent counter attacks launched last night against the positions conquered by us yesterday were completely repulsed. We took 50 prisoners."

That the Democracy will not have to use any undue persuasion to secure an Assembly candidate from outside Elizabeth was made certain on Saturday when Patrick J. Revilie, a former councilman of Plainfield, announced that he would seek a nomination on the Democratic ticket. Mr. Reville was mentioned as a candidate for the postmastership of the Queen City last fall, but another got the job on recommendation of United States Senator Martine. The Democrats prefer one candidate for the Assembly to be from outside this city to add geographical strength to the ticket.—Elizabeth Journal.

John M. Rhodabeck, of Newark, has been appointed a general deputy by Internal Revenue Collector Charles V. Duffy and assigned to the office of Internal Revenue Agent David K. Donaldson, of the Elizabeth district. The appointee has been active in the Woodrow Wilson Democratic League, and was the only Essex delegate to the Baltimore convention, who was pledged to Wilson for President.

PITCH-OUT POOR AS GENERAL RULE

So Says Manager Jennings In Talking About Waste Ball.

HE LAUDS EDDIE FOSTER.

Declares Washington's Third Baseman Is the Only Reliable Hit and Run Batter In American League—Cobb Greatest Hitter.

When should a catcher call for a pitch-out? Is the waste ball a good defense?

These two questions were shot at Hugh Jennings, Detroit's fiery manager, recently. His reply was:

"There is only one out and out reliable hit and run batter in the American league. That is Eddie Foster, Washington's third baseman. With only one such consistent hit and runner, why should catchers be so prone to call for pitch-outs?

"Two of the best catchers who ever lived were Duke Farrell and Wilbert Robinson. Seldom did either call for a pitch-out except when Willie Keeler was at bat, for he could hit to any field.

"My belief is that the waste ball should be called for but rarely, and never if the pitcher shows a tendency to be wild. There is an opposite rule to be followed as well, which is never hit and run when the pitcher is wild, as a base on balls is much more to be desired than the chance of poking a ball through vacated territory.

"I have known instances where there was a wild pitcher in the box and the team at bat hung out the hit and run sign so that it could be read by a blind man. Why? They wanted the catcher to see the sign and to call for pitch-outs, knowing it was a hard job for the pitcher to get it over as it was and that a few waste balls would have him up in the air completely and either passing the batteries or grooving the ball for them.

"Of course I do not know much about the National league batters, so I cannot speak for the old league. But I do know that the batters in our league do not practice the hit and run. Ty Cobb is the greatest hitter the world has known, but he is no hit and run batter for the reason he has not given it any attention to speak of. The tendency of all the would be hit and run batters is to hit the ball as hard as they can and trust to luck to it going safely. The true hitter and runner like Foster, however, has the knack of just meeting the ball and making a real effort to hit it through the territory vacated by the fielder who goes to cover the base.

"But up to date the hit and run play as it is attempted in the American league is little to be feared."

INFORMATION'S REAL JOB.

The purpose of all the branches of the telephone business is to furnish the means whereby one person may be put in conversational touch with another at request. The Information bureau is one of the most essential means of accomplishing this and its use is an indispensable asset in the service that we render. Its abuse, however, impedes the service, and hence the elimination of this surprisingly common practice is extremely important. Every time a call comes to Information on a matter not related to the business of completing a telephone connection, there is a chance that it may interfere with or delay an important transaction along the legitimate lines of Information business, and in any case the mass of questions regarding matters entirely foreign to telephone business forms a sort of incubus riding the efficiency of the Information bureau at the behest of an unthinking public.

Evidently a large proportion of the telephone-using public labors under the delusion that "Information" is a delightful convenience placed at the service of the public by an altruistic telephone company, but having no essential connection with the telephone business. In one Information office in New York City a record was kept of some of the more unusual questions asked of the operators, and the list is amazing, though probably not more so than a similar record from any other Information bureau in the city.

"Who is considered the 'Onion King' in the Stock Exchange?" Perhaps it was a budding financier, or a contemplative gardener, but in either case his idea of the telephone business seems to have been in need of a few friendly and enlightening suggestions.

Possibly it was a Mrs. Newlywed who inquired, "Has —— Department Store a grocery department?" If so, she might profit by a lesson in the use of the Telephone Directory and the sound advice that if you want to know what a certain store carries, no one can tell you better than the store.

One bashful swain turns for counsel and advice to Information and stammeringly asks, "Is it appropriate to wear a blue serge suit and tan shoes to a 'Graduation,' or is a full dress suit necessary?"

"A check was returned to me stamped 'No funds.' What does this mean?" This seeker of knowledge evidently knows as little about the Telephone Company as about the proper use of the Information bureau; what should any employee of the company know of worthless checks?

Another kind of paper, perhaps not less valuable, interests the scribe who bashfully inquires, "How many sheets in a ream?"

"What boats take freight to Baltimore?" "Are the banks open on holidays like Lincoln's Birthday?" "What is the difference between New York and Chicago time?" "What part of New York is called the Tenderloin?" "Is it raining in Paterson now?" "Do you know anything about the Labor Law?"

These are actual questions, taken verbatim from the record of one office. If the Telephone Information bureau were a place to obtain all the information which could be procured by telephoning anywhere, there could hardly be a greater variety in the questions which pour in. Whether it is really a case of misunderstanding of what the purpose of the Information bureau is, or utter carelessness and disregard, or mere mischief—and it is probably all three and more—the remedy is the same. The public must be shown. They must be made to see and understand how futile it is to abuse Information in this way. A clear idea that Information exists to facilitate the completion of desired telephone connections, that it exists for that and that only, would soon put an effective quietus upon the practice.—The Telephone Review, New York.

It Pays to Secure a Tenant Who Pays.

The uncertain sort of tenant is easy to find. He is always answering the call of the window sign of "To Let." He is easy to please. Even a rather high rental does not frighten him away.

But the Stay-and-Pay tenant is not so easy to secure. He is surer of what he wants. He does not take the first house, or apartment, or store that he finds. He watches and answers "To Let" Ads.

And to secure him for your tenant is a good day's work—a good week's work.

Property that is advertised adequately in the Plainfield Daily Press is rarely rented injudiciously.

RACER'S WIFE CAN DRIVE MACHINE, TOO

Mr. and Mrs. Dario Resta.

Mrs. Dario Resta, wife of the famous automobile racer who recently broke the world's record for 100 miles in Chicago, is something of a driver herself. The accompanying picture was made in Chicago the other day while Mrs. Resta was driving her husband to the track, whereon little later he made the new speed record.

COMPTON STEPS INTO THE LAW'S ...ED AGAINST FEDS

American association club owners are taking a great deal of satisfaction in the fact that attorneys for the St. Louis Federal league club have given up the fight to keep Pete Compton, who flopped from the Kansas City American association team. This means that the law will not permit the Feds to make raids on the association clubs which use the same sort of a contract which Compton had with Kansas City.

Classified advertising does not work miracles—it merely brings logical results. And these are more to be desired than miracles.

Compare the COST of holding tenant-less property with the cost of enough advertising to rent it—and decide the matter in a business way.

It's hard to be an optimist on the day your tenant leaves. But prompt recourse to classified advertising will soon ... things to rights again.

If "To Let" advertisements did not, in the great ... of cases, bring results, there would be no such ad... printed. They would become obsolete.

Plainfield, N. J., Aug. 18, 1915.

The final act in a tragedy marked by race hatred and blood-lust on the part of Leo M. Frank's persecutors has brought shame and disgrace on the whole State of Georgia. It will be years, if ever, before that State will be able to blot from the memory of the people of this country the dark page in its history made possible by the lynching of Frank. That there was a country-wide doubt as to the guilt of the victim of the Georgia outlaws is an established fact, and the putting to death of a man under such circumstances as witnessed in the Southern State, Monday night, makes people stop and wonder whether there is such a thing as law and order in this country. Under the caption, "Georgia On Trial,"' The New York Herald of today says:

"What is Georgia going to do about it?

"Is there manhood enough in the law-respecting citizenry of that great State, is there strength enough in its government to see that prompt and condign punishment is meted out to the murderers of Leo M. Frank?

"Frank was in the custody of the responsible authority of Georgia and should have had at any cost every protection that the power of its government can exercise. His murder is a crime against the State. On the surface it looks very much as if the government of Georgia cannot be absolved of direct responsibility for this crime. In the savage attack made upon this man by a fellow prisoner, in the open threats at Marietta and at Atlanta that he would yet be 'got,' the State authorities had ample warning that more than ordinary precaution must be taken against just such a crime as was committed yesterday. Manifestly such precaution was not given. The ease with which a mob of a few men 'overpowered' the prison officials shows that the protection was inadequate, even if it does not warrant suspicion of collusion.

"There can be no doubt that the identity of many, if not all, of Frank's murderers is known to other persons at Marietta and elsewhere in Georgia.

"What is Georgia going to do about it?"

Some God-fearing men are looking for a new faith after the great world war, a faith which will take the place of present-day Christianity. But whatever that faith is, if it is the true faith, it will be the same gospel which the disciples of the Master knew at Pentecost and which being taught by evangelical workers like Billy Sunday, and it will have a deeper, newer meaning than the re[illegible] today.

[illegible] thinking men has come [illegible] present-day Christianity. They charge that Christians have cultivated a false patriotism. They say they have placed love of country above love of God; devotion to the State before devotion to the church; that true loyalty to them means an absolute faith in their national policies and a willingness to sacrifice their all—even their lives—to express this loyalty, while forgetting the things above. To these, say their accusers, the welfare of the nation is of supreme importance.

Be that as it may, it is true that the patriotism of Christians has found expression in the generalities of religion. Social service has taken the place of Christian charity. Education and culture have been cultivated to the exclusion of Christian teaching. An adherence to ethics, law and jurisprudence has usurped the place of the gospel of love, justice, humility and mercy. Treaties and peace pacts have been considered infallible. Ceremony and ritual, even though unconsciously followed in many cases, have dulled men's senses to the true spirit of the Christian religion. The State has been made to stand first in men's hearts, and to serve God best is to serve country first.

If this new faith comes it should be more than the moral and spiritual revival of present-day religion. It should be a religion of love, primarily of love—love of God for man and love of man for his fellows:

The announcement that Levis M. Booth has consented to become the Republican candidate for councilman in the Second ward, has been received with much satisfaction by voters throughout that ward as well as the city in general. Mr. Booth is a successful business man and should he be elected, and there now appears to be no doubt of this, he will be a valuable member of the city's governing body. His business has brought him in touch with many municipal problems which cannot fail to be of the greatest possible benefit to the city. The action of the Second ward Republicans in voting to request the city committee to bring about the nomination of Councilman R. A. Claybrook, Democrat, as a Republican candidate, will also receive the endorsement of a majority of the voters in the city.

PENNSYLVANIA LINE FILES $65,000,000 LIEN IN UNION

Elizabeth, Aug. 18.—County Register Frank Smith received yesterday from the Pennsylvania Railroad a general mortgage in book form, which is said to be the largest document of its kind ever filed in Union county.

It is given by the company to the Gerard Trust Company, of Philadelphia, and William N. Ely, trustee, to secure $65,000,000 worth of bonds which are to be used to retire convertible three and one-half per cent. gold bonds, due October 1, 1915, and also to secure bonds for the track improvements now being made along its lines.

It is filed here because of the company's holdings in Union county.

RAILROAD APPEALS DECISION AFFECTING LAW ON PASSES

Trenton, Aug 18.—The action of Judge Carrick, of the First District Court of Jersey City, holding that the validity of the pass law could not be tested in an action for debt, in the suit of the Pennsylvania Railroad against L. Edward Herrmann, private secretary to Governor Fielder, will be reviewed by the Supreme Court. Notice of the appeal has been served upon Mr. Herrmann, the intention of the railroad being to test the constitutionality of the law under which the State issues passes to a large number of officials.

In the suit against Mr. Herrmann the railroad sought to recover approximately $400, contending that the issuance of the pass to him is illegal.

Wherever there is one, there is the other.

Bad weather is always unusual, the natives say; but the homesick stranger says the weather there is always bad.

The weather man lies on the weather in advance, the real estate man lies on it afterward. Fools rely on it.

Nobody who hasn't kept a record knows anything whatever about weather as far back as day-before-yesterday, so every bit of weather we see surprises us.

We'll bet Methuselah said, every year of his 969, after he was old enough to talk, that "This climate sure is changing. I can remember when there was good sleighing every winter from early December to the middle of March."

Methuselah probably did not live 969 years.

He stayed perhaps in a boarding house and called it a year every time he felt like it was.

HEALTH TALKS

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

The Making of Drug Habitués

THERE is ample evidence that a craving for alcohol is transmitted from parent to child. Certain it is that the pernicious practice of giving children and young adults alcoholic beverages in the guise of medicine tends to establish a desire for alcohol as a drink. Of course the parent who likes alcohol finds many excuses for administering the stuff as a "stimulant," "tonic," "warming" or "cooling" drink—none of which it is in fact.

But whence comes the desire for opium, morphin and similar drugs, which so many unfortunates develop early in life?

We know of one very common cause, and that is the use of nostrums containing small quantities of these narcotics in the course of infancy and childhood. There are "soothing syrups" galore, laden with opium and morphin; "cough cures" by the score with a never-failing knock-out dose of opium, morphin, codein or heroin concealed in their alluring depths; headache tablets and powers incorporating coal tar narcotics or analgesics like acetanilid, phenacetin, acetphenetidin and the like. These pleasant dopes go a long way toward establishing a dependence or reliance upon the sense-deadening power of drugs. Where the conscienceless doctor makes one morphin fiend with his too ready hypodermic syringe, these popular nostrums make hundreds of drug habitués.

In the United States the so-called "Pure Food and Drugs Act of June 30, 1906" gives no defence against the incorporation of narcotic drugs in patent medicines. It simply requires that the amount of the narcotic shall be printed on the label, so that you may know how much dope you are taking for your trivial symptoms.

The more recent anti-narcotic law limits the quantity of dope to a certain arbitrary maximum per ounce of medicine, but still permits the nostrum manufacturer to sell morphin, opium, codein, heroin and so forth to the public indiscriminately, while denying that privilege to the licensed physician. The medical profession, you must understand, maintains no lobby at Washington, whereas the proprietary medicine manufacturers are generally there with bells on to protect their right to dope the people.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Bunion

I have a bunion of some six years' standing. What kind of operation would cure it? Is the bone, or just the flesh, operated on? Would it be dangerous?

Answer—The radical cure consists of excision or removal of the heads of both bones entering into the formation of the joint, permitting restoration of fairly normal conditions. The operation is less dangerous than the bunion itself is. Two weeks of disability, and perhaps three or four weeks of more or less difficulty in walking, usually follow the operation, but the final results are very satisfactory.

St. Vitus' Dance

My daughter, fourteen, has had St. Vitus' Dance for three weeks. The doctor prescribed some arsenical medicine. Is that a good remedy? How long should it take for her to get well? Should she be idle or keep at work during the treatment?

Answer—It is a good remedy. She may recover in three months or it may take much longer, according to her own recuperative powers. Generally rest, with only such exercise as the doctor deems safe for the heart, is the right management.

EFFICIENCY

EFFICIENCY is being used as a substitute for religion in a great many quarters.

Efficiency saves money, time, material, temper, strength, health, nerves and thought.

The efficient man wastes none of these things. He studies while shaving, learns to chin himself while hanging from a street car strap, makes ten figures this week with the same number of motions he used in making nine last week and endorses his salary check over to the butcher in order to save ink.

The efficient woman boils the eggs in the coffee, installs a cost accounting system in the house which calculates the overhead charges on a graphophone needle and trains the baby to cry only when it can act as an alarm clock.

Efficiency has worked wonders in this country. It has enabled men to work twice as hard without knowing it and to look upon a sneeze with regret as something which is wasted energy.

It has filled the land with educated and talented cows and alfalfa fields which grow so fast that the farmer has to put up a string to tell where he has mowed. Even the lovers are efficient nowadays. Most of them join motion-picture companies where they can draw a salary for spooning.

Efficiency has gotten into the churches. The minister who cannot show a five-mile daily pedometer reading while making calls is not covering the field; while the school teacher who can't save enough on $55 a month to spend her vacation acquiring two new sciences for additional work is below the normal of efficiency and can expect to receive the jingling insignia of the order of the tin can.

We are so efficient nowadays, that the man who gets tired of it all and blows his highly organized

In case he misses himself with his revolver, he will kill a rat brains out, usually tries to plan the deed so that in case he misses himself with his revolver he will kill a rat.

Efficiency is a fine thing, but until we are allowed to kill the inefficients, they are going to look at the efficients with more or less dislike and claim at least standing room on the earth in words which burn like concentrated lye. Efficiency is getting to be about as fatal to the man who isn't built that way as a dose of rough on rats.

Measuring Spelling Ability

SEVEN out of every 100 third-grade public school children cannot spell "has." This and other curious evidences of the special problems inherent in the teaching of spelling are brought out by Dr. Leonard P. Ayres, of the Russell Sage Foundation, in a study just published.

As a result of combining the four most extensive studies that have been made to identify the words commonly used in different sorts of English writing, Dr. Ayres has selected the 1,000 words that constitute ninety per cent. of the language ordinarily used. This selection was made from various English authors, from four Sunday newspapers of Buffalo, N. Y., and from the business and family correspondence of over 2,000 adults. The objects of the study was to "develop a scale for measuring attainment in the spelling of common words on the part of school children."

Co-operating with the city superintendents in eighty-four cities of the United States, Dr. Ayres had the 1,000 commonest words tested by an aggregate of 1,400,000 spellings, secured from 70,000 public school children. The result, according to Dr. Ayres, made it possible to accurately measure spelling ability, and to compute the amount of improvement in spelling the same words from grade to grade.

By a scale arrangement, extending on a line from 0 to 100, "spelling ability" is easily and scientifically determined. For example, nine words of most frequent use, viz.: "the," "in," "so," "no," "now," "man," "bed," "top," revealed that second-grade pupils, on an average, spelled correctly ninety-four per cent. of these words. At the other extreme of the scale the words "judgment," "recommend," and "allege" were found to be spelled correctly by just fifty per cent. of eighth-grade pupils. Percentages above and below these would indicate variations from the normal in spelling.

Dr. Ayres finds that "intellectual abilities are distributed in much the same way among people as are physical traits. Just as there are few dwarfs, many people of medium height, and very few giants; so there are very few exceedingly poor spellers, many medium ones, and very few excellent ones. Few words do most of our work when we write. Fifty words constitute, with their repetitions, one-half of the words written. The child who masters the 1,000 words on the scale given will make no spelling errors in nine-tenths of his writing. — Oswego Daily Palladium.

Get A Lawyer

Q. I had occasion recently to buy a blank form of a chattel mortgage, intending to fill it out, but I have since learned that such forms are not always correct. May one rely on legal blanks purchased at a stationery store?

A. Such forms are of a general character and do not always suit the individual case. It would be better to let your lawyer fill out the blank, even if you purchase it yourself.

What's In A Name?

The landlord took out the doors and windows of the smaller store and also the door opening into the stairway. Taxation On Property

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

Why the Gorilla Ran Through the The Jungle.

He started through the jungle.

"SOMETIMES a little bit of a creature can scare a big one so badly that the big one doesn't know whether he's on his feet or his head," said daddy. "And that reminds me of a funny story, kiddies, which will show you just what I mean.

"Have you ever heard of the big gorilla that lives in the jungle? No? Well, I'll tell you about him.

"He lives away over in Africa. Africa, you know, children, is a continent like America, in which we live, but it is very hot there.

"It is so very hot in Africa that the people do not wear much clothing. They are negroes, and they have to be careful lest the elephants step on them, or a rhinoceros gore them with his horn, or a hippopotamus grab them in his big mouth, or a lion or a tiger eat them all up.

"One of the most curious creatures living in the jungle (the jungle, kiddies, is a tangled growth of trees and undergrowth and creepers so dense that often the sunshine cannot creep in at all) is the gorilla. The gorilla is a sort of great big monkey that walks on his hind feet and is so strong that he can break great branches of the trees as if they were twigs, and his arms are so long that his fingers reach nearly to the ground when he is walking. The gorilla is a terrible creature.

"Well, I will tell you about a particular gorilla that got up out of the wrong side of the bed one morning. A gorilla's bed, I suspect, is in a tree. This gorilla was very cross and snappish that morning, and he looked just fiendish. His mean little eyes sparkled like a dog's when it is angry.

"But the other animals kept out of his way, for the strongest of animals respect the fighting powers of the gorilla. An elephant wouldn't have minded probably, but there were no elephants around just then. Even Brother Lion, the king of beasts, saw that gorilla coming, and he just 'hiked,' which is to say that he left just as soon as he could, for even a lion has respect for an angry gorilla, I can tell you.

"Then that gorilla, seeing the other animals get away when they saw him coming, felt that he was the boss of the jungle, and he stood and broke some branches and roared, much as a boastful rooster would crow.

"But suddenly he looked ahead and was scared, and he ran away.

"What had made him run? Just an advancing drove of little black ants, hardly as big as pencil points, but millions of them. But every animal is deadly afraid of them, for they eat everything they reach, and you can't help yourself. So that gorilla did well to run, didn't he?"

Glimpses of Married Life

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

Dick's mother adjusted her glasses and gazed at her husband as if he were an unusual and very rare phenomenon.

"So you thought that fifty years of following the plough had qualified you to be a judge of investments," she said at last, as he squirmed under the gaze she had pinned him with. "And now you want to throw more money down this hole in the ground."

"The money was mine," began her husband in a feeble attempt to stem the tide of eloquence rolling in on him.

"So it was, so it was. The first windfall you ever had, a clean thousand, and because you hadn't broken your back or calloused your hands to get it, you thought it wasn't worth keeping. 'Easy come, easy go'; well——"

"It seemed that it was a good chance to invest and make a tidy sum for the little shaver," interrupted her husband in an apologetic tone.

"Don't you know, Harlow Morton, that investing is a business that it takes a sound head and years of experience to master?" asked the old lady severely.

"Dick said——"

"Dick!" scoffed that young man's mother. "Where did that whippersnapper get so much wisdom that he takes it upon himself to advise his father? And if there were such telling arguments in favor of this investment, why so much secrecy? What you are not ashamed of can usually be discussed in the open." This was evidently the point that rankled.

"I thought I had a right to do as I pleased with what was given to me, but when it comes to taking money that we both have earned, money that's as much yours as mine, of course I wouldn't touch that without your approval." His tone was conciliatory.

"What you want to know is whether I am willing to have $50 of our small income sent on to those swindlers to deepen a hole in the ground. One thing is certain, the more they dig out the deeper the hole will be."

"I know, but if we don't pay the assessment we forfeit our stock."

"Don't say 'our stock,'" snapped the old lady. "I don't own any stock, wasn't consulted about buying any. Isn't there any way to find out how much of this precious assessment sticks to the pockets of the men running this company? As for consenting tamely to send in $50 every time they decide they would like that amount, I shall never do it. If there is any way to find out that they are honest and have a fair chance of success in sinking these wells, I'd say try and keep your slim chance of getting your money back. I never thought you were one to be drawn into such doings, and Dick was brought up not to take risks in order to get rich quick. The whole country is infected with the unrest; more than I thought when quiet, respectable people, old enough to know better, are drawn into these wildcat schemes."

She had talked herself quiet and silence reigned.

"You tell Richard," she began after a pause, "to do what he should have done in the first place: find out all he can about the personal character of those men, whether they are responsible or not, whether they can be held to account——"

"Oh, he inquired. He found they were prominent business men of Kansas City," began the old man.

"If an investigation were started, if the shareholders all refused to pay any assessment until a thorough accounting was made and they had approved their reasons for boring to China in that particular spot, that at least would give time to think things over," she continued, ignoring his interruption.

"Write to Dick to come down here," she added after a silence. "We want to see the baby anyway."

Household Hints

TO MAKE VIENNA ROLLS

Set a plain bread sponge at 6 o'clock in the evening. At bedtime make a dough as for homemade bread. Cover in mixing bowl and set in moderately warm place until 5 o'clock next morning. Make into round rolls as large as a small egg, set in floured baking pan so far apart that they will not touch as they rise; cover and leave for an hour. Just before they go into the oven cut half through the middle of each with a floured sharp knife. Bake in moderate oven to form a good crust. Cover at end of ten minutes with paper. Remove this fifteen minutes later and brown.

THOSE SPOTS OF ROAD GREASE

During a recent automobile tour one woman was unfortunate enough to have her new white serge suit thoroughly spotted with the road oil which had been applied to the road that day.

Upon her return to the city she took the suit and rubbed lard into each of the spots, and then folded the suit and laid it away for several hours.

A thorough washing with warm water and soap removed all the stains and left the suit as good as new.

SALAD RECIPES

Orange Salad—Arrange sliced oranges on delicate lettuce leaves and sprinkle with chopped celery and broken English walnuts. Serve with a mayonnaise made without mustard and whitened with whipped cream.

Sweet Peach Salad—Peel and split ripe peaches, put them on a mat of tender lettuce, then sprinkle over finely chopped butternuts and dress with rum, fine sugar and a little lemon juice, if the taste is liked. This may also be served with a whipped cream mayonnaise.

Assorted Fruit Salad—Prepare finely cut celery with the shredded whites of hard-boiled eggs. Mash the yolks to a smooth paste with skinned and boned sardines, and shape the mixture into balls, dipping them at last into a little of the dry yolk so as to make them a rich yellow. Dress the celery and egg whites with French dressing or mayonnaise, put the mixture on a bed of lettuce and use the balls as a garnish.

Whole Tomato Salad—Scald some large, fully ripe and yet firm tomatoes; remove skins and put them against the ice for several hours. Put a whole tomato on one or two lettuce leaves, dress with well chilled mayonnaise and serve in this individual manner. This salad is meat and drink in point of nutriment, and many persons find it quite enough for the substantial dish of a summer night tea.

Fish Salad—A delicious salad which is yet something out of the regular couse is made of Bismarck herrings, three of which would make a dish large enough for several persons. Put the herrings in a bowl and cover them with a dressing made of olive oil, cayenne, horseradish and sliced white onion; add a tablespoonful of sauce and one of walnut catsup. After the fish has soaked some time in the dressing, arrange it in a bed of lettuce finely shredded with the fingers, and pour over the sauce. Another good fish salad can be made with one salt herring and six Bermuda potatoes. Boil the potatoes in their skins, let them get cold and slice fine. Then wash off the herring, peel it of skin and shred it in fine, short strips. Mix the fish and potato, and then dress with olive oil, vinegar, salt, pepper, adding a tablespoonful of finely chopped chives. Be careful of salt with all fish salads.

Pickled Mussels Salad—Line a bowl with thin strips of hard toast, then put in a pile of pickled mussels, dressing with oil and vinegar in which some sliced onion has soaked for a while. The mussels can be had bottled, and all the good fish stores keep the freshly prepared ones once the season for them arrives. Add enough of the pickle liquid to moisten the toast.

At the meeting of the Inter-State Campaign Committee in Orange on August 12, Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, chairman of the Empire State Campaign Committee, which directs the suffrage work of New York State, was asked, "Which of the four campaign States is surest to win?" Having just heard their reports, Mrs. Catt replied without hesitation, "All of them."

If Lucy Stone, near whose old home in Orange the meeting was held, could have seen the assurance of victory, she would have rejoiced. Her daughter, Alice Stone Blackwell, president of the Massachusetts Suffrage Association, was there to see it for her. "We have always had a strong pro-suffrage group among the voters of Massachusetts," she said, "and now with our splendid organization we cannot fail to win. The manufacturing towns are strong for votes for women."

Mrs. Frank Roessing, president of the Pennsylvania Suffrage Association, said she based her belief in victory on the fact that Pennsylvania women want the vote and are willing to work for it. "It is the European war which has awakened them," she said. "They see what may befall a country with a low ideal of democracy."

Mrs. E. F. Feickert, president of the New Jersey Suffrage Association, said: "We base our hope of success on the splendid co-operation among the suffrage workers all over the State, of which the fact that women are here today from nineteen counties is conclusive evidence, on the lack of opposition among the men of New Jersey and on the rallying of a large number of newspapers to our support."

Reply to Certain Fears.

The Men's Anti-Suffrage League of New Jersey fear for the child and the home if women are allowed to vote. Governor Boyle, of Nevada, writes as follows:

"Since November, numerous incorporated municipalities have held elections throughout the State, but no State-wide elections have been held. For the municipal elections a very large percentage of the women entitled to vote registered and the great majority of those who registered appeared at the polls and voted.

"The women of the State have taken an active and intelligent interest in all public questions. They have shown no tendency toward revolutionary methods in government.

"I have been an observer of equal suffrage in adjoining Western States where, after a trial of the syystem covering years, no one seriously considers a return to the old order of things.

"Men are more numerous than women here and there is no place in the world where women are held in higher respect than in the West. We have given Western women suffrage as a matter of simple justice and the women themselves have embraced the right to a voice in public affairs in such a manner as to effectively disprove the silly arguments that they could not use this voice without a sacrifice of their womanly qualities."

These are facts versus pro-phetical fears.

In running over the list of the early Suffragists do we find anti-child tendencies?

Said Alice Stone Blackwell, speaking of her mother, Lucy Stone; "She was the best mother in the world."

The children of Lucretia Mott and Julia Ward Howe pay the same glowing tribute to those other early suffrage mothers, making at least three "best" mothers in the world!" Now are suffrage mothers of today neglecting their children. Suffrage is bringing children and mothers together even as it brings husbands and wives into closer intellectual contact.

Suffrage mothers are ardently teaching the new generation that they arecitizens in a great democ; they are citizens in a great democ the lesson—"we want no special privileges, not even those pertaining to sex. Every sane adult citizen should possess the franchise and use it for the good of our beloved country." This is neither anti-child nor anti-social. "The woman suffrage cause is so one with civilization and humanity that I wonder any civilized man can be against it," said William Dean Howell. But forgetting all other arguments what are Democrats thinking about when they praise self government with one breath and in the next breath deny nearly half the people of the democracy a share in the government? Perhaps as the anti-suffrage gentlemen claim, men are making better laws for women than women can make for themselves. This may or may not be true, but in any case it is not self-government.

EDUCATOR'S NOTEBOOK

Washington—In round numbers there were 22,000,000 persons enrolled in educational institutions in the United States in 1914, according to the annual report of the Commissioner of Education, just issued. Of this number, 10,000,000 were in elementary schools, 1,374,000 in secondary schools both public and private, and 216,000 in colleges and universities. Close to another 100,000 were in normal schools preparing to be teachers, 67,000 were in professional schools, and the remainder were scattered through other types of institutions. The teachers for this educational army numbered 700,000, of whom 566,000 were in the public schools. The cost of education for the year was $756,000,000. Not the least interesting of the data shown, as indicating the progress of education, is the rapid growth of the public High School. The enrollment for 1914 is greater by over 84,000 than the year before. The cost of education, according to the Commissioner, is less by $300,000,000 than the cost of running the Federal government; is less than one-third the nation's expenditure for liquor, and is only a little over three times the cost of admissions to moving picture theatres in the United States.

Boston—The proposed transfer of the $5,000,000 fund left to Harvard University, under the will of the late Gordon McKay, to the Massachusetts Institute of Technology will not be objected to by the State, according to Attorney-General Attwill, who renders the opinion that the transfer will be a public benefit. The fund was designed to establish and forever maintain a school of industrial arts and sciences. The will said the school should teach particularly mechanics, chemistry, electricity, physics, engineering, manufacturing and commerce. The will authorized Harvard to erect buildings for the School. With its new buildings on the bank of the Charles River, Technology was particularly fitted to carry out the idea intended, and the trustees have asked permission to transfer the fund.

Oakland, Cal.—The great annual congress of educators, under the banner of the N. E. A., is in session here. Attracted by the wide scope of the program, as well as the opportunity to view the great Exposition—in itself a great triumph of education—an unusually large attendance has registered at headquarters. The many branches of the association have arranged interesting programs. Tomorrow the School Garden Association will hold the opening session of their three-day program. The International Kindergarten Union will also hold meetings during the ensuing four days, and the National Council of Teachers of English will convene tomorrow. Next week the American School Peace League, the National Association of Teachers' Agencies, the National Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teachers' Associations, the Association of State Superintendents, the National Association for the Study and Education of Exceptional Children, the American Home Economics Association, the Religious Education Association and the National Association of State Universities will each hold their annual sesseins here.

Madison, Wis.—The manual arts' department of the University of Wisconsin has begun a new course in cutting, polishing and mounting semi-precious stones. Artistic work has already been done by the first students.

Dubuque, Ia.—The local Board of Education will employ two teachers, whose work will consist in the care and instruction of children who do not profit by class instruction, but need individual attention. The new work will not be confined entirely to the backward children, but will be used to aid in advancing those who learn faster than the normal. The idea is to take care of four groups of children who were not heretofore provided for: the clearly defective child, the child who is in no way defective but is slow and backward, the child who has been absent from school through illness or other cause, and the especially brilliant child.

Los Angeles—In one of the public schools there are enrolled 1,000 children, all but 5 per cent of whom are foreigners. In order to get the foreign children to school, they were told to bring the babies with them. Many of the foreign children are "little mothers," who must care for the babies while their mothers work to support the family.

Among the bridesmaids are Miss Elizabeth Dallas, of Philadelphia; Miss Della Bowen, of New York, and Miss Cecily Rodgers, of Columbus, O. ∴ Plainfield Theatre ∴

In his latest dramatic success, "The Law of the Land," with Adelaide French in the title role, and which comes to the Plainfield Theatre, Saturday afternoon and night, George Broadhurst, the author of it, has neglected nothing that might contribute to the popularity of his latest thriller. As a promoter of thrills Mr. Broadhurst has few equals and in his new contribution he has out-distanced all of his past performances. Stirring in the dramatic melting pot are such ingredients as a brutal father, a light comedy secretary, a "pussy foot pet" butler, an hysterical wife, a lover, a child, a tragedy, a comedy police inspector, and a mystery running throughout the play which does not have its solution or the slightest inkling of it until the very final curtain falls. An exceptionally strong cast has been engaged to support Miss French and among them are Coates Gwynne.

- Proctor's Theatre -

Gaby Deslys, the celebrated international star, and the sensation of two continents, makes her first and exclusive appearance in moving pictures at Proctor's Theatre this afternoon and tonight. Harry Pilcer, a dancing partner of Mlle. Deslys', is also in the cast of this production entitled "Her Triumph." Other pictures worthy of note are on the program for this evening.

John Emerson, the popular character actor, appears tomorrow at the Proctor house, afternoon and evening, in the four-part picturization of the famous sentimental comedy entitled, "The Bachelor's Romance." Mr. Emerson's unique portrayal of the retiring and kindly bachelor is one of the most delicate and artistic characterizations ever contributed to the screen. The role of "Sylvia" in this comedy-drama is sympathetically delineated by Loraine Huling. The production is one that will long be pleasantly remembered by the most critical of the followers of the "movie" world.

Ella Hall, in the four-part Universal production, "Heritage," is scheduled for Friday, with "Driven By Fate," as the feature picture for Saturday. "The Rosary," a seven-reel Selig play that is good as many sermons, will appear at the Proctor house Monday with no advance in prices.

--U. S. Astor Theatre--

"May Blossom" will be the dramatic feature at the U. S. Astor Theatre this afternoon and tonight, and the comic element of a superb program will be furnished by Charles Chaplin in his latest two-reel screen, "The Bank."

The Belasco play which inspired "May Blossom" was produced so long ago that even the name is unfamiliar to all save a few of the present generation of theatregoers. If the picture depended upon the fame of the stage play for success its vogue would be limited; but it happens that the film version is fully strong enough to stand on its own merits, for there is a romantic Civil War story of marked appeal, ably directed by Allen Dwan, and acted with sincere feeling by Gertrude Robinson, Donald Crisp and Marshall Neilan at the three points of the lovers' triangle.

Fundamentally, the plot is by no means novel, but fortunately it is treated in a manner that does not leave the impression of a hackneyed idea met before in only slightly different guise. Two men are in love with the same girl; the one she prefers is captured by the enemy, and the other takes advantage of the capture to announce the death of his rival, and, in the course of time, fills his place. May Blossom marries Steve believing Richard to be dead, and then Richard returns. Much the same thing has occurred frequently in screen portrayals, but there is enough freshness in the treatment of the plot to make it interesting, and the important scenes are very dramatic.

The meeting of May Blossom and Richard, after she has married the other man and become the mother of a child, is a capital scene alive with feeling, and there can be no certainty about the settlement of the problem confronting the woman, divided between love for her first sweetheart and love for her child. The solution is satisfactory, for it affords Steve an opportunity to retrieve his name.

CITY LEAGUE ROSTERS GET SOME BOOSTS

New Material Added at Monday Night's Meeting Looks Good.

The fighting force of the various City League teams has been strengthened considerably by the addition of new material. Nels Luthman, leader of the Hope Chapel combination, located two "finds" in the Conti brothers, both of whom have moved to this city, where they have secured work. In order that he might register the names of these players, Luthman had to drop B. Hand and "Artie" Thorn, the latter now being a golf "pro."

The addition of Dilts to the Baptist roster will add greatly to the pitching and batting ability of the team. At present Stine and Patterson are the only Baptist twirlers, and inasmuch as "Hub" goes on his vacation in a few days, and as "Dunc" Patterson has been ill, the club may have to use Oscar Dilts as hurler this Saturday, Ernie Stahl having been released.

Another pitcher who felt the weight of the axe Monday was Art Brick, the ex-P. H. S. flinger. Casey Lamberton, a catcher, annexed Brick's place on the Clinton avenue team. Lamberton performed with the old West Ends, of the now extinct Manufacturers' League. Of late he has been catching for the Highlanders and the Westfields. He hails from Fanwood township, and is one of the big baseball trio of that place the Albert brothers being the remaining two.

Owing to the signing up of new men, it is likely that the Baptist team will undergo a slight change. "Shakey" Clarke is scheduled to hang around second, while Pierson may be shifted to the outfield.

SPORTING NOTES

Vivian Nickalls has thrown up his handsome contract as coach for Pensy's crews to go against the Teuton. He sails today to join the British army.

It is harder to convince Western sport critics that the McFarland-Gibbons match, signed up for September 11, is anything but a farewell frost by Packey.

The latest freak stunt is to cross the country on foot, walking backwards. One Patrick Harmon, of Seattle, has started from Frisco with his seat to windward.

The newcomer in machinery sport is the hydroplane race, which will have its first try-out at Chicago a week from Saturday.

The new park for the Boston Braves is rapidly nearing completion. Seats for 42,000 fans are figured on. The world's champs have been homeless during their honor days.

Connie Mack gets a fast third baseman from Texas this week. He is McDonald, of the Houston Club, and he brings a good record from the Lone Star State.

Sandy Ferguson simply wasn't there when he was given another chance to come back last week in Boston. McVea madea monkey of the big iceman, who fell with dull thuds whenever a wallop grazed him.

In the Western open golf tourney, which has its preliminary round today, at Chicago, such stars as Hagen, McNamara and Brady are entered.

Tom Andrews' efforts to bring the boxing promoters together to put the sport on some solid foundation has met with success, for the fight moguls have promised to be in Cleveland Saturday for the gabfeast.

The Grand Circuit meet opens at Montreal today. On Saturday Directum I. and William are matched in a special race.

At the Thousand Islands Polo Club, the play for the Mid-West polo trophy begins today. Entries are from Cleveland, Cincinnati, Buffalo, Westmoreland, Pa., and Dayton.

Illinois is the breeding-place of strong men. In the recent decathlon, at the San Francisco Fair, Richards, of the Illinois Athletic Club, won the premier honors, and Chicago also took second honors with Brundage, and fourth honors with Goelitz.

Tennis players are mourning the death of Captain Anthony Wilding, who, with Normal Brookes, won the Davis Cup for Australia on Long Island last year. Wilding was killed in a trench in France, according to advices received in New York.

The uncertainty of the National League race this year indicates a lively finish. With only about seven weeks to go and no favorite yet in sight on which to tie an enduring lead, the contests will be real baseball to the final game.

If Jennings gets another good pitcher, the Tigers will be the favorites for the American League pennant. Not in their home town entirely, but in New York and Philadelphia.

Cutshaw's feat of six safe hits in six times at bat in one game ties the world's record made by Clarence Beaumont at Pittsburg in 1899. Cutshaw, Brooklyn's clever second baseman, performed the feat on August 9 against the Cub pitchers.

MAN WHO SHAPED MARTIN MAY JUMP TO FEDERALS

According to information which comes from a reliable authority John Ganzel will leave organized baseball and join the ranks of the Feds. For years Ganzel has been managing the Rochester, International League, team, on which Jack Martin performed for some time and with whom he really made his debut. Ganzel thought a great deal of Jack and the two were faster friends than any other two members of the squad.

Ganzel will take over the Brookfeds, so the report says, Lee Magee, the present leader, returning to the player ranks. Magee has never made a success of the team, due, no doubt, to his scrappy disposition. That "Silent John" Ganzel is sure to shine, is the opinion of all well-informed baseball men.

Influenced by Ganzel, perhaps, our own Jack Martin may jump to the Brookfed forces!

THARS WHO WILL THINE TOMORROW

"Dippy" Jouth to Promote Another Mid-week Bathball Game On Parker Field.

Another one of those Thursday baseball games will be staged on Parker Field tomorrow. This time two All Star combines will clash although it was first intimated that the Royal Giants would be one of the teams to play. However, the Royals claim that they are not a "Thursday" team and from the looks of things, they are not a "Saturday" team, either.

"Dip" Jones is running the affair tomorrow and declares that if any of the players he has listed do not hear from him in regards to playing they may consider this notice as an invitation to play.

George W. Wriston, the supervisor at Parker Field, is heartily in favor of the idea and believes that a game of this sort will do much towards picking a real All Star aggregation.

Tommy Mullin, the diminutive Amboy short fielder, will play with one of the two teams and says that he will exhibit all of the "pep" he possesses. It is likely that Oscar Dilts and Ernie Stahl will be the opposing hurlers, with Tommy Mullin and Bill Dodd as the rival receivers.

The promoters of the movement desire that the following players put in an appearance:

All Star (team 1): Tommy Mullin, Ernie Stahl, Johnny Daw, Harry Kirch, Aaron Hirsch, W. Miller, Bob Dawe, Harry Moulton, Jim McCarty and "Kid" Brennan.

All Star (team 2): Ernie Stahl Bill Dodd, Ralph Smalley, Gifford Jones, Benny Rosenson, "Rip" Haberman, Jack Force, A. Stebor, Hanzel and the McDonough brothers.

Any other local player who believes he is a "star" may appear on the field.

SOMERSET COUNCIL TO HOLD ATHLETIC MEET SATURDAY

The Somerset Council, No. 104, Jr. O. U. A. M., will hold an athletic meet at Wayside Park next Saturday. As the conclusion of the athletic activities a baseball match between the married and single members of the council will be started. Quite a few entries for the several events have already been received, but there is plenty of room for more. The athletes of this vicinity are all invited to compete, and it is desired that as many of them as wish register for the 100-yard dash, the 440-yard run, one mile and quoit match. There are also running broad and running high jumps and also athletic contests for girls, but these latter are open only to members of the council or their families.

$100 IF CLIFF WINS; NOTHING IF HE LOSES

Few fans realize that Cliff Randolph's fame in New York city secures more games for the Perth Amboy Pacers than perhaps, any other factor.

Two weeks ago Randolph and the Pacers took the Suburbans, of Brooklyn, into camp, Cliff allowing only three hits. Last Saturday the Pacers, minus Cliff and three other regulars, were trounced by the Empires, of New York. Immediately the Suburban manager, who had arranged a return game with the Amboys for this Sunday, wired his indignation at the defeat, saying it hurt his advertising as the Empires are not as highly rated as the Suburbans. Billy Pfau quieted his wrath by promising to produce Cliff Randolph on the slab this Sunday and so confident is he of winning that he remarked that he would take $100 if his boys won and absolutely nothing if they lost.

Evidently he places considerable confidence in Cliff's ability.

SPORT BRIEFS

Jimmy Austin, third baseman of the St. Louis Americans, has been indefinitely suspended by President Ban Johnson, of the American League, as a result of his argument with Umpire Chill, last Sunday, at Cleveland.

Gunboat Smith, Jim Buckley's heavyweight, will be seen in action tonight when he meets Jack Hemple, of California, in the main event of ten rounds at the St. Nocholas A. C., New York.

The new ball park of the Boston Nationals will be dedicated today.

LOCAL ENTRIES FOR BRUNSWICK MEET

Plainfield Performers Favor Michelin Events For Labor Day Activity.

Over in Milltown, New Brunswick, there is a splendidly laid out athletic field, which the Michelin Tire Company turned over to its employes over a year ago. Last Labor Day the track was formally opened and Ralph Runyon, of this city, was one of the athletes who competed. It was there that "Chick" Curtis, whose 12 feet 8 inch vault deprived Ralph of a trip to the Panama-Pacific Exposition, gained the fame he now possesses.

This coming Labor Day will see another and bigger athletic carnival on the same field. Entries are coming in in "bushels," four or five local A. A. U. men having sent their's in several weeks ago. Not all the events are open to local athletes inasmuch as there are four big "stunts" open only to Middlesex county men.

However, the locals will have a chance to compete in the 100, 200, 300 and 1,000-yard runs; five-mile road race, one mile walk, medley relay race, 220 yards, 440 yards, 880 yards and one mile, pole vault, running broad jump, running high jump and javelin throw.

The Plainfielders who are expected to compete are Bill Daniels, Ralph Greene, Marty and Packey McDonough, Ralph Runyon and Joe Garner.

THIS LOOKS LIKE A TASTY MORSEL

Casey Lambertson Will Manage a Team of World Beaters.

The attraction at the Emerson avenue ball grounds this Sunday will be a monster battle between the Highlanders and Casey Lambertson's All Stars, the latter being a representative Fanwood township nine. Lambertson, who has just joined the City League, will present an unusually strong line-up and expects to take the measure of the East Enders.

Casey will attend to the receiving himself while Andy Storr, reputed to be one of the fastest hurlers in the region of Flemington, from which burg he hails, will twirl. The infield work will be taken care of by Al Walpole, Johnny Caronna, Ernie Wahl and Robert Hodge. The outfield gardening will be done by Lambert Lambertson, James Lambertson and Paul Swinnerton.

The line-up may undergo a few changes, but according to Casey, no matter what players he presents Stebor, the Highland flinger, will have the job of his life keeping them away from the pill.

The Highlanders will offer their usual heavy line-up and expect to experience little trouble in turning back the invaders.

ROD AND REEL

Crabbing in the Shark River has been good during the past few weeks, record catches having been reported during that time.

Excellent fall fishing all along the Jersey coast is promised by George Geis, the channel bass guide.

Weakfish are again biting well off Morgan's and no doubt many local angles will take advantage of the fact.

The care of fishing rods and shotguns is something that all sportsmen like to read about even though many of them treat their favorites as one would a stove poker, using it when wanted and standing it up in a corner when there is no use for it. "I am using a rifle that has been shot over 100,000 times, and it could be sold today as a new gun, because I have taken care of it and never, under any circumstances, put it away soiled," says E. P. Thomas on the care of firearms.

"When learning how to handle a gun I often wished," continued Mr. Thomas, "for a word of advice from some experienced person. I burned pounds of powder in the old muzzle loaders before I learned my lesson well; therefore, I feel that when we have something good we should pass it along.

"Briefly then, my experience tells me that first you should own a good standard arm. In shooting practice use small objects to shoot at and train your nerves to be steady from the beginning.

"Acquire the habit of pressing (not pulling) the trigger and try to fire as soon as you have the proper aim.

"Always grip a gun of any kind firmly, but not too tightly. If the grip is too tight the tendency is to tremble. Don't hurry, be careful and deliberate. Do not expect to hit the mark every time. You cannot do it. Be patient, but otimistic. Try, try and then some more. Speed will come with practice.

"There is one thing the marksman must not overlook under any circumstances; the condition of the inside and outside of his gun. Never lay it away without carefully cleaning and oiling it outside and inside.

"Do not think that the .22 Remington is a toy for children to play with. It isn't. It is built for serious work and is a mechanism of

How to Keep Our City Moving

We must keep moving. A city booms only so long as its manufacturers and merchants keep moving. The wheels of every line of endeavor must be kept turning if the city is going to develop, and what is of deeper concern than the wheels of Plainfield kept turning?

Should every one who has the interest of Plainfield close at heart buy goods from our merchants, the benefits all around can easily be seen. Thousands of dollars that would otherwise go out of the city will be kept circulating here and contribute a big share towards making a bigger and busier Plainfield.

A dollar spent at home will keep that dollar at home and all will share in the profits.

STEAMSHIP CO. IN RECEIVER'S HANDS

C. G. Parker Takes Charge of the International Mercantile Marine Corporation.

WAR STOPS COMMERCE

Action Is Taken On Application of E. E. Parvin, of This City, Secretary of Concern—H. G. Phillips, Also of Plainfield, Treasurer of Co.

Trenton, Aug. 19.—The International Mercantile Marine Company, a New Jersey corporation controlling the American, the White Star, the Red Star and the White Star Dominion trans-Atlantic steamship lines was placed in the hands of a receiver yesterday by the Court of Chancery, through a suit brought by Emerson E. Parvin, of Plainfield, a stockholder and secretary of the company. He charged that the company is insolvent, unable to continue business, with no prospects that it can emerge from its financial difficulties soon. H. G. Phillips, also of Plainfield, is treasurer of the company.

Vice-Chancellor Backes, to whom the application was made, appointed Chauncey G. Parker, of Newark, receiver. McCarter & English represented Mr. Parvin.

The company through Frank S. Katzenbach, Jr., its counsel, admitted its insolvency and consented to the appointment of a receiver. Several directors live in England. The order appointing the receiver restrains the company from disposing of any of its assets or transacting any other business, all the assets, property, etc., to be turned over to Receiver Parker. The order also provides that any of the directors may apply to the court on September 25 for a vacation or modification of the order. The company has an authorized capital stock of $120,000,000, all of which is outstanding. The bill of complaint declares that the company has bonds outstanding in the hands of the people amounting to $52,594,000 at 4½ per cent. and $17,632,000 at 5 per cent. and charges that the company has defaulted on the payment of both principal and interest of the bonds.

Unofficially, it was said today, that the financial difficulties of the corporation were due to the interruption of its commerce by the European war. Most of the steamships operated by the company fly the English flag and several, it is said, have been requisitioned by the English government for war purposes, while others are tied up by the military embargo upon commerce.

The International Mercantile Marine Company is the outcome of the incorporation June 6, 1893, of the International Navigation Company. It changed to the present name October 1, 1902. Among the present director are J. Pierrepont Morgan and George W. Perkins, of New York; P. A. B. Widener, of Philadelphia, and J. Bruce Ismay, of Liverpool, Eng.

BOY CYCLE THIEVES PUT ON PROBATION

'Plains Youths Pleaded Guilty and Agree to Pay For Damage Done to Vehicle.

Charged with stealing a motorcycle, William Swabach, Bruce Tullock and Patsy Columbus, youths ranging in age from fourteen to eighteen years, were arraigned before Recorder Jahn, at Scotch Plains, last night. It being their first offense, and taking into consideration their age, the recorder put the first two on probation for one year with the understanding that they pay for any damage done the machine. Columbus, who, during his short residence in the 'Plains, has been a sort of "knock about," was given ten days in which to either secure a position or leave town.

Swabach and Tullock took the motorcycle belong to Warren McCauley on Tuesday night and secured Columbus to help start it. Not being successful they left it near Westfield, and while Swabach returned home, Tullock and Columbus boarded a Central Railroad freight train and rode to Roselle, where they were arrested by a railroad detective. Chief of Police O'Sullivan, in the meantime was doing some detective work and being suspicious of Swabach had a talk with him and obtained the whole story. Armed with warrants O'Sullivan went to Roselle and brought back the two boys, their case down there being dismissed.

MISS ALICE M. ROSS ENGAGED TO WED

Will Become the Bride of Frederick Beecher Colver On September 8.

Social circles in Englewood and Tenafly, as well as Plainfield, are interested in the announcement made this week of the approaching wedding of Miss Alice Mary Ross, eldest daughter of Mrs. Louis Runyon Ross, of Englewood, to Frederic Beecher Colver, the borough clerk of Tenafly. Miss Ross, who is a native of Plainfield and was educated at the Hartridge School and later at Wellesley College, graduating in the class of 1913, has a large circle of friends in Englewood and vicinity and in her former Plainfield home.

Mr. Colver is a Princeton man, class of 1910, and a graduate of the Columbia Law School, class of 1913. He is the son of ex-Mayor and Mrs. Frederic L. Colver, and is now practising his profession in New York city, while residing in Tenafly. The date of the wedding is announced for Wednesday evening, September 8, in the Englewood Presbyterian church. The pastor, Rev. Robert Davis, is to be the officiating clergyman.

WORK ON POSTOFFICE IS AGAIN DELAYED

Senator Martine's Request for Change of Plans Stops Work On Building.

Work on the new Plainfield postoffice has been held up again, this time to permit of alterations in the general plans to provide for additional office room in the building, in accordance with a request to that effect made of the government through United States Senator James E. Martine. Until the plans covering the alterations arrive from Washington no further work will be permitted on the building by United States Inspector Nealy. Mr. Nealy is looking for such instructions in a day or two.

It was thought that more adequate office room ought to be provided in the new building than the original plans called for, and the matter was taken up with the Washington authorities. In the meantime the foundation walls were being laid up. The request being granted, word was sent the inspector to stop work temporarily, and this has been done. In addition to enlarging the office rooms on the first floor, the revised plans will call for another office in the basement, and certain changes in the basement will have to be made in order to provide for this office.

The stone has begun to arrive, two carloads of granite and three of limostone being already on the ground or en route from the quarries. Changes in the structural steel will have to be made now to correspond with the changes allowed in the building.

STARLINGS DEFY GAME OFFICIALS

Bombardment of "Bird Rookery" In the Borough Without Result.

NO RELIEF FROM PESTS

Experiment Will Be Repeated Tonight, When Roman Candles Will Be Tried to Abate the Nuisance—Birds Are Protected Songsters.

State Game Wardens William Hoblitzel, of Rahway, and Charles E. Welsh, of East Millstone, inspected the "bird rookery" in North Plainfield last evening, and undertook to give the residents in the vicinity of Jackson and Watchung avenues some relief from the pest of birds that have been making the trees in that section of the borough their headquarters for the past month. At their suggestion, shooting charges of powder in the air was tried last night and if this does not bring about the desired result, permission to shoot into the flock and kill a few of the birds will be sought from the State Game Commission.

Wardens Welsh and Hoblitzel were called to this section yesterday on some other business and investigated the complaints about the birds at the same time. They spent a part of the afternoon under the trees near the homes of Mayor Robert Clark, Jr., and Mrs. Ida Fountain, where the birds constituted a nuisance. The wardens said that the birds were European starlings, not blackbirds, protected by the game laws because they are song birds.

Mr. Hoblitzel said that in Montclair and Westfield there had been similar cases where these flocks of starling had made the vicinity of nice homes their roosting places and where the Game Commission had been called upon for relief. He suggested that shooting blank shells into the air just about their roosting time be tried, advising Mayor Clark, at whose request the game wardens looked into the matter yesterday, that if the plan did not work, he could write to the secretary of the State Game Commission for permission to shoot into the flock.

Acordingly, Mayor Clark invited a neighbor, who has a shotgun and who, he thought, would enjoy a chance to bombard the heavens, to fire the first shots in the campaign against the bird pest. The shooting took place at about 7:30 o'clock. Ten or twelve shots were fired after the birds had begun to settle down for the night, but the results were not entirely satisfactory. As far as excitement went, there was plenty of that, for the shooting was heard for some distance in every direction and folks came running to the scene to see what was happening. By the time the last few shots were fired there were nearly as many people congregated about the trees as there were starlings above. Prior to the shooting police headquarters had been notified what was contemplated, otherwise the borough marshals would have added their presence to the crowd.

At every shot the birds would be seized as with a panic and whirl up into the air in clouds, but as soon as their fright subsided they would fly back and settle down for the night again. When it was found that no amount of firing would frighten the birds away for good, the shooting was discontinued for the evening. Mayor Clark will repeat the performance again tonight, adding to the bombardment by shooting a few Roman candles, and results will be eagerly awaited.

The game wardens told Mayor Clark that in case it becomes necessary to request permission to kill some of the birds, one of the wardens will have to be on the ground at the time the shooting is done to see that only the starlings are shot.

The first annual bus excursion of the U. S. Astor Theatre employes will take place Sunday, the destination being Midland Beach. Bus will leave the theatre on West Front street at 8 o'clock. ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED.

Mrs. Samuel Snellenberger, of Nellie, O., announces the engagement of her sister, Miss Bertha Gamertsfelder, of that place, to Frank J. Line, of Forest, O., formerly of this city, and son of A. M. Line of East Front street. No date has been set for the wedding.

CZAR'S ARMIES IN GRAVE PERIL

Kaiser's Drive On Petrograd Threatens Envelopment of the Russians.

AUSTRO-GERMAN MASS

Preparing For An Attack On Montenegro — Russian and British Steamers Sunk By German Submarines.

London, Aug. 19.—The fall of Kovno, the impending capture of Novo Georgievsk, and the rapid advance of the Germans on the Bug and Niemen rivers make the situation of the Czar's armies the most desperate since the war began.

The road to the Vilna-Warsaw-Petrograd railway is now open to the Kaiser's troops, and a drive on Petrograd is a serious menace.

For the first time since his retirement from Western Galicia the Grand Duke Nicholas finds the major part of his army in danger of envelopment.

The capture was another triumph for the German sixteen-inch guns, which throughout the present war have been brought against no fortifications they were unable to subdue.

With the fortress of Kovno the Germans have taken over 400 guns, and, according to their account, an enormous quantity of war material.

This, however, is not the most serious part of the matter to the Russians. Besides opening the way to Vilna, which is an open town, from which most of the inhabitant has fled, and everything that might be of use to the invaders has been removed, the fall of the fortress removes the last protection, with the exception of the Russian field army, to the main line railway to the capital, and also places the Germans in a position to threaten the flanks of the Russian armies retiring to the Brest-Litovsk line and those operating in Southern Courland.

Grand Duke Nicholas apparently expected the fall of Kovno, for his armies are hastening their retirement in Poland eastward. They still hold their own from Kovno to the south of Ossowetz, but south of that they are being pressed from the northeast by Generals von Scholz and von Gallwitz, and from the west by Leopold, who has crossed the Bug River and is approaching the Brest-Litovsk and Bialystok railway. It is the same in the south, where General von Mackensen, after many rebuffs, finally has succeeded in driving the Muscovites into their outer positions of the fortress of Brest-Litovsk.

For the first time since he began his retirement from Western Galicia in May, Grand Duke Nicholas, in the opinion of military observers, finds part of his army in serious danger of envelopment. The military writers express curiosity as to how he will extricate it.

The Russian steamer Thornfield was sunk by a submarine Wednesday, it was announced today. The English steamer Serbino, 2,205 tons, has also been sunk by a submarine. The crews of the Thornfield and Serbina were saved.

The Wilson liner Grodno, a British steamer of 1,955 tons, was sunk by a German submarine today. The crew was saved.

Petrograd, Aug. 19—The latest report on operations from Grand Duke Nicholas follows:

"On the upper Narew and between the Narew and the Bug, there was fighting Monday and Tuesday with varying success. Most obstinate attacks were made by the enemy on the roads to Bielestok and Beilsk. The enemy is obstinately attacking the nothern and eastern fortifications of Novo Georgievsk and the main fortification protecting the railway to Mlawa."

Paris, Aug. 19—The French war statement says:

"There was great activity on all the front in Artois. An attack by us left us masters of the cross road on the Bethune Arras highway and of the Ablain Angres road where the German position formed a salient in our advance lines. Numerous counter attacks by the enemy were repulsed. To the north of Carleul we repulsed an attack made with grenades and petards.

"In the Argonne our artillery gained the mastery over the fire directed by the directors and the bomb throwers of the enemy in the direction of Fontaine Aux Charmes and in the Rei region of Marie Therese. In the Vosges there was a violent continuous battle on the summit of Linge where we captured a new German trench."

Rome, Aug. 19—A force of 100,000 Austro-Germans is massed on the Austrian frontier of Montenegro preparing for an attack on that country, says a despatch from Cettinje to the Trbuna.

ATHLETIC EVENTS FEATURE EXHIBIT

Excellent Program Attracts Many Parents to Franklin School Playgrounds.

DISPLAY SAND MODELS

Fancy Articles, Miniature Houses, Parks, Automobiles and Railroad Tunnel Included In the Handiwork of Boys and Girls.

About 300 children and their parents were present at the Franklin School playground exhibition yesterday afternoon. An excellent program had been arranged by Miss Frances Nischwitz, the supervisor, and her assistant, Miss Louise Franke, and the various events scheduled were enthusiastically contested and were marked by exciting finishes. The able manner in which they were conducted and the excellent sportsmanship excited considerable favorable comment. In addition to the games contested, an interesting exhibition of articles made by the children attracted the attention of the number present. Caps, bags, aprons, kimonas and beautifully weaved baskets of all sorts were hung in conspicuous places about the yard.

The races were supervised by Miss Louise Franke, and were participated in by a large number of children, Elizabeth Dandridge proving herself champion of the girls, and Oscar Johnson, peer of the boys. Exciting games of dodge ball and "stealing sticks" were enjoyed immensely by the kiddies.

The afternoon's program was as follows: Dance of greeting, small children; tarantella, large girls; shoemaker's dance, small children; Norwegian Mountain March; carousel; Maypole dance. Those who took part were: Small children's dances, Elizabeth Brooks, Barbina Disdoardo, Pearle Harvey, Lillian Harvey Ruth Stecco, Florence Biggs, Frances Holgate, Elizabeth Maguire, Madeline Spring, Hannah Rosalsky, Ray Mathews, Minnie Henry, Edith Brooks, Elizabeth Gulick, Helen Epstein and Grace Bunker; large children's dances, Leah Canter, Evelyn Blazier, Hannah Rosalsky, Elizabeth Gulick, Helen Sachar, Bessie Schrager, Gertrude Siegel, Bertha Bulk, Fanny Jeromitsky, Elizabeth Dandridge, Elizabeth Heimberg, Jennie Schneider, Anna Shapiro and Gussie Zuick.

The boys who frequent the playgrounds had miniature models of houses, parks and skyscrapers built up of sand. One enterprising youth had a unique exhibit of a 1929 model Ford; another had a McAdoo tunnel, while a third displayed a miniature of the Woolworth building in New York.

NARROW ESCAPE FOR OWNER AND DRIVER

Brunswick Man Claims Chauffeur Went to Sleep and Automobile Ran Wild.

Two New Brunswick autoists had a narrow escape from injury on Park avenue, near Eighth street, late yesterday afternoon, when a car owned by Hugh Boyd, editor of the New Brunswick Home News, and driven by Abraham Tamanoff, his colored chauffeur, struck the curb with sufficient force to badly damage the front of the machine. According to Boyd the chauffeur fell asleep, and when left momentarily without a guiding hand at the wheel it swerved from its course and crashed into the curb.

The chauffeur told the police that the steering gear refused to work, and he was powerless to prevent the accident. The autoists were proceeding north on Park avenue when the mishap occurred.

MIDNIGHT HOLDUP NETS ROBBERS $19

Trolleymen at Pistols' Points Forced to Turn Over Fares Near Cemetery.

Frank Diehl and John Peterson, motorman and conductor, respectively on the Arlington avenue trolley line, were held up at pistols' points at the terminal, near Hillside cemetery, at 11:45 last night by two highwaymen, and Peterson was relieved of $19.75, collected from fares during the day. That the holdup had been carefully planned is the opinion of the local police, who searched all night for the culprits, without gaining the slightest clue to their identity.

When the car stopped at the end of the line on its last run for the night Conductor Peterson had just taken the trolley pole from the wire to shift it from the front to rear, when a figure leaped from behind a clump of bushes and pinioned his arms behind him. The pole had been lifted from the wire, and this threw the car in darkness. The motorman started to go to the assistance of his companion, but he was caught by a second man. Pistols were poked in front of the two trolleymen's faces, and at the same time one said to the condctor:

"Turn over your money. We don't want to delay this car any more than we have to so be quick about it."

The conductor did as ordered and the men fled as they had come, through the cemetery. The darkness made it practically impossible for the victims of the holdup to follow the armed footpads, and they again boarded the car and reported the incident to Inspector Higgins. He in turn notified Sergeant Saffron at police headquarters, but the men could supply the authorities with only a meagre description of the culprits. They said that they wore masks over their faces, but whether they were colored or white the trolleymen did not know.

Sergeant Saffron chartered Joe Parson's taxicab, and together with Patrolmen Samuel Kriney and John Neylon, set out for the scene of the holdup. Patrolman Martin Flatley was sent out on a motorcycle. The territory in the vicinity of Picton, Oak Tree, South Plainfield and thereabouts was searched, but not the slightest clue was obtainable.

Sergeant Saffron and his corps of assistants abandoned the search late this morning, and police departments in other towns were notified to keep a lookout for suspicious characters.

They soon had need to display their authority, detecting Dr. Mutter exceeding the speed limit. When arraigned before Recorder Hand the physician was fined ten dollars, which he paid.

BEER TRUTHS

"A mild stimulant such as Beer, made of wholesome materials in an absolutely hygienic way, meets an adult human need that is almost universal."

We advertise these facts to convey to the public mind the real truth about Beer.

Beer is a TEMPERANCE beverage in the strictest sense of the word. It is a food product and is rarely used to excess.

The great scientist, Baron von Liebig, rightly called it Liquid Bread.

Beer is not only a mild, nourishing beverage, but it is the very purest of foods in liquid form.

It quenches the thirst, stimulates the appetite, aids digestion and nourishes the body.

Men and women who live at high pressure find good beer invaluable, as it enables them to continue in good health under the most trying conditions.

Physicians strongly advocate its use in moderation and prescribe it for nursing mothers and to their nervous and anaemic patients because of its food value and upbuilding qualities.

When the public realizes the NUTRITIVE and DIGESTIVE qualities of Pure Beer, all prejudice against Beer will be removed.

RUPPERT'S Knickerbocker

DUNELLEN

All the Happenings of the Day In Plainfield's Hustling Suburb.

SUFFRAGE PAVILION WILL BE ELABORATE

Plans Complete For Unique Building to Be Erected at Dunellen.

The plans and specifications for the permanent pavilion, which the Equal Suffrage League of Dunellen and New Market has obtained the consent of the Common Council to erect in Washington Park, are complete. They were drawn by Willard N. Apgar following the Fourth of July celebration in 1914 when he was impressed with the need of the borough for a permanent structure of this kind. Mr. Apgar endeavored upon the completion of the plans to interest the Board of Trade, composed of the leading merchants and citizens of the borough, in the project, but nothing ever came of it and it has remained for the suffrage league to take the matter up. The women have started to do so with a vim and no one doubts but that they will carry it through to a successful conclusion. The committee of the suffrage league in charge of the proposition is now making arrangements for the holding of several unique events in the no distant future to raise funds for the erection of this pavilion.

The estimated cost of the pavilion is $350. The main part of the pavilion will be 25x25 with extensions on three sides of 4x8 feet for speakers. In the rear there will be steps to the platform and an entrance under these steps to the basement. The basement, which will contain windows, will be used for the storing of chairs, settees, etc.

The structure will be built of concrete blocks finished in white. The roof will be peaked and covered with asbestos shingles and will have a flag pole at its top. The roof will be supported by twenty Grecian columns. The platform will rest on iron girders, making the entire stand proof against fire and decay.

The erection of this pavilion will be a decided improvement to the borough. Heretofore when any public events have been held during the summer at Washington Park, which is the logical place to hold them, it has been necessary to erect a temporary stand. The necessity has unfortunately prevented the holding of events which would have meant much social and intellectual life of the borough. With this stand as an addition to the municipality next summer popular Lectures and band concerts will likely be in vogue throughout the season.

Then to the erection of this pavilion may make a borough-wide social center out of the park and stimulate the holding of lawn fetes of various types. Be that as it may there is but little doubt that the pavilion will be a factor to a certain degree in quickening the social life of the borough and whatever has a tendency to do that correspondingly increases the probability of home seekers turning this way.

The bride was gowned in white chantilly lace over ivory white satin. She carried a sheaf of bridal roses. Her only ornament was a diamond lavalier.

Following the ceremony the couple were showered with congratulations. The honeymoon will be spent in visiting points in the New England States.

The couple upon their return will make their residence at the bride's home.

WINTER BRINGS SUFFERING.

According to the ruling of Judge J. R. Rocks, little Miss de Muffetson child of Mr. and Mrs. Muffins de Muffetson, who were recently divorced after a spectacular trial, will receive as an allowance for her education only $25,000 annually. "This is a hard blow indeed," said Mrs. de Muffetson indignantly to the reporter. "On such a miserable allowance poor little Muffa will never be able to study geograhy on her own private yacht."

Yesterday the fact transpired that Mrs. Zoie Twinkletootsie Snickelfritz wife of the late well-known packer Wilhelm Snickelfritz, will get only $2,000,000 instead of the $20,000,000 which Mr. Snickelfritz believed was the extent of his estate. "I never supposed I should end my days in poverty!" sobbed the bereaved widow, who has gone into the deepest sort of mourning again.

Great indignation was expressed yesterday at the Flor de Billions Club owing to the discourteous action of the laborers excavating for the new building. "If these creatures stick to their demands for $1.75 a day things will soon come to such a pass that a poor man cannot keep up his dues," said Wallie Street, the president of the organization.

"Yes," said Mr. Henry Hooperup Bull last evening, "the rumors are quite true. If the market breaks again I will have to go through next year with a last season's car. In my opinion, if things don't change soon if an honest man isn't given a better chance to make a living—mark my words—there'll be a revolution."

On being informed that she would have to pay $8,453 duty on jewels and dresses bought abroad, Mrs Dollaringham uttered a shriek and went into prolonged hysterics. "Such a Government is a disgrace," said Mr. Dollaringham indignantly. "The United States is no longer a place for a poor man!"

ART TO THE RESCUE.

See the dancer! Is the dancer gifted with imagination, ankles and artistic insight such as she is able by recourse to the poetry of motion to interpret the esoteric significance of things, even the subtler nuances thereof?

The dancer is gifted about that way. What, then, being touched with zeal for patriotic service, is she going to do?

She is going to book a tour of the provinces at popular prices, and her notion is to dance Schedule K of the tariff with so much clarity that if the farmers continue to see as through a glass darkly, it will be their own fault.

ATTENDANT IS HELD ON MURDER CHARGE

Frederick C. Hobrook, of State Epileptic Village, In Somerville Jail.

Facing a charge of murder in the first degree tentatively lodged against him by the Somerset county authorities pending a probe into the circumstances surrounding the death of William Van Riker, an inmate of the State Epileptic Village at Skillman, which occurred Tuesday night, Frederick C. Hobrook, one of the farm's attendants, is held a prisoner in the Somerville jail. The crime of which he stands accused is an unbailable one and he will be compelled to remain confined until the Somerset County Grand Jury passes on his case.

According to information in the hands of Prosecutor A. M. Beekman, of Somerset county, Van Riker died Tuesday night as the result of a murderous beating he received earlier in the day. Hobrook was his attendant and the finger of suspicion at once pointed in his direction. The Skillman and county authorities kept the matter a secret until last night, with a view to arresting Hobrook as he returned at the end of a two days' leave of absence. Unsuspecting of any danger Hobrook stepped from the train at Skillman last night and was immediately confronted by an officer with a warrant and he was taken to the Somerville jail.

Van Riker was taken severely ill shortly after Hobrook left the institution Tuesday and was forced to go to bed in the afternoon. At 7:05 that evening he passed away. A postmortem examination, conducted under the personal supervision of Dr. David F. Weeks, superintendent of the farm, revealed the fact that Van Riker's death was due to shock and abdominal injuries. His body was covered with burises and lacerations.

Dr. Weeks at once laid the case before the prosecutor and it was decided to keep the matter under cover for the time being in order not to arouse the suspicion of Hobrook.

THE WOMAN'S COLUMN

London—War has given woman her rightful place in the medical world in Europe. Pleading her cause is now a thing of the past; the woman doctor is recognized, and her abilities are establishing a status of equality with men heretofore refused. It is pointed out by the Lady's Pictorial, of London, that no woman need despair of achieving any work upon which she has set her heart, when the positon now held by the woman doctor is taken into consideration. For nothing seemed more hopeless than her case when she first claimed the right to be admitted to the medical schools. She is now actually sought for, is implored to bring others of her sex into the profession. The gaps in the medical field made by the requisition of doctors for service in the war hospitals have been filled by women. Epidemic horrors have been avoided both at home and in the battle lines. Queen Mary and Queen Alexandra are both interesting themselves in the London School of Medicine for Women, and in the hospitals staffed by women doctors. The profession has drawn many women students, and medicine is now a feminine sphere and will be for all time.

San Francisco—That polygamy will exist in many states of Europe after the war, is the prediction of Dr. David Starr Jordan, the noted peace advocate and educator. "The conditions will be necessary in order to breed more men," he says. "However, I think that women are so enlightened today that it will not be sanctioned by the governments, but will exist sub rosa."

Wickford, R. I.—To be the grandmother of two sets of twins and to see the four children christened at the same ceremony is the unusual experience of Mrs. David S. Baker, of this town. In the old Narragansett church, built over two hundred years ago, the christening took place recently. Her daughter, Mrs. Frank L. Hinckley, is the mother of one pair of babies, both girls, and her son, David S. Baker, Jr., is the father of the other twins, both boys. Many prominent guests attended the ceremony.

Tacoma Wash.—A new athletic record has been established by Miss Ruth McCabe, of this city, who recently threw a baseball 209 feet 5 inches. The best previous record by a girl was made by Miss Dorothy Smith, of Vassar, with a throw of 204 feet.

Atlanta, Ga.—All the Georgia girls are now wearing yellow stockings. It has been discovered that Georgia mosquitoes dread that color. As a result, Palm Beach suits and lemon, orange and champagne-colored evening gowns are being worn, and the yellow stocking, however thin, serve as efficient armament against the mosquito.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Miss Vida Bispham, daughter of David Bispham, the famous American baritone, and granddaughter of General Charles S. Russell, U. S. A., has married in Italy a prominent banker, Riccardo Daddi-Bergheri, of Florence. News of the wedding reached friends of the Bishpams here last week. Miss Bispham has spent most of her life in Europe. She was reported engaged some three years ago to young Theodore Havemeyer, but the romance was broken off, and Miss Bispham went abroad to stay. Word comes that the bride has taken up nursing.

Boston—A minimum wage for shop girls who are over eighteen years of age, with one year's experience, has been set at $8.50 per week by the Board recently appointed by the Minimum Wage Commission. Inexperienced girls over eighteen are to get $7 as a minimum; between seventeen and eighteen, girls are to receive not less than $6 per week, and under seventeen not less than $5 per week. This wage is suggested for saleswomen in retail stores. It will probably go into effect January 1, not only in Boston, but throughout the State. It is estimated that 20,000 girls are to be benefited by the minimum wage.

Montreal, P. Q.—The power of women to keep their men folks from enlisting for war has been broken by the abolition of the regulation which forced married men to secure the permission of their wives before enlisting. The Canadian women claim that Canada has done its share for the mother country, and many have resented the new move to bolster up enlistments.

LOCAL FIRM INCORPORATES WITH A $500,000 CAPITAL

Incorporation papers for the firm of Johnson & Tygard, with headquarters in this city, were filed in the county clerk's office at Elizabeth this morning. According to the statement made the capital of the concern amounts to $500,000 with $1,000 ready money. James W. Tygard is the local agent and his headquarters are located at 920 South avenue.

The incorporators are Elizabeth Tygard, Charles B. Rhodier and John W. Whitmore.

PEACH FESTIVAL.

Still They Wonder Why.

The two women were discussing that never failing theme—the incompetency of domestic servants. And the bit of the conversation we overheard gave us a line on a possible reason for many a disappointment in that line.

"Well, I am looking for a new cook," said one of the women, "and I am at my wits' end. They come to you as experts, well recommended and all that, and they turn out to be lazy and incompetent. I declare I can't understand it!"

"What became of the cook you had last week?" asked the other.

"My dear, she was positively the limit. She couldn't cook, she broke dishes, she wasted food, she wasn't neat, and she was impudent. I have reason to believe that she drank. Oh, I had to get rid of her. Honestly, she was so bad in every way that I could hardly think of a thing to say when I wrote a recommendation for her."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Shirking the Responsibility.

"Now, this is the way I like to be treated in a hotel," said the breezy drummer as he sat down to breakfast in the Pikesville House. "The morning paper is lying beside my plate."

"I beg your pardon, boss," said the head waiter in considerable agitation. "You's in Judge Hornbuckle's seat. He's been settin' there for twenty years an'—an'—he's due here at any minute."

"I should worry," was the drummer's only reply.

"Well, maybe you kin take keer of yo'self, boss. I guess you ain't never been befo' de judge like I has. Dat's why I's gwine out an' stay in de kitchen till de rucus blows over."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Could Not.

"Now, what does your young Mr. Brown make by lectures and readings you talk so much about?"

"Nothing, papa. 'Virtue is its own exceeding great reward.' it shows how good he is."

"Tut, tut, child! How can you expect my consent to your engagement with a man who, as you say yourself, is absolutely 'good—for nothing?'"—Philadelphia Record.

NO ELASTICITY TO STATE GAME LAW

Justice of the Peace Snape Again Gets Into Public Eye Through Fines.

State game wardens swooped down upon North Plainfield yesterday, and gathered in three violators of the game laws. Robert E. Lee and John Carey, both colored, and Albert A. Galloway, all three of Westervelt avenue, were the offenders. Each one had one or more raccoons in captivity and were fined $20 and costs. Lee and Carey paid, but Galloway was locked up in the borough jail and will be taken to Somerville this afternoon if the money is not forthcoming.

It was declared in all three cases that no intention to violate the game laws was in the minds of the offenders, who were keeping the raccoons for pets. But Justice Thomas H. Snape, before whom they were tried, said that the law gave him no alternative, specifying the amount of the fine in each case. Lee had only one animal in captivity; Carey had two and Galloway three.

Had Galloway paid for several chickens belonging to Mrs. Catherine Fries, of Whitewood avenue, that his raccoons were accused of killing, perhaps the three borough residents would still be enjoying the company of their pets unmolested. But when Mrs. Fries demanded pay for the hens, Galloway is said to have disclaimed all responsibility. This led Mrs. Fries to take the matter up with the State Game Commission and State Game Warden Charles E. Welsh, of East Millstone, was put on the case. He called in as assistant Warden William Hoblitzel, of Rahway, and the two swore out the legal papers and lay in wait for Galloway. It was necessary to make more than one visit to the Galloway home before they found their man in, and in the meanwhile the wardens discovered that Galloway was not alone in his fondness for raccoons as pets. Living in the same neighborhood they found Lee and Carey keeping raccoons as pets. While biding their time on the Galloway case, the wardens swore out warrants for the arrest of Lee and Carey.

All three cases came to a head yesterday. Lee and Carey were arraigned before Justice Snape first. Through their attorney, Charles J. McNabb, they pleaded guilty and paid their fines, Justice Snape agreeing that when he made his report of the case to the State Game Commission he would recommend that all or part of the fine money be returned in each case, as the men are both sober and industrious. Because of this, the complaint made against Carey was for keeping one raccoon captive instead of two, which made it possible for the justice to fine him the same amount as Lee.

Galloway was not arraigned until evening and then he was represented by Samuel S. Swackhamer. His actions in the whole matter had been so hostile to them in every way, the wardens declared, that they made the complaint in his case cover the three raccoons, and he was fined $60 and costs. To give him a chance to raise the money, Justice Snape last night paroled him in the custody of his lawyer, upon his promise to be in court at 9 o'clock this morning. He was as good as his word and reported at the appointed time, but he didn't stay long. Mumbling something about "Must see Mr. Swackhamer," Galloway slipped out of the courtroom and was not seen again until about noon. The justice, lawyer and wardens waited around for three hours for the man to return then Mr. Swackhamer started out to find him and finally located him. In order to make is possible for Galloway to avoid incarceration in the county jail, the form of the complaint was changed to cover one raccoon insead of three, which allowed the justice to reduce the fine to $20, the same amount as the other two were fined.

The five raccoons were liberated by the game wardens after the trials, three of them in the mountains back of North Plainfield, and the other two in another part of the State.

LEO FRANK'S BODY AT FORMER HOME

Victim of Georgia's Wrath Brought to New York City This Morning.

New York, Aug. 19.—Accompanied by his widow, the body of Leo M. Frank, the victim of the Georgia lynching party, arrived in New York this morning and was removed immediately to the home of his parents, 151 Underhill avenue, Brooklyn. Inspector Cray assigned a squadron of men to the Pennsylvania Railroad Station, and the curious throng that gathered surged around the train as soon as it pulled into the terminal. Included in the mob were Rudolph Frank, the father, and Mrs. Otto Stern, the sister.

Fatigued by her day and night trip from Atlanta, during which she had not slept, Mrs. Frank collapsed in the arms of relatives as she alighted from the Pullman, giving way under the terrific strain for the first time since she started the fight for her husband's life several months ago.

Efforts are being made to keep the time of interment secret as a means of preventing a huge crowd from gathering at the grave, and it is doubtful whether or not it will be given out at all.

LITERARY

The German and English Notes.

"There is one fundamental difference between our controversy over shipping with Germany and the controversy with England," says an editorial in the World's Work. "In the controversy with Germany even the Kaiser's Government has not gainsaid that we had international laws and treaties on our side. But their argument has been that the law and the treaties were not reasonable in the present circumstances. The question came down to whether or not the law and the treaties were to be respected.

"In the controversy with England the British Government has not announced that it would do as it pleased regardless of international law and treaties. It rests its case on law just as we do ours. In other words, England is willing to have a legal controversy while Germany immediately tried to remove our controversy with her beyond the realms of law."

RECOVERING FROM TEXAS HURRICANE

Telegraphic Communication Once More Resumed With Galveston and Other Cities.

New York, Aug. 19—After three days without telegraphic communication with the rest of the world, the city of Galveston earl ythis morning found the severed wires had been rejoined. A message from Galveston to the Central News states that the loss of life there from the two days hurricane will not reach a score of souls. For three days heavy seas have lashed Galveston's sea wall without making an impression. It is feared that the loss of life at sea has been great, however.

There are absolutely no reliable reports on mainland conditions. Port Bolivar, with a population of 1,500 people, is swept bare. It is not even known what part of its population escaped.

Washington, Aug. 19—No further details of the devastation at Galveston done by the recent storm has been received at the War Department. So far only ten soldiers have been reported drowned. Acting Secretary of War Breckenridge is awaiting a more detailed report from Major General J. Franklin Bell, commanding the army camp at Texas City, near Galveston, as to whether medical and other supplies are needed.

Houston, Tex., Aug. 19—Martial law has been declared at Port Arthur, which was caught by the full force of the gulf hurricane. Fires which started in the yards of the C Kramer Lumber Company were still burning at last reports. Part of the town is still submerged.

San Antonio, Tex., Aug. 19—The total number of lives lost in the storm swept area of Texas and at the sea coast will reach 400, according to reports received here today.

Dallas, Tex., Aug. 19—The damage suffered at Galveston as a result of the storm is estimated at $3,000,000, according to meagre but reliable reports reaching here.

FIVE NEGROES FACE EXECUTION TOMORROW

Richmond, Va., Aug. 19.—For their inhuman attack on two Washington white women, John L. Rollins and George Matthews, colored, will be electrocuted at the State penitentiary tomorrow morning. The two negroes were speedily tried at Bowling Green, Va., last month. Only the doubt as to their guilt saved them from lynching. The women they attacked are Mrs. Burnley Coleman, of Washington, and her daughter, Miss Eulalia Coleman. The deed was a brutal affair, and took place at the Coleman summer home near Rappahannock Academy. It was due to the rare presence of mind of Mrs. Coleman that the prisoners were brought to justice so speedily. She tore a piece from the shirt of her assailant, and this fitted the torn garment of Rollins. For two hours she and her daughter had fought against the entrance of the two negroes. Finally, barricaded in a room, they were overpowered. Rollins pleaded guilty of the deed and implicated Matthews, who is his cousin. The men got into an argument during the trial which unfolded the proof of their guilt.

Pensacola, Fla., Aug. 19—Ed Maddox and Emmett Parnas, both negroes, will be hanged tomorrow morning. Maddox shot and killed a white man in the county while Thomas was convicted of cutting the throat of a negress. Both appealed to the Supreme Court, but the latter upheld the decision of the lower court.

San Francisco, Aug. 19—Nat Weston, a negro, will be hanged tomorrow morning for murder committed in Alameda county. His execution had been fixed for June 11, but was postponed by Governor Johnson so that he might consider the application for clemency.

FRANK J. LINE RETURNS AFTER A LONG ABSENCE

A reunion practically took place when Frank J. Line, formerly of this city, but now of Forest, Ohio, returned to this city for a three weeks' vacation with his father, A. M. Line, brothers and sister, of East Front street. The young man, who has a host of friends throughout the city and borough, has been renewing acquaintances since his arrival. He is looking well and prosperous. Three years ago Mr Line left Plainfield to engage in business for himself in Forest, O. He is the owner of a five, ten and twenty-five cent store at the latter place, and is quite enthusiastic about the South and its possibilities.

Mr. Line's two brothers, Charles H. and Schuyler W. Line, are also visiting here at present. The former coming from Providence, R. I., and the latter enjoying his vacation from his studies at the Springfield Training School.

REV. DR. HARRY MC K. MOORE DROWNS AT LAMBERTVILLE

Trenton, Aug. 19.—The Rev. Dr. Harry McK. Moore, rector of St. Philip's Episcopal church, Philadelphia, was drowned yesterday in the Delaware River at Lambertville. Dr. Moore, his two sons, Harry McK., Jr., and James S., John Sine, Harold R. Fellows and James Fellows were on a canoe trip from Fort Deposit, N. Y., to Philadelphia. They reached Lambertville last night, and in two canoes left this morning to resume the trip to Philadelphia.

Soon after starting the canoeists attempted to shoot the Wells Falls, and both boats overturned. Dr. Moore seemed to be attacked by a cramp as soon as he tntered the water. His two sons seized him as he sank the first time and attempted to swim with him to shore, but he slipped from their grasp and went under. Five times they caught his body and each time were unable to hold it. The last time Dr. Moore sank and his body was swept over the falls and through the rapids.

Nearly exhausted the others made their way to shore and at once took charge of efforts to recover their father's body, but it had not been found up to a late hour. The current of the river runs strong below the falls.

Dr. Moore has a summer home at Point Pleasant, where his wife, is. She was notified by telegraph tonight of her husband's death. Dr. Moore was fifty-two years old.

JUSTICE HUGHES WOULD NOT BE A CANDIDATE

Trenton, Aug. 19—Associate Justice Charles E. Hughes, of the United States Supreme Court, emphatically has refused to permit his name to be considered as a candidate for the Republican nomination for President, according to a statement made yesterday by Edward C. Stokes, formerly Governor of New Jersey. Mr. Stokes says that Mr. Hughes wishes to set at rest for all time the idea that he might become a Presidential candidate, and he would decline even if nominated.

Justice Hughes wrote in reply to a letter sent him by Mr. Stokes a few days ago. Mr. Stokes suggested that Justice Hughes permit his name to be used on the broad ground of his availability, his duty to the country and because of the confidence the people had in him. Incidentally Mr Stokes, who is a personal friend of the justice and like him a graduate of Brown Universtiy, stated that a great number of the residents of New Jersey wished him to run for the Presidency.

Mr. Stokes' statement was accepted here as representing the unalterable decision of Justice Hughes. It was recalled that upon his appointment to the bench, Justice Hughes declared he never would become a candidate for an executive office, and that in 1912, he steadfastly resisted attempts of his friends to get him to become a candidate for the Republican nomination in the hope it would avert the threatened split in the party that took place after the nomination of President Taft.

SURF RIDING A POPULAR SPORT FOR EXCURSIONISTS

Two trains totaling sixteen cars and carrying nearly one thousand passengers left Plainfield this morning for Asbury Park for the annual excursion run by the Sunday-school of Warren chapel. On arrival at the shore resort more than three-quarters of the pleasure seekers greeted old Neptune and splashed in the surf. The most confident of their aquatic abilities were seen out beyond the ropes riding in on top of the big waves, one of the chief delights of the experienced swimmers. Surf riding is one of the most popular of water sports at the shore this year, many taking the surf board with them on their vacations. Although many novices at the art have succeeded in their first attempt at riding the waves, the sport is a difficult one for those who have not practiced it, inasmuch as a slight deviation of the path or the breaking of the wave may cause serious injury.

The committee in charge of the Warren outing this year comprised Joseph W. Gavett, chairman; Theodore Martin, George Hoagland, P. H. Lewis, Charles Herring, Andrew H. Stiglitz, Louis Stites and A. E. Causbrook.

U. S. ASTOR THEATRE

Whether or not the antics which won Frank Daniels undying fame in musical comedy would be effective on the screen may have been a question. But "Crooky Scroggs," to be shown for the first time in Plainfield this afternoon and tonight at the U. S. Astor Theatre, will answer the question in a decided affirmative. The Daniels style of humor is screamingly funny and it does not lose anything in the process of transferring it to the screen. The hands, the feet and the wonderfully mobile features of the celebrated comedian, not forgetting those famous eyebrows, all register perfectly.

"Crooky Scroggs" is a five-part V. L. S. E. blue ribbon feature produced by the Vitagraph Company with all the artistry for which that famous concern is noted. And with a comedian of Mr. Daniels' skill to carry the action along, it is safe to predict that the film will interest every lover of clean humor and engrossing drama in Plainfield. Mr. Daniels in his years on the stage made many friends and a good portion of them live here.

Paul West, who wrote "Crooky Scroggs," has been writing comedy many years. He calls this a comedy of errors and it surely is a comedy and a good one. Daniels plays the part of "Crooky," a convict who escapes and swaps identities with Col. Roberts, a wealthy ranchman. This starts the story and the action moves swiftly through numerous funny incidents.

Tomorrow afternoon and evening will be shown "Captain Courtesy" with Dustin Farnum in the leading role.

PLAINFIELD THEATRE

Do you remember the sentry in "Hamlet," who remarks in a very fine song as he paces his beat to and fro, "I think of things that would astonish you?" So moden audiences think of the most astonishing things. How a murderess feels when the police are on her track is one of the things you think about if you see "The Law of the Land," George Broadhurst's greatest success, which comes to the Plainfield Theatre on Saturday afternoon and night. Here is a well-bred woman who, in obedience to the emotion which causes any animal to defend its young, kills her husband as he is about to beat his child with a horse whip.

This makes her a murderess, and if the law gets her it will either send her to prison for life or kill her. During three acts this woman exists in anticipation of the policeman's clutch. Her sufferings are brought home to everybody by the exceptional acting of Adelaide French in the part. Miss French, better than most actresses, knows how to convey emotion by natural and restrained methods.

"I don't think I ever thought much about a murderer's feeling before seeing 'The Law of the Land,'" writes a New York reviewer, "and it has taught me that our law has quite overlooked the difference between murderers who are cultured, refined and not likely to make manslaughter a regular custom, from the treatment accorded the low-brow, unshaven, drug-driven criminal, who kills for purely brutal motives.

PROCTOR'S THEATRE

In the Bachelor's Romance," being presented this afternoon and this evening by Daniel Frohman at Proctor's Theatre, the moton picture patrons of this city has one of the most interesting sentimental comedy-dramas ever produced upon the screen. John Emerson is playing the leading role, supported by a strong cast, including such as Lorraine Huling, George LeGuere, Robert Cain and Sybilla Pope. The Cameron Sisters, well known vaudeville artists on the larger circuits, will appear in the Universal photo vaudeville this evening.

Ella Hall appears at the Proctor house tomorrow in a Universal four part drama, entitled "Heritage," a picture beyond compare. A comedy picture of unusual merit, with Billie Richie, the English comedian, entitled "The Rise and Fall of Officer 13," together with another episode of "The Romance of Elaine," are also included in the program for tomorrow.

Too much cannot be said about the Selig seven part production to appear at Proctor's, Monday afternoon and evening, "The Rosary." The usual prices will prevail for this picture, in which the acting is beyond compare—a play that is commended by those of every religious faith, a production that has wonderful scenic equipment and gorgeous lighting effects that cannot be described.

GIRL ATHLETES CHOOSE "P. E. G. S." AS THEIR TITLE

Members of the newly organized Plainfield Girls' Athletic Association held an enthusiastic meeting in the Plainfield High School gymnasium last night, Miss Clara Smith, president, presiding. From among several names submitted the letters "P. E. G. S."was selected. A discussion of the fall work was held, and a meeting called for Wednesday night, September 8.

Three new names were added to the list of members, thus making a total membership at the present time of seventeen. The young women who joined the organization last night were the Misses Bessie Morris, Dorothy Cameron and Dorothy Stengle.

'SMATTER WITH THE JUVENILE BALLISTS?

Parker Field With All Its Facilities Fails to Attract.

Enthusiasm on the part of local juvenile ballists has been noticeably lacking this season. This case has been especially evident at Parker Field, where every facility for the proper playing of the game has been advanced. Recently George W. Wriston, who has charge of the work there, obtained a new catcher's outfit, four or five bats and as many balls. Last year none of these things were as plentiful as they are now, and yet boys by the dozens flocked to the ball field.

Supervisor Wriston, when approached yesterday, stated that he has tried in every way to induce the boys to come out, and his efforts have met with little success. To be sure, the same band of youth come out daily, but they are getting tired of playing each other all the time. They want more opposition and they stop at nothing.

CLIFF RANDOLPH THE PACERS' BREADWINNER

The Perth Amboy papers continue to laud Cliff Randolph's playing. Here's what the News has to say:

"Randolph has been the bread winner for the Pacers and has certainly been pitching a classy article recently. The scores of his last four games have been: Pacers 8, Franklins 1; Pacers 5, Suburbans 1; Pacers Saints 1; Pacers 3, Franklins 1. He has had forty strike-outs in the four games. Got to give him credit."

Cliff has won nine games this season and lost five, while the club has a record of ten wins and twelve reverses, nine of the victories being the result of the local boy's work.

Not so long ago Cliff struck out twelve Giant regulars, and the Amboy papers predict that he will strike out as many Superbas, if they can be induced to visit that town some time in the middle of September.

October 19—State referendum election, and third registration day in municipalities of more than 5,000 people.

October 26—Third and final registration day in municipalities of less than 5,000 inhabitants.

November 2—General Election Day.

Despite the fact that this is considered an off year, things political are astir in Passaic county. Especially is this true in the ranks of the G. O. P., with regards the election this fall as of great importance because the offices to be filled in November include State Senator, sheriff, surrogate, five assemblymen and Mayor of Paterson. The Republicans are confident of victory because the Progressive party is practically dead.

There are a multiplicity of candidates on the Republican side for all the offices except surrogate. For the latter, Surrogate Frederick Beggs is believed to have a clear field for renomination and re-election. The only spirit displayed by the Democrats apparently is in the contest for State Senator, and they are firm in the belief that Senator Peter J. McGinnes stands an excellent chance of being re-elected.

The Republican candidates for the office are former Speaker Thomas F. McCran, former Assemblyman Edmund G. Stalter and James G. Blauvelt, a Progressive, who split the Republican vote three years ago, but who recently announced his return to the Republican fold.

County Collector Nathan R. Leavitt, who has left on an auto trip through the New England States, is going to make a flying trip from North Conway, N. H., to Elizabeth, Saturday, in order to be among the faithful on the annual outing of the Republican County Committee. He will leave the New Hampshire town Friday evening, will travel all night and arrive at the Grand Central station, New York, about 8:30 Saturday morning. He will motor from the Grand Central station to the Municipal ferry at the Battery, then through Staten Island and across the Staten Island Sound to the Recreation Pier. He says he expects to arrive in ample time for the big Republican get-together.

Keen interest is being manifested by the Republicans in the annual outing of the Republican County Committee, on Saturday, to Coney Island. Indications point to a big gathering of leaders and party workers, who will sail on the barge, Isabel, from the Recreation Pier, about 9 o'clock. The presence of a number of announced candidates for Governor and United States Senator which will be voted for in 1916, is expected to lend additional interest to the event.

The indications are that the general apathy regarding the Board of Excise on the part of Elizabeth Democrats will not be broken by an slate-making on the Democratic outing. Thus far, it would seem, the aspirants for the Board will have to make their own start. Of course, there is the very strong possibility of backing after the race is under way by those interests directly concerned in the licensing of saloons. As the time for filing petitions draws nearer the talk of a majority of the members of the present Board running is becoming more [illegible] In at least one instance, that of Commissioner Dunn, there seems to be little doubt that he will seek re-election.

The appointment of Arthur E. Lenox as a clerk in the office of the comptroller is considered by many as a concession for the Democrats. Concession obtained after a fight. That Nathan R. Leavitt tried hard to land Welt for the job there is no doubt. The appointment in some degree overcomes the much-criticised action of the Democratic members of the Sinking Fund who voted to place Mann, an outside man, in the position temporarily.

Belgians prepare to evacuate Brussels.

Plainfield, N. J., August 19, 1915.

The introduction of the jitney in this city has aroused more or less of a discussion as to what fixed rules for its regulation should be adopted. At first there was only one such bus operated here, and this was followed by a second one soon afterward and within the past three weeks at least five have been put in service between this city and Dunellen. They follow the tracks of the Public Service Corporation and in many instances plan to go ahead of a trolley car, picking up passengers, who under ordinary circumstances, would patronize the trolleys.

That the jitney has affected the business of the trolley between Plainfield and Dunellen is apparent, and the fact that they run often, make quicker time and are a convenience to the people is largely responsible for this condition. It would be interesting to know the exact money loss to the Public Service Corporation in this city as a result of the operation of these jitneys. It must be considerable. There is every reason to believe that the trolley company will decide upon some plan to meet this increasing competition, but as yet it has not shown its hand. The Newark Evening News in commenting on the subject says:

"Sooner or later, by one means or another, the New Jersey Utility Commission will probably be called upon to rule as to the propriety of admitting the jitneys to competitive service alongside of established street railways in this city and State. Should the attempt be made, it will then be incumbent upon the commission to consider very thoroughly its standards as to adequacy of service and to apply such standards by a definite and effective rule. Whether the jitneys would obtain the privilege of using the streets now served by the Public Service Railway would depend upon whether the commission's standards are at present met or are capable of being met by that corporation.

"For the present the main point to stress is that jitney service is in the experimental stage and that fixed rules for its regulation cannot, in fairness to all interests, be laid down at the start. Paramount, in the long run, will be the question of public convenience and necessity, however the answer may be worked out. As a supplement to established utilities, and also as a substitute for existing high-priced and insufficient hack service, the jitney seems to hold out the best promise of usefulness."

...y regarded, there are ...s of humanity in the ... and pagans—and the word Christian, in its sweeping terms, includes not church communicants alone, but every man, woman and child in the world who, in thought, training, association or inheritance, is Christian. When one realizes that nearly one-half the world is classed as Christian the full significance of the inability of Christ's followers to keep the peace of the world intact can be appreciated. Calculations from the figures of Gustav Sunborg, whose work is standard, show that the Christians in Great Britain number of 99.5 per cent. of the total population; in France, 99.4 per cent.! in Germany, 98.7 per cent., and in Russia, 91.3 per cent., while Belgium is 93.9 per cent. Christian. And these "Christian" nations are engaged in the most cold-blooded and scientific means of destroying their fellows! Is there any reason why the fingers of heathendom may not justly point at Christianized Europe and ask the question, "Wherein is your religion better than ours?"

The excursion of Warren chapel Sunday-school to Asbury Park today marks the last one of these enjoyable Sunday-school outings to the shore for this season. Despite the fickle summer weather experienced here, all of the excursions have been well patronized and have afforded much plasure to thousands of Plainfielders who look forward to these trips.

J. G. Woodward, Mayor of Atlanta, in declaring that Leo M. Frank suffered the "just penalty for an unspeakable crime" and advising former Governor Slaton not to return to Georgia for at least a year, has made himself the object of bitter attack. Such an official should be impeached.

DEMAND LITERACY TEST FOR FOREIGNERS

Sons of America Praise Burnett Bill and Attack Senator Martine.

Elizabeth, Aug. 19—The Patriotic Order of the Sons of America ended its twenty-seventh annual State convention here yesterday afternoon by passing unanimously a series or resolutions favoring an educational test for all foreigners who seek admission to this country. The resolutions praised the Burnett Immigration Bill and attacked bitterly Senator James E. Martine and others who had opposed successfully its passage.

The State legislative committee was instructed to obtain legislation permitting Grand Army posts to use their initials on flags put in cemeteries on Memorial Day.

James Hammond, of Trenton, who is a candidate for the Assembly, announced that if elected he would ask the Legislature to pass a bill making it compulsory for election officials to display the American flag from a pol in front of every voting place. The displaying of the flag by other methods was condemned.

Past State President James Wells, of Philadelphia, occupied a place on the speakers' platform at the afternoon session. These officers were chosen: President W. R. Brew, of Audubon; vice-president, Joseph Hibbert, of Trenton; State treasurer, George N. Wilmer, of Palmyra; State guard, Oliver Hoffman, of Frenchtown, and State trustee, Josiah J. Moser, of Belvidere.

Atlantic City was decided upon as the next meeting place for the annual camp.

Side-Cars

A side-car is a bathtub attached to the port side of a stuttering velocipede.

Anyone who needs a bath and hasn't time to take it at home can have one of these filled and soak in all of it that don't slop out while hubby or lover creeps along at about ninety miles an hour.

Our idea of away below zero in going somewhere is to travel in a side-car.

We would just as leave be placed in a bag and carried over somebody's shoulder.

If any child of ours—at least any male child—should ever be caught riding in a side-car, someone would have to do some quick grabbing and strong holding to prevent our committing kiddocide.

We fear we might forget ourself utterly and treat him just as if we caught him wearing a wrist watch or carrying a handkerchief in his sleeve.

When we buy a motorcycle and travel about over the country in it, we are going to start a window-garden in our side-car and raise our own vegetables en route.

One would be caught in enough rains, no doubt, to keep the plants properly watered.

Also, by running rapidly around in a circle, one could rotate one's crops, as all the agricultural journals say one must do.

Some people are of the side-car passenger type.

A lot of rich men's children go through life in a side-car, with father furnishing the gasolene or doing the pedalling.

Also a good many women ride a side-car with hubby propelling, and never wiggling a finger except to gouge father in the ribs to make him put on more speed.

We do not like the side-car-riding type of humanity.

It is a form of locomotion that should be confined to invalids and little children, both of whom had better travel in some other way.

A Rich Man's Pastime

More people would be economical if they could afford to.

Bone-Head

There's been a report going about that a certain Russian officer "received in a very short space of time ten thousand bombs on his front."

That can't beat the story of the Battle of Santiago, published by an American paper, in which it was stated that "Admiral Sampson had a very narrow escape. He was hit on the brow by a six-inch shell, which bounded off."

Careless Wording

At Sistersville, W. Va., is a card posted in each room of the Wells Hotel, saying:

"Turn off electric light when retiring, or a charge of twenty-five cents will be made."

Why not have said, in more scientific language, "Shut off the current before you get charged."

Didn't Know It Worked Both Ways

A little girl in Ottawa, Ill., after having been stung by a bee, stood weeping and scratching the resultant welt.

"I knew," she wailed, "that they kept bees in hives, but I didn't know they kept hives in bees."

Good Argument

The revenue from the liquor traffic is absolutely necessary to the maintenance of a government. That is why the great European nations, when confronted with a bankrupting war debt, stopped the liquor business.

The Bumptious Thing!

We view with alarm that a Neufchatel editor made a violent attack, in print, on Germany, and that said editor was court-martialed by the Germans occupying the town. This Neufchatel editor must have thought he was the whole cheese! He didn't give Edam for—O very well!

HEALTH TALKS
by WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

Rheumatisn't

OUR original spelling more nearly expresses the truth than the old word rheumatiz, in the average case.

Rheumatism doesn't mean a thing any more. A doctor calls it rheumatism when he isn't quite sure just what is the matter. Of course, there's the acute rheumatic fever, which is an acute germ invasion of many joints. But all of the old chronic cases of joint lameness or disease are one or another kind of specific germ infection, having no more to do with dampness, exposure and the like than any other chronic ailments have.

If you are a victim of so-called chronic rheumatism you must be an easy-going person; your curiosity must be very weak or your faith in mere words very strong, for certainly the diagnosis "rheumatism" will never help to cure you.

If we had such a diagnosis wished on us we should ask the doctor to explain just what he meant. It is the doctor's business, these days, to find out what is causing the lame joints, to determine where the portal of entry for the infection is situated and to do something to stop the poisoning. There is no drug or combination of drugs, nor is there any known method which will give more than temporary or symptomatic relief for "rheumatism"; that is, there is no line of treatment particularly beneficial for chronic joint disease unless the type and mode of infection is determined in each individual case.

Uric acid theories are utterly impracticable, and alleged eliminators of uric acid are useless in the treatment of the conditions grouped under this meaningless title, rheumatism.

Nose, throat, tonsils, gums, appendix, gall-sac, pelvis—somewhere, in every case of joint infection, there is a known or unknown focus of infection, some chronic or recent lesion, a depot of poison, which must be cleaned up before permanent relief for the affected joints can be expected.

Rheumatiz? Climate? Exposure? Weather?

No!

Call it depotism and clean up the depot.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Neuritis

Will you kindly tell me whether neuritis is the same as rheumatism? asks Mrs. R. Also the cause of neuritis.

Answer—With some people it is much the same—a name to cover any old pain, or any new pain, almost. Neuritis is inflammation of some one or more nerves. Injury, auto-toxemia, certain infections like malaria or typhoid, alcohol, lead, arsenic (chronic poisoning), and finally over-use of the part supplied by the nerve.

Answer—No.

Breathing Exercise For Women

Months ago you described certain breathing exercises for the relief of periodic pain. Our two daughters suffer greatly from this trouble and I would be grateful if you will repeat the directions.

Answer—The patient lies on her back, with knees flexed, arms at sides, right hand resting on abdomen. She tries how high she can lift the hand by taking a slow, deep breath; then how low it will fall as she contracts the abdominal muscles during expiration. Repeat ten times, night and morning, every day, faithfully. It cures.

AMERICAN UNIVERSITIES—KANSAS

THE University of Kansas is located at Lawrence, which was once a peaceful, happy village with nothing worse than Quantrell's raiders to contend with. Now the Greek letter fraternities barbecue freshmen all over the city and the old inhabitants who remember the massacre shake their heads and declare that the world is growing steadily worse.

The University is located on a high hill from which $1,000,000 worth of wheat can be viewed in season and has a campus so large that the professors play golf on it. It was founded about fifty years ago, has over 2,600 students and gets as much money from the State each year as it would get from a $15,000,000 endowment fund put out at interest. Part of this money is spent in building stone buildings of large acreage and part of it goes in the production of lawyers, engineers, doctors, poets and newspaper men. The Kansas school of journalism is very enterprising and no student would hesitate to burn a barn to provide news on a dull day.

Kansas students are very lively and do not depend on traditions for amusement. They think nothing of getting up an entirely new set of traditions each fall. Their only permanent ambition is to beat Missouri each year in football and when an alumnus does not turn up at the annual game his class sends resolutions of respect to the widow. Twisting the Missouri tiger's tail and teasing the Wyoming dinosaur in the museum are the two great Kansas adventures.

The students of Kansas have none of the advantages of the great eastern schools. The state is totally dry and the only way for a student to become nobly wicked is to drink buttermilk with red pepper in it. However, this does not seem to have undermined the constitutions of Kansas graduates. They are an unusually successful bunch, and when Old Bill White and Bill Borah and Herb Hadley and Freddie Funston and other arc lights of the present get together, they give the famous "Rock Chalk, Jay Hawk" yell with a skill produced by many years of practice.

Once a peaceful, happy village with nothing worse than Quantrell's raiders to contend with

Views Of The Press

Rocky Mountain National Park

THE Department of the Interior calls the attention of those who are seeing America this summer to the fact that this is the first season under Government control of the "stupendous, snowcapped mountain ridge of Colorado, the 'Top of the World,' the great backbone of the continent, now and hereafter to be designated the Rocky Mountain National Park."

This Alpine wonderland, seventy miles northwest of Denver, about thirty hours ride from Chicago, has long been known to tourists, some fifty thousand, including many campers, having visited it last year. Secretary Lane took formal possession on the first of the present month, under an act of Congress of the last session. The reservation lies on either side of the Continental Divide, its crest being about fourteen thousand feet above sea level, and its lowest plateaus about eight thousand feet. The outlook embraces some sixty peaks and two hundred lakes. Contrary to what might be supposed, it is not a barren region, but well timbered and rich in plant and animal life. Mountain sheep, comparable to the chamois of the Alps, range in the upper regions. Here, too, perhaps, although the official description neglects to mention it, the gay giascutus once had its habitat, that curious little creature whose right legs were shorter than its left ones, enabling it to climb mountains with surprising speed, by running around them spirally.

This makes the thirteenth scenic reservation to be acquired by the Government, in various parts of the country, as pleasure grounds for all the people, under the policy inaugurated in the act of 1872 establishing the Yellowstone Park. The visitors to these parks aggregate nearly a quarter-million every year. With the new Rocky Mountain Park, and the unusual volume of tourist traffic, it is probable that at least three hundred thousand people will enjoy these Government playgrounds this summer.—Presbyterian Journal.

The PEOPLE'S LEGAL FRIEND
by E. R. BRANSON

The Heir In A Will

Q. Where the word "heir" is used in a will, what is the legal meaning and effect of the word?

A. In the absence of any proof to the contrary, the word will have the same meaning as when used in its ordinary legal sense—that is, it will mean the person who would be entitled, under the law, to inherit the real estate of one who died without making a will. It may be shown, however, that the testator—the person making the will—had in mind some one else when he used the word "heir." In such case, if the testator's intention can be clearly shown, such intention will be carried out by the courts.

Peddler's License

Q. Please tell me why it is that a peddler is required to take out a license.

A. Because, as a general rule, the business of peddling is a proper subject of police regulation.

Company's Liability

Q. I have been asked to become a member of a joint stock company and am thinking of doing so, but I have been told that the members are held individually responsible for any indebtedness on the part of the company. Is this true?

A. The members of a joint stock company are liable for all the debts of the company, and every member is personally liable, unless the statutes of the state in which the company was organized have provided otherwise.

When A Fellow's Broke

Q. Will you kindly tell me what a judgment note is?

A. A judgment note is a written admission of indebtedness and is usually in the form of an ordinary promissory note. It contains a power of attorney which authorizes the person so appointed to confess judgment for the amount specified in the note. There is also frequently a provision with respect to an attorney's fee for services in obtaining the judgment and it is customary to insert a clause in the note providing that there shall be no appeal. Other conditions are also sometimes annexed.

What Is A Highway?

Q. I want to ask (1) what constitutes, in law, a highway and (2) whether a bridge is a highway.

A. (1) Every thoroughfare used by the public is a highway. (2) A public bridge is a highway.

A Case Of Misrepresentation

Q. My landlord made certain false statements concerning the property which I am now occupying as his tenant. This was two months ago. When he made these statements I had not signed the lease or taken possession of the property. I did not know then that what he said was untrue, and I relied upon his word and signed the lease. Since then I have discovered that there was no truth in what he said and if I had known, at that time, facts that have since come to light, I would not have rented the place. What can I do about it?

A. If the landlord made false and fraudulent statements to you, of a material nature, and you were thereby induced to enter into the lease, you have the right to tell him that you will not be bound by the lease, and you may give up possession of the property to him. If he should then bring suit against you, you would have a good defence.

A Limited Lease

Q. I have heard it said that, where a tenant has a lease for a period under two years, the law forbids him to assign it without the landlord's consent. Is this true?

A. It is true in some states.

On The Way To Reno

Q. Please tell me whether desertion is a ground for divorce in the State of Washington.

A. Yes, if there has been a voluntary abandonment, without consent or justification and with no intention to return, and the desertion continues for the period of one year.

The Man Who Decides to Take a Later Train

We scurry around helping him find his hat and gloves. We stand on the step and wave him off. And then—just as we're sitting down to recover our lost breath—he turns up, again! "I decided I could take that later train, after all," he announces, ingenuously confident of our delight. We bring a counterfeit smile to our lips. Half an hour before, we should have been genuinely delighted if he had decided to take the later train; in fact we urged him to. But now—now that we've lost our breath helping him get off! Surely the man doesn't expect us to feel the same delight, now, that we should have felt if he hadn't let us waste our efforts and our smiling good-byes on him. And perhaps, deep down in us, those smiling good-byes hurt most; his coming back somehow caricatures them—makes them dance before us as so many useless grimaces. But our changeable friend sees none of our resentfulness. He'll never die from over sensitiveness.

He laugh's a guffaw.

Daddy's Bedtime Story— The Monkey And the Tiger.

He dropped right upon the tiger's back.

"ONCE a monkey and a tiger had the queerest time in the jungle that you ever heard of," said daddy.

"Oh, tell us about it, daddy!" cried the children.

"Well," answered daddy, screwing his jolly face up real hard so as to think of the story, "it was this way, kiddies: There was a very ferocious tiger that lived in the jungle over in that hot country, Africa. 'Ferocious' is a big word, so I must explain that it means 'fierce' and ill tempered. It is a state of mind that makes it unsafe for others to be around, and this is just the way that naughty tiger was. When he roamed through the jungle the other animals kept pretty well out of his way because they did not want to be torn and eaten, and they treated him with respect, all but the impish monkey.

"The impish monkey, you see, has no respect for anybody, and he hadn't any for the tiger. He refused to recognize the tiger's dignity.

"When the tiger walked haughtily through the jungle the monkey, away up in his tree and safe from the cruel claws of the tiger, would gibber at him and make faces, and I suppose he said something like this:

"'Hello, you great big striped thing! I suppose that you think you amount to a great deal, don't you? But I don't think you're so very much. You look awfully homely to me.'

"The tiger stood it for awhile without showing his resentment because the monkey was so small that it seemed like a loss in dignity for so big a fellow to notice him. But by and by it got on that tiger's nerves.

"He just roared with rage and dashed toward the tree, while the monkey sat upon a lower branch making terrible faces and uttering teasing remarks. But by the time the tiger reached the tree the monkey was safe in the upper branches and laughing harder than ever, for he knew now that he had succeeded in annoying the tiger, and this pleased his teasing spirit.

"So it went for quite awhile, till one day the tiger just hung around under that tree, hoping that the monkey would grow too venturesome and furnish a meal for his majesty.

"Then that monkey did a daring thing. He dropped right out of the tree fair upon the tiger's back, up near his neck, where he couldn't get at him, and clawed into his fur.

"Well, it scared that tiger so that you should have seen him run! He ran through the jungle like mad, with the monkey hanging to his back, and after awhile the monkey jumped off and ran up a tree, and the other animals laughed at the tiger that had been so badly scared by a little eenty-teenty bit of a monkey."

Glimpses of Married Life

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

"So you've been reading my letters? Well, you must take the consequences." Dick threw himself sullenly into the hammock.

"What consequences?" asked Nell. There was mutiny in her tone.

"You've saddled yourself with an uncessary worry, one I meant to save you from."

"You mean you did not intend I should know you had thrown your money away," she complained.

"Look here, Nell, it was someone of your complexion that wanted an allowance so you could have some money of your own that you could spend or save, so that you could be extravagant or saving, and have no questions asked. I gave you that allowance and you admitted it was a liberal one. I have kept my side of the contract and you must live up to yours."

"You mean——" began Nell.

"I mean you can not logically have anything to say about the way I spend my share of the money," continued Dick.

"Spend, yes," countered Nell, lamely, "but you have thrown it away."

Dick groaned. "If I made cigar lighters of my share you could not say anything."

"How absurd! Just because I have an allowance, that gives you a right to throw away your money. You know, Dick Morton, I'm very economical. I do without hundreds of things I want. I weigh and hesitate over every expenditure for fear I'll make a mistake, and you have spent heaven only knows how much on those oil shares, and at least $40 on assessments, pouring good money after bad."

"Are you through reciting your martyrdoms?" snapped Dick. "I suppose you imagine I derived some peculiar pleasure from purchasing those oil shares. I know we have to save way past the point of comfort and I hoped to be able to add a little to our income, but as all investments have an element of risk, I did not tell you about it. Women are poor losers. I thought if I gained you would have a pleasant surprise, and if I lost, you would be none the wiser."

"Dick, that's gambling," exclaimed Nell, aghast.

"In the sense that all life's a gamble, yes."

"These get-rich-quick schemes are never safe," affirmed Nell, with the air of an authority.

"Plenty of hard-headed men went into this oil developing company. Father took ten shares."

"Dick, did you get your old father mixed up in this?" Nell showed signs of tears.

"I wonder your mother approved."

"Mother knows nothing of it, and you see that you carry her no information. It was father's own money, a little legacy from his brother. He took ten shares for the baby, his namesake, you see."

"Dear old father," sighed Nell.

"It was very dear and thoughtful of him and foolish and wicked on my part," snorted Dick. "All a man can do is to use his best judgment. I certainly did what seemed to me at the time a wise thing. Even you will admit I might have been actuated by unselfish motives."

"Even you," repeated Nell, with a pained expression. "You talk as if I of all people were unreasonable and hard on you."

"Well, you certainly have been anything but helpful. You'll have to admit that I'm half crazy with worry and you jump on me with both feet."

Nell put her handkerchief to her eyes. "Forgive me, Dick. I'm sorry I was mean." She reached out her hand and Dick squeezed it.

"Let's say nothing more about it, dear," he sighed.

Household Hints

THINGS WORTH KNOWING

If sink is too low for washing dishes in comfort, try this plan, it saves tired backs: Take four slats long enough to reach across from back to front of sink, say two one way and two another, forming a double cross, and join them securely. Set the dish pan on this cross when washing dishes and avoid stooping so much.

Making Old Sink and Bathtub Like New—Cleanse thoroughly with soda or lye, wipe dry; with paint brush paint with glue such as is used for sizing; let dry; give two coats of white paint, letting one coat dry before giving the other. Sandpaper lightly, then give good coat of white enamel. Let stand several days before using. Looks as good as new and will last many a long day.

THE TABLE

Baked Salmon—One can salmon, one egg, one cup sweet milk, one large tablespoon melted butter, six crackers rolled fine. Beat egg and add milk. Shred salmon fine, removing bones and skin. Mix together the egg, milk, salmon, cracker crumbs and melted butter. Season with salt and put in baking dish. Cover top with bread crumbs and bake one-half to three-fourths hour.

Heart Fingers — Procure two pounds small hearts—about one pound in each. Cut in strips like your finger, boil half hour in salted water with an onion cut in. Lift out, wipe dry, roll in cracker crumbs, dip in egg, again in crumbs. Put two spoons lard, one of butter, in frying pan; have grease very hot, then fry the strips nice and brown. Set six wheat biscuits in oven to brown; make gravy after fingers have fried, lay biscuit on platter, pour gravy over them, lay fingers over and around, then hard-boiled eggs cut in strips. Dot with pepper, serve with mashed potatoes.

Yellow Cake—Two cups sugar, one-half cup butter, one cup sweet milk, three cups flour, three eggs, three teaspoons baking powder, flavor to taste. By using the whites of four eggs you have a delicious white cake.

Veal Salad—Two pounds finely chopped veal; tie up in a cloth and boil until tender; when done set in cool place. Salt while boiling. Take as much chopped celery and cabbage as meat, using two-thirds celery and one-third cabbage. Mix well together, then pour on it a mayonnaise dressing and stir until the mixture is all moistened. Cut up two hard-boiled eggs and mix them in. Serves twenty-five persons. Mayonnaise Dressing: Yolks of eleven eggs beaten lightly, one-half cup cream, one cup sugar, one tablespoon salt, one tablespoon pepper. Mix all together. Boil 1½ pints vinegar, stir into above mixture, stir constantly until it thickens. Put in jars and let cool. While cooking add a little celery seed. Keep in cool place. Makes three pints.

CANNING AND PRESERVING

Sweet Pickles—Eight pounds fruit, four pounds best brown sugar, one quart vinegar, one cup mixed whole spices—stick cinnamon, cassia buds, allspice and cloves (less of the latter than of the former). Tie spices in a bag and boil with the vinegar and sugar. Skim well; then add fruit. Cook ten minutes, or till scalded and tender. Skim out fruit and put into stone jars. Boil the sirup five minutes longer and pour over the fruit. The next day pour off the sirup and boil down again, and do this for three mornings. Keep the bag of spices in the sirup.

Extra Fine Chopped Pickle—One quart ripe tomatoes, three quarts green tomatoes, one medium-sized head cabbage, three bunches celery, six green peppers, three red peppers, six onions. Chop fine all these ingredients, add one-half cup salt and let stand over night. In the morning drain well and add three pints vinegar, one and one-half pounds sugar, two teaspoons black pepper, one heaping teaspoon dry mustard and one-half pound raisins. Cooke one and one-half hours. Place in a jar or glass cans. It will keep for years.

This Is the Land.

By Dennis A. McCarthy.

This is the land where hate should die—
No feuds of faith, no spleens of race,
No darkly brooding fear should try
Beneath our flag to find a place.
Lo! Every people here has sent
Its sons to answer freedom's call;
Their lifeblood is the strong cement
That builds and binds the native wall
This is the land where hate should die—
Though dear to me my faith and shrine,
I serve my country best when I
Respect the creeds that are not mine.

He little loves his land who'd cast
Upon his neighbor's faith a doubt
Or cite the wrongs of ages past
From present rights to bar him out.
This is the land that hate should die—
This is the land where strife should cease,
Where foul, suspicious fear should fly
Before the light of love and peace.
Then let us purge from poisoned thought
That service to the State we give,
And so be worthy as we ought
Of this great land in which we live.

Undermining the Child's Courage.

By Anne H. Quill.

This is begun by the mothers where she tells him that the big bow-wow will get him if he cries, and if it should happen to thunder at the time of one of these little domestic storms, and she exclaims, "There! What did I tell you? Now will you be a good boy?" The result is, the child is afraid of dogs and afraid of thunder.

Then she keeps him in a constant fear of death by disease, or mishap of some sort; if he gets his feet wet, he will get sick and die; if he climbs a tree, he will fall and get killed; and so it goes, on and on, until one wonders if she has a single pleasant thing to say to the unfortunate child. To make a child fear death is wicked; he does not understand it, and the fear of it is horrible

To make such remarks in the presence of a child has a lasting effect on the child's courage "I hate this gloomy old house, it is positively spooky!" "I don't dare go out after dark alone!" "I'm afraid to go through the woods, I have a horrible fear of wild beasts!" "Don't go near that cow; she'll hook you with those great horns."

Instead of helping the child to be strong and brave, she makes him afraid of everything He cannot go upstairs alone after dark, or go to sleep without a light, and if left alone in a dark room, is convulsed with fear, and sees things in every corner.

I have heard parents complain because their children appeared dull, bashful and hung back when other children went about fearlessly and seemed bright and smart. The difference was of their own making, they had undermined the child's courage and soon made a hopeless coward of him.

The Value of Play.

Self improvement societies that tried to find the best way to live have never discovered anything more valuable than play.

A man may shake up a continent by his energy, or build kingdoms by his brains, but, so far as his personal life is concerned, he has been a failure if he has not learned to play. Play, of course, is not confined to games. It may be a walk in the woods, a row on the river, a sail on the lake; to some, tending their garden; to others, chopping wood. To play is to follow the irresponsible inclination which gives the most pleasure with the least mental strain and bodily wear.

Ideal play is a brief period of carefree living snatched from the regular routine. It is enjoying the pleasure of being alive; it is absorbing from the earth and air and sun without conscious effort. More and more we are trying to teach the children how to play, but we do not know ourselves. We send our children to the public playground, and go on ourselves getting heavy and gloomy and nervous. We shall be happier if we alter this.—Answers, London.

Mother's Pension.

The mother's pension, recently granted by New Jersey, is not a charity. It is justice to childhood economy of the State and given for service rendered, just as the soldier service is recognized. Charity has nothing to do with it. The mothers are not to be classed with paupers, for no court should grant the pension to mothers who come under that category.

Scattered Sport Gleanings

IT TAKES 286 POUNDS TO DO THIS.

According to a rumor sent on its way by a 286-pound news gatherer, Bob Fitzsimmons, one-time champion pugilist, is aching for an invitation to accompany one "Teddy" Roosevelt on a lion hunt. The truth of the matter is that "Lanky Bob" has his time too well occupied trying to keep the wolves from the door to bother with lions these days. Come again, hefty, that stuff may be appetizing enough in Metuchen but it sure does give the digesters of real sporting news an awful stomach ache.

WE'RE STILL LOYAL TO MISSOURI

Further carrying out the general belief that Middlesex county is a fit place for the birth of news' fakes that wouldn't hold water in a flood a Brunswick scribe informs the poor public that the feminine athletic talent from that town leads the State's parade. The one best way to prove this assertion would be to ship a carload of the best that grows down that way to the Parker Field girls' meet next month. There are still some few of us who leave nothing to the intelligence of the reader.

WHY NOT LET THE STARS SHINE?

If New Brunswick really does harbor such a phenomenal supply of athletic talent sporting hair ribbons we're at a loss to understand just what happens to it when the Plainfield and North Plainfield High School feminine basketballers go "a-campaigning."

WOULDN'T HE LOOK CUTE?

Jack Fritts, who is considered to be a fair to middlin' athletes as athletes go, has asked us to find some way for him to put his talent to good use at the girlies' affair Labor Day. Don't know how it can be done, Jackie, unless you don skirts for the afternoon.

A CHANCE FOR SOME FIGURING.

Inasmuch as the Federal League has set a ten-cent value on the calibre of baseball being played on its circuit we've been having the time of our lives trying to fix a valuation for that City League sport. If baseball is to be judged by the money taken in at the turnstiles the local stuff will be worth just about 33 per cent. more than the outlaw variety.

Just by way of providing a little entertainment as a summer climax why not stage that much abused swimming meet in the High School pool this Labor Day? If numbers is to be taken as an indication of popularity the school tank is certainly fulfilling a long felt need. Some good talent is also being unearthed during the nightly practises.

It's pretty near time for the basketball bug to start its buzzing in these parts. Enthusiasm that has made itself felt to-date gives promise of one of the most active epochs in the history of the popular indoor game this fall.

BASKETBALL OUTLOOK EXCEEDINGLY BRIGHT

Many Teams Will Appear On Local Courts This Season.

Johnny Dawe, manager of this year's N. P. H. S. basketball squad, is beginning to arrange his schedule and has already written to the managers of several scholastic clubs. He has received a reply from the head of the Westfield High School forces and, as a result, a game will be played with that team early in the coming season.

The local Tabs will put a five on the courts this winter. Art Kyle, Frank Brennan, Jim McCarthy, Jim Scott, Joe Geary, Eddie Sullivan and the Denny brothers are likely candidates for positions.

The Columbus Club five will also get into action this winter. Bill Sullivan, Johnny Wilson and George Linke are all on edge for the start. Besides, two new men intend entering the club.

The Orioles, a colored clan, have signified their intention of placing a team in the race while Gates' boys can be counted in also.

Carlton Dunham, Bill Wheelan, Sheldon Coudray and Bob Brower may be considered the nucleus of a fine P. H. S. squad.

FOUL RIDING FAILS TO STOP CHAMPION

Frank Kramer Now Within Two Points of Goullet In Title Points.

Newark, N. J., Aug. 18.—By winning the one-mile national championship bicycle race at the Newark Velodrome last night Champion Frank Kramer added five points to the total he has secured in the titular series, which have been running all season. Kramer is now within two points of Alf Goullet, the Australian contender for the title held by Kramer.

Foul riding and rough riding made Kramer's task a hard one. In the semi-final, in which Goullet was eliminated by the champion, the Australian ran Kramer off the track on the last lap, which gave him a lead of ten lengths, 220 yards from the finish. Kramer put up a wonderful sprint and caught Goullet ten feet from the tape, winning by less than a foot.

WHITE SOX BALLISTS TO MEET THE HIGHLANDERS

The White Sox and the Highlanders will cross bats on the Emerson avenue field, Sunday. Inasmuch as a game between Casey Lambertson's All Stars and the Highlanders has already been arranged, it looks as though the fans are going to get a "Federal League" dish.

Butler and Gleason will likely compose the White Sox battery, while Anthony Stebor may attempt an "Iron man" stunt.

The White Sox and the Highlanders were scheduled to meet once before, but rain interfered.

FRANK LEE'S ABILITY IS WORTHY OF COMMENT

It is the opinion of a number of local athletic promoters in this city that Frank Lee, the Scotch Plains athlete, ought to register in the A. A. U. The case with which he carried off the individual point winner's cup at the "community picnic" has given rise to the opinion. He has an unusual athletic build and can hurl the 16-pound weight much farther than several local athletes can throw the twelve-pound shot.

In the running high jump he cleared 5 feet 2 inches with apparently no effort, while the best his opponents could do in that line was 4 feet 7 inches. He is also a football and baseball player of no mean ability.

A Pastime A. C. man watched him work a week or so ago and intimated that he may report him to that club.

TRAPSHOOTERS IN HANDICAP.

Chicago, Aug. 19—The Grand American Handicap, the big event of the trapshoot tournament, is under way today, and the best trapshooters of the country are competing. The event is one of 100 targets, unknown angles.

Because it has had some use, and is, therefore, "second-hand," may not greatly impair its usefulness to you. So watch the "For Sale" ads.

SNODGRASS "CANNED" BY JOHNNY McGRAW

Unconditional Release Handed to Veteran Giant—May Go to Boston.

Manager John J. McGraw, of the Giants, announced before yesterday's game at the Polo Grounds that he had given an unconditional release to Fred Snodgrass, who has been playing with the team since 1909. As soon as Snodgrass received his notice he opened negotiations with Manager Herzog, of the Reds, subject to the approval of President Tener.

Manager McGraw would not deny that waivers had been asked on Meyers and Marquard. When the question was put to the Giants' leader he said he had nothing to say. Regarding the case of Benton, who pitched for the Prates, McGraw said he was awaiting word from the National League committee in Boston.

Herzog, stating his side of the Benton case, said he did not know that the Giants had an option on the pitcher and he had sold the pitcher to the Pirates for $4,000, which had been paid over to President Herrmann. Herzog ridiculed the report that he had received an offer to manage the Baltimore Terrapins. Herzog said he was under an ironclad contract to manage the Reds next year.

Snodgrass went to the Giants in 1908, after making quite a record as a catcher and a batsman in college baseball circles on the coast. He did little catching for the Giants, but ultimately worked his way into the outfield, and up to this season he had been a regular for the greater part of six seasons. He played center field for the Giants throughout the pennant winning campaigns of 1911-12-13, and in the world's series games of these years. He showed versatility in his play and was substitute first baseman whenever Merkle was unable to play.

ROD AND REEL

The fishing in Barnegat Bay has been very poor for the past week. Any party expecting to catch more fish than they can carry will be very much disappointed. Bluefish are scarce articles in the bay, but there is an abundance of crabs, and they can clean up the bait pretty well, but they don't equal the balloon fish. These pests gather close to the fishing boats, and before the bait is ten feet from the fisherman they have the hook cleaned.

New Jersey has again set a fishing record that has startled the angling world, and anglers throughout the country are discussing the news. It is nothing more or less than the catching of Atlantic salmon with a spoon. Nothing more or less means a great deal, as never before has an Atlantic salmon been known to be captured on artificial bait. The successful angler was C. B. Norton, of East Orange, and the lure was made here in Newark by Fred Jadull, of Koenig's, and is called the Golden Spoon, a name given it by the writer before it was offered for sale. Year in and year out salmon fishermen have been trying to make this king of sporting fish take artificial bait in the shape of a spoon, but they have been unsuccessful. Norton, on seeing the Golden Spoon for the first time, decided that it looked good for salmon fishing, and if anything would make the strike it would be this Newark bait, and three did strike, weighing three, five and seven pounds when landed in the boat. Norton has just returned from Nova Scotia, where he spent several weeks fishing.

Reports from Lake Hopatcong indicate that the bass fishing has been a trifle slow there recently. One angler came in yesterday after a week of it, and said that the fish were beginning to bite again. He had rather poor luck, having several days when not more than one or two fish were caught. His best catch during a week's fishing was a two and a quarter pound small-mouth bass.

Raritan Bay is more or less deserted these days, as most of the anglers with power boats are heading for the vicinity of Sandy Hook, where the catches have been plentiful within the last week or so.

Don't put that salt-water fishing rod away, as there will be use for it in September. The morning's mail brings information that great schools of weakfish are gathering off Montauk Point and that just as soon as they begin to move south, about Labor Day, we will get a chance at them in Raritan and Sandy Hook bays.

Pickerel and bass are reported to be biting well in the Pompton Lake region.

One local fisherman says there is a run of seabass on the outside grounds.

TRY A PRESS WANT AD.

and he showed fourteen of them that he got Sunday. The bass ranged from one to four and a half pounds. He also had three small blackfish.

There was a big fleet of boats off Sandy Hook Sunday, and, while many of them were after fluke, there was a crowd out from the Highlands for some of the croakers that have been so plentiful out there recently.

The fishing at the Klondike Banks from the steamer Taurus Monday was splendid, the catches ranging from ten to fourteen seabass.

BIG CROWD EXPECTED AT FINAL BALL MATCH

For the fifth time this season the Plainfield Juniors will try conclusions with the Dunellen Boy Scouts on Maurer Oval, Dunellen, Saturday. This will positively be the last time the two teams will meet as the locals have all the rest of their dates filled. Barnes, a former Westfield catcher, will do the receiving for the Juniors, who will have "Sid" Butler in the box. Lohsen, the ex-Saurer recruit, will adorn second, while "Rip" Haberman will mingle with the grounders in the region of third and V. Mullin intends attacking things around short. Semer will tend to the initial sack duties. The outfield work has been placed in the care of Randolph, Trotter and Cohen.

Maskell and Eder will be in the points for the Scouts, with Lewis held in reserve.

As the Scouts are the representative team of the nearby village, they have a large, enthusiastic following many of whom have signified their intention of taking in Saturday's argument.

WHITE SOX NOTES.

"Think" Miller, the speedy right fielder of the White Sox, has been persuaded to handle the reins of that organization.

V. Mullin was hit in the face by a batted ball in the White Sox-Farmer tilt. The wallop necessitated his retiring from the game for fully 20 minutes.

Boos fielded unusually well at second, mowing down everything that came his way.

"Sid" Butler exhibited his usual brand of speed and his opponents certainly realized it.

SEEK PERMIT FOR BONDS.

Columbus, O., Aug. 19.—Two applications will come before the Ohio Utilities Commission today, in connection with the proposed sale of $3,340,000 in bonds by the Lake Erie and Pittsburgh Railway Company. The railway asks permission to issue and sell the bonds, and the New York Central, which controls the railroad, applies for authority to guarantee the interest and principal of the issue. The new bonds are to run for fifty years at five per cent.

MISS DOBBINS DECLARED SANE.

Trenton, Aug. 19—Miss Margaret Dobbins, daughter of the late John P. Dobbins, was declared sane yesterday by Vice-Chancellor Backes, who refused to name the girl's stepmother as guardian. Dobbins, who was killed a few weeks ago by a motorcycle near his summer home in Belmar, left an estate worth nearly $200,000 and it is said the daughter of his first wife will inherit the major portion. His widow asked the court to adjudge the girl insane and make her the guardian. A trustee will be named for Miss Dobbins, at her own request.

HE HAS A HABIT OF SAVING LIVES

Morris Block's Act In Saving Woman Bather at Keansburg Commended.

FRIENDS SEEK A MEDAL

Plainfield Man Has Brought Three Women to Safety After They Have Been Threatened With a Grave In Davy Jones' Locker.

Friends of Morris Block, one of Morris Abrams' genial shoe salesmen, are today circulating a petition with a view to enabling the Plainfield man to get a hero's medal and recognition from the trustees of the Andrew Carnegie fund for a feat he performed on the beach at Keansburg yesterday, when he saved Mrs. John Hinchcliff, of New York city, from a watery grave. Block, together with a party of Plainfield friends, was indulging in his bath of the season, that is, his first bath in the open, at the bathers' rendezvous on the Jersey beach. He was swimming far out beyond the ropes when he heard a woman calling for help, and as he looked around he saw the fingers of two hands disappear below the water's surface.

Block, being a strong swimmer, reached the spot in a couple of long strokes, just as Mrs. Hinchcliff, who tips the scales at 195 pounds made her appearance for the second time. The woman made a lunge at Block's throat, but he was fortunate enough to ward off the blow and secured a grip on the back of her bathing suit. He brought the woman back to the ropes and clung to them until he could get a better hold on her. In the meantime hundreds of other bathers flocked to the scene of the near drowning, and willing hands soon stretched the woman on the sand. Block stood nearby, little the worse for his experience.

As soon as she had again regained her strength the woman startled the big group of curious onlookers by making another lunge at her rescuer's throat. Block is a little fellow, and some fear was momentarily entailed for his safety should the woman get a firm grip on him. The fears of the throng were soon allayed, however, when it was seen that Mrs. Hinchcliff wanted only to hug and kiss her benefactor. Block, who blushingly remarked that he wasn't used to this treatment, finally made a getaway. Last night officers of the United States Volunteer Life Saving Corps hunted the Plainfielder up and put his act on record. Mrs. Hinchcliff is known to have made a copy of his name and address, and has promised to add more substantial reward to the hugs and kisses in the near future.

This is not the first instance in which Block, who is a Spanish War veteran, has distinguished himself in the water. Five years ago, together with Detective - Sergeant George Bolmer of the Newark police force, he rescued two women from drowning in the lake of a Newark park. Despite the prominence he has attained in going to the rescue of the fair sex, Block is still unknown to the marriage license bureau.

Mrs. Hinchcliff, who is summering at Keansburg, is an expert swimmer, and daily indulges in long swims. She was seized with cramps while in the water yesterday, and was far beyond her depth when mishap occurred. Block was spending the day at the beach, but intends to go back there tomorrow for a two weeks' vacation.

MAYOR CLARK'S ANSWER LOOKED FOR TONIGHT

Mayor Robert Clark, Jr., of North Plainfield, will probably make known tonight his decision to be or not to be a candidate for re-election to the office of Mayor this fall. He has had the matter under advisement since the committee representing the citizens of the borough called upon him a few evenings ago, urging him to change the decision he made early in the summer not to run again. The notification will be sent to the Rev. Dr. H. K. Carroll, who was spokesman of the committee.

1,500 DEMOCRATS WILL JOIN OUTING

Steamer Sirius Will Take the Politicians and Guests to Witzel's Point Grove.

The twentieth annual outing of the Democratic Club and the Democratic City Executive Committee next Wednesday will be the best ever, it is said. All plans are completed, and the only work that remains is to countersign the tickets. In view of the fact that no one will be allowed on the boat without having his ticket countersigned, this end of the arrangements is important. The committe has decided to assemble Saturday night and next Tuesday night, the day before the affair, in order to countersign the pasteboards. This will obviate congestion at the dock.

At least 1,500 will make the trip. Indications are that it will be the banner attraction of the organization. Each one has proved more successful than the preceding outing, and there is every reason to believe that the twentieth will surpass all others.

This is an occasion that attracts Democrats not only from the city and county, but also from other parts of the State. Former residents always prepare for a day's enjoyment on the outing, which, according to the placards, is an "impending event of impressive importance."

The steamer Sirius has been chartered and it will leave the Recreation Pier at 10 o'clock, maybe earlier. Witzel's Point View Grove at College Point is the destination. Refreshments to satisfy everyone will be on board. At the grove a dinner will be served in the Witzel way. After the feast an athletic program will be held. Hugh F. Boyle, chairman of this committee, promises to present a card that will result in a field day de luxe.

SURPRISE SHOWER FOR MISS MEANEY

Greeted By Host of Friends Upon Her Return From the Theatre.

Taken completely unawares, Miss Nora Meaney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Meaney, of 221 Watchung avenue, North Plainfield, was tendered a delightful miscellaneous shower at her home last night. Forty-five intimate friends of the popular young woman gathered at the home during her absence early in the evening, tied the gifts in a sheet, suspended the parcel over the front entrance and put the house in complete darkness. Miss Meaney arrived home at 10 o'clock from a local theatre and on opening the front door was showered with an avalanche of presents, and shouts of congratulations from the dining-room. Emerging from the presents surrounding her on the floor, Miss Meaney proved a capable hostess and soon had her guests engaged in an evening of pleasant sociability. At 11 o'clock the Second Night Club came to the house in a body. Games, dancing, singing and musical selections were rendered by various members present and at a late hour refreshments were served.

The affair was given by the Misses Helen Meaney and Marion Blimm, the former a sister of the guest of honor. Miss Meaney was the recipient of many handsome and useful gifts, many pieces of cut glass and linen being numbered in the presents. The marriage of Miss Meaney to James P. Lynch, of West Fourth street, will take place about the middle of September and immediately following the ceremony the couple will go to San Francisco on their honeymoon, visiting both Expositions while away. Upon their return they will live in this city. Miss Meaney was graduated from the North Plainfield High School, class of 1915.

TO ESTABLISH CO-OPERATIVE MART

Warren Township Farmers Meet Tonight to Consider Detailed Plans.

LOW PRICES PREDICTED

Idea Is to Rent a Store In This City and Sell Produce Direct to the Consumer, Doing Away With Middleman's Profit.

A movement to establish a co-operative market where the farmer may retail his produce direct to the consumer will be considered at the meeting of the Mt. Bethel Grange tonight, and if the scheme goes through the market will doubtless be located in Plainfield. This will mean that the consumer in this city and vicinity may be able to purchase fruit and vegetables very soon at a price but little above that paid to the farmers by the wholesale dealers, and will mean a great saving for the householders.

The meeting tonight will be a special sessian and will be held at the Mountain House, in Mt. Bethel. Low prices paid farmers for produce this summer have brought the co-operative market scheme to a head, and if the market company is organized it will begin business at once so that the present growing crops may be marketed in this way. Under existing conditions it is said that the farmer stands a very poor chance of making any money off of his abundant crops this year, the middle-men taking all the profit.

DAY NURSERY FUND INCREASED BY $62

Total of $279.20 Thus Far Contributed to King's Daughters' Work.

In almost every city of worthy mention there exist organizations which have been formed for the prime purpose of caring for the mothers and children. Nearly every city has a home for the babies where they are given plenty of good wholesome food, plenty of fresh air, play, scientific care and in many cases from sickly tots are converted into entirely different boys and girls. It is just this kind of work that the City Union of King's Daughters carries on at the Day Nursery on West Front street. This charity has grown by leaps and bounds within the last few years because of the splendid co-operation between the public and the organization carrying on the work. The people are devoting more and more attention each year to the care of its future citizens in the hot months of the year as well as in the cold.

A notable example of this splendid co-operation is the fact that not a day has passed this week but that some friend of the children has come forward and through the columns of the Daily Press contributed his or her share for the furthering of the excellent work. Today is no exception, the fund being increased this morning by $62, making a total amount thus far of $297.29. In each case notes of commendation and praise for the work have been sent along with the checks.

The total fund to date is as follows:

Previously acknowledged	$235.20
Mrs. C. W. McCutchen	20.00
"Mrs. A. R. S."	5.00
"Queen City Hotel Employes and Friends"	37.00
Total	$279.20

A feature at that time will be a bass solo contest, competition being open to any colored person in the city.

MANY NOTABLES WILL ATTEND G. O. P. OUTING

Annual Trip to Coney Island Tomorrow Promises to Be Big Affair.

The Union County Republicans, including a large delegation from this city, will participate in the annual outing to Coney Island tomorrow. The committee in charge, of which William Newcorn, of this city, is chairman, has completed plans for an enjoyable affair. There will be plenty to eat on the boat, both going and coming, and a fine dinner will be served at Coney Island.

All of the county notables are expected to join the outing and there will be any number of aspirants for office who will accept this opportunity to gain the favor of the "powers that be." Of course, it is expected that a "slate" will be prepared, although, as usual, it will be subject to change before the primaries.

Upon their arrival at the island and after dinner, the Republicans will enjoy the various attractions now in full swing at that popular summer resort. It is expected that the return trip will be started about 6 o'clock and this will include a sail about New York harbor before landing at Elizabethport.

Many prospective candidates for office look forward to this outing as an opportune time to launch a boom, and while everyone is generally too much occupied with having a good time, signatures to petitions are easily obtained.

ALAS! WE HAVE IT; NOW, WHAT NEXT?

Plainfield's Woman Taxi Chauffeur Makes Her Appearance On the Scene.

Believing that mere man does not possess the necessary qualities for jitney-bus driving and that a woman at the wheel will go a long way toward popularizing this mode of travel, Mrs. B. M. Cohen, of 322 West Front street, this morning, made application at the city clerk's office for the necessary credentials to pilot a jitney. Thus, she put herself on record as being Plainfield's first feminine bus pilot and those pessimists who have been predicting the failure of the jitney as a bread-earner may be given cause to sit up and take notice. At least, Mrs. Cohen intends to do a rushing business and from outward appearances she bears a strong resemblance to the type of individual who is destined to "make good" as a fare taker.

So when a soft effeminate voice calls from the driver's seat: "Step lively, please, look out for your little fingers in the door jam," don't show your ignorance or discourtesy by looking up in amazement or doffing your cap to the mistress of the steering wheel. She isn't looking for any encouragement from the greedy voters and if you undertake to give her any you're pretty likely to get yourself "in Dutch."

Where the jitney will operate is a secret, for Mrs. Cohen has secrets of her own just like any other woman. But she's just going out and make her seven contemporaries in the jitney-bus business "sit up and take notice." Mrs. Cohen's bus will be just like any of the others; her patrons will be allowed to smoke providing they blow the fumes out the window, the men will be allowed to wear their hats when they so desire; strap-hanging will not be tabooed, and the one at the wheel will take no more back talk than the average conductor, and all who patronize this mode of travel know that this is mighty little.

PLAINFIELD MEN TO SPEAK ON SUFFRAGE

The Plainfield Branch of the Equal Suffrage League of New Jersey promises to have some interesting speeches to offer the public tomorrow night at its usual Saturday night meeting at West Front street and Madison avenue. Among the list of speakers who will address the assemblage will be Dr. Edward S. Krans, C. C. Wheeler, Francis Bodin, all ardent advocates of giving the women the ballot. R. A. Claybrook and L. B. Woolston have also been invited to speak by the local committee and will undoubtedly be on the program.

These Saturday night meetings have proven especially successful during the time they have been conducted and have won more than one doubting "Thomas" to the cause of suffrage for women.

PLAN REMOVAL OF RUSSIAN CAPITOL

Capture of Petrograd Would Permit Landing of Troops From Transports.

BIG FORTRESS FALLS

Novo Georgievsk, With 20,000 Men, Now In Possession of the Germans—Allies Offer Bulgaria Part of Macedonia.

London, Aug. 20.—Plans for the removal of the Russian capital to Moscow are now under consideration at Petrograd, according to word reaching here today. Though Petrograd is in no danger at present, the German fleet at latest reports was menacing Riga, the capture of which would permit the landing of troops from transports.

Paris, Aug. 20.—Today's French war statement says: There was the usual artillery activity during the night on the banks of the Ooise, to the north of the Aisne, in Champagne and on the Seille River fronts. In the Argonne there was a mine conflict in the region of Vienne Le Chateau, and hand-to-hand combats with hand getards and grenades in the sector of St. Hubert and Marie Therese. On the crest of Linge and Schratzmanele the German losses have been very great. A great number of the enemy's dead were found in the 250 yards of trenches we captured.

COUNTY POPULATION IS NOW 167,000

All Municipalities But Springfield Have Filed Census Returns.

Census returns filed with the Board of Freeholders from every municipality in the county except Springfield, which has not yet been received, show a population of 165,788. With Springfield added, the inhabitant of Union county will total over 167,000 and possibly above 168,000, as that township had a population of 1,246 by the 1910 census, and is expected to show a gain rather than a loss in the last five years.

The report of the enumeration of Roselle borough was filed yesterday and records a population of 3,823. This is a gain of 1,098 over 1910, when the census showed a population of 2,725.

The census of 1910 recorded a total population of the county of 140,197, so the increase will amount to about 28,000 in the five years.

COOPER LED RACE AT CENTURY MARK

Elgin, Ill., Aug. 20—Nine road racing automobiles got away today in the 305 miles Chicago Automobile Club Trophy race, the first event of a two days' racing program over the noted Cane county eight-mile highway course. Weather conditions were good. The cars were started in pairs 30 seconds apart. George Patrick, driver of the Mercer entry, withdrew shortly before the start on account of engine trouble.

Gil Anderson was in front when the leaders had gone 56 miles, closely followed by his Stutz teammate, Earl Cooper. Pete Henderson, in a Duesenberg, was in third position. DePalma was compelled to withdraw his entry after going about 40 miles. He had engine trouble.

At the end of 100 miles Earl Cooper was leading with Anderson only nine seconds behind him. Cooper's time for the century fas 78.45, on an average of 76.07 miles an hour.

BURGLARS USED FIRE TO TEST THEIR LOOT

Handsome Residence of Emil Erble In Fanwood Was Ransacked.

Sometime between Wednesday night and this morning burglars entered the home of Emil Eckhart, located at Midway avenue and Russell road, Fanwood, and stole silverware and other valuables, the value of which cannot be estimated by the owner at the present time. The burglary was discovered by Mrs. George Erble, who happened to be passing the place and noticed a window which she supposed had been broken. She notified the authorities and an investigation revealed the fact that the window pane had been cut out with instruments.

An examination of the interior of the house found everything in a topsy-turvy fashion, the place having been ransacked from cellar to garret. Two fires were started in the fireplaces, and the owner is of the opinion that the blaze was used to test the quality of the silver.

While the burglars were evidently intent on getting silverware they took everything of value they could lay their hands on. Only meagre clues are available and the police are now working on these.

That the robbery was committed sometime between Wednesday night and this morning is the opinion of the police for an employe of the family visited the place for the purpose of cutting the grass Wednesday and he noticed nothing of an unusual nature at that time. The Erble family is spending the summer in South Jersey.

The house is located in the fashionable section of Fanwood and is one of recent construction.

CENTURY OLD BARN GOES UP IN BLAZE

$3,000 Loss Sustained By August Wersing In Watchung Fire Last Night.

One of the oldest structures in the Watchung Mountain district, located on the estate of August Wersing, was destroyed by fire shortly after 9 o'clock last night, the estimated loss being $3,000. The building had been used as a barn and storehouse for more than a century and the flames reduced it to a heap of debris together with a number of chickens, carriages, sets of harness, grain and various farm implements.

The blaze, the origin of which has not as yet been determined, was discovered by a member of the Wersing family and the Watchung fire department was called to the scene. When the firemen arrived a corps of volunteer workers was already engaged in battling the flames which had assumed such rapid headway that the department determined that any attempt to check them would be useless. The doomed structure was allowed to go up in flames which illuminated the sky with a light that could be seen for many miles. Plainfielders, believing that a settlement was being burned, made the trip to Watchung in automobiles.

The band of neighbors who volunteered their services and the Watchung firemen turned their attention toward saving what they could out of the contents of the barn. Two horses and four heads of cattle were taken out in safety.

According to Mr. Wersing his loss is only partially covered by insurance.

WILSON AWAITS COMPLETE REPORT

Before Taking Any Action Regarding Sinking of Arabic.

DETAILS ARE LACKING

International Law Is Quoted Showing the Right to Attack Eenemy's Ship—Two of Four Missing Americans Are Found.

Washington, Aug. 20—When asked about the attitude of the United States toward the sinking of the Arabic, this morning, Secretary Lansing said: "The department is awaiting a complete report before taking any action. Only two brief messages have been received so far and no instructions have been sent to Ambassador Page regarding the sinking of the Arabic."

Under international law the fact that a merchant or passenger vessel is accompanied by a naval convoy, will render it subject to attack without warning. In the present instance the British destroyers accompanied the Arabic from Liverpool through the St. George Channel. According to press despatches the commander of the convoy was convinced that the Arabic was out of the danger zone and therefore left the Arabic to return to their post of duty. The despatches, however, do not indicate whether the destroyers were still in sight when the Arabic was attacked. There is no international rule as to the proximity of the convoying vessels to the ship they are guarding and if in the case of the Arabic the British destroyers were still within sight of the Arabic, the commander of the German submarine, it was said, would be justified in torpedoing the Arabic without warning.

New York, Aug. 20—In the list of names of those unaccounted for on the steamship Arabic, received early this morning, at the local office of the White Star Line, which included twenty names, there were four Americans of whom two have since been accounted for and two are still missing. Of the two still missing, Mrs. Josephine L. Bruguiere, there is no doubt, was lost, a cablegram to this effect having been received by her daughter-in-law in this city from Mrs. Bruguiere's son, one of the survivors. Of the passengers unaccounted for 13 were in the second cabin and seven in the third cabin.

London, Aug. 20.—Two of the Americans who were passengers on the White Star liner Arabic when she was sunk were definitely given up for dead this afternoon. After a search of many hour, it was admitted at the Embassy that no trace could be found of Mrs. Joseph Bruguiere of New York, and Dr. Edmonton Woods, of Janesville, Wis. Late reports received at the White Star Line office indicate that at least 20 persons or perhaps more, lost their lives.

LOCAL FISHING PARTY HAVE AMUSING EXPERIENCE

Taking advantage of the mid-week holiday, Jack Horner and four friends, Joe Miller, Fred Firstbrook, Frank R. Emmons and W. F. Dowd, took a fishing trip to Sandy Hook and Princess Bay yesterday. They secured the services of Captain Bill Larson, of Sewaren, who piloted the five to the weakfish and fluke angling grounds. However, the aquatic life must have heard them coming as the highest individual catch of the day was two weaks, landed by Jack Horner. Messrs, Miller, Firstbrook and Emmons thought they had a bite late in the afternoon and in the excitement that followed Miller lost his pole, Firstbrook his tackle and Emmons some perfectly good bait. The report does not state who lost money on the trip, but intimation that the five would make a trip to Great Kills soon, was given out. Captain Abe Hapenny may be secured to lead them this time and, if the word of the five can be taken for anything, no trip to the fish market will have to be made to satisfy the curiosity of relatives and friends when the arrival home is made.

JUDGE CAMPBELL HELD BUSY COURT SESSION

Judge David S. Campbell held a busy court session last evening. John Brown, aged 22, a bricklayer, from Lancaster, Pa.; Charles Adams, aged 30, a paperhanger, from Springfield, Mass.; Thomas Larkin, aged 27, a laborer, from Philadelphia, Pa., and Lee Truss, aged 33, a laborer, from Danville, Va., were given sentences of $10 or 10 days apiece when they were arraigned before the court on charges of tresspassing on its property, preferred against them by the Central Railroad through its detective, Charles Laverett. The men were unable to pay their fines and were taken over the road.

OILING BOROUGH ROADS SOURCE OF COMPLAINT

The sewer trench digger commenced operation on New Market road yesterday afternoon, working south from Walnut street. Shortly after the digger set to work the apparatus which the freeholders hire to oil the roads of the county came along and gave New Market road a good soaking thereby exciting much comment.

"Oiling the streets when the summer is about over is bad enough," the party remarked, "but oiling a street which is being dug up is the limit and is a fair example of the way that the county officials are attending to their duties in this end of the county. Everybody is aware of the attention that we are being accorded and things are rapidly being drawn to a head. The primary elections are approaching and an active campaign should be waged towards having this section represented on the Board of Freeholders and in the Senate and Assembly. If such a campaign fails to bear fruit steps should be taken to see what could be done towards forming the frequently broached new county. Present conditions are intolerable and they must be remedied. Why, in order to get the county authorities to take steps towards apprehending and breaking up a gang which was stealing motorcycles right and left through this section it was necessary for Fred C. Gaskill, of New Market, about a month ago, to write several lengthy letters on the matter and see them printed in the Plainfield Press before they could be stirred [illegible]tion."

'Plains & Fanwood.

Plans are materializing for the celebration of the Fanwood Fire Company on the date of the twenty-fifth year of its existence in November. A smoker will be one of the things on the program of events as now schedled, and outside talent will be secured for an entertainment.

Henry L. Jespersen, Jr., of Martine avenue, left yesterday for a business trip of several weeks, taking him to Rochester, Pittsburg, Chicago, St. Louis and other large cities of the Middle West.

Although his condition is still considered critical, reports issuing from Muhlenberg Hospital would indicate that Amos Miller, the Fanwood township lad who was injured last week in the automobile races at Flemington, has an even chance for recovery. Miller was riding as mechanician with Percy Lambert, another local product, when the rear tire blew and caused the car to turn over, pinning both underneath. The steering wheel saved Lambert, but Miller received fractures and concussions, as well as broken bones. Both hale from the Willow Grove section of the township, Lambert having recently lived in Brooklyn.

Captain Louis Tuzo, of Terril road, a veteran of the Spanish-American War, and an authority both as a magazine writer and by experience on small arms, has taken great interest in the club, and been present to instruct at each meeting. He has had various military officers lecture to the boys on the handling of guns, and still wants to keep the club going.

U. S. ASTOR THEATRE

Dustin Farnum, world famous screen actor, will appear at the U. S. Astor Theatre this afternoon and tonight in "Captain Courtesy," a film drama of most engrossing theme.

"Captain Courtesy" relates a story of love and adventure in which Mr. Farnum is given a part which fits him down to the ground, so to speak. The star of "The Littlest Rebel," whose friends in Plainfield are legion, plays the dashing, compelling sort of role which he portrayed in that celebrated drama in which he appeared for an entre season wth his brother, William Farnum, as co-star.

In addition to this splendid feature, a selected lot of comedy and dramatic features will be shown.

Tomorrow afternoon and evening "The Flaming Sword," another drama of powerful appeal will be screened at the Astor.

PLAINFIELD THEATRE

"Delightful," exclaims quaint Morris Perlmutter, when the junior member of the famous firm of Potash & Perlmutter is first presented to Ruth Goldman, the great cloak and gown designer, who is fated to become not only the brains of the firm but also Morris' wife, and "delightful" was the verdict that New York pronounced when Manager A. H Woods first presented "Potash & Perlmutter" at the Cohan Theatre, there, two seasons ago. Following its second year of overwhelming success in New York, "Potash & Perlmutter" comes to the Plainfield Theatre, Saturday afternoon and night, August 28, with a company of splendid artists, and it is safe to say that local theatre-goers will also say "delightful" when they enjoy at last the charm and humor of this famous of all comedies. No play has ever come here heralded with greater praise. The trials and tribulations of Abe and Morris, their witticisms and their philosophy, their keen attention to business and their warmth of heart have endeared them to millions of admirers all over the country and it is safe to say that when this firm holds its "opening" here the "showrooms" in the Plainfield Theatre will be packed to the doors with loyal, enthusiastic customers.

PROCTOR'S THEATRE

"Heritage," a Universal drama production in four parts, will be shown at Proctor's Theatre this evening, and those whose favorite in the line of motion picture actresses happens to be Miss Ella Hall had better take this opportunity of seeing her at her best. The story told is one as old as life itself and needs only to be unfolded with all its surprises to be recognized. The fact that this is a Universal picture speaks for itself. "The Rise and Fall of Officer 13," with Billie Richie, the famous English comedian, and the ninth episode of "The Romance of Elaine" are also scheduled for this evening.

"Driven By Fate," with Violet Mercereau in the leading role, another Universal production, has been booked for tomorrow, while the program will be completed with Paramount travel pictures, a comedy entitled "Pokes and Jabs in Clover," another episode of "The Goddess," and others.

Attention is again drawn to the fact that "The Rosary," a play as good as any sermon, a Selig red seal production in seven parts, is to be shown at the Proctor house Monday, with absolutely no advance in prices. This is certainly a play of quality with a most excellent cast, including Roland Sharp, Charles Clary, Kathlyn Williams, Gertrude Ryan, Frank Ryan and others. Whatever other feature pictures may be shown at this house, this holds pre-eminence over them all.

Y. W. C. A. NOTES

BIG INCREASE IN U. S. NAVY URGED

Strong Demand Made For Submarines, Artillery and Fortifications.

FOR COAST DEFENSE

Army Officers of High Rank Will Make Report to President Wilson Within a Few Days—300 Undersea Boats Recommended.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 20—"Without a greatly increased number of submarines for our navy the present movement for military preparedness in this country will appear to the other nations of the world as ineffective and absurd," according to a statement today of the National Defense League.

This, in brief, is the substance of the information which will be given to President Wilson within the next few days in connection with his effort to ascertain all things needed to put this country in a state of better preparedness for war. Primarily, the demand for a big increase in submarines comes from the navy officers and naval experts, but it is significant that this request is backed up by army officers of high rank. Particularly among the coast artillery and the coast fortification experts is there a strong demand for submarines.

The explanation of this lies in the fact that there are at various points on the shores of the United States portions of the sea which can be protected only by submarines. This is because fortifications are not built so that the guns may sweep these waters, and the currents are so swift and ungovernable that mines cannot be placed in them with any hope of definite results.

There has come about, therefore, the unusual spectacle of a group of army officers joining navy officers in the demand for better submarine protection. That this will have a profound effect on the President in the preparation of his recommendations to Congress in behalf of greater preparedness is accepted as certain in Washington.

A big American submarine building company, according to reports received here today, is operating in Canada so successfully that, as soon as the submarines are completed for the Allies, they are put into the water and sent across the Atlantic under their own power with full war equipment and ready to meet the enemy. The building in Canada, which is devoted to assembling boats of the Holland type, is made necessary because of the international law against building them in the United States and then sending them to the Allies.

A submarine costs about half a million dollars. Three hundred submarines flying the Stars and Stripes would cost less than a week of actual war, the authorities estimate, and, since a submarine can destroy any battleships that floats, a flotilla of 300 of the under-sea craft would be an unfailing insurance against invasion by a foreign foe at any time.

The President will be told that now is the time to engage the talent and resources of the American submarine companies so that not all of their output can be sent to foreign countries.

The National Defense League, which will hold a great conference on national defense in Washington, October 4-7, immediately following the Grand Army of the Republic Encampment, has for years persistently advocated large appropriations for submarines. Some of the officers of the league declare that the United States should have not less than 300 of the undersea boats.

"With 300 modern submarines the United States could defy the world to successfully land troops on American soil."

This statement was made recently by Lieut. C. R. Morrison, chief aide on the staff of Rear Admiral Grant, commander of the Atlantic submarine flotilla and considered the most foremost expert on undersea craft.

"There is not a foreign nation, or even a combination of nations, that could possibly land sufficient troops on American soil to combat even our present army," declared Lieutenant Morrison.

TO ESTABLISH MARKET

of Mt. Bethel, is one of the leading men in the agitation for a co-operative market and it is expected that he will urge the adoption of the plan tonight.

While the idea of getting their produce into the hands of the general consumer directly and not through a commission merchant or other middle-man has been discussed at previous meeting of the grange, a recent announcement in regard to the price paid at Mt. Bethel farmer recently is said to have brought the matter to a head. Lettuce sent to New York, netted this farmer three cents a [illegible]. He shipped fifty barrels of it [illegible] from the commission [illegible] check for $1.50. The letter [illegible] a large amount of [illegible] labor, a patch of ground which might have been given over to the growth of other produce, and an expenditure for seed. Today ripe tomatoes were brought to Plainfield from Mt. Bethel and sold to the wholesaler for ten and fifteen cents a basket. These in turn were retailed for from twenty-five to thirty cents a basket. In these cases cited, declared Mr. Binz, the consumer did not profit much by the low prices, as the profit went to the middle-men.

The idea put forth by the grange members interested in the market is to rent a store or other building in a prominent part of the business section of a large city, presumably Plainfield, and open a produce store. The rent and other expenses would be borne by the men interested in the plan, who would sell their farm products from this central headquarters and at prices which would allow them only a small profit. In this way all the middle-men's profits would be done away with. The farmers would be making a fair profit from their crops and at the same time the consumer who patronized the store or market would be able to buy vegetables and fruit at a price far below that demanded at the regular stores and markets today, and besides, the stuff would be fresh.

If the plan is put in operation, it was said this morning, steps looking towards the leasing of a suitable building would have to be taken at once. There are trees loaded with peaches waiting to be picked, but the market is glutted with them and the farmers know that little or nothing will be offered them for the fruit under existing conditions. Peaches are selling in Plainfield today for from fifty cents a basket up, which means that the price paid the producer for them is not enough to pay him for having them picked.

The entire garrison of 20,000 men, part of which had already been captured during the final fighting, fell into our hands, together with enormous quantites of war material.

London, Aug. 20.—Two more British steamers were destroyed by German submarines today, but no loss of life occurred. The steamers were the Baron Erskine, 5,585 tons, and the Restermel, 2118 tons. The Baron Erskine was owned by the Hogarth Shipping Company, Limited. The Restermel was owned by the new Restermel Steamship Company, Limited. The Spanish vessel, Pena Castillo, 1,718 tons, has also been submarined. Her crew was saved.

London, Aug. 20.—Two members of the crew of the steamer Dunsley were killed when that vessel was submarined yesterday. Lloyd's announced today that thirty-five men were rescued. The Norwegian steamer Sverresborg, 1,150 tons, has been sunk by a submarine.

FAMILY ALONE AT BURIAL OF FRANK

Traffic Halted While Body Is Removed From House to Hearse.

The funeral of Leo M. Frank was held today from the Frank home, 152 Underhill avenue, Brooklyn. The body was buried in the Jewish cemetery at Cypress Hills.

The funeral services were ended early today and at 8:30 a. m. an automobile hearse and four limousines drew up at the door. The body was carried out of the house and placed in the hearse. Then Rudolph Frank and Mrs. Frank, the parents of Frank, in heavy mourning, entered the first car. Mrs. Otto Stern, a sister, and her husband, took another automobile. Rev. Dr. Marx and friends of the family followed in the other cars.

Preceding the hearse was a large automobile filled with floral offerings. The inscription on the coffin plate was not made public. At the grave the ritual prayers for the dead were recited and the earth closed over Leo M. Frank.

At an early hour crowds began to form in the neighborhood of the Frank home. Acting Inspector Murphy and Capt. Smith, of the Grand avenue police station, with a large force of reserves kept the throngs from the block.

While the coffin was being placed in the hearse and the mourners taking their cars traffic was halted in the street near the house.

STARLINGS MAY EXPECT WARM RECEPTION TONIGHT

No further action looking towards driving the starlings away from their roosting places in the trees on Mrs. Ida Fountain's property, Jackson avenue, North Plainfield, were taken last night owing to pressing business matters which kept those interested in scaring the birds away occupied elsewhere.

Mayor Clark said this morning that he expects to purchase a quantity of Roman candles today and to get his neighbor who owns a shotgun on the ground again tonight and give the starlings a warm reception. It was noticed last night that the number of birds making their way to the trees in which they roost was smaller than usual, and the residents of the street hope that this is an indication that the birds are beginning to take alarm.

SHERIFF OTTO NAMES MAN TO SUCCEED WARDEN DODD

After considerable delay, reasons for which have been greatly speculated upon, Sheriff George Otto, of the Union county jail, this morning made known his selection of Augustus G. Hughson, of Rahway, as the new jail warden to succeed the late Charles Dodd. Mr. Hughson finished with the second highest rating in the recent civil service test for the position, James Johnson and John Dyer being the other eligibles. Johnson has been serving in the capacity temporarily, and will give way immediately to the new man.

That Sheriff Otto would select Hughson for the job has been the popular opinion for some time past, inasmuch as the new man is of the reformist party, of which Otto is a harty endorser. He finished with an 80 per cent. grade in the mental test and a perfect mark in the physical test in the examinations. Previous to the appointment he had served as an official at the Morris Plains Insane Asylum and the State Reform School at Rahway. He has had twenty-one years of experience in the work.

RECREATION NOTES.

The colored people will hold their Friday night dance this evening at the Washington School. The Washington Dramatic Club will meet in the kindergarten room at the same time. NOTICE TO OUR PATRONS.

Again we are obliged to tell the patrons of this theatre, the difference in the kind of photo-plays we offer, and the kind offered by a certain other theatre which certain theatre seems to take great delight in trying to belittle the U. S. Astor Theatre.

If this certain theatre was so big with such a wonderful capacity, doesn't it seem strange to you, that the U. S. Astor should be awarded such pictures as the Paramount, the Metro program, and all of the productions released by the Vitagraph, Lubin, Selig and Essanay companies.

A word about admission prices.

The average patron of the theatre we don't believe has the slightest idea regarding the cost of securing first run photo-plays.

The reason for this is that only in the last year have photo-plays been taken really seriously by the public. Today, you can see $2.00 shows in motion pictures at an admission price of 10 cents to 25 cents.

To secure these big productions for first run in any city, in some cases makes it impossible for the exhibitor to present the same at 10 and 15 cents.

We, therefore, endeavor to offer every Monday and Tuesday, at this theatre photo-plays that are the biggest and best on the market possible to book.

That James R. Uugent will be the next chairman of the Democratic State Committee and the leader in the State in 1916 were predictions made Tuesday at the thirty-seventh annual outing of the Joel Parker Association, of Newark, to Neptune Heights, Avon. Mr. Nugent is president of the association. The outing brought together more than 600 Democrats, and the keynote of the gathering was entire harmony and great confidence in a victory in November.

A statement issued by Mr. Nugent indicates that the Smith-Nugent machine has adopted new tactics to gain control of the State. Instead of hammering Wilson, as in the past, the Newark boss praised the present Democratic National Administration, and forecasted that the party will be successful in the national campaign next year. For the present, the statement predicted victory for the party this fall, Mr. Nugent basing his claims upon a belief that a breach in the Republican ranks will not heal, and he also predicted the defeat of woman's suffrage.

Because of the failure of a number of members to attend, the Democratic City Committee, of Plainfield, postponed until next Tuesday a conference is called for Monday night, to consider the probable nominees for offices at the approaching primary. It is understood that the city committee will take no action upon the endorsement of an Assembly candidate until after the Democratic outing next Wednesday, when the county slate will probably be made up. Patrick Reville, of Plainfield, is after one of the Democratic nominations for Assembly. It is believed that the Democrats will get out a petition for a referendum for a small Board of Freeholders. In that event, a special election would most likely be held in December, as the law requires such an election to be ninety days after the filing of the petition.

Renewing his pledge to fight bossism in Essex county, Mayor Thomas L Raymond, of Newark, in an address Tuesday night at the headquarters of the Anti-Dalrymple Republicans in the Lawyers' building, that city, declared that all his influence and power would be given to break County Counsel Dalrymple's control of the county Republican Committee. The Mayor termed the county counsel a boss "whose power is invisible and irresponsible." He declared that he would leave no stone unturned to crush bossism in Essex county, and that, if the fight this year be unsuccessful, the battle would be renewed next year. The Mayor's words were enthusiastically received by a large crowd.

According to a comparison of commission government and the old municipal government, in a report issued by the Town Commissioners of Nutley for the third fiscal year of commission government, the latter is declared to be more economical. The taxpayers are declared to be getting more for their money, and the cost of operation is said to be at least no greater than the former system. Although the exact rate cannot yet be determined, the report predicts that the tax rate for the coming year should not exceed $1.87, a reduction of thirty points under that of last year.

SENATOR MARTINE DODGES SUFFRAGISTS

Plainfielder Has Exciting Experience At Grangers' Picnic Yesterday.

Yesterday was a big day for the farmers and politicians of New Jersey. It was the occasion of the annual picnic of the State Grange at Verona Park, Essex county. Crops and farm work of all kinds were forgotten for twelve hours, while farmer folks gathered at the park and made holiday.

Politicians took occasion to be present and do all the electioneering they could. United States Senator James E. Martine, was the principal speaker, and delivered an eloquent address in which he boosted the Washington administration; told his hearers that President Wilson would take care of the Mexican situation, and also the affairs of this country in the European war; painted a beautiful word picture of the duty of all those present to the American flag; threw a few verbal bouquets at the committee in charge of the grange picnic, and then went back to his waiting automobile.

An amusing incident happened while Senator Martine was on his way to his automobile after delivering his speech. He was accosted by an ardent woman wearing the yellow shoulder band of the Montclair Equal Suffrage League, who had been very keen in stopping every man that went by.

"Won't you please wear our little banner?" she asked the Senator, as she held a little yellow pennant out to him.

The Senator was smiling. In fact, you might say he was laughing, as he started to brush by the ardent suffragist. But she was not to be denied. "Won't you please wear this for our cause?" she pleaded.

Senator Martine, still laughing, shook his head "no" and started after the waiting automobile. "But please do this for me," insisted the suffragist. The smile came off, the laugh was gone, as Senator Martine turned around and said to his interrogator, "Do you know I am Senator Martine."

The woman did not, but with the remark "Oh, are you?" she started to to "waylay" all the rest of the men, women and children coming along the line. But that was not all of the Senator's troubles. The Anti-Suffragists, who had a little tent on the hill above the park, got after him before he could leave the grounds and wanted to know just where he stood. "I stand on the steps of this automobile," said Martine, "and it is going to take me home. I believe that is a personal suffrage right," and with that last parting shot the Senator climbed into the car and was on his way out of the park grounds.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

Newspaper Errors.

The capacity of some people for detecting errors in the newspapers is marvelous. Also it is singular how many unexpected meanings the people can find.

If the reporter writes that a man wore a coat of such and such a character some one may call up and ask if the coat was all the man had on. To satisfy these literalists you must enumerate item by item the other articles of attire or they will accuse you of making the victim appear half naked.

The reader who digests his paper on the quiet in his home feels that he has shown great brilliancy if he detects an error in grammar or capitalization. It is one thing to find mistakes at your leisure in another man's work, quite another to turn out a high degree of accuracy and precision in the haste of newspaper composition.

The banker makes blunders in his figures, the lawyer draws up incorrect papers and the business man submits erroneous bills. Such blunders are known only to the few persons whom they concern. The newspaper is like the actor on the stage, whose slightest slip is manifest to all and seems ridiculous.—Somerset Messenger.

TIMES HAVE CHANGED.

It was at Scotty's at Neptune Heights five years ago that James R. Nugent gave his famous toast, "Woodorw Wilson, liar and ingrate," at which time he drank alone. Again this year it was at Scotty's that Mr. Nugent eulogized President Wilson as one "whose actions in office appeal to every man through whose veins courses the red blood of patriotism," and this time the crowd was with him.

It may be that time has cooled resentment, and, on the other hand, it is possible that a meek and chastened spirit is the fruit of adversity. At any rate, Mr. Nugent has discovered that the only result of kicking against the bricks is a sore toe, and that for the Essex Democracy to persist in its attitude of hostility to the President is about as sensible and effectual as the Pope's bull against the comet.

That Mr. Nugent's personal sentiments toward the President have undergone any change is improbable. Indeed, it is more likely that if given the same opportunity to rejoice over the elimination of President Wilson from the Democratic party his expressions of satisfaction would be even more emphatic than they were over the disappearance of the sinister influence of William J. Bryan.

No, Mr. Nugent has not experienced any change of heart, but he has changed his mind, or rather the logic of events has changed it for him. President Wilson will be the unopposed candidate of his party for reelection. There is no other standard to which Mr. Nugent can flock. It is a case of either get on the band wagon and shout for Wilson or stay outside and swallow the dust, and Mr. Nugent has already absorbed more of this than is good for a party boss. So long as he had the city patronage to parcel out among his followers he could afford to maintain an attitude of partial independence, but with that lost there was nothing left but to get into the administration fold upon any terms possible.

Mr. Nugent fully realizes that he cannot win in either city or county so long as he maintains an attitude of hostility to the President, and to regain his control in local affairs he is ready to swallow his leek with apparent relish. So he invokes the name of the man whom he has so bitterly vilified to aid him in getting back to power, and seeks to link the national administration with the sadly discredited local Democratic machine. He is now willing to "win with Wilson," having learned by sad exyperience that he cannot without him.—Newark Evening News.

Plainfield, N. J., Aug. 20, 1915.

In all sincerity Christian men and women expected that peace in Europe would have become a reality long before this, but instead of peace we have its very antithesis, and the war now devastating Europe has become the blackest crime on the pages of human history. What are Christians and the Christian church doing to end the war? To Christian people who believe in the efficacy of prayer an opportunity to put their faith to the test is now presented.

But how large a part in the petitions offered to Heaven each day does this world horror occupy? Very little, apparently, judging from the slight reference to it made by the Protestant ministers of the gospel as a body in their public prayers at the Sunday religious services throughout the country. In the prayers of some ministers the war is not alluded to at all, while in many only a slight reference is made to it. In this matter the Roman Catholic Church is far ahead of the Protestant Church, and if any religious body is instrumental in bringing about peace it will be the Roman Catholics. The Protestant Church also should rise in its might and prayer for an end of the carnage, not as individuals merely, but as a Christian brotherhood, a Christian unit.

This nation has observed one day of prayer for peace, but why stipulate one day, one occasion? If the people in every church in Christendom would set aside a period before or during each religious service for prayer for peace, and pray believing that their petitions would be answered, such a volume of prayer would ascend to Heaven as has never yet risen from human hearts in this world.

Does any one say that God will bring peace in His own good time; that Christians would be presumptuous to beseech Him for it now; that we would be interfering in God's business? Might we not just as well cease all efforts to halt the march of disease and death; just as well let unrighteousness stalk through the world unchecked, convinced that God would bring about reforms when He so pleased?

"And all things, whatsoever ye shall ask in prayer, believing, ye shall receive."

"The closing of Duke's park to the public is an event of great concern to this community," says the Unionist Gazette, of Somerville. "To have access to the twenty miles of magnificent roads winding in and out through groves and green fields and climbing vines and richly colored flowers with waterfalls and fountains, bridges and lakes was a delight to any community. From distant points many tourists came here to visit this beauty spot and they all in wonder.

not think it possible that this great privilege came diate vicinity. The people here, it seems to us, must be too careful of its beauty, and must have too much pride in the park as a local institution to commit any of the outrages which led to its being closed.

"No one can blame Mr. Duke for his decision. The repeated acts of discourtesy, not to say vandalism, were beyond endurance. He has transformed 2,000 acres of farm land into a park of great beauty and has expended a great fortune in it. To have people disregard the signs distributed about the place, to have no respect for the privacy of the owner and to actually destroy foliage is beyond human endurance. No one but vulgar or ill-bred persons would be guilty of such acts. The consequences of such behavior, however, as do all ill deeds, fall alike upon the innocent and guilty.

"It is to be hoped that the closing of the park will be only temporary and that Mr. Duke will decide to give the public another chance after a warning such as this which brands the human hog as the outcast of society."

City Judge DeMeza's action in suspending the license of a cab driver at the local railroad station should be followed up by a general cleaning out at the North avenue stand. The time has long been ripe for some renovation work along this line and the sooner the police remove the objectionable characters from the vicinity of the main entrance to the city the better it will be for Plainfield. At the present time there are too many young "know-it-alls" running taxis and driving cabs from the station, and all efforts to tame these troublemakers having failed, the only logical course now remaining is to begin an active crusade to remove those who are making nuisances of themselves. They not only give the city a bad name but also inflict a hardship on the veterans who have carried on a respectable hacking trade for years at this point.

Borough residents are now planning to shoot off Roman candles as a means of ridding the neighborhood in the vicinity of Jackson and Watchung avenues of a flock of troublesome starlings. It is too bad that wise (?) legislators so framed the game laws that a community cannot resort to something more than fireworks to abolish a nuisance. One of these days the people will demand a general revision of the laws, ridding them of technicalities and red tape which now makes nothing but trouble for the residents of the State.

Allen E. Beals has been mentioned as a possible candidate for councilmanic honors in the First ward. That he would make a faithful and conscientious city official is the opinion of many Plainfielders. He is the local Boy Scout commissioner, a member of the Playground Commission and is of the progressive type of citizen that stands for constructive legislation. Should Mr. Beals consent to enter the primaries he undoubtedly would receive the nomination and be elected.

The closing exhibitions at the local playgrounds serve to impress the people of Plainfield that the establishment of these recreation centres is not all "fad and fancy," as some critics would have one believe. The work of the boys and girls shows that their time has been profitably and pleasantly spent during the summer months. The money appropriated for this work nets more than the actual dollars and cents that it costs to maintain these playgrounds.

"Unskilled Labor"

It puts red lights on dirt-piles in the street,
When arc-lamps bloom along the city's nerves;
It turns the frog where main and branch-lines meet,
It oils the car-track's dry and screaming curves.
It digs the ditch wherein the gas-main's laid.
It finds the leak in water-pipe and sewer;
It keeps us safe and well and unafraid,
It makes our life and health and wealth secure.

It sits or walks about the vaults at night
Where hoarded gold and notes accrue more worth,
And wait, impatient, for the morning light,
That they may go their way throughout the earth
To richer men. It plants the stately pole,
Whereon wired messages of love and hate,
And busy trade are bandied to and fro—
It does all these and takes but piteous toll
From all the wealth that through its channels go.

"Unskilled"? We teach our children to despise
The "menial" tasks that need but kindly strength
And lack of pride—false pride!—and we devise
Deep schemes—we go to any honest length
To keep our darlings from the sore "disgrace"!
The world must go on needing just such toil,
In time there'll be no "poor, downtrodden race"—
Who, then, shall man the treadmill with its moil?

Experiments

NATURALLY a doctor doesn't like to experiment. This is not a typographical error. He really doesn't like to do it. But patients do love to be experimented on. The doctor who refuses to experiment on his patients soon becomes unpopular. He earns the reputation of being a crank, or people say he magnifies your little troubles into big ones.

For instance, you have a very ordinary case of stomach trouble. Having tried half a dozen of the hundreds of sure cures sold for this simple complaint, you finally decide to see the doctor. You confide that your stomach is bothering you a little, and you want something to help you assimilate your food. That is the universal desire of civilized high livers—something to assimilate the food.

The doctor puts you on his table and proceeds to paw you over, plainly incredulous. He seems to have designs on your appendix, your gall-sac or something; evidently he isn't sure your kidneys are in the place where they belong, and he even doubts the condition of your heart and lungs.

"It's right here in my stomach; all the pain is right in the pit of my stomach," you insist. But still he imagines you are trying to deceive him. Suddenly he tells you he wishes to feed you a test breakfast and then take it away from you with the stomach pump after you have toyed with it for an hour or so. Remember, he is no specialist; just a plain family doctor.

Do you swallow the stomach tube? Not for anything! All you want is something to assimilate your food. Can't the doctor fix you up some medicine? Well, yes, perhaps. But why not find out exactly what is the matter first? Oh, you'll think it over; you'll be all right if you can just assimilate your food. So the doctor makes a good guess and prescribes some medicine.

A few weeks later you begin to feel worried about your stomach. The doctors don't seem to be able to help you a bit. You visit a specialist. He gives you a test meal, slips the tube into your stomach when you are not looking, examines the gastric juice chemically and microscopically, and places you on treatment for duodenal ulcer. In a month or two you get better. And there you have been spending hundreds of dollars on doctors who experimented on you and failed to give you the slightest help.

The difference between a general practitioner and an eminent stomach specialist is that the latter doesn't have to rely so much upon experiments. Of course a doctor who can determine first what he is treating will be more likely to enjoy a reputation for great skill.

Men and women are among the most interesting human beings a doctor has to deal with.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Relief Of Earache

Please suggest a simple remedy for earache. Of course I am aware that it is dangerous to delay seeking medical advice, but we live fifty miles from a doctor.

Answer—Fill a fountain syringe with a quart of water as hot as can be borne, in which a tablespoonful of salt is dissolved. Hang the syringe a foot or two above the level of the ear and let the water run into the canal, without inserting the nozzle. Use this as often and as long as necessary.

RAISING WHEAT

RAISING wheat is not as spectacular or glorious as raising the variety of Tophet which prevails in Europe just now, but it is much more necessary.

If the United States was to refrain from raising wheat for a year or two in these peculiar times, most of Europe would be seized with severe cramps and might even have to postpone hostilities.

Thus raising wheat in this country is not only a business but a duty. We must not only feed ourselves, but must set the table for millions of foreigners who are too busy effacing each other to grab the business end of a plow and speak to a mule in an authoritative tone of voice.

The United States raised 900,000,000 bushels of wheat last year and will probably do as well this year. It takes about seven bushels of wheat to feed a man for a year. This leaves a large surplus to ship to countries who are busy feeding shrapnel to each other.

Scientists are very much discontented, because this country raises so little wheat per acre. They argue that if America were as scientific as Europe, it would raise twice as much wheat on the same amount of ground. But this would compel us to ship five times as much wheat to Europe and would make it possible for the women to stop farming and go to fighting. On the whole it is more humane for us to be unscientific.

Anyway the scientists don't seem to realize that this country raises all the wheat it needs and has plenty of time to spend on other things. The European works from dawn till dark on his postage stamp farm, raising a large amount of wheat per acre. But the American seeds down a township in the fall, grabs a tramp by the neck to help in the harvest in July and spends the rest of the year driving his automobile.

One-fourth of the population can raise all the food we need. This is why this country is producing such lumpy and imposing figures in manufactures and other lines.

The American grabs a tramp by the neck to help in the harvest

This is also the reason why the automobile business has become a phenomenon in this country. Other nations could build as many autos, but they wouldn't have time to run them. They are too busy raising too much wheat per acre.

It is better to turn a gasoline engine and a ten horsepower reaper loose in a wheat field than to try to imitate their performances with women and children. We don't raise much wheat per acre, but we seem to get almighty contented and financially adipose while raising what we do.

Views Of The Press

Utilizing American Genius

THE proposal that an advisory board of inventors and engineers be established is meeting with a splendid response. Mr. Edison's willingness to serve is equaled by that of all others who have been approached, and the list includes some of the foremost men of the country. Each seems to regard a call to the board as a summons to duty. All indicate a desire to co-operate. The general spirit is well expressed by Hudson Maxim, who declares his willingness to turn over to the government all inventions he now has or may have in the future. One submarine improvement he has lately submitted to Washington. Lee De Forest, pioneer American inventor in wireless telegraphy, indicates that he is perfecting an invention which "should remove all danger from aerial and, particularly, undersea warfare." Mr. Curtiss and Mr. Wright, among others, believe that coast defense can be promoted by utilizing improved aeroplanes or hydroplanes. Louis Gathmann would have the coast defense works equipped with 18-inch guns.

These expressions show how eagerly the inventive genius of the country responds to a national call. And it is time. The American mind has been the most prolific in the production of labor-saving and wealth-producing machinery. The patent laws, makeshift as they are in some particulars, have tended to develop inventions. Private industry has grown marvelously because of the perfection of certain devices, but what business has taken advantage of the government has neglected. Secretary Daniels' idea is unique. Other governments have absorbed the inventions offered to them, but it is not believed that any country has gone in search of genius that it may recognize. Governments are conservative, as a general thing. The British admiralty, for example, was reluctant to adopt steam for the navy, and only did so because it was compelled to change by the efficiency of merchant ships.

Books of science are crowded with the names of American inventors who, failing to achieve success in their own country, have gone abroad, there to find encouragement and appreciation. The submarine is one example of this, and the United States to-day is deficient in this feature of marine service. The Wright brothers had really to go to France before their own countrymen appreciated their airship inventions. Inventors, disappointed and discouraged with failure at home, have, one by one, given to other peoples the product of their labor and intelligence. This condition should exist no longer. The way has been opened, and the country may well expect great results to follow.—Evening Capital News (Boise, Idaho).

The PEOPLE'S LEGAL FRIEND
by E. R. BRANSON

Better Not Take A Chance

Q. Is it possible for one to draw his own will, without the services of a lawyer? Will such a will be good?

A. It would be much better for you to have your lawyer draw the will for you. If you attempt to do so yourself, you may become involved in serious difficulties. In the execution of the will, all the requirements of the statute of your state must be observed. If you do not know what such requirements are or if you are ignorant of their meaning, you could hardly be expected to draw a will that would stand the test of the courts. Further, unless the will is very simple, it would be difficult for you to make known your meaning, so that your intention could be carried out.

Mortgage As Security

Q. A man gave a chattel mortgage as security for a note. There is nothing on the note to show that the mortgage was given. Will the mortgage be valid?

A. In your state (Illinois), it has been held that the mortgage will be good, even though the note does not show, upon its face, that it is secured by a mortgage.

Validity Of A Deed

Q. If a description of land, as contained in a deed, is uncertain and indefinite, will the deed be good?

A. The deed will not be void simply because of the uncertain or indefinite character of the description. If the intention may be ascertained by means of other facts, such as measurements or natural landmarks, or if it may be shown by the conduct of the parties, the deed will be good.

Better Not Try It

Q. If a man draws a check and, after it has left his hands, it is changed in some respect, will the check be good?

A. It will not be good unless the change is of a wholly immaterial nature.

Liability For Debt of Corporation

Q. To what extent are the members of a corporation responsible for the corporation's debts?

A. As a general rule, the liability of the individual member is limited to the shares of the capital stock which he actually contributes.

Why Be Eccentric About It?

Q. When a check is indorsed, does it make any difference where the indorser's signature is placed? Suppose he turns the check over and writes his name in the middle of the reverse side or at the wrong end—will it make any difference?

A. The proper, customary and convenient way is to place the check before you and turn it over—bottom side up. You then have the reverse side and the signature should be placed near the top, cross-wise, at the left end. The mere fact, however, that the signature is placed in the middle or on the other end will not affect the validity of the check or of the indorsement. Indorsing in the proper, customary and ordinary manner facilitates the transaction of business and is approved by bankers.

Employers' Liability

Q. Is there such a thing as a federal employers' liability act?

A. Yes.

She Needs The Money Now

Q. When a woman secures a divorce and alimony, when does the payment of alimony begin?

A. The court's decree granting the divorce usually specifies the time or times when alimony is to be paid.

Better Look At The Label

Q. If a druggist makes a mistake in compounding a medicine, or sells the wrong medicine to a customer, can the latter sue him for damages?

A. A druggist is required to know the properties and qualities of the medicines and drugs sold by him. If his negligence, or his failure to exercise due care and skill, results in injury, he will be liable in damages.

A Case For Eugenics

Q. What will be the effect, upon marriage, of the insanity of one of the parties? Is this a ground for divorce?

A. Where insanity exists before and at the time of the marriage, the marriage will be void. This is for the reason that an insane person does not possess the capacity to enter into a contract. If the insanity ensues after marriage, it is the rule in almost all the states that this will not constitute a ground for divorce.

The Right To Arrest

Q. Is a police officer entitled to make an arrest without a warrant?

A. Yes. He may make an arrest where an offence is committed in his presence or he may do so upon "probable cause."

Experience

Experience is the simple process of picking up what other people have dropped. In addition, it is picking up and making use of what you yourself may have thrown away. Then it is that you find that you too, have saved up Something.

Hire out—to your Eyes, Ears, Hands, Feet.

Then set them to work. Send your Eyes into the secrets of the Trees, Stones, Plants, Waters, Animals, Stars, Books, People; your Ears into the great Highways of Teaching, Music, Bird Singing; your Hands into the honorable shaping of the Soil—the building of Machines and Cities; your Feet to the rescue of Need, the finding of Facts, and the meeting of Duty.

Hire out—to your Eyes, Ears, Hands, Feet.

For Experience will never come to you unless you go after it.

Hire out—to your Eyes, Ears, Hands, Feet.

Outwardly every human being shapes quite the same. But each, mastered by Experience, walks off into devious paths to show up later as a Ruler or a Servant. Your Experience Tags you. The World places you easily after a glance at your Tag. Like a bold, flashing Electric Sign it blazes out your Worth to the Crowd. Accumulate Experience!

Hire out—to your Eyes, Ears, Hands, Feet.

This day—USED—will fill your Pockets and Soul with Experience. And the fuller your Pockets and Soul get, the greater will grow your Power and your Wealth. Abhor the useless. With Enthusiasm, go after the things that those above you did not neglect to grasp. For no two have ever quite Experienced the same thing the same. You have the Chance to make YOUR Experiences play into your hands as have those of none before you. Let this burn into your brain—

Hire out—to your Eyes, Ears, Hands, Feet.

When the sheriff is actually working at his job, the lynching often is frustrated.

When a man talks about a bargain he means real estate. When a woman talks about a bargain it is something at the drygoods store.

How long should a widower wait? In most communities he is held to have shown undue haste if he marries again before the grass sprouts on his wife's grave.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

How Hansel and Gretel Escaped From The Candy House.

They came to a hut all made of candy.

"HANSEL and Gretel were two little kiddies who lived with their daddy and stepmother in a lonely wood," said daddy, beginning the evening story.

"They were very poor, indeed, and sometimes it was very hard for the children's daddy to find them bread to eat. So the kiddies heard their stepmother advising their daddy to take them out in the woods and lose them.

"Of course their daddy was horrified at such a piece of cruelty and would not listen to what his wicked wife said. But next morning, when he had gone out in the woods to gather fagots for the fire, the stepmother coaxed the kiddies out into the woods and then disappeared.

"Gretel was very frightened when she found that they were deserted, but Hansel put his hand in his pocket and drew out a pebble.

"'See that, Gretel?' he said. 'Well, I had a whole pocketful, and I dropped one on the ground now and then. So tonight when the moon shines we will creep back home because the pebbles will show us the way.'

"The children played and ate berries and had a fine time. Then when the night came they crept back home easily enough.

"But wasn't their stepmother cross, though their daddy was very glad to have them back.

"Next day, however, she determined to take them out again and see if this time she could really lose them. So she rambled along here and there, the kiddies tagging on behind, and at last when the sun had gone down she ran away from them as fast as she could.

"Again Gretel began to cry, but Hansel comforted her. 'I dropped breadcrumbs all the way. We will follow the trail when morning comes.'

"But, kiddies, the birdies had eaten the breadcrumbs next morning, and so the tots were lost, indeed.

"They rambled around until they came to a hut all made of candy. It was striped and colored and was a sweet snare for lost children which an old witch had made.

"The old witch met them at the door. 'Come in; come in, my dears,' she said. But when they entered the witch pushed Hansel into a big cage and mumbled that when he had grown fat she would eat him. Then she kindled a fire to heat her oven, and Gretel watched as she leaned over to see if it was hot and pushed the old witch into her own hot oven.

"Then she let Hansel out of the cage, and they took big pots of gold from the witch's chest and ran away with it. So, you see, they lived happily ever after."

Glimpses of Married Life

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

"Poor little fellow! He's so uncomfortable," said Nell.

"'So uncomfortable,' yes, and he is making himself more so all the time by his yelling; he's working himself up into a regular fever." Dick rolled over with a groan.

"I'll take him into the living room and rock him; that will quiet him." Nell took the crying baby in her arms. "His teeth are hurting him; there is more disturbance when cutting the eye teeth than with any others.

"Now try to go to sleep, dear," she counseled. "You must get up early to go to the office. I can take a nap during the day when he is quiet."

She seated herself in a rocking chair by the open window and began to sway gently back and forth, but the baby refused to be quieted.

Unable longer to endure the frantic screaming, Dick presently appeared in his pajamas.

"Give him to me. It won't tire me so much to walk with him as to listen to his yelling." He placed the baby over his shoulder and began pacing up and down.

"You go and lie down," he urged. "Even if you can't sleep, it will rest you."

"I wish he would let me quiet him. It worries me to have you lose so much sleep when you are so worn out." Nell reluctantly left the room.

Up and down Dick walked, carrying the screaming child. Nell, utterly exhausted from the hard day, had fallen into a light doze in spite of the crying, when she was aroused by Dick's voice, saying in angry emphasis: "Stop it! Stop that noise! There's no sense in it." The crying showed that Dick was shaking the boy. Nell sprang out of bed and hurried to the living room.

"Let me try it a while; I'm rested now." She reached out her arms.

"There's no need of anyone's wearing himself out trying to quiet him. It's temper that ails him; see that? No child stiffens and throws himself back like that with pain. They draw up the knees for that."

"Not for all pain. I'm afraid he's very sick," said Nell, anxiously.

"He's very angry, I'm sure of that, and he might as well learn first as last that he can't rule the entire household by stiffening and screaming."

"Dick, give him to me. You are too nervous and tired to quiet him. You simply make him more excited."

"It's temper, I tell you. Stop that!" He shook the baby, but only succeeded in increasing the screaming. Then he gave the baby two sharp slaps on his bare legs. The child held his breath in surprise for a moment, then uttered a terrified scream and held out his arms to his mother.

"That's perfectly barbarous, Dick Morton," she gasped. "I wouldn't have believed you'd do such a thing. Give him to me!" she cried, trembling with excitement.

Dick handed him over and left the room. The sharp screaming was succeeded by convulsive sobbing and the exhausted child fell asleep. Nell laid him softly in his crib and crept into bed without a word. Dick was not asleep and he heard her softly crying.

"Nell, dear," he said, after the silence had grown unendurable. No answer. The sobbing continued.

"We must come to some understanding with regard to disciplining the baby; it will never do to have one object to what the other does before the child."

"I shall be afraid to have you touch him," she sobbed. "No baby, especially a teething baby, should be spanked."

"I didn't hurt him; only gave him a couple of little slaps. They startled him out of his temper; gave him something to think about. He would have been yelling yet if I hadn't." She made no answer.

"We'll talk this thing out later; let's sleep now that we have a chance," and he kissed her good night.

GARDEN SMOCKS

There has been much written about the garden smocks, but until recently they have remained within reach only of the well-to-do. Now, however, there are paper patterns for these smocks, so any clever woman can make them, from linen, cretonne or some other suitable fabric. They can be worn by young girls for tennis, golf, boating and other forms of outdoor life.

WHEN CORN IS HOT

There are some metal holders for hot ears of corn. One is thrust into each end, by means of three sharp spikes, and the handle end is held in the fingers. With the aid of these devices corn can be enjoyed on the cob without burning or soiling the fingers. They cost seventy-five cents each.

CAKES

Chocolate Cake With Marshmallow Icing—One and one-half cups granulated sugar, three-fourths cup butter, three eggs (keep one white for the icing), one cup milk, one large teaspoon vanilla, one-fourth teaspoon salt sifted in two cups flour, one cup chocolate or cocoa, two teaspoons baking powder added last of all. Bake in square tin 1¼ inches deep. Make usual boiled icing and have ready one-fourth pound marshmallows cut in small pieces. After heating frosting sufficiently, carefully fold in marshmallows. The icing will look very white and fluffy and you will have a delicious cake which never fails to please.

Eggless Sour Cream Cake—One cup sugar (either granulated or brown), one cup sour cream (if separated cream, use one-half cup filling, other half with water), one teaspoon soda stirred in cream, flavoring; one tablespoon cocoa sifted with enough flour to make cake consistency. This is inexpensive but delicious.

Huckleberry Cake—One cup butter, two cups sugar, three cups flour, five eggs, one cup sweet milk, one teaspoon soda dissolved in hot water, one teaspoon each of cinnamon and nutmeg, one quart ripe huckleberries into batter carefully, so as not to burn them. Bake in loaf or card.

Apple Shortcake—Pare and core eight apples; put in earthen dish with one tablespoon butter, one tablespoon lemon juice or nutmeg. Cover and bake in moderate oven till dark red and tender. When cold spread between layers of shortcake and serve with whipped cream or cold boiled custard.

Pansy Cake—For light part take one cup white sugar and cream it with butter the size of an egg. Add half cup milk, whites of four eggs well beaten, 2½ cups flour with two teaspoons baking powder. Color half the batter pink with fruit color; bake the remainder white.

For the dark part take one cup yellow sugar, butter size of egg, half cup milk, yolks of four eggs, two cups flour and two teaspoons baking powder. Divide batter and bake half in a yellow sheet and color the remainder with spices.

Put layers together with first the brown, then white, then pink, then yellow, and ice with a white icing.

A good caramel icing is made by boiling two cups white sugar and half cup sweet cream; omit butter if you use cream. Boil until it hardens in water, then beat until light and spread on cake while warm.

STOCKING ECONOMY

When you buy hosiery always get at least two pairs alike for the sake of economy. One stocking frequently wears before the other and having two pairs alike enables you to match the better ones. Every pair of stockings should be marked with a special mark so that they can be matched up easily after being laundered.

CHIEF WILLIAM M. ASH MUST PAY OWN EXPENSES

William M. Ash, chief of the South Orange fire department, will not attend the annual convention of fire chiefs at Cincinnati next month unless he pays his own expenses. The fire committee of the village trustees announced yesterday that the $125 asked for the chief's expenses would not be paid, but that he would be granted leave of absence if he was interested enough to pay his own way.

The committee contends that inasmuch as Chief Ash has recently returned from his vacation, he is not entitled to another at the expense of the taxpayers.

Sam Crawford, Tigers' Star, Today Celebrates Thirty-Fifth Birthday

Sam Crawford.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 20.—Sam Crawford, of the Tigers' wrecking crew, is too busy whaling away at the ball today to observe his 35th birthday. At a period in life when most baseball players are being relegated to the bench and the bushes, "Wahoo Sam" is going his best. With a pennant in sight, Sam and his famous side-partner, Ty Cobb, have loomed up big this season in the Jennings outfit. For many seasons they have slugged their cheery way together. They are sure the goat getters of the American League pitchers.

Crawford got his nickname and much of his stamina from his birthplace at Wahoo, Nebraska. In his tender youth, Sam took to barbering. Between shaves, he disported himself in the backyard with the boys of the neighborhood. Sam aspired to be a pitcher. He joined a barnstorming team and traveled through Nebraska. His friend John McIlvane, came back to Nebraska with tales of the big leagues. Crawford begged his friend to take him back with him in the spring to the Canadian League. Sam landed in Chatham, Ont., where he hit for .370 in 1898. Columbus, O., secured him the following year. That autumn Cincinnati secured Crawford. Sam jumped to Detroit in 1901, and there he has remained. And you can stack any kind of a bet that Hughey Jennings is not counting the days of his future usefulness.

The Tigers have been called a two-man team, on account of the wonderful slugging of Cobb and Crawford. Sam has held the clean-up position, and he comes through with regularity. During his many years with Jennings, Crawford has batted over .300. His best year was in 1911, when he hit for .378.

Last year Crawford led the American League on batting in runs, with a total of 112. He is a modest, quiet chap, and serves to hold down the effervescent Cobb.

NATIONAL LEAGUE RACE AT PRESENT THE CLOSEST IN THE HISTORY OF THE PASTIME

With Brooklyn within two points of the Phillies for the leadership in the National League, and with Detroit within two points of the Red Sox for the honors in the American League, the pennant races on both circuits present a situation which is unprecedented in the history of the national pastime.

At no time in the past have both leagues presented such thrilling races at the same time. With the fans the interest is about equally divided, because in both leagues the exciting fight for first place is commanding widespread attention.

This morning finds Pat Moran's Philadelphia club with a percentage of .538 and Brooklyn with .536. This difference of less than a game puts the Dodgers practically in a tie for first place as far as games won and lost is concerned. The Phillies have found it hard sledding against Cincinnati and Pittsburgh and appear to be slipping. On the other hand, Brooklyn is coming strong, and if the Phillies lose again today and Brooklyn is able to wrest another game from Chicago, the Dodgers will have a clear title to the League leadership.

There is only a difference of eight games between the first and last teams in the National League, a situation unheard of in the league with the end of the season only a little over a month away. The sudden and unexpected spurt of Cincinnati is the latest sensation of the pennant fight and today's standing finds them tied with St. Louis for seventh position. Cincinnati has won eight out of their last nine games and there is no sign of their weakening.

The American League race is also furnishing much excitement. Boston leads Detroit this morning with a scant two points, the same margin which features the National League race. Boston's standing is .651 and Detroit is .649. The Chicago White Sox are but a few points behind and are still within easy reach of first honors. Detroit's chances look bright for the leadership, as they are playing the Athletics again today, while the Red Sox have another tough game on with the White Sox. It is very likely that as a result of today's games, both leagues will see new leaders setting the pace tomorrow. Never in the history of baseball have the races in both leagues been so close and exciting at this stage of the season, as they are at the present time.

WORLD'S HORSE RECORD.

Goshen, N. Y., Aug. 20.—Another world's harness horse race record was smashed at the races here yesterday afternoon. It was in the mile dash to high-wheel sulkies. The three contestants were money-winners in the 2:12 trot on Tuesday. Harry J. S., drawing the same sulky which John R. Gentry drew when he paced a mile in 2:07¼, defeated Strafford and Raffles. The winner trotted the mile in 2:15, which is a world's record to high wheels over a half-mile track.

P. T. Powers announced last night that the Newark Federal League Club had completed a deal with the Brooklyn Federals whereby the services of Tom Seaton had been transferred to the Peps, the consideration being the acquisition by the Tip-Tops of the twirling talents of Cy Falkenberg.

DUNELLEN BASEBALL.

The Plainfield Juniors and the Dunellen Scouts will fight it out on Maurer Oval, Dunellen, tomorrow. This will be the fifth and last time these two aggregations will meet. "Sid" Butler and Cohen and Maskell and Clarence Eder will be the opposing batteries.

Games Tomorrow

Hopes vs. Saurers (Hope Field).

Clinton Avenue vs. Netherwood (Netherwood Field).

T. A. B. S. vs. Baptists (Baptist Field).

After enjoying a short respite all the City League teams will set the ball a-rolling again tomorrow. The result of the action is keenly awaited by the followers of each of the several teams. The league leaders and the second place men have to battle with the real stuff, while the Tabs, the third team in the list, ought to have easy sailing. The Netherwood team stands a good chance of losing to the Clintonians, while the Hopes have a dangerous foe in the Saurer crew. Of course, the Baptists are lowly rated but they may spring another one of their delayed surprises.

Should the Netherwoods and Hopes lose and the Abstainers win the standing would be greatly effected, the T. A. B. S. leading by half a game, exactly thirty points above the East Enders and sixty-seven points ahead of the Chapelmen. If the Netherwoods win and all the other dangerous teams lose, the East Enders will have secured an impregnable grasp on the flag.

The twirlers in the various tilts tomorrow will most likely be as follows: Hopes, Montross against Miller, Saurer; Rosenson, Clinton Avenue, against Stewart, Netherwood, and Denny, T. A. B. S., versus Dilts, Baptists.

FARMER A. C. WILL TRY THE LEVGAR PLAYERS

The Farmer A. C. will try conclusions with the Levgar A. C. on the old Primrose grounds, in Lincoln, tomorrow. These two teams are of equal strength and an interesting go is anticipated. The Farmers have established a splendid record this season, having won seven and lost only two encounters.

Plans are under way whereby the "seeds" and the Plainfield A. A. will clash on a neutral field in the near future. Manager Campbell is also angling for a tilt with the Tabs.

Tomorrow the Farmers will line-up as follows: Ryan, cf; Campbell, lf; Morley, c; Kachebriess, p; Marsh, ss; Anderson, 1b; Peterson, 2b; Friele, 3b, and Coote, rf.

The Levgar line-up has not been given out.

NEWARK LEADS PENNANT RACE.

THERE'LL BE LOTS DOING AT WAYSIDE PARK AFFAIR

An athletic meet and picnic, under the auspices of Somerset Council, No. 104, Jr. O. U. A. M., will be held at Wayside Park, Dunellen, tomorrow.

Although many of the events are closed to members of the council, nevertheless, there are several in which any athletically inclined person may compete. Quite a number of entries for the various contests have already been received, and it is expected that there will be some lively competition in the 100-yard dash and 440-yard run. Athletic contests have also been arranged for the girls, while a baseball game between the married and single members of the council will follow immediately after the athletic competition is concluded.

ROD AND REEL

The outside fishermen were in their glory yesterday and the day before. Catches of sea bass, blackfish and porgies have been regularly registered off the Klondike banks. One large fluke was also landed.

Plenty of croakers and large weakfish have been landed out from Great Kills, S. I., almost every day during the past few weeks.

It is claimed by piscatorial experts that the tuna caught off the Jersey coast are the same kind as those to be found off the California Islands. There are a number of anglers in the East who are turning their attention to fishing for these big warriors, and entirely different tackle is required than for any other fish, not excepting the tarpon. The biggest fish are being caught near Nova Scotia. The world's record fish for rod and reel was taken off Port Medway, Nova Scotia. It weighed 710 pounds, and took eight and one-quarter hours to land. The fish measured ten feet four inches and was seven feet in girth. Herring or mossbunkers make good bait.

Fishing is surely uncertain this year. Everybody complains of his ill luck, but it isn't luck, it is something strange; and, hearing from all quarters as we do, it does seem to be more than a mere scarcity of fish. Wednesday evening one man arrived at the Long Branch pier just as a number of fishermen were leaving with great strings of weakfish, croakers and fluke. It looked bright for a good evening's fishing, but the only thing got in two hours was an eel. How to explain it is a problem. During two hours there there wasn't another fish caught, but two hours later, and for about an hour, the dozen or more fishermen on the pier were kept busy pulling in fish. The only explanation is sharks. Sharks will scatter a school of fish in a second and they won't even come for an hour. If it isn't sharks, what makes the fishing so erratic?

The Canarsie guides are doing quite well with the weaks these days, and not a few croakers are being picked up also in the channels. The weaks are of a new school, and many of them run up to four, five and six pounds apiece. The fish are taking shedd r crabs best now.

P. S. VS. WESTFIELD.

The Westfield A. C., a team which received a 11 to 1 beating at the hands of the Plainfield Juniors on Parker Field last Saturday, will try conclusions with a team of local Public Service employes on Parker Field tomorrow. Baker and Schropp will be in the points for the visitors, but the local's line-up has not been given out.

ROSELLE TO SEND TEAM.

A Roselle baseball squad under the leadership of Kachelriess will oppose the Highlanders in the second section of a big two-ply killing on the Emerson avenue field tomorrow. The Roselle team has been secured to take the place left vacant by the postponement of the game with Casey Lambertson's All Stars.

ARRANGE FOR FINALS IN NETHERWOOD TOURNEY

A tennis doubles' tournament will be started at the Netherwood Tennis Club's courts tomorrow, and will continue for two and possibly three weeks.

Last Saturday the singles' contests reached the finals. Stanley Bellows and Paul Collier will complete this event Sunday morning.

RUNYON IN TRIM FOR BIG KEANSBURG EVENT

Among the many athletes who will compete in the Keansburg Carnival Association's athletic events tomorrow, Ralph Runyon, the local youth, shines out most brilliantly. However, he will not have a chance to compete in the pole vault, as there will be no event of this kind run off owing to the fact that many of the State's best vaulters are otherwise engaged. Ralph has entered the running broad and high jumps, and, as he is exceptionally good in all these lines, he ought to bring home the bacon.

Harry Obertubessing, the A. A. U. official handicap man, will have charge of the affair, and will be ably assisted by a corps of well-known officials, with whom Runyon is well acquainted.

This morning he stated that this meet will be valuable to him in preparation for the Labor Day Micheln affair, as that club intends entering twenty-one men in the Keansburg competition, thereby affording Ralph a chance to get a line on their material.

ELKS LEAGUE TO MEET.

The Elks Junior Bowling League will meet at Newark Lodge, No. 21, Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. At that time officers will be elected, and applications for membership in the league will be received.

RAHWAY MAN FOUND AFTER ABSENCE OF NEARLY A YEAR

Rahway, Aug. 20.—Missing since last November, when he left home presumably to go hunting, George B. Cladek, fifty years old, of 42 Seminary avenue, has been discovered in Allenhurst, where he is employed in the Allenhurst Gardens as a laborer. Cladek's whereabouts were made known to his mother-in-law, Mrs. Mary Herman, who is residing near Allenhurst, and she communicated with her daughter.

The early part of this week Mrs. Cladek visited her husband, who, she says, told her his mind became a blank on the day he left home and remained so until January 27. During his absence Cladek is said to have worked in Melbourne, Fla., as a cashier in the Carlton Hotel. When the season closed there he came to Deal, where he obtained a similar position in the Holy Way Inn. After working there for a time he and his employers disagreed and he left. Subsequently he went to work in the Allenhurst Gardens. Mrs. Cladek said that her husband intends to return to Rahway as soon as he settles his affairs in Allenhurst.

Cladek was born in Rahway, was a liveryman and took an active part in politics. He served in the Common Council and on the Board of Freeholders, and at the time of his disappearance he was a member of the Board of Education. His family consists of his wife and two daughters.

The party started on the trip this morning from Cape May. They will spend tonight at Atlantic City, continuing the inspection tomorrow, and ending by evening at Bay Head.

BACK TO DUTY AGAIN.

Chief Marshal George Weiss, of the North Plainfield police department, has returned to duty after an absence of three weeks on a vacation, and Roundsman Keller, who has been acting chief marshal, began his annual vacation today. Chief Marshal Weiss spent his time off at his bungalow at Washington's Rock.

CLOSING DAYS OF THE PLAYGROUNDS

Supervisors Are Now Busily Engaged In Arranging Exhibitions.

RESUME OF THE WORK

Many Features, Including Folk Dancing and Games, Will Comprise Programs—Fancy Work to Be Displayed at Various Centres.

Now that the local playground season is rapidly drawing to a close, the various supervisors are preparing their annual exhibits. Naturally, each one is anxious to excel the other.

The Franklin playground exhibition was held on Wednesday and the work accomplished by the children, under the guiding eye of Mrs. Frances Nischwitz and her assistant, Miss Louise Francke, met with the ready approbation of the many present. This playground is the most centrally located and, as a result, attracts the greatest number of children daily. An average of 125 youngsters frequented this particular amusement spot daily during the past seven weeks. The instructor and her aide have nothing but words of praise for the polite manner in which the children conducted themselves. Of course, there were a few unruly ones, but a little reprimand was all that was needed to bring them to their senses.

The St. Mary's playground, which was opened under the supervision of Miss Helen George, has catered to so many kiddies that the Recreation Committee thought it advisable to secure an assistant for Miss George. Consequently Miss Lucy Douglas was assigned to help her. The exhibition of the work accomplished by these children will be shown to the public next Wednesday, when it is hoped that all the parents and friends of the little ones will be present. Promptly at 2:30 the gates will be thrown open and folk dances and games will be enjoyed by almost one hundred little girls and boys, who have been especially trained for the occasion. Then, too, the baskets they have made and the sewing they have accomplished will be hung up in conspicuous places.

On the same day Miss Ruth Wean and her assistant, Miss Marion Mair, will stage their show. The Irving playground is under their care and as it is the only one in the extreme West End it is frequented by many children. This playground has the unique distinction of being the first one to introduce a baseball league, but since Parker Field has been thrown open interest in that branch of sport has gradually died down. The Irving exhibit will contain about the same features as all the others and will begin at about the same time.

Miss Harriet B. Moe, of Jersey City, has control of the Bryant grounds and has no assistant, being well able to manage the large number of children who visit her every day. Miss Moe is a pioneer at the job and is a school teacher in New York city. The Bryant exhibition will be given on Thursday and will contain the usual features in addition to a few surprises. Miss Moe says she has a few boys there who can make sand models of anything on earth and, what's more, they are going to prove it.

Although no definite announcement has been made it is thought that the playgrounds will close at the end of next week.

FIRE ON DUMPING GROUNDS ANNOYS BOROUGH RESIDENTS

The dumping grounds on Greenbrook road, North Plainfield, were on fire yesterday, and so dense became the smoke that the borough fire department was called upon last evening to extinguish the fire. The department responded with the apparatus and extingished the blaze with chemicals.

Many complaints were made to the police department and other borough officials yesterday because of the smoke from the dump fire which, on account of the heavy atmosphere, hung low over the ground and penetrated people's houses through open doors and windows. By evening the stench and smoke had become unendurable, and a telephone message was sent to fire headquarters. Health Officer Louis Oliff is investigating the dump today, and if the matter comes under the jurisdiction of the borough health department, a notice will be sent the owners of the land that they must abate the nuisance.

Don't forget that classified advertisements must be in by noon on Saturdays.

GRANGE DECIDES TO ESTABLISH MARKET

Stock to the Amount of $1,000 Subscribed For At Organization Meeting.

Definite steps were taken last night at a special meeting of the Mt. Bethel Grange to establish a grange co-operative market in Plainfield The market is to be incorporated and will be capitalized at $10,000, the shares selling at ten dollars each, so that all farmers interested in this plan for the retailing of their produce may become members of the market concern.

The meeting was an enthusiastic one and the course decided upon was adopted by unanimous vote. Stock to the amount of $1,000 was sold last night, and much more is being disposed of today. The market will be in operation in a short time.

This action on the part of the farmers of Mt. Bethel and vicinity was taken because of the low prices being paid producers for their fruit and vegetables by commission merchants and wholesale dealers. The idea is to obtain a store or other building in a good location in Plainfield from which the farmers' produce may be sold directly to the consumers.

S. V. Adams, A. E. Binz and E. E. Cooper were appointed a committee to find a suitable store and make the necessary arrangements to open it.

Stock has already been sold to F. H. Horton, E. E. Cooper, Eugene Bowers, S. V. Adams, A. E. Binz and J. C. Cooper.

The market is to be conducted on the co-operative basis as is done in the West. Middlemen's profits will be done away with.

AUTO MOVING VAN HIT TREE WHEN STEERING GEAR BROKE

An automobile owned by the Alden & Moore furniture moving concern, of Newark, crashed into a tree on West Front street late yesterday afternoon, being damaged to the extent of $300. The machine was driven by Peter Romansky, of Newark, and was bringing a load of furniture from Whitehouse.

According to the driver the accident was caused by a defective stearing gear. The auto swerved suddenly from its course and hit the curb, later crashing into the tree. It was towed to a garage.

THIS 'PUBLICAN CAME NEAR MISSING THE BIG JAMBOREE

"Oh, please, Mister Judge, let me out, I'se neber missed a 'publican excursion and I's jest goter go terday."

In wierd tones this plea rang through the police headquarters time and again between the hours of 8 and 8:45 o'clock this morning, the strains coming from the cell-room in which Frank Jordan, a colored waiter, claiming residence on Filmore avenue, was temporarily housed. He had been locked up shortly before 8 o'clock at the Central Railroad station while waiting for the G. O. P. outing train by Patrolman Cornelius McCarthy, who charged him with using vile and indecent language.

No sooner had the man been relegated to a police cell than he began to plead for his release. When Judge DeMeza wandered into the station house a half hour before train time his curiosity prompted him to take a look at the individual responsible for the frenzied pleadings.

"Don't you think you'll be better off here than at Coney Island today?" asked the judge.

"No siree, I'se jest gotter be thar, Mister Jedge, please lemme out."

"Will you show up if I set your case down for Monday morning?" queried the judge.

"I'll do anythin' yer say, jedge. Here, keep mah hat, keep mah shoes, keep all mah clothes, but lemme go wid de 'publicans."

Touched by the pleadings of the negro, Judge DeMeza, who, by the way, was also planning to take in the outing, finally agreed to let the man out for the day and as he sped for the last car of the train Frank shouted back his promise to be right on hand to say "Good morning, judge," Monday morning.

DR. MAC ARTHUR TO PREACH.

The pulpit at the Park Avenue Baptist church tomorrow morning will be occupied by the Rev. Dr. Kenneth MacArthur, the well-known Baptist preacher. The service begins at 11 o'clock. Dr. MacArthur has preached in this city before and is well known here.

Mrs. Andrew McDowell, with her two daughters, Aleta and Grace, accompanied by Mrs. John Wendell, of Arlington avenue and her two daughters Mayme and Ethel, start today for a week's outing at Keansburg.

APPRECIATES HONOR

Thanks Citizens' Committee For Its Expressed Esteem—W. L. Smalley Gives Interview On Mayor's Decision.

Mayor Robert Clark, Jr., of North Plainfield, will not be a candidate for re-election. In answer to the request made the other evening by a committee of borough residents, claiming to represent the citizens of North Plainfield, that he reconsider the decision made some time ago not to run again, the Mayor sent a negative reply last night. The letter of refusal was sent to Rev. Dr. H. K. Carroll, of Westervelt avenue, who was spokesman of the committee that waited upon Mayor Clark at the latter's home on the evening in question, and is final. Mayor Clark will not seek further service as the borough's chief executive.

Following is a copy of the letter, which was sent to Dr. Carroll:

POLICE SAY WOMAN IS JESSAMY STEELE

Well Known Here Where She Formerly Lived—Daughter of Brete Harte.

A woman, believed to be Mrs. Jessamy Harte Steele, eldest daughter of Bret Harte, the American writer, was taken to Bellevue Hospital yesterday afternoon by the New York police for observation on a commitment by Magistrate Krote in the West Side court. She has been estranged from her husband, whom she married in this city in 1900, when she was known for her artistic talents and her beauty.

In January, 1907, she attracted much attention throughout the country by being found in Portland, Me., where she had gone to give a recital of her father's works, in a broken down coidition, financially and mentally. She was committed to the poorhouse.

SET MONDAY NIGHT FOR PASSING ON LABOR ISSUE

At the Building Trades' Council meeting last night further reports of the alleged unfair labor conditions at the Saurer plant extension were made. The matter was laid over until Monday night, without any action being taken, to permit the Machinists' Union to consider the question.

Hugh V. Riley, district business agent of the machinists, will be present at that meeting, and may receive instructions from the Machinists' Local to take up the matter with the proper officials. If such action is taken, Mr. Riley and William H. Lunger, business agent of the Building Trades' Council, will probably visit the works on Tuesday and order the union machinists at work in the shop to strike. In that way only, it is said, can the union men get at the alleged unfair conditions which prevail at the Saurer plant.

DEATH OF AN INFANT.

Ida A. Hahn, the three-month's-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Hahn, of 1,261 Arlington avenue, died this morning. The funeral service will be held at the parents' home tomorrow afternoon and interment will be made in Evergreen cemetery, on Plainfield avenue.

Governor Whitman Makes Known His Choice When a New Yorker Was Conceded to Be Favored—New Judge Educated at Leal's.

New York Republicans were treated to a decided surprise yesterday when official announcement was made of the appointment by Governor Whitman of Edward R. Finch, son of E. L. Finch, of Park avenue, this city, to the Supreme Court vacancy caused by the death of John J. Delany. His appointment occasioned considerable surprise because of the fact that Isidor Wasservogel, of New York city, was considered to be in line for the plum.

Mr. Finch, who was born and brought up in this city, having attended the Leal Preparatory School and later Yale University. He has been identified with the Parsons wing of the Republican county organization of New York for several years, having been an active member of the law committee and the chief framer and advocate of the laws for election reform in New York city. At the executive chamber it was said there was no comment to be made about the appointment except that it was regarded as a good one.

Mr. Finch has been a practicing lawyer in New York city since 1898, and has taken an active part in public affairs. He is forty-one years old, and was graduated from Yale University, a member of Phi Beta Kappa, in 1895, and from Columbia Law School in 1898. He is a member of the law firm of Finch & Coleman, No. 32 Nassau street, New York city.

The new appointee, who served three terms in the Assembly, from 1901 to 1903, from the old Fifth Assembly district, has taken a prominent part in reform of the laws relating to elections and the regulation of child labor. He is the author of the "signature" law, which requires every voter to sign his name, which is considered one of the most effective measures for the prevention of election frauds in the statutes.

FUND FOR NURSERY PASSES $300 MARK

$10 Added By An Unknown Contributor This Morning.

A check for $10 from "J. G. P." increased the City Union King's Daughters' Day Nursery fund this morning to $307.20. Although the various circles of the King's Daughters raise a large sum each year to be applied to the work done at the Nursery, summer brings on heavier expenses and a need of more funds. Charitable friends each year send their contributions to the Daily Press, where each amount is acknowledged through the columns of the paper and sent to the Nursery to be applied in the work.

The increasing expense each summer is incurred because of the public milk stations kept, where the mother may get fresh milk for the little tot, also the baby clinics, where she is instructed in the proper care of the baby.

Further contributions are needed and will be welcomed at this office, and note of each donation, however small, will be made through these columns. The total fund to date is as follows:

Previously acknowledged	$297.20
"J. G. P."	10.00
Total	$307.20

NOTED BAND TO PLAY FOR LOCAL PARADERS

Plainfield Elks to Be Headed By Allentown Musicians at Atlantic City.

As an added feature to their plans for a representative appearance at the annual reunion and parade of the New Jersey State Elks' Association at Atlantic City, Tuesday, September 14, the Plainfield lodge has been fortunate enough to secure the Allentown band, one of the best known and most popular sets of musicians in the State of Pennsylvania, which will lead the Queen City procession in the monster street demonstration. That the Plainfielders will make an attractive appearance in the street demonstration is a foregone conclusion, and indications at present point to one of the largest representations that ever wore the Plainfield lodge's colors at an event of this nature. The local delegates will be attired in Palm Beach suits and will carry other outward marks designating them as Plainfielders from 885.

As a means of raising money to defray the expenses of hiring this band the committee in charge of the reunion plans has completed arrangements for a shirtwaist dance and reception to be given in the Watchung avenue clubhouse next Thursday night. An enjoyable evening of entertainment is promised all those who attend, dancing, with music furnished from the latest July and August dance records on the Edison diamond disc phonograph, being one of the principal attractions.

The Atlantic City committee has received assurances from Somerville and Bound Brook that a delegation of 100 from each place will accompany the Plainfield Elks on the reunion trip. It is also expected that a large representation of the women friends of the Elks will also be on hand at the shore resort, a silver loving cup having been offered to be awarded to the lodge having the largest delegation of fair companions present.

JERSEY CITY MOTORCYCLE CRASHED INTO A TAXICAB

Two Jersey City men on an Indian motorcycle had a narrow escape from serious injury, and possibly death, at the juncture of Park avenue and East Fifth street, at 8 o'clock this morning, when their machine crashed at right angles into a Ford taxi, driven by Gus Bomond, of 303 East Seventh street, an employe of the Plainfield Cab Company. Eyewitnesses of the accident say that neither driver blew a horn, and that the motorcycle was traveling at a lively clip.

When the crash came it threw the motorcycle driver, John Gobel, of 9 Elizabeth street, Jersey City, over the handbars, and he landed in a heap on the sidewalk. A companion, who was riding on a rear seat, was thrown to the road. Both men sustained severe bruises and a bad shaking up, but were not seriously hurt. The taxi was only slightly damaged, while the motorcycle was put out of commission. Patrolman Roy Martin took the two drivers to headquarters, where Sergeant Andrew Saffron disposed of the matter, finding the fault equally divided.

ITALIAN CONVICT DEAD, CELLMATE SERIOUSLY HURT

Trenton, Aug. 21.—John DeAugustino, a convict, at the New Jersey State Prison, died yesterday as the result of a stabbing affray with a fellow convict, Joseph Ferrato, in their cell early yesterday morning. DeAugustino and Ferrato have not been getting along as cellmates and both smuggled knives from their shops into the cell. Early yesterday morning they quarreled and then pulled the knives. DeAugustino was so badly hurt that he died in a few hours. Ferrato is in the prison hospital, badly hurt.

DeAugustino was serving twelve years from Cumberland for larceny and Ferrato is serving three and a half for larceny. He was sentenced from Middlesex.

How to Keep Our City Moving

We must keep moving. A city booms only so long as its manufacturers and merchants keep moving. The wheels of every line of endeavor must be kept turning if the city is going to develop, and what is of deeper concern than the wheels of Plainfield kept turning?

Should every one who has the interest of Plainfield close at heart buy goods from our merchants, the benefits all around can easily be seen. Thousands of dollars that would otherwise go out of the city will be kept circulating here and contribute a big share towards making a bigger and busier Plainfield.

A dollar spent at home will keep that dollar at home and all will share in the profits.

The Orduna carried about 3,500 tons of general cargo.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

JUDGE FINCH.

Having before him a considerable number of names of members of the New York bar in good standing, and all of certified and recommended qualifications, Governor Whitman has appointed Edward R. Finch to be a Justice of the Supreme Court to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Justice Delaney. It will be the general opinion of the bench and the bar that the choice was well made, that in appointing Mr. Finch the Governor has raised to the bench a counselor at law well qualified for judicial duty. Justice Finch has a record for valuable service as a practitioner and as a citizen. He has done good work as a member of the Assembly, in the Honest Ballot Association, in the City Club, as a member of the Child Welfare Committee, and his seventeen years' practice in the courts gives him the sound qualification of knowledge and experience. The term for which Justince Finch is appointed to fill a vacancy will expire on January 1. Very naturally, his appointment is taken as an assurance that he will be nominated at the primaries as his own successor and with good prospect of election.—New York Times.

WARRING ON RUST.

Problems With Which Iron and Steel Exports Are Wrestling.

This age of steel has roused a world wide battle with rust, and more chemists and other experts are studying possible weapons for this battle than are busy on almost any other industrial problem. Concrete owes much of its present growth to the difficulty of protecting steel and iron against rust.

Absolutely pure iron will not rust, and fairly pure iron will rust only slowly. One way, therefore, is to improve the grade of iron, and manufacturers now sell iron that is guaranteed to withstand rust for considerable periods. It is possible, though expensive, to purify iron completely by electricity, and electrolytic iron, as it is called, may before long be common commercially.

Surface coats of protection are, however, the favorite methods of today, and many such coatings have appeared lately. The latest one is a metal coat that can be applied on an iron or steel structure after it has been erected in much the same way that paint is applied. Finely powdered metals—such as tin, lead or zinc, or all three in proper proportion—are mixed in oil and painted on the bridge or column or other structure that needs protection. Then the painted surface is heated by a hand torch or in whatever way is most convenient.

The oil burns away, and the powdered metal melts, but does not run. As the metal cools it takes a tight grip on the iron surface and forms a tin or alloy coat, which stops rust.—Saturday Evening Post.

Selecting the Golf Ball.

The small heavy ball will go farther than the lighter or larger ball for the player who can hit it extremely hard owing to its less resistance from the air. Because of its weight and small size it can bore its way through the air almost like a bullet. In the case of a lady or a very light hitter I firmly believe they will get much better results with the large light ball since because of its greater resiliency it will get the maximum distance from a much lighter blow. So my advice would be for a light hitter to use the light ball, the average hitter the medium weight and the hard hitter the heavy ball.—Outing.

Phi Beta Kappa.

Phi Beta Kappa are the names of three letters of the Greek alphabet, the initial letters of three Greek words, Philosophia Biou Kubernetes, which means "philosophy the guide of life."

This is the name of the oldest of the Greek letter college societies. Membership is bestowed as an honor for exceptionally good scholarship. The society originated at William and Mary college in 1776, but has extended to many other colleges and universities. There are about 17,000 names in the catalogue. Members wear a gold watch key as a badge, with emblem and inscriptions.—Philadelphia Press.

CONVOY ALLEGED TO HAVE LEFT ARABIC

Ambassador Page Confirms Earlier Reports That Liner Received No Warning.

Washington, Aug. 21.—Advices are said to have reached the State Department that the Arabic's alleged convoy of torpedo boats had left the liner and was out of sight when the German submarine sunk her. Secretary of State Lansing refused to admit that such word had been received, but he entered no denial.

Official information reaching Washington today would indicate that Ambassador Page at London has confirmed the earlier press reports that the Arabic was given no warning of the impending attack by a German submarine. However, President Wilson and Secretary Lansing are awaiting more detailed reports. The question of convoy is extremely important and will have much to do with the action of the Administration at Washington toward the German government.

Queenstown, Ireland, Aug. 21—Three more of the life boats of the White Star liner Arabic were discovered during the night by the small steamers which have been patrolling the waters off Fastnet Light and its vicinity. One contained the body of a woman and in another was the body of one of the stewards of the big liner. The list of missing now includes 41 names, of whom 15 were passengers and two of whom were Americans.

LITERARY

MEXICOS OF THE PAST.

"Many a state has approached the verge of dissolution only to be saved by itself in the hour of compelling necessity. If Mexico is to be considered as passing through such a stage in its development, the pages of mediaeval history are vividly recalled to us today in the violence practiced against priests and nuns by the Mexican revolutionists, in the barbaric acts of the armed bands in the field, the execution of civilians, and the frequent disregard of the foreigner and his rights under the laws of nations. All political liberty, it will be remembered, was destroyed in the rival town-states of Italy in the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries, when the tyrant taught intrigue and assassination, and deadly feuds led to the introduction of the condottieri, the mercenaries who made of war a game, with no interest in the quarrels beyond their individual ambitions ever ready to change sides at the dictates of self-interest or for higher pay. Also there came the invader from Austria, Spain and France, until at length the nation acquired self-possession and unity. Nor must it be forgotten that the agrarian and religious problems that menace Mexico today once also imperilled the social fabric of Germany and France. The Peasants' Wars, the revolt against feudalism, heavy services and dues, and the special attack on the higher clergy who sought to enforce their exactions by threats of excommunication to the impenitent, were the travails in which the greater nations were born."—David Laurence, in the September Century.

The beginning of a new serial by Rupert Hughes each year in The Red Book magazine has become an event to look forward to. The first installment of his 1915 novel, which is entitled "The Thirteenth Commandment," appears in the September issue of that publication. Although the story opens in Cleveland, O., it is apparent that most of the action is to transpire in New York city, which Mr. Hughes has made his own special field. It is a story built on the constant battle between money and romance. The phase of Mr. Hughes' work which seems to be one of its chief appeals—that his characters are all the sort of folks we all know—is even more apparent in "The Thirteenth Commandment" than it was in "What Will People Say?" and "Empty Pockets."

In this issue of The Red Book, the novel by Mrs. Humphrey Ward comes to a conclusion, but "Wild Youth," by Gilbert Parker, only reaches the first of its many thrilling climaxes. In the list of twelve pace-setting short stories" one finds the names of such writers as Peter B. Kyne, George Fitch, Ring W. Lardner, Ellis Parker Butler, Harris Merton Lyon and Ida M. Evans.

STARLINGS STILL ANNOY RESIDENTS

State Game Commission May Be Called Upon to Act In the Matter.

The starlings that have proven such a nuisance to North Plainfield residents are beginning to grow shy and hopes are entertained by the long suffering residents of the vicinity of Jackson and Watchung avenues that they are seriously considering another roosting place. Since the bombardment which took place Wednesday evening, they have been scattering more at night, and now occupy a row of maple trees along Jackson avenue, instead of Mrs. Ida Fountain's spruces exclusively.

As a sample of the red tape which it is necessary to go through before obtaining permission to shoot the birds without making one's self liable to fine or imprisonment, the proceedure which would have to be gone through may be cited.

The two game wardens who visited Mayor Robert Clark, Jr., of the borough—William Hoblitzell, of Rahway, and Charles Welsh, of East Millstone—could not grant permission for any one to shoot the birds, but advised exploding blank charges of powder in the air as an experiment. In case that does not work, it will be necessary for the sufferers from this bird nuisance to write to the secretary of the State Game Commission complaining of the nuisance, advising what has been done to abate it, and accompanying the request for permission to shoot into the flock with intent to kill by affidavits to the effect that the birds constitute a nuisance.

The commission would then consider the matter at a meeting of the board and listen to testimony from the two game wardens who have seen the birds there. Then if, in their judgment, the nuisance is grave enough to warrant them in granting permission to the sufferers to kill any birds, such action on Mayor Clark's part would have to be taken at a time when the game warden could be on the ground to see that only the starlings constituting the nuisance were shot. It might be difficult to arrange a time when a game warden could be present, and in the interval the nuisance from the birds would have to go on.

Mayor Clark has been too busy lately to devote any time to the birds, but it is probable that some more shooting will be done in the vicinity of the Mayor's residence tonight. Chief Marshal George Weiss has agreed to borrow a shot gun and to be on hand about 6:30 to do the necessary bombarding. Mayor Clark may add to the occasion by the discharge of a few Roman candles.

STOCK TRANSFERS APPROVED BY UTILITY COMMISSIONERS

Trenton, Aug. 21.—The application of the Delaware and Atlantic Telegraph and Telephone Company for permission to transfer on its books 4,285 shares of capital stock owned by the Bell Telephone Company, of Pennsylvania, to the New York Telephone Company has been approved by the Board of Public Utility Commissioners.

An issue of $85,000 of capital stock and $190,000 of bonds of the Trenton, Lakewood and Seacoast Railway Company has also been approved by the Board. The original application made by the company requested that permission be given to issue $200,000 of capital stock and $320,000 of bonds.

The agreement between the New York Telephone Company and the borough of Butler for the joint use of poles has been sanctioned by the Board. Approval was also given by the Board to similar agreements between the Delaware and Atlantic Telegraph and Telephone Company and the Pleasantville Heat, Light and Power Company and the Delaware and Atlantic with the Pennsylvania Electric Light, Heat and Power Company.

Permission was given the Pennsylvania Railroad to dispose of eight tracts of land in South Brunswick township. Two resolutions of the Middlesex county freeholders giving the New York Telephone Company the right to extend its lines in Piscataway township also received the approval.

LOCAL REPUBLICANS ON OUTING TO CONEY

300 From Plainfield Among Those Who Took In Annual Excursion.

Ideal Republican weather, hailed by the wiseacres of the party as a harbinger of success at the fall elections, greeted nearly 2,000 Union county followers of the G. O. P. platform as they sailed from Recreation Pier, Elizabethport, this morning, on their annual outing to Coney Island. William Newcorn, of this city, chairman of the Union County Republican Committee, was master of ceremonies, and among the excursionists were a goodly number of Plainfielders, including the following: Mayor Leighton Calkins, Charles Graves, Andy McCardell, John Bowman, Bill Connolly, Bill Kline, Judge Runyon, Michael Regan, William Kline, Sr., William Kline Jr., Nathan Pollard, Jack Nichols, Dick Scott, Louis Sheriday, Judge DeMeza, Joe Harrigan, Bill Nash, L. R. Fort, John Cose, Frank Smith, Hughie Sweeney, Jack McCullough, E. C. Westcott, Mathew Ward, Louis Donovan, George I. Whelen, Martin Connaughton, Charles Keller, Martin Cuniff, John Cuniff, Tommy Timbo, "Ted" Flannery, Tucker Johnson, Bill Gaub, Jimmy Lyons, Jack Flynn, Chief Jennings, John Noonan Judge William Newcorn, Bobbie McQueen, Daniel Guinee, "Doc" Crist.

About 300 local Republicans appeared at the boat. Practically all the prominent Republicans of this count, as well as specially invited guests from elsewhere, attended the outing today. The list of those who acepted invitations to be present includes the names of former Governor Edward C. Stokes, of Trenton; Congressman John H. Capstick, of Montville; former Congressman Charles N. Fowler, of Elizabeth; State Senators Charles A. Rathbund, of Morris; Carlton B. Pierce, of Union; Blanchard White, of Burlington, and Austen Colgate, of Essex; Newton Bugbee, of Trenton, chairman of the State Republican Committee; Edward Ehlers, chairman of the Morris County Republican Committee; Mayor Leighton Calkins, of Plainfield; Hamilton F. Kean, of Elizabeth; Charles A. Otto, Jr., secretary of the Union Republican County ommittee, and many others.

It was reported at last night's meeting that the differences between the committee in charge of the outing and certain union men had been patched up, as it was decided that only union musicians and waiters would be engaged for the affair. Barnard's Band will furnish music on the trip. The bartenders are also union men, so the Central Labor Union will have no further ground for complaint.

At the island the day will be given over to business and pleasure. The ticket-making will be of importance. Interest will center on the selections for the Board of Excise of this city, the freholders and councilmanic candidates from the Sixth ward.

BIG IRRIGATION PROJECT ON CANADIAN BORDER

Glasgow, Mont., Aug. 21—A colossal irrigation system undertaken by the United States Government will add 220,000 acres of cultivated area to Montana and will be of great benefit on the Canadian side of the border. The Milk River project will be a big engineering feat. Funds for the completion of the work which has been an international dispute for several years, now is assured as the result of the recent visit by the Congressional committee on appropriations. A commission from Canada recently met the United States Commission in the matter, and the decision as to the rights of each country in the irrigation project will be announced before long.

Members of the U. S. Commission, who ended their tour of reclamation projects with an inspection trip over this greatest of Uncle Sam's irrigation works, were amazed by the progress made on the various units of the Milk River project. They declared there is no longer any doubt that the great water supply which is to bring the bloom to 220,000 acres will soon be available.

The "Green River Belt" which will be irrigated comprises a strip of land 139 miles long, extending from Chinook to Glasgow, covering an area ranging from a quarter of a mile to three miles wide, making the longest irrigated strip in the country.

Another striking feature of the Milk River project is that the water for this gigantic engineering feat will be taken from near the roof top of the Rockies, in Glacier National Park. Four lakes will furnish an everlasting supply. These lakes form great natural reservoirs, and are fed by melting snows and glaciers from the Rocky Mountain range. The fertility of the glacier water, so richly laden with silt, is astonishing even to government experts, who have known more or less of the value of glacier waters carrying an abundance of organic matter.

With this endless water supply securely dammed and held at will for the irrigation of the soil, the engineers will have nearly finished their work, for already the work of siphoning, ditching and fluming a way for the waters over the hills of the Hudson Bay Divide and into the north branch of the Milk River has been fairly completed.

The fact that the water flows through Canada for many miles before returning into Montana makes the project an international one. The matter of treaty rights has been up for contention several years in connection with this proposed waterway.

RECORD AND FOLLOWERS CANNOT VOTE IN G. O. P. PRIMARY

Jersey City, Aug. 21.—Having agreed to re-enter the ranks of the Republican party and combat the Verdon machine with a picked ticket, George L. Record and his followers heard yesterday that they will not be allowed to vote in the G. O. P. box at the primaries in September.

City Clerk Michael I. Fagen said that the Progressives had polled 5 per cent. of the vote at the election last year, and were entitled to a separate box in each polling place. As Mr. Record and his friends were Progressives last year they will be compelled to vote in the same box next month or remain away from the primaries until 1916.

"I shall place a Progressive box in each polling booth and last year's Progressives cannot vote in the Republican box without violating the law," said City Clerk Fagen.

RUTGERS COLLEGE NOTES

New Brunswick, Aug. 21.—Applications have been made for all the State scholarships offered for the courses in Rutgers College. There have been so many applications that it will be necessary to make the entrance requirements much higher this year. About 225 are expected to be in the class of 1919. September 22, a week later than usual, has been set as the opening date.

The alumni committee to co-operate with the undergraduates in their activities and to have advisory control of them will be named early in September by the Alumni Association. The faculty has also ruled that all student organizations must file a complete account of all moneys collected by them for any purpose, and the treasurer will have supervision of the disbursement of such funds.

Rev. Edward S. Ralston, of the Netherwood Reformed church, will be the speaker at the morning and evening service in Trinity Reformed church tomorrow.

Trouble is said to be brewing in Democratic circles in Caldwell township, because former Assemblyman Harry F. Backus called a meeting in West Caldwell Saturday night, at which William H. Truex, of Verona, was endorsed for an Assembly nomination. Friends of Mayor Frederick R. Cook, who would like him to be a freeholder, want to know why an endorsement was refused him. The action taken by the Backus forces is construed as a direct slap at Cook.

Mayor Mark M. Fagan, of Jersey City, will not desert the Republican party, he says. The rumor of impending desertion arose from his utterance at the "dolar dinner" of the Progressives at the St. Denis, New York, that he would be for Wilson unless the Republicans named a candidate of progressive prnciples.

The Milburn Democratic Club has reorganized ,with twenty-six representatives of various parts of the township present. The only contest before the session at Wittkop's Hotel was the election of a president, resulting in the choice of Robert S. Oliver. The next meeting will be held Thursday evening, when a tentative slate of candidates for township offices will be presented.

Essex county Progressives will have a complete Assembly ticket in the field this fall to preserve their standing as a political party. The executive committee, has so decided despite advice to the contrary from Chairman George M. Denny, who resigned. He was willing to concede that the party standing should be preserved, but believed that the poor showing made in the campaign would be just as bad as disintegration. The Progressive organization still owes about $2,500, and one subscription of $1,300 has been offered in case the rest is forthcoming.

THE FORUM

Editor, Plainfield Daily Press:

This is a copy of an open letter which is being forwarded to Mesdames Mina C. Van Winkle, president of the Women's Political Union, and E. F. Feickert, president of the New Jersey Woman Suffrage Association, respectively.

Dear Madam:

From time to time there have appeared articles from the pens of well-known suffragists in New Jersey, in which it has been attempted to prove, or at least to make the public believe, that the anti-suffragists in New Jersey have the sympathy and support of the brewing interests of this State. From the tone of these articles, one would judge that the suffragists were attempting to prove that such support would be a stigma upon the anti-suffrage movement. Also, it will be remembered that Mr. James A. Bradley, of Asbury Park, refused the anti-suffrage ladies the use of the Auditorium, his refusal being based upon the fact, as claimed by him, that the anti-suffragists were financed by the brewing interests.

Now all this being true, does it mean that the suffragists of New Jersey want the voters of New Jersey to understand that if "Votes for Women" is successful at the polls on October 19, that the outcome will be PROHIBITION in New Jersey?

Very truly yours,

A. H. ELLIS.

FIRST METHODIST CHURCH.

The preacher at the First Methodist church tomorrow morning will be the Rev. Dr. Osmun, of Fort Lee. Dr. Osmun is a very strong preacher in the denomination of which he is a member, and those who have heard him at the First church before will gladly welcome this opportunity of hearing him again. Miss Ethel Kinnaman, contralto of the church quartet, will be the soloist at this service. In the evening the members of the congregation will unite in the union services in the Trinity Reformed church.

I took Doan's Kidney Pills, as I was told they were good for such trouble and by the time I had finished two boxes, I was feeling better in every way. The New York Tribune in The Ad-Visor Column conducted by Mr. Samuel Hopkins under date of August 19th says the following:

"Of Mr. Samuel Rothberg and his store, Plainfield, N. J., the Ad-Visor knows little beyond the fact that their business is a prospering one. And it is building success on this kind of advertising."

OUR TWO STOCKS.

We sell Clothing; we sell Fixings and "Most Things Men Wear." This is our visible stock—the stock we sell over the counter.

But we have another "stock" which we are equally proud of. And that is our Character, our Reputation, our Method. These things go into every transaction—FREE. And while they are small things to look for, they are great things to find.

There is but one reason to patronize Rothberg's store, and that is: We sell the best possible goods at the lowest possible prices—and your money back if you don't think so.

To those vast emporiums whose high-paid advertising managers cling to the old belief that they can't do business without the continuous splurge of marked-down values and of soul-startling reductions below worth this simple and straight-forward advertisement is commended. It is worth attention for its restraint for what it doesn't say. No blatant comparisons; no implied depreciation of competitors; just a plain, emphatic statement of standards—"and your money back if you don't think so." If this little fellow can do it successfully, why can't the big fellows?

PROGRESS AND PROSPERITY IN PLAINFIELD

PLANTS WILL RUN WELL INTO FALL

Construction Work In Metropolitan District Is Now Reported Active.

BRICK IS IN DEMAND

Portland Cement Is In Firmer Tone—Further Advance In Iron and Lime Is Also Reported—Other Prices Unchanged.

New York, Aug. 21—Construction in the Metropolitan district is much more active and in consequence building materials are moving out better. Common brick is particularly active in contrast with the sluggish condition that has prevailed in that department for several months. So improved has the condition become that some of the Hudson River manufacturers practically decided this week to keep their plants running into September instead of closing in the latter part of this month.

There are now 600,000,000 brick available in the Hudson River district. Estimates made this week show that the probable winter and early spring requirements will be 575,000,000, based upon the plan filings made for which permits have been issued. There are 1,927 such operations that will take materials in New York city alone, between now and December 1. In the Metropolitan district the total is 2,319. In the same time last year there were 1,213 new buildings projected and for which permits had been issued in New York and 1,820 in the Metropolitan district. These operations took 525,000,000 Hudson common brick or 721,000,000 brick from both the Hudson and Raritan districts. The total available supply in both districts today is only 803,000,000, approximately 203,000,000 being available in the Raritan district, which is below normal. A normal output for both districts a year is 1,500,000,000 common brick.

From the froegoing it is seen that manufacturers are going into the winter with a short supply. The average price for common brick today is $5.75 a thousand. It ought to be more than $6.25. The manufacturers are apparently seeing to it that brick prices will be at a level this winter that will assure them at least a profit which is more than they have been able to take from brick sales so far this year as it takes almost $6 a thousand to make and haul brick to market, especially when they are working short handed as has been the case this year with many brickyard hands fighting in Europe.

Portland cement is in firmer tone. The slight slump reported last week in the price situation was recovered with better weather conditions and quotations were much nearer $1.52 a barrel. The new quotations on structural steel were firmly held. Fabricating shops took on about 3,500 tons of steel this week for Metropolitan delivery.

There is talk of a further advance in iron and in the lime market there were signs of a stiffening price movement for early winter delivery. Glass may also advance with the approach of the last quarter of the year. Wire lath is in heavy demand, indicating an improvement in the reinforced tile floor situation. All decorative burned clay tile interests are reporting heavier business. This is the only department where prices remain practically unchanged in the entire building material market.

FAMOUS O'DAY PROPERTY AT DEAL BEACH IS SOLD

The property known as the Daniel O'Day place at Deal Beach has been sold to William P. Ahnelt of New York, publisher of the Pictorial Review, who is the present lessee of the property. The property was purchased from the Equitable Trust Company, of New York, trustees of the estate. The property is one of the show places along the North Jersey coast. It contains about forty acres of park and lawn, and has a frontage on Deal Lake, a picturesque sheet of water about which cluster many fine summer homes. The house is a large mansion filled with beautiful and costly furniture and curiosities, purchased by the late Mr. O'Day abroad. Many outbuildings are on the property and also a polo ground. The property is said to have cost the original owner $500,000, but was held for sale by the trustees for $250,000. The price paid by Mr. Ahnelt was not made public. The sale included all the handsome fixtures, hangings, furnishings, etc.

ARCHITECTS CLAIM UNFAIR TREATMENT

Say That Builders Use Their Plans Over and Over Again.

Architects complain that despite the fair amount of building work going on in Plainfield and vicinity they are not sharing in all of it, and find fault with certain builders who, they charge, use a set of plans over and over again.

According to the rules governing architects and their work in this State, a set of plans furnished a client is the property of the architect and should be returned to him after the house is finished.

When this is done it is the exception rather than the rule, and the claim is made that builders retain copies of the plans and use them again for the benefit of parties who want them to build for them. Sometimes the builders make a few minor changes in the plans, it is said, but again they will use them just as they are and simply duplicate a house they have built before. This often gives the owner a cheaper job, for a builder, having once put up a house, can figure to a dollar the actual cost and can quote a closer figure, but the architects say it is not using them right.

FEAR SCHOOL BUILDINGS MAY NOT BE COMPLETED

Less than four weeks remain before the opening of the public schools in Plainfield and vicinity, and unless work on the various school buildings hereabouts is pushed ahead faster, it is feared in some quarters that the buildings will not be in readiness for the reception of pupils when the time comes to reopen.

At the Somerset School, in North Plainefield, the alterations and repairs are progressing satisfactorily, it is said, although to the layman there seems much work still to do before the building can be turned over to the North Plainfield Board of Education in a finished condition.

The work on the South Plainfield Public School is not going ahead so satisfactorily, and the Board of Education, at the last meeting, instructed the clerk to urge D. J. Galbraith, of this city, who is putting in the plumbing work, to hurry along his contract.

THREE BUILDING PERMITS ARE ISSUED

Total Amount of the Estimated Cost Represented Is $2,875.

Only three permits were issued by Building Inspector T. O. Doane this week, and the total amount of the estimated cost represented is $2,875. The permits cover one frame dwelling for two families and two frame garages. The permits by wards follow:

First Ward.

Will F. Williams, of 66 Westervelt avenue, was granted a permit for the erection of a frame garage on the rear of his property. The building will be 12x18 feet in dimensions, one story high, and will cost $125. C. L. Force is named in the application as the architect and builder.

Third Ward.

At 326 and 328 McDowell street, Santo Otranto, of 336 McDowell street, will erect a two-family frame dwelling. It will be 21 feet, 6 inches wide and 50 feet in length, two and one-half stories high. The estimated cost is $2,700. The owner is named in the application as the architect and builder.

A one-story frame garage, 10x15 feet in dimensions, will be built on the rear of his property at 29 Clinton avenue by Mortimer Givens. The estimated cost is given as $50. Givens will be his own architect and builder.

GLOEKLER AND KADESH STORES TO IMPROVE STREET

Good working weather has favored the contractor erecting the Christian Gloekler building, at West Front and Somerset streets, and satisfactory progress has been made this week. The outside walls, of light colored pressed brick, are up to the top of the first story, and the steel framework is about all in place.

It is a matter of regret on the part of neighboring business men on that side of Somerset street that the Gloekler building has been erected so close to the curb line. Louis Kadesh whose store is a few doors to the north on Somerset street, will start work soon on the new store front he intends constructing, and it is said that he, too, will bring his building as far out towards the curb as his deed permits.

Mr. Kadesh expects to improve his store greatly by adding the new front. It will be one story high, of brick construction, and the work will cost about $1,200.

LOW COST OF AUTO GARAGES IS EXPLAINED

Considerable comment has been heard on the estimated cost of garages and automobile houses, permits for the erection of which have been issued by the Plainfield Building Inspector, where the cost is given as fifty or sixty dollars. People who have had such buildings erected for them at a cost of from $150 to $200 cannot understand how it is possible for others to get them put up for the amounts stated in the permits.

When spoken to about the matter, Building Inspector T. O. Doane said that in the cases referred to the cost given in the applications covers nothing more than the materials, and that the owners do the work themselves, thus keeping the cost down. When asked if their time isn't worth something, several of the amateur builders have replied that the work is done after business hours and is considered recreation, not work. In this way it is possible for them to get a garage up on their properties at a nominal cost.

FIFTY THOUSAND DOLLAR BUILDING CONTRACT AWARDED

The K. & G., Inc., of Newark, will erect six frame dwellings in this city, according to plans filed with Building Inspector T. O. Doane, who is expected to issue the necessary permits. The buildings will be located at Arlington avenue and Randolph road, and the estimated cost is placed at $50,000.

The building to be located on the corner will be two stories high, and will measure 29x65 feet in dimensions. Three stores will occupy the ground floor and there will be two apartments above. The remaining five structures will be two stories high, 18x65 feet in dimensions, and each will contain a store on the ground floor and an apartment above. The Anchor Construction Company, of Newark, has the general contract.

SOME SECTIONS ARE IMPROVING

However, Business Among Builders Is Reported to Be Quiet.

CONDITIONS REVIEWED

Total Amount of Money In Building Permits From 83 Centres Is $16,560,156—Only Thirty Cities Report Gains.

Of decided interest to builders and realty operators everywhere is the report of building conditions throughout the country at the close of business last month. Business among builders is reported as very quiet all over, few important centers showing evidences of much improvement.

The total amount of money represented in building permits for new construction work in the leading cities of the United States for July according to the statement prepared by Dun's Review, which includes returns from the building departments of eighty-three centers, is $61,560,156 a decrease of 15.9 per cent. as compared with the $73,203,214 of the corresponding month a year ago.

New York city makes quite a favorable showing with a gain of 4.3 per cent. the aggregate at that center being $13,119,489 as against $12,556,991 in 1914. This improvement is due to a fair expansion in the boroughs of Manhattan Brooklyn and Queens, which more than offsets decreases in the Bronx and Richmond.

There are only thirty cities out of the eighty-two outside of New York that report gains over last year and the total, $48,440,667 compares with $60,646,223, a loss of 20.1 per cent. Only three cities Baltimore, Buffalo and Bridgeport, report increase in excess of $500,000, but fairly satisfactory improvement appears in Atlanta, Cincinnati, Evansville, Kansas City, Lincoln, New Haven, Scranton, Topeka, Trenton, Washington and Worcester. On the other hand, there is marked contraction at numerous points, among them being Albany, with a loss of approximately $286,000; Chicago, $2,693,000; Cleveland, $213,000; Dallas, $285,000; Detroit, $466,000; Houston, $907,000; Los Angeles, $1,145,000; Philadelphia, $1,002,000; Pittsburg, $324,000; Portland, Ore., $497,000; St. Louis, $513,000; San Francisco, $1,313,000; Seattle, $2,205,000 and Springfield, Mass., $358,000.

Permits issued for Jersey City for July 1915, represent an outlay of $345,913, as compared with $545,172 for July, 1914; for Newark, $581,133 for July, 1915, as compared with $1,172043 for July 1914, and for Trenton, $385,521 for July, 1915, as compared with $298,024 for the corresponding month last year.

A WEEK'S FIRE LOSSES.

COSTLY EXHIBITS DESTROYED BY FIRE

Disastrous Blaze Started In Riddle Building, Atlantic City.

Atlantic City, Aug. 21.—Fire that caused damage estimated at $250,000 yesterday afternoon destroyed all of the buildings in the Boardwalk block here between North Carolina and Pensylvania avenues. The most pretentious structure in the block was the Mayor William Riddle building, which contained many costly exhibits. The local branch office of Harriman & Co., New York stock brokers, and the Huyler confectionery store were also destroyed.

Part of the Boardwalk had to be chopped away by the firemen to prevent the spreading of the flames along the waterfront, and for more than an hour Haddon Hall and the Strand, two large hotels, were in danger. The Steeplechase Pier was also threatened.

The fire is thought to have originated in the Porto Rico Shop, where a large quantity of inflammable laces was stored. Spreading through the basement the flames entered the photographic studio of Charles Dietrick and made brisk headway in the combusible chemicals kept there.

By the time the firemen were able to get to work all of the buildings in the block were burning, and there then seemed little hope of confining the fire within the block. But an easterly wind aided the fire-fighters, and a number of civilians assisted them by playing streams of water from private and public hoses on the threatened buildings.

The fire began when the Boardwalk was populous with summer visitors, who crowded to the scene by the thousands. The police had difficulty in keeping fire lines, and hundreds of persons in the crowd were in danger at one time when the supports of several large electric signs were burned away. Seeing the iron work of the signs swaying, the police warned the people to move back, which they did just before the signs fell where they had been standing.

From statements made by the owners of the property destroyed it is estimated that of the loss, $50,000 is covered by insurance.

BE A BOOSTER.

To secure prosperity for our city we need civic patriotism, which is like national patriotism. In fact the man, who is not a patriot towards his city, cannot be truly a patriot towards his country. Those who see no good thing in their own city are usually the ones who decry everything American. City-phobia and America-phobia are symptoms of one disease.

Faith in city and nation is one sign of the good and useful citizen, and the precursor of prosperity. This is not the blind faith that says, "My city right or wrong; and my city has in it nothing wrong." Some men put on blinders, pull back in the breeching, and balk at progress. They will not see wrongs to be righted or municipal ideals to be attained. What has been is right to them. Such an attitude is death for man or city. What we need is faith in a civic ideal, so great and fair that we can never say "it is attained, and our city is now perfect," but are always busy bringing in some part of it. One of the great financiers was asked for the secret of his success. "I always bet on the country," was his answer. Always bet on the city if you want to be a good citizen, and to make ours a better city.

Then we must get together and work together. Plainfield needs this especially. With its widely separated sections, and the apparently antagonistic interests of commuter and local business man, there is peculiar need for a community consciousness. The unit is not the ward, street, block or house, but the city. To secure the protection of health and home, the improvement and beautifying of our street and the education of our children, all men, all classes and all sections must get together. We think that we hate graft and despise grafters. There is one form of graft common in every city. We want a policeman on our block, our street improved and cared for, our health protected, a school for our children near our home, but not too near; and that the entire city administration shall revolve about us, regardless of the rest of the community. And taxes. "Why pay taxes, when WE get so little for what WE pay?" Something of the spirit of getting something for nothing, or for the least possible.

We need to get together, East End and West End, commuter and local business man, taxpayer and tenant, and learn that the only spirit making possible a growing and beautiful city is "All for each, and each for all."

Then too we need to boost the city. The man who carries a hammer to use on his city, is on a par with the one who details in public the jars and discords in his home. For the city is our home. We are its family. Its fair fame is our own. Its disgrace is ours. Its government good or bad is ourselves. What we say of it for good or ill determines the opinions of outsiders, and draws or repels them. Boost it. It is not perfect. There are many things to be improved. We are going to right the wrong things, and bring in the better things. But it is our city and our home, a good place to live in, and one in whose future we have faith. Boost it. When you talk about your home, you don't tell of the faults in plumbing and leaks in the roof, or the unpleasant moments in the family life. You are going to mend these. But you tell of the beauty and comforts, of the flowers and lawn, of the earliest radishes and peas, of the evening calm when the day's work is done, of home's joy and happiness. You boost your home. Boost your city.

Now abideth in every city these useless and harmful ones, grafters, blinders and knockers, and the worst of these are the knockers. Be a booster.

EDWARD S. RALSTON.

PLAINFIELD THEATRE

No more welcome theatrical announcement could be made than that "Potash and Perlmutter," the famous comedy woven about the two heroes of Montague Glass' stories in the Saturday Evening Post, is to come to the Plainfield Theatre on Saturday afternoon and evening, August 28, and with a company of distinguished artists all of whom won highest praise in the metropolis before starting on tour.

"Potash and Perlmutter" pictures the trials and tribulations, the joys and the triumphs of Mr. Glass' famous characters "Abe" and "Mawruss," those delightful members of the cloak and suit trade, who seem happy only when quarreling with each other, but who stick together through thick and thin. Sharp-witted, keen, suspicious in business, they are nevertheless generous to a fault in their private lives, and it is this same generosity that for a time threatens to ruin them. There is plenty of romance in "Potash and Perlmutter," plenty of politics and plenty of pinochle, plenty of love and plenty of law. The characters are such as may be found in any city, and the characterizations have been done with such sympathy as to make the play one of universal interest.

"Potash and Perlmutter" made as great a sensation in London as in New York.

Chautauquas

Chautauquas are everything that eastern big city newspaper men who never saw them think they are not.

They are non-sectarian, fadless, hobbyless conventions to further genuine human happiness with no after-sting to it.

They are far more than mere institutions to enable people who oughtn't to be in the cabinet to make a good living some other way.

People who attend Chautauquas hear every side of every public question, from representatives of the various branches of the government, and form their own conclusions.

Also they meet one another and get acquainted.

The regular Chautauqua fan doesn't bat his eyes in dazzlement at the sight of the greatest man that can be trotted out.

He has become used to brilliancy and can see fellow-beings, even in the limelight, without blinking and getting an exaggerated view of them.

There are over 4,000 of these assemblies in the United States, including or excluding the one you had, didn't have, are going to have or not going to have in your town this summer.

Why Her Insomnia

She wore the modern filmy garb
That one can see clear through.
Never before did Greek or barb
Observe so clear a view.
But she grew haggard, day by day;
She did not sleep at night.
She was not blithesome, was not gay,
Her eyes had lost their light.
When questioned, what do you suppose
That giddy girlie said?
"I cannot stand the heavy clothes Folks always wear to bed."

Musically Speaking
(After Walt Whitman)

He had a big mustache—the kind
Into which one pours a cuppacawfee
And drinks it on the way to the Depot.
Also he had (heaven pity him) a Hare-lip and a loose tooth.
Likewise the asthma.
And in green-corn time, when that man
Got out the muffler and began
Triple-tonguing a maize obligato on an Ear-flat roasting ear—
Ah, my friends!
And again:
Ah!

And It Never Was

No, Ermyntrude, we should not recommend your giving your city cousin a plush album for a birthday gift. Plush albums (or plushi alba, as we say in Latin) are not the popular indoor sport they used to be.

A Sanitary Matter

M. Athabasca Kennedy, of Camp Point, Ill., writes to know if it is advisable, since her children clamor for a pup, to have individual mutlets for her eight kiddies.

This would undoubtedly be the most harveywiley thing you could do, Mrs. K. But we should not advise your getting St. Bernards. You would also find great Danes something of a fistful inside of a year or two. You had better stick to the runabout models of dog and not attempt to maintain those big touring limousine varieties.

Naval Strategy

What though enemies invade

HEALTH TALKS
by WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

Some Perfectly Normal Phenomena

A BILIOUS attack, so called, is a sort of an all-over misery with remorse on the side. It is ordinarily a rebellion upon the part of a long suffering metabolism against over-eating or lack of exercise. Nausea, malaise, headache, constipation, sour temper, morosity, get-away-and-leave-me-alone — and finally, if you are lucky, a thorough little round of emesis, commonly called vomiting. Not only that, but vomiting bile. Ah! Bile! I told you so!—cries the superficial observer.

But the colorless truth is that, if one in ordinarily robust health vomits repeatedly, bile of a yellowish or greenish tint is certain to be ejected after the stomach itself is emptied. Hence the appearance of bile in material vomited is by no means an indication that the liver is misbehaving; rather it shows the liver is doing, or trying to do, its share of the work, despite the abuses to which the victim of the bilious attack has subjected it.

Popular delusion No. 1 nailed. It isn't just our peculiar way of viewing the matter. Ask any doctor point blank at any time when he isn't diagnosing "biliousness."

Another popular delusion which we have to shatter at least once a month is the idea that chilling or exposure causes "colds," pneumonia and such infections. Take the prettiest case of pneumonia imaginable, in which the patient, a hale, apparently hearty individual, suddenly feels a chilly, creepy sensation stealing over him on his way home from the movies or prayer-meeting on a damp, draughty night. By the time he gets home, the chill is on for fair, and he chatters and shakes like one with the ague. Is he too cold? He thinks so. Any one would think so. But the doctor comes hotfoot and takes his temperature. Ha, 104 F. Not so cold as he looks. Really feverish already—but feels cold, because the surface blood is temporarily rushed to the field of battle in the lungs, in an endeavor to cope with the overwhelming invasion of pneumococci—or "cold" microbes—which have gained a foothold there. These microbes the victim picked up at church, let us say. From some explosive friend. Some one who spattered in conversation or sneezed without compulsion or coughed without a handkerchief.

Does the chill cause the pneumonia or the "cold"? No, the "cold" bugs cause the chill. Whenever a human being experiences a genuine chattering chill, followed promptly by a spectacular rise of temperature, you may be positive there are some dangerous germs lurking somewhere about his person. And these germs, curiously enough, do business regardless of the weather, though, as the statistics always show, they much prefer moderate, comfortable weather when it is very difficult for even the oldest inhabitant to say just how the involuntary host took his chill.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Tubercular Glands Not Hereditary

Can a person inherit a tendency to tubercular glands in the neck?

Answer—Children of tubercular parents would be very likely to become infected in infancy, but the disease itself is not inherited.

* * * *

D. R. writes: My doctor reports that he has found indican in my urine, and that it proves I eat too much meat. What does indican mean, and must I shoo off from the fleshpots?

Answer—Indican is a by-product of putrefactive changes occurring in protein material (chiefly animal protein or meat) in the alimentary canal, due to the action of bacteria of the colon bacillus type. It may appear in the urine at times in persons who are not complaining of any trouble whatever, but your doctor's pronunciamento is just what the best clinicians in the country would say.

DARKNESS

DARKNESS is a condition which occurs when the sun goes off duty at night.

It is very thick and black and is distinguished for its entire absence of light. If a thousand square miles of darkness could be run through a cider press it would not yield enough light to satisfy an engaged couple in a lonely parlor.

Darkness is very unpopular, because it compels man to spend large sums of money for hand-made light which is a very inferior article and is always going off at a critical point in the entertainment, giving some chump an opportunity to yell "Fire!" Nevertheless, darkness is very useful and often fills a man full of profound and surging gratefulness. No man who has heard an umpire call the game in the eighth inning with the home team ahead by an eyelash can speak in anything but the highest terms of darkness.

Darkness is also a boon to the man who has bought his first Palm Beach suit. Many a man has worn one of these suits around the block at night for a week before he has had the courage to ejaculate himself into the busy city life in all his spotless radiance.

Darkness has saved more farmers' wives than medicine ever did. Farmers' wives have to stop work shortly after dark, because of the high price of kerosene.

If there was no darkness the residents of New York City would have to live by daylight and vast numbers of them would expire of ennui and other contagious diseases.

Darkness has enabled astronomers to take long refreshing squints at the universe and by means of the stars to weigh the earth and calculate its size. It has also enabled enterprising captains of industry to put electric signs on top of the Palisades and to say things to 5,000,000 people at one time.

Handmade light is always going off at a critical point in the entertainment

Moreover, darkness is a soft, thick veil which hides a million billboards from the suffering public. For this reason alone we should be very grateful to darkness and encourage it by every means in our power, even to refusing to pay gas bills when they are too high.

The PEOPLE'S LEGAL FRIEND
by E. R. BRANSON

Keep Exits Clear

Q. Are there state laws requiring theatres and other places of amusement to keep the exits and aisles open and clear? If so, are such laws good?

A. There are such laws in some states. They have been held valid.

The Sunday Labor Law

Q. Is a law constitutional which forbids the performance of labor or the transaction of business on Sunday?

A. If the law prohibits labor and business generally, with the exception of works of necessity or charity, it will be constitutional. If it operates upon a particular class or business, it is generally held to be constitutional if all persons within such class or business are affected equally.

Diseased Livestock

Q. Please tell me what right a state has to order the slaughter of diseased livestock. Where does it get its authority?

A. The state may exercise such right under its general police powers.

Which Ones Have You Been In?

Q. It frequently happens that our jails and lockups are unsanitary. Couldn't a city be sued and made to pay damages where such conditions prevail?

A. The maintenance of jails or prisons is what is called a public or governmental duty and many courts have held that a city is not liable in damages for unsanitary conditions. In some states, however, there have been decisions of a contrary nature.

A False Statement

Q. If one makes a false statement in any application for an insurance policy, what will be the legal effect?

A. It will be a ground for the avoidance of the contract on the part of the insurance company, if the statement was made wilfully and knowingly and was of a material character.

Laying Pipes On Private Property

Q. When a corporation has been formed and has been given a franchise permitting the laying of pipes to transport oil, gas or water, does it have the right to condemn private property?

A. The legislature has the right to give the corporation such power.

For Services Rendered

Q. I am one of the officers of a corporation. One of the other officers is a lawyer. He had occasion to perform some legal services for the company and he now presents his bill. The rest of the officers and a number of the directors think he should have made no charge. Can he enforce his claim?

A. If his services were such as are ordinarily and properly performed by a lawyer and there was no agreement or understanding that he was to furnish them free of charge, he may recover reasonable compensation.

The Use Of Gas

Q. Please inform me whether a corporation furnishing natural gas to a patron, to be used by the latter for fuel, will be liable for carelessness causing injury to the customer?

A. The company is bound to observe such care, skill and diligence as is called for by the dangerous character of the business. If failure to exercise such care results in injury, the company will be liable.

Workmen's Compensation Laws

Q. Do all the states of the Union have workmen's compensation acts?

A. No.

A Teacher's Contract

Q. Does a school board have the right to discharge a teacher, before the end of the school year, merely because some of the members of the board may not like this particular teacher?

A. Contracts are sometimes made between school boards and the teachers whom they employ, giving the right to dismiss at will or whenever the service is unsatisfactory. Some courts have held that these agreements will stand, unless the right conferred is exercised in bad faith. Courts in other states have declared that such contracts are void as against public policy. In still another class of cases, there can be no dismissal without giving the teacher the right to be heard.

Care Of City Streets

Q. Is a city required to keep its streets and sidewalks in a safe condition?

A. The city must use reasonable care to keep its walks and streets in a reasonably safe condition for public travel by those who observe ordinary care for their own safety.

THE FLY AS AN ADVANCE AGENT
By WOODS HUTCHINSON, A.M., M.D.

NO longer can we dismiss the fly with a contemptuous "Shoo!" He is an Influence to be reckoned with. Black as he is painted, we must concede him certain virtues. From a worldly point of view, he is a hustler "from way back"; perpetually on the job and always delivers the goods.

From an unworldly point of view, he is a veritable means of grace, separating the sheep from the goats, the elect from the non-elect, developing in the former all the Christian virtues, including patience under affliction, an early death and a glorious immortality. Among the non-elect he produces profanity, pugnacity and a long life of open rebellion against the decrees of All Wisdom, thus making their damnation doubly sure.

He is the best traveling salesman known to humanity; carries a grip on each of his six legs and a trunk on his head. His line of samples is the most extensive and the longest known, and will last you, not merely from this year to next, but from time to eternity.

Here are a few of the leading specialties that he handles.

No. 36. Bacillus typhosus (Eberth). Hardy perennial, seldom known to winterkill even in Alaska; heavy crop, produces 35,000 deaths annually in the United States alone, value $100,000,000. One-fifth of all who grow it guaranteed never to grow any other. Blossoms, rose colored all over the abdomen and chest. Fruit, cherry red deepening to black, all through the intestines. No difficulty in disposing of any surplus to your neighbors; a splendid market variety for both city and country trade. Strong well-rooted specimens, carefully selected from sewer mouths and privy vaults—now ready for delivery, F. O. F.—(Free on Food.) Special million rates. This is one of our best sellers.

No. 2341. Bacillus Shigae Aerogenes Capsulatus, Ameba Coli. These interesting schizomycetes were long recognized only when in bloom, and then given a variety of popular and vulgar names such as Summer Diarrhea, Summer Sickness, Dysentery, Cholera Infantum, Cholera Morbus, etc. The seeds which we furnish are from prize-winning strains, guaranteed to produce specimens fit to enter in competition anywhere.

Very attractive group of quick flowering, tender annuals, especially adapted for children's gardens. Colors black and white, closely resembling crape and satin—with plumes on the hearse. Wonderfully free bloomers, very attractive, every child ready to take them; children try for them, but seldom after. Crop for 1907, 40,000 dead babies, value $20,000,000 as guaranteed by the United States Census Bureau. No trouble at all to grow; all that is needed is a baby, a little dirt, plenty of carelessness, and flies will do the rest. Best sprouted in milk for few hours before sowing.

No. 3792. B. Tuberculosis (Koch). This half hardy perennial is an old favorite, few family gardens being complete without it, but we do not highly recommend it.

It is delicate, easily sun blistered, and will not grow in strong, rich soils. Besides, it is an exceedingly slow bloomer, often taking two or three years to produce any striking display. Pink and white blooms, however, very delicate and vivid when secured.

We are obliged to quote a high price upon this line for, while seeds are common, their collection is both difficult and dangerous, our agents being frequently overwhelmed in the sticky sputum bogs, or overcome by the noxious vapors rising from the cuspidore swamps where they are found. Only when spread around freely upon floors and walls, and allowed to dry, can the seeds be collected with any safety. Though difficult to start and slow in blossoming, when once securely rooted, their growth is exceedingly sure and can be confidently guaranteed to produce a spectacle which will delight the heart of any connoisseur in the flowers of decay.

This is the sort of thing that the fly carries on some one of his six legs and in his well-packed trunk whenever he buzzes gently in at your window. If he is out of one, he is sure to be well stocked with another, to say nothing of a miscellaneous variety of staphylo—and streptococci from boils, erysipelas and poisoned wounds, of diphtheria bacilli and scarlet fever scales, whenever either of these diseases happens to be in the neighborhood; of the germs that putrefy meat and set up poisonous changes in milk and cause apples to decay and vegetables to spoil and bread and cakes to mould.

Two-thirds of what in the days of unenlightenment and lack of culture we used to vulgarly term belly-aches and colics were due, not to the food itself, but to the filth-germs and bugs with which flies and other agencies had contaminated it, and which found our stomach and intestines nice, warm, moist, comfortable places to breed and riot in.

A fly in a house is as dangerous as a rattlesnake, as filthy as a louse, and as disgraceful as a bedbug. The time will come when any modern cleanly home will feel itself shamed and disgraced by the presence of a fly, and when every householder upon whose premises a brood of flies is detected, will be heavily fined, or sent to jail.

Daddy's Bedtime Story— How the Little Toad Got His Warts.

Along Came a Funny Fly.

"OH, daddy," asked Jack, "is it true that if you handle toads you will get warts on your hands?"

"Children have always been told that," replied daddy, "but I don't believe it's so.

"But how on earth did ever the warty toad get his warts? Well, I don't know, but I will try to imagine just how that could have happened, and we shall see what kind of a story it will make for you kiddies.

"Once, a long time ago, when the world was a great deal younger than it is now, the warty toad did not have a single wart. His coat was as smooth as a frog's, and he looked something like his little cousin, the frog.

"So, while the frog swam around his marsh and roosted on the lily pads and in the rank grass upon a log as he sang his song, the toad puttered about on the shore, and he hopped about lazily.

"And every once in awhile he would open his great big mouth, and then it would go snap shut in the quickest way, and there would be a struggling fly inside, and the fly would go into the toad's stomach, and I don't suppose he would have liked it if he had known about it. But the fly had been swallowed, you see, my dears, and a dinner that has been swallowed doesn't know anything about it."

"Then why do we have the stomach ache sometimes, daddy?" asked Evelyn. "Isn't that the dinner trying to get even with us, don't you think?"

"I don't know," replied daddy hastily. "Well, to get back to this toad of ours with the smooth jacket, he hopped along, eating a fly at almost every hop, and I suppose it was a warm day or something or he would have never made such an awful mistake as the one which gave him his warts.

"For he hopped along, almost asleep, and along came a funny 'fly' with a very loud buzz, and the mouth of that toad opened and snapped shut, and he swallowed that 'fly.'

"And then, my dears, how that toad did jump and jump, for you see he had not swallowed a fly at all. He had swallowed a queen bee, the queen of a whole flock of bees. And you can warrant that she stung that toad considerably inside before she died.

"And that wasn't the worst of it. The other bees saw what had become of that queen, and they chased that toad and stung him terribly before he could crawl into a hole, and he was in there recovering for a long time, and when he came out he was all covered with those bunchy warts, and so the toads have been from that day to this."

Glimpses of Married Life

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

"Go down to Kansas City yourself, mother, and look the situation over. That will give you a better idea than anything I can tell you." The family were sitting in solemn conclave and each was presenting his views on the question of the shares of oil stock.

"I can't leave very well just in harvest," objected the old lady.

"You let me run the house, mother. I have developed into quite a capable farm woman, and father and I can keep house beautifully while you and Dick look into affairs. Can't we, father?" Nell turned a dimpling face to the silent, gray-haired man at her side.

"I'm sure we could do nicely," he answered, patting her shoulder.

"Now, mother, get ready and I'll take you to the morning train."

"Where is Casey?" She was examining a folder. "The new well is there, I see."

"It's a few miles this side of Kansas City. The wells are right by the track. The railroad made the company construct an expensive oil tank before they struck oil," explained Dick.

"Humph! Were they afraid they would have their tracks washed out with the oil?" scoffed the old lady.

"Well, if you think you can get along with the work, Nell, I'll go. Something has got to be decided at once."

"Good! That suits us, mother; we'll get back to Fairport on the late train tomorrow night, and you can come on home and I'll get down to business the next day."

So it was arranged. Mrs. Morton baked a shelf full of good things, "as if," Nell said, "I knew nothing of cooking."

They were up at sunrise and Nell waved goodby as the old carriage drove down the lane just as the clock struck six. When the old man returned from the station the baby was bathed and the house in order, and it was only eight o'clock.

"Are you very much rushed today, father?" she asked. Her head was coaxingly on one side.

"Why?" he asked, as he smiled into her face.

"It would be such fun to have a celebration all to ourselves down by the river."

He thought a moment. "I think we could get the wheat stacked by eleven; you could have the man's dinner ready then, and we could leave. He will begin cutting in the ten-acre field this afternoon."

"Good!" exclaimed Nell. "I'll make a potato salad and we'll have a bonfire for bacon and coffee."

"Bacon sandwiches are good eating." The old man was pleased with her enthusiasm. "We can have a good rest and start back in plenty of time for the milking. Hal can roll around in the grass on a blanket, and when he feels like a nap we can put him on the buggy cushions."

"I'm afraid he'll roll off," objected Nell.

"No; I'll rig up a board across the front to keep him in. That's the way Dick used to sleep when we were driving and stopped to feed the horse," chuckled Mr. Morton.

When the men had stacked the last load of wheat Nell had the hot dinner for the hired man steaming on the table, and the baskets were packed in the old carriage, so there was nothing to do but get in and drive off. It was a happy trio that took the old river road that day.

Household Hints

THINGS WORTH KNOWING

When making pillow cases buy the tubing and do not sew up either side. Either hem and edge with lace, or stamp and embroider both ends. You can try it on your used pillow cases. It is so easy to handle in the laundry, without turning inside out two or three times, as you would with those that are closed at one end.

Do not discard embroidered towels or pillow cases when worn in center. Cut pillow cases in two and make four covers out of ends for tops of bathroom flush boxes of closet seat. Each end of the towels may be used by measuring desired width and hemming one side. Three sides of the pillow case mats must be hemmed very narrow. Some of the pillow cases match the towels and when used at the same time in bathroom these "sets" are attractive and prolong the use of the embroidered ends when centers are worn out.

To use men's shirts if they are worn at collar and wrists, lay small child's one-piece dress on; use back of shirt for front of dress and buttons for back; cut out and finish with braid. It lasts for some time.

To test heat of oven, place a piece of white paper in it. If heat is too great, paper will turn black; if it turns a light yellow it is fit for sponge cake and light kinds of biscuits; if a dark brown, it is fit for pastry; if a dark yellow, it is ready for the baking of the heavier kinds of cake.

If you have a number of soiled articles, such as dish cloths, that you do not care to send to the laundry, you can make them white as snow, using cold water and soap, if you pour into the basin a tablespoon of household ammonia. No rubbing necessary. Just souse them around and rinse.

To keep bathtub white and sanitary, take an old sheet or a piece of muslin a little larger than the tub. Cut holes all around about one inch from end, then draw piece of tape or corset string through; place over the tub, draw the string and tie in front. When ready for bath it can easily be taken off and you always have a clean tub. It also prevents dust or lint from clogging pipes. You have no dust or spots to wash off every day.

THE TABLE

Bacon and Eggs, New Style — Eight slices bacon diced, six small slices dry bread, four eggs, one-fourth cup milk, a little pepper and salt. Fry bacon till brown, add bread and toss with the bacon and fat until well seasoned and slightly brown; then add eggs beaten with the seasoning and milk, and scramble as usual. This is a very good way to use up dry bread.

Nut Pie—Line a pie plate with pastry and bake. Make a custard, using two cups milk, two eggs well beaten with half cup sugar and one-fourth cup flour mixed smooth with a little milk. Flavor to taste, add a little salt, cook, then add one cup of chopped nuts and fill the crust, cover with meringue and brown.

Fruit Bliss—One box raspberries, one cup pitted cherries, one cup pineapple shredded, one cup sugar, one-half cup water, three egg yolks. Arrange fruit in glass dish. Boil sugar and water together five minutes, then pour in a fine stream onto the egg yolks, which should be beaten till thick. Cook over hot water, stirring constantly till thickened. Cool, add lemon juice, and pour over fruit. Chill thoroughly before serving.

YEAR OF INDEPENDENCE.

The Custom of Dating Proclamations by the President.

While the president of the United States dates official documents from the year of the Declaration of Independence, there is no law on the subject, and the custom is neither general nor binding, the form being used only in proclamations by the president. It originated before the adoption of the constitution during the days of the confederacy.

The original articles of confederation show they were signed by the delegates "at Philadelphia, in the state of Pennsylvania, the 9th day of July, in the year of our Lord, 1778, and in the third year of the independence of America." The signers dated "the independence of America" from the Declaration of Independence, July 4, 1776, although the war was still young and continued several years longer. The constitution shows it was signed "the 17th day of September A. D., 1787, and of the independence of the United States of America the 12th."

The first proclamation issued by Washington as president was, "Given under my hand and the seal of the United States in the city of New York the 14th day of August A. D., 1790, and in the fifteenth year of the sovereignty and independence of the United States." He used the phrase "sovereignty and independence" in two proclamations and then dropped the word sovereignty.

All subsequent executive proclamations are dated from the year of independence, as beginning July 4, 1776, although the independence of the United States was not acknowledged till several years later. — Philadelphia Press.

KIT-CAT PORTRAITS.

Origin of the Term That Stands For Stupid Mediocrity.

Several years ago an eastern art critic waxed sarcastic concerning a collection of paintings on view at one of the leading New York clubs. In the course of a vitriolic tirade he relieved himself of the assertion that the exhibition consisted chiefly of kit-cat portraits. Those who went to the clubrooms expecting to see canvases adorned with feline compositions were condemned to disappointment. There was not a cat picture in the whole show.

"What is a kit-cat portrait?" was the burning question of the hour. Why, a stupid portrait, a commonplace piece of painting that reveals no glimmer of genius. At this stage of the explanation the inevitable interruption—"But why do you call it a kit-cat picture?" And not one critic out of a hundred had the remotest idea.

The term for stupid mediocrity had its origin in a collection of forty-two portraits of prominent men painted between 1703 and 1720 by Sir Godfrey Kneller, one of the best known British portrait painters. They were exactly the same size and were framed alike; hence the idea of monotony which led to the idea of mediocrity. The subjects of these portraits were members of a club that met in the tavern of a celebrated pastry cook, Christopher Cat—called Kit for short—and among them were such men as Addison, Steele, Walpole and Marlborough. It was the influence of this club that placed George I. on the throne of England.—Exchange.

This really happened in New York the other day:

Displeased Parent—Molly, I find you have been buying three pairs of gloves without my permission. Why did you do it?

Displeased Parent—It was very wrong of you to buy the gloves without asking either your mother or me about it.

Miss Molly—Well, never mind, daddy, dear. They won't cost anything. I had them charged!—New York Post.

Her Conscience.

In spite of scoldings, Helen persisted in running away from home. One day, after a longer absence than usual, her mother asked:

"Helen, dear, does not your conscience trouble you when you are running away from mother?" explaining that her conscience was a little voice speaking within. Helen answered:

"Oh, yes, mamma; that little voice is always saying, 'Run faster, faster, Helen; your mother is after you!'"—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

They were discussing the newest engagement. The fair fiancee had previously made three similar announcements, but not one had resulted in a wedding.

PROGRESS OF JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL WORK

There Are Fifty-seven Cities In the United States With Such Departments.

Reorganization of education under the Junior High School plan or something similar is definitely under way, according to Prof. T. H. Briggs, whose review of secondary education has just been issued by the U. S. Bureau of Education.

The Junior High School has been defined "as an organization of grades 7 and 8 or 7 and 9, to provide means for individual differences, especially by an earlier introduction of prevocational work and of subjects taught in the High School." There are 57 cities in the United States where Junior High Schools are organized in unmistakable form.

"One advantage claimed for the Junior High School," declares Dr. Briggs, "is that it groups children so that subjects seldom taught in the grammar grades may be introduced thereby giving each pupil a more intelligent understanding of the work of the world, of the possibilities in the subject and in the pupil himself.

"The Junior High School also makes easier the transition of pupils to the High School. That the change between the elementary and the High School should be so sharp permits no justification. To bridge this gap by earlier introduction to High School subjects and methods of teaching has greatly improved results, it is claimed.

"The Junior High School has furthermore greatly decreased elimination of pupils from school. This elimination after the Seventh, Eighth and Ninth grades has been one of the greatest reproaches to our educational system. Any plan that promises to retain children in school beyond these grades is worthy of the most careful consideration."

The statistics given by Dr. Briggs show that a much larger per cent. of students enter High School where Junior High Schools exist than before they were organized.

That the Junior High School furnishes an opportunity for various needed reforms in instruction is the final claim of the new movement, according to Dr. Briggs. He points out that in the Junior High School a course of study based on the newer principles of psychology, sociology and economics, various provisions for individual differences, and especially an improved method of teaching, can now be introduced.

Los Angeles (Cal.) High School, Butte (Mont.) High School, Wisconsin High School, Madison, Wis., and Horace Mann School, New York city are cited as successfully organized Junior High Schools, Los Angeles having far outstripped all other cities in developing them.

U. S. ASTOR THEATRE

"The Flaming Sword," with Lionel Barrymore in the leading role, will be the chief attraction of an unusual program at the Astor Theatre this afternoon and tonight. Like his famous brother, John Barrymore, Lionel Barrymore has achieved a position of distinction in the film world, and in this picture, particularly, is he seen at the pinnacle of his dramatic form. Lovers of engrossing drama, with scenic effects of surpassing grandeur, will miss much if they fail to see Mr. Barrymore in this splendid subject. In addition to "The Flaming Sword," a bill of selected comedies and dramas, supplied by the leading film studios of the world, also will be presented.

"A Texas Steer," with Tyrone Power, the celebrated dramatic actor, will be shown on the U. S. Astor screen Monday afternoon and evening, toplining a program of high merit. SUBMARINES TO BE ON EXHIBITION

Undersea Boats to Be a Feature of Grand Army Encampment.

PLAN DEMONSTRATION

Earlier Types Will Be Contrasted With Latest Models—Bluejackets and Marines to Visit the National Capitol.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 21.—Submarines and swift-running torpedo boat destroyers will be brought to Washington by the Navy Department to add a special feature to the series of events which are to take place at the national capital in connection with the forthcoming encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic. Secretary Daniels is desirous that the old veterans shall be afforded an opportunity to see some of the implements of modern warfare in order to show by contract with those which were in use a half-century ago the progress which has been made since the days when the Grand Army men and their brothers in the navy bore arms.

The fact is appreciated that, because of its successful operation in European waters at the present time, the submarine is the most talked of weapon of present-day warfare, yet few of the veterans of the Civil War have ever seen one. The suggestion was at first made that the department should bring to Washington the old Holland, which was the first underwater craft of our navy, and from which the successful boats of today have been developed, and place beside it one of the recently constructed submarines. The fact that this vessel has been sold to a private concern will preclude that possibility, and accordingly it has been planned to bring here one of the earlier types and also one of the modern submarines to illustrate the progress made in construction. The United States was the first nation to develop the underwater fighting vessel. It was then taken up by Great Britain, which employed the old Holland patents, with improvements, and finally by Germany, which has used this class of boats with such deadly effect upon the ships of her enemies. The old Holland and some of the models which followed her, one of which will be here, gave their first demonstrations in the Potomac off Washington, where it is proposed during encampment week to give exhibitions of torpedo firing, dummies being used to illustrate the manner in which the present-day submarine operates.

An effort is also being made to have one or more hydroplanes brought here for exhibition purposes.

It is also the intention of the Department to bring here the old Hartford, now at Charleston, S. C., restored to the appearance she bore in the days of the Civil War, when she was the flagship of Admiral Farragut.

The Navy and the Marine Corps will also be represented by their enlisted personnel and probably some of the vessels of the Atlantic fleet. It will be possible for the bluejackets and marines to be brought to Washington, as they have on similar occasions, by special steamer to remain during the day of the parade and form an impressive part of the escort of the veterans. The Navy Department contemplates doing this in the honor of the G. A. R. members and their friends, who will be present in large numbers, but, as in the case of the representation of the army, it is not regarded as advisable to have too large a demonstration, lest it detract in a numerical way from the principals of the celebration, the survivors of the Civil War. Any number of bluejackets and marines can be brought from the Atlantic fleet and from vessels in reserve. It may be possible, also, to have the midshipmen brought to Washington from Annapolis if by that time the members of the first, second and third classes shall have returned from their practice cruise to the west coast.

In any event, the Navy Department is planning to have an interesting and impressive naval spectacle, which shall include such vessels as may be brought to Washington to represent the advances made in the mechanism of naval warfare, and such ships as the Hartford, that may have an historical significance, and, as well, a contribution of naval personnel to the parade which is bound to arouse enthusiasm.

OPEN-AIR CONCERT.

The opena-ir concert conducted by the Young People's Society of the German Reformed church, last night, proved an unusually sucessful affair, a large number of friends attending the event. It was given in the grove at Front and Church streets. The society is especially grateful to any friends who contributed to make the affair as much of a success as it was.

ARRESTED AUTOIST.

Leroy Scandell, of Front street, Dunellen, was arrested last night by Patrolman Joseph Dunlap charged with driving his automobile in excess of the speed limit. According to the officer, Scandell, who is a chauffeur was running at a thirty-mile an hour rate. The case will be heard in city court by Judge DeM[illegible] morning.

TEAMMATES SHOW THE WAY IN ELGIN AUTO RACE

Elgin, Ill., Aug. 21—The Chicago Automobile Club trophy, for which nine drivers entered over the Elgin course, was won yesterday by Earl Cooper. The time for the 301 miles establishes a new record for the course. The finish of the three leaders was as follows:

	Elapsed Time	Per Hour
Cooper	4:01:32	74:79
Anderson	4:05:04	73:85
Oldfield	4:09:55	72:46

D'Palma, favorite at the start, held the lead for the first sixty miles, when he broke a rocker arm. He laid up at the pit longer than an hour while the part was being replaced, and started again. Finally, seeing that the pursuit was hopeless, he withdrew at 176 miles to save his motor for the Elgin national trophy race today.

TEN-CENT BASEBALL AT CHICAGO

Chicago, Aug. 21—Ten-cent baseball becomes a regular thing at the Federal League park, beginning tomorrow. The working out of the idea in Newark, where eighteen thousand were attracted to a unday game under the dime rate, has induced President Weeghman to come out strong for popular baseball. President Weeghman has made preparations to accommodate a record-breaking crowd. The Whales will be opposed by the Buffeds in the opening of dime baseball in the Windy City.

SPORTING NOTES

The football season will start September 25 this year.

It was two years ago tomorrow that Jess Willard fought Bull Young at Vernon, Cal., and quit the game when his opponent died after the bout. Jess returned to the ring on advice of friends.

Thirty daysy of horse racing is an attraction that has brought some of the best thoroughbreds to San Francisco for the opening today.

The auto dare-devils have a second melon to cut today at Elgin, where the $6,000 purse and the Elgin trophy is hung up for a 301-mile race.

The San Francisco regatta events for today include races for schooners and handicap races for yawls.

The next heavyweight bout of importance is the match between Frank Moran, of Pittsburgh, and Jim Coffey, Ireland's hope, set for October 19, at New York.

Mike Gibbons, who is supposed to get $15,000 for his share in the bout with Packey McFarland next month, was formerly a tinsmith in St. Paul, at 12½ cents for a half hour's work

Jack Barry is making a great showing with the Red Sox, duplicating Eddie Collins' work with the White Sox. Pity both can't be in the world's series.

ROD AND REEL

Bluefish, which left Great South Bay during the recent storm, have turned up off Fire Island, larger by one pound.

Salmon, which weighed seven pounds, were taken at Rangeley Lake during the past week.

The National Association of Game and Fish Commissioners will convene in San Francisco on September 7, 8 and 9.

New Jersey has again set a fishing record that has startled the angling world, and anglers throughout the country are discussing the news. It is nothing more or less than the catching of Atlantic salmon with a spoon. Nothing more or less means a great deal, as never before has an Atlantic salmon been known to be captured on artificial bait.

The second annual casting tourney of the Ocean City Fishing Club was held at that place during the past week and was witnessed by a large crowd of interested spectators. Dr. Carleton Simon, the holder of the world's casting record, won six first prizes.

The water at Green pond, a splendid pickerel ground, has lowered considerably since the recent heavy rains. One of the pickerel drawn from the waters of the pond weighed 4¾ pounds.

Two anglers landed striped bass weighing 10 and 11 pounds respectively, off the Asbury Park pier yesterday.

The Passaic River is now back in shape and quite a number of fish were caught during the past week. Any place from Cingac on is worth fishing. The same applies to the Rockaway and Rahway Rivers. Lake Hopatcong reports have been good, and Swartswood Lake and Green pond fishermen report good catches.

Weakfish and croakers are plentiful off Sandy Hook. The fish are full of fight, too.

RANDOLPH TO WORK.

Cliff Randolph has his work cut out for him tomorrow when he and the rest of Billy Pfau's Pacers stack up against the Lincoln Giants, of Harlem.

That funny fellow scoop is on the classified page.

DOUBLE ENGAGEMENT FOR THE HIGHLANDER TEAM

The Roselle baseball team, under the management of Kachelriess, will try conclusions with the Highlands on the Emerson avenue field in the second part of a double engagement tomorrow. The White Sox and the Highlanders will meet in the first section and Anthony Stebor may try an "iron man" stunt.

Immediately after the tilt with the Highlanders, the White Sox will trot to Chelsea Park, where they will contend with the representative team of that section of the city. "Sid" Butler will twirl for the Sox in this game while "Kate" Velard will toss them over in the initial tilt. Cohen will catch both games.

Casey Lambertson's All Stars were originally scheduled to meet the Highlanders, but Casey requested a postponement.

T. A. B. S. OUTFIT TO PLAY THE ELIZABETH EAGLES

The T. A. B. S. and the Elizabeth Eagles will mingle on Avon Oval tomorrow. These two teams have met before, but Jupiter Pluvius stopped the argument at the end of the third frame.

The Elizabeth team represents the Eagles's society. Leo Callahan is considered their posible flinger in the T. A. M. mix-up.

As an added attraction Manager Jimmy has secured the services of Frank Malanga as "ump."

SPORT BRIEFS

Maurice McLoughlin, of San Francisco, and R. Norris Williams, 2d, will meet in the final of the invitation tennis tournament at the Casino, Newport, R. I.

Roger B. Taft, the champion of the North Jersey Country Club, won the New York Golf Club's tournament at VanCortlandt Park.

Johnnie Ertle, of St. Paul, shaded Edie Coulon, of New Orleans, in a fast ten-round bout at St. Paul last night.

MEET FOR CHAMPIONSHIP.

Newark, Aug. 21—The bicycle world's championship will be staged at the Newark Velodrome, beginning tomorrow. Three dates are set for the events: August 22, 25 and 29. Many of the best cyclists now in America have entered. Although the championship meet is to be run off without the official sanction of the International Cyclists' Union, which has heretofore controlled the championship contests, it is expected the event will be approved later when the international organization is revived after the war. The meet will conform in every way with the rules governing world's championships. Four events are on the card: Professional and amateur sprint championships at one mile; motor-paced championship at 100 kilometers, 62½ miles, and the tandem championship at one mile.

RACE ACROSS CAPE COD BAY.

Nantasket Beach, Mass., Aug. 21—A forty-mile swimming race across Cape Cod Bay to Race Point, on the tip end of Cape Cod, is scheduled for today. The contenders are Sam Richards, of Boston, and Henry Sullivan, of Lowell. They will make their start from Nantasket Beach, and will be exposed to heavy swells and rough water nearly the entire distance.

SCHOOLEY TO RACE.

William Schooley, formerly of this city, who is the all-round champion canoeist of Newark, and who recently tied for the State All-round title, is spending his vacation at Greenwood Lake, where he will compete in the canoeing events to be run off there in a few days. William Burtt, Schooley's partner, will take a trip to the lake to compete also.

OWLS TO PICNIC.

The local Order of Owls will hold a picnic and athletic meet at Wayside Park, on Labor Day. Events of all sorts are on the card and a large list of contestants in each of them is expected.

MIDDLESEX G. O. P. INDORSES W. A. SPENCER FOR SENATOR

New Brunswick, Aug. 21.—The Republican county committee has indorsed W. A. Spencer, a Perth Amboy lawyer, as candidate for Senator from Middlesex county. He had been named by his friends, and it was thought the committee might not make him its choice. It was announced, however, that Spencer would run as an independent candidate if not named by the committee, so it indorsed him.

For the Assembly nominee the county committee picked former City Engineer Frederick Schneider, of this city; Leon Goldberger, a Perth Amboy lawyer, and George Applegate, of South River. John V. Hubbard was chosen to run for coroner. He ran last year.

There are seven candidates in the field for freeholder, of whom five are to be selected for the nominees. They are Mayor William S. Dey, of South Amboy; John Bennett, of Cranbury; Patrick Moran, of this city; Abram Feihle, of Sayreville; Clarence Haight, of Dunellen; John A. Leison, of Woodbridge, and Nels Hanson, of Perth Amboy.

DECLINES RE-NOMINATION

reasons why stated to me by you as chairman of a committee of citizens that should induce me to accept a renomination for Mayor, thoughful consideration and would answer that I must decline a renomination. I thank you and the rest of the committee and those whose names are attached to the petition for the esteem in which I am held and that my administration as Mayor has been so satisfactory.

"ROBERT CLARK, Jr."

Mayor Clark is finishing his second term as chief executive of North Plainfield, and many of his friends say that he should have consented to run again and serve, if elected, during the time that the borough is passing through such an important period in its history. The sewer matters are occupying much of the attention of the Mayor and Council, and the borough's affairs need to be handled by some one who is familiar with all the details of the financial situation, his friends say.

The refusal of Mayor Clark to run again leaves the field open to William L. Smalley, who has announced his candidacy for the office. When informed that Mayor Clark had notified the committee that he would not be a candidate again, Mr. Smalley said:

"Mr. Clark's decision not to run is just exactly what I thought it would be. When Mr. Clark told me some time ago he was not a candidate, I was positive he meant what he said.

"Just what my own disqualifications are in the judgment of the Linbarger committee, I do not know. What I might suggest as a solution of the question is that Chairman Linbarger call his committee together and select one of their own number to become a candidate in the place of Mr. Clark

"Mr. Townsend has served one term as Mayor and should be willing to serve another. Judge Runyon might be induced to run. As he is familiar with borough affairs he should be an ideal candidate.

"Whoever the candidate may be against me, I hope he will be qualified for the position, and may the best man win."

PROCTOR'S THEATRE

The Proctor Theatre will offer the seven-reel Selig Red Seal play, "The Rosary," on Monday, as one of the big features of the year. A more artistic and dramatic photoplay could hardly be imagined than this production by the Selig Polyscope Company. It is based upon the famous drama by Edward E. Rose and tells the story of the many trying events which fill the life of Father Kelly. From childhood he was told that his calling was the church and his heart directed him that way, but in early manhood when a young girl came into his life he wavered for a short time from his determination. He won the battle which raged in his heart, however, and devoted himself to the church.

Later in life a boy—the son of the woman he loved—came to him and Father Kelly cared for the boy as though he were his own. The boy grew to manhood and married. His wife's sister was ruined by a worthless fellow and in protecting the girl's name the wife aroused the husband's suspicion. A separation followed and Father Kelly, heart-broken over the tragedy, did all he could to bring them together. In the end he was successful and happiness came into their lives again.

MULLIN WILL PLAY.

Tommy Mullin will play at short for the Franklins in their tilt with the St. Anthony's at Amboy, tomorrow.

OPPOSITION FOR ASSEMBLYMEN

Peter J. Olde Announced That He Would Seek Place at Republican Outing.

COSE WILL RUN AGAIN

Councilman Will Heed Urging of Business Men and Permit His Name to Go Before Voters—Outing Took 550 of the Faithful.

One minor discordant note sounded at the outing of the Republican County Committee to Coney Island, on Saturday, was the only thing to interrupt the routine of the day's program, which had been arranged by a committee of which County Collector Nathan R. Leavitt was the chairman. This came when friends of former Freeholder Peter J. Olde, an Elizabeth lawyer, announced that he had decided to contest for one of the Assembly nominations, and Mr. Olde himself confirmed the statement. A petition was put in circulation and it was stated by Mr. Olde's friends that a large number of those on the boat signed the paper. Until Saturday morning it had been generally expected that William N. Runyon, of Plainfield, Republican leader in the last House; Arthur N. Pierson, of Westfield, and Charles Morgan, of Elizabeth, would be unopposed for renomination. The general impression was that because Mr. Morgan and Mr. Olde both come from Elizabeth, it was probable that the vote in that city would determine which one of the two would be selected at the primaries next month.

An announcement of local interest made on the trip was that Councilman-at-large John H. Cose that he had decided to be a candidate for re-election again this year, although he had previously said that he would not run again, because of the time taken for the office. Mr. Cose said that up until Thursday morning he had given up all thought of running, but that twenty-seven of the leading business men of the city presented a petition urging him to again be a candidate, as they felt that some local business man should be on the Council, as a sort of balance wheel to the commuter element.

Plainfield was well represented on the excursion, there being nearly as many from this city as there was from all the rest of the county put together. Nearly 200 local employes of the Pond Tool Works went, and in addition many local officials, including a few Democrats were in the throng of 550 who filled the boat. It was originally expected that only about 300 would go all together. Mayor Calkins, Councilmen Cose, Graves, Blatz and Martin, Assemblyman William N. Runyon, County Register Frank H. Smith, John F. Nichol, secretary to Congressman Capstick; former Senator Ernest R. Ackerman, County Chairman William Newcorn and many others in addition to those whose names were printed Saturday were in the crowd from Plainfield.

Aside from Congressman John H. Capstick, Speaker Carlton B. Godfrey, of Atlantic county, who was nursing his Gubernatorial boom, and Senator Blanchard H. White, of Burlington county, the expected guests from without the county, were conspicuous by their absence, which was probably accounted for by the fact that this is an "off year."

The party left Elizabethport shortly after 10 o'clock, and arrived at Coney Island about 1:30, after a sail around Staten Island during which time luncheon was served on the boat for those who wished it. The return trip left the Island at 6 o'clock, and after a sail up the Hudson reached Elizabethport late in the evening. The predicted rain did not materialize until nearly 8 o'clock, and did not interfere with the pleasure of the day.

Rev. Dr. C. W. F. Attlee Performs Ceremony at Home of the Bride.

An attractive home wedding took place Saturday night, when Miss Ruth Johansen, daughter of Mrs. Mary Johansen, of Pearl street, became the bride, of Edward C. Dennick. Rev. Dr. C. W. F. Atlee, performed the ceremony, which was witnessed by a number of intimate friends and relatives of the couple. Miss Johansen was attended by Miss Gertrude Hughes as bridesmaid, and Hubert Amundsen was best man. The bride was gowned in a charming creation of crepe de chine and carried bridal roses, while the bridesmaid wore white organdie and carried a bouquet of pink carnations. The parlor and dining-room were beautifully decorated for the occasion with cut flowers and palms.

Following a supper the young couple started on a wedding trip, at the conclusion of which they will reside in Plainfield. Among those present were Mrs. Ethel Johansen, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Van Hoesen, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Stauffer, Mrs. M. Klemack, Mrs. M. PETER FLOERSCH HOME FROM PACIFIC COAST

Trip Included Visit to Three Expositions and Ride Up Pike's Peak In Auto.

Peter Floersch, proprietor of the Queen City Hotel, accompanied by Mrs. Floersch and his daughter returned to Plainfield early Saturday evening from a month's trip to the Pacific coast. Like all other returning travelers, Mr. Floersch was enthusiastic about the Panama-Pacific Fair, and about the various points of interest which the party visited. In addition to the 'Frisco Exposition, he went to the one at San Diego and the Mexica Fair, which is being held just over the border at Tyauna, Mexico, a town thirty-five miles by automobile from San Diego.

In talking about the trip this afternoon, Mr. Floersch said that he went from Chicago to Colorado Springs, where there were side trips to the Garden of the Gods, Mt. Manitou, Seven Falls and Cripple Creek, after which the party went on to Salt Lake City, passing through the famous Royal Gorge of the Arkansas River. After seeing the sights at Salt Lake City, including all of the Mormon buildings, they visited Ogden and the canyon there, and went to Lake Tahoe, from which point the trip was made direct to San Francisco.

Leaving none of the features of the fair unvisited, Mr. Floersch and his party went into Southern California, stopping at San Diego, the Mexican Fair mentioned before, San Bernadino, the famous mission hotel at Riverside, Mount Rubidoux and Redlands. When leaving the latter point the Santa Fe Railroad was taken to the Grand Canyon of the Colorado River, over the branch from Williams, Arizona. Mr. Floersch did not take the trip down the canyon on mule back, but all nearby points of interest on the top were visited. Leaving the Grand Canyon, a short stop was made at Albuquerque. While here Mr. Floersch visited the Elks' Club, and one of the things that pleased him more than anything else was the statement made by one of the members of the organization that, although a large number of the members were born in Mexico, they wanted it distinctly understood that if we got into war with Germany they were ready and willing to pitch in and fight for the United States.

From Albuquerque a return was made to Colorado Springs, in the hope that it would be possible to go to the top of Pike's Peak by automobile. It was found, however, that the road would not be completed for another month, six miles remaining to be finished. The party were taken up the first twelve miles, and were astonished to find that this wonderful piece of engineering has been so well done that there is no grade greater than 10 per cent. From Colorado Springs they came direct to Chicago, and then home, being met at Newark by William M. Floersch with an automobile on Saturday afternoon. All are well and enthusiastic about the entire trip.

BOROUGH POLICE RAID SPEAK-EASY

Fight Between Italians Is Followed By Arrests and Arraignment In Court.

The North Plainfield police force raided an alleged speak-easy last night, and as a result the borough treasury was enriched by fines to the amount of forty dollars this morning. The defendants in the case were Puride Garbari, forty years old; Joseph Caslutio, forty; Delia Caslutio, fifty-two, and Bellisseni Oragio, thirty-five, all of whom reside on Jefferson avenne, near Cedar street.

The place came to be raided as the result of a fight in which Joseph Caslutio was cut and bruised about the head. Roundsman Charles Keller, who is on vacation, was aroused late last night by a commotion in front of his Harrison avenue home, and found Caslution outside, excitedly calling for help. Seeing that the man was wounded, Keller found out from him who his assailant was and calling Marshal John Hermann, hurried to Garbari's house and placed Garbari and Oragio under arrest, taking Joseph Caslutio and his wife along also.

Upon investigation the police found evidence of illegal liquor selling, and made a charge to that effect against Garbari. Recorder Hand fined him $20. Oragio, whom Caslutio charged with striking him on the head with a locust club, was fined ten dollars, while Caslutio and his wife were each let off with five dollar fines. The latter couple were unable to pay and were remanded back to their cells.

CELEBRATED SILVER WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. James Theodore Goodwin Observe Happy Event at Their Home.

As a fitting observance of twenty-five years of wedded life completed Saturday night, Mr. and Mrs. James Theodore Goodwin entertained sixty guests at their home, 740 Carlton avenue, while scores of their friends unable to be present sent congratulatory messages full of heartfelt wishes and the hope that they would live to enjoy their "golden wedding" anniversary. Guests were present from Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, New York, Orange and this city.

Although Mr. and Mrs. Goodwin have lived in his city only three years, coming from Richmond, Va., they have made friends in large numbers throughout the city and borough and evidences of the affection and esteem were exhibited in the letters and telegrams, all to the same happy tune of congratulation. The gifts were worthy of special mention, numerous handsome pieces of silver being sent from friends and acquaintances in this city as well as the South. The home was attractively decorated for the event, white and green being the color scheme, while palms and cut flowers were used throughout. A feature of the collation served at a late hour was the cutting of the bride's cake which was done by Mrs. Goodwin. A letter written by Rev. J. D. Leslie, of Watervalley, Miss., the officiating clergyman, containing the prayer at the wedding ceremony twenty-five years ago brought happy memories to the couple as well as a number of the guests present. Singing and dancing concluded the festivities of the evening. Several musical selections were rendered by Miss Anna Warnock, piano, and J. A. Wilson, banjo. Miss Edythe Bechtel, who possesses aa excellent soprano voice, entertained ew with several vocal selections.

Mr and Mrs. Goodwin are the parents of eight children, two of whom are married and living in Richmond. The remaining six are at the parental home. Mrs. Goodwin was formerly Miss Katherine C. Price, of Richmond.

ALLEGE ILLEGAL SALE OF LIQUOR

Warrant Sworn Out Today for Manager of Netherwood Hostelry.

POLICE VISIT THE PLACE

Chief Kiely, After Ten Days' Work, Says That He Feels He Has Good Case Against Place, Which Some Neighbors Want Licensed.

As a result of investigations which have been made by Chief of Police Patrick Kiely during the last ten days a warrant for selling liquor without a license was sworn to this mornnig against Adolph Ruehl, who has been conducting the Netherwood Hotel for less than a month. The chief is said to have first received an intimation that the liquor law was being violated less than two weeks ago, and had representatives visit the place, whom, he said, purchased beer and whiskey in the hotel twice during the last ten days. On Saturday night the chief, accompanied by Mayor Leighton Calkins, Lieutenant Maurice Higgins, Patrolmen Welsh and Martin, visited the hotel and say that they found liquor being drunk by persons who will testify that they purchased it shortly before the arrival of the officers. Mayor Calkins did not go in the place when the visit was made, remaining outside in an automobile.

The charges are of interest because of the fact that it has been more or less publicly stated that the hotel was to receive a license from the City Council as soon as application is made for it, and some Netherwood people who are opposed to having a bar there have been preparing to make a determined fight on the license, as soon as the matter is formally presented to the Council. On the other hand a number of members of the Netherwood Residents' Association are said to have been preparing a petition favoring the grant and presenting that to the Council, A. C. Wilmerding having been quoted as one of the leaders in this movement.

There are a number of people in the Netherwood section who feel that the hotel can never be successful without a license, but several who have been spoken to recently said that if the place was selling without a license, they did not think a manager who would so transgress the law should be considered by the Council when the matter of granting the permit is taken up.

Chief of Police Kiely felt this morning that he had secured a good case in the matter. The necessary papers were sworn to before City Judge DeMeza, and an officer was sent to the hotel to serve them, callinging for the appearance of Mr. Ruehl at the police court tomorrow morning.

HARRY S. KARTSHER TO WED MISS MARY WINIFRED PARRY

Announcements received in this city convey the information of the approaching marriage of Miss Mary Winifred Parry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Parry, of Cincinnati, O., to Harry Sparks Kartsher, formerly of Plainfield, which will take place tomorrow night at the home of the bride.

After an extended wedding trip through Washington, Old Point Comfort, Norfolk and New York, the couple will take up their residence in Philadelphia.

JUDGE DE MEZA SORRY HE HAS A TENDER HEART

"That's what you get for kindness. I came down here yesterday morning to let those two bums out for the day, and they promised that they would surely be here this morning. Now the chief will have to send out a man to round them up, and have them in court tomorrow morning." City Judge DeMeza was wrothy when he called the names of John Lyons and Richard Waldo, whom the police picked up Saturday, and whom he had let go on their own recognizance yesterday morning. "They are the last persons that I will let go without bail," said the court, "and I suppose that a lot of decent men will have to suffer as a result of the act of such ungrateful fellows as these two."

WARNING FOR JITNEY DRIVERS FROM JUDGE

Told That They Must Be More Careful In Approaching Trolley Cars.

In suspending sentence on LeRoy Scandell, a jitney driver, City Judge DeMeza, this morning, took occasion to remind all jitney drivers through Scandell, that they must be more careful in their use of the streets, or they would regret it in the future. Scandell was arrested by Patrolman Dunlap on Saturday night, on West Front street, shortly after the officer had seen him going in the opposite direction, at what appeared to be thirty miles an hour. He was represented in court by Judge Rene P. F. von Minden, of New Market, who made a plea that the young man be permitted to go because of the possible effect on his record if he ever got into trouble again. Scandell admitted that he was violating the law, but did not think he was going thirty miles an hour, as the patrolman said.

In suspending sentence Judge DeMeza said that he was going to have the chief summon all jitney drivers to court, and give them to understand that they must not race after the trolley cars in an effort to steal passengers from them. He said that he intended to be strict with the jitneys for the simple reason that the public at large must be protected. Jitney owners, or most of them, are irresponsible, and if any one is injured or killed it would be impossible to collect damages. Every driver is to be given fair warning that he is to keep within the law, and not get close to the trolley cars when they are standing still.

CRAP SHOOTERS FAIL TO FOOL JUDGE DE MEZA

Magistrate Gets Truth Out of Man Gathered In Police Drag Net In West End.

Patrolman Roy Martin dropped unexpectedly on a gang of crap shooters, who were holding forth yesterday morning on Third street, near Prescott place. He succeeded in catching William Fisher and Louis Malanga out of a group of nine or ten, and both were in court this morning, accompanied by admiring friends. Malanga frankly admitted to Judge DeMeza that he shot crap at the place in question prior to yesterday, but that he had not been there long enough yesterday to get into the game when the policeman arrived. He got a suspended sentence.

Fisher was inclined to dodge telling the truth when first put on the stand. The officer had found him with a half dollar in his hand when caught, and after Fisher had admitted that this was his the judge questioned him until he reached a point where perjury was evident. Fisher finally said that the game had been going on at the place in question for several Sundays, and being well supplied with look-outs had always been able to keep out of the hands of the police. He insisted however, that he was not shooting crap, but "fading," a process of betting whether or not the men who were actually shooting would win. He said that William Doyle was one of the ringleaders in the crowd.

Judge DeMeza gave Fisher a good talking to, and finally had the young man in a very penitent mood, and secured his promise that he would not shoot crap in Plainfield again. He was given a suspended sentence of a $20 fine or sixty days in the county jail. Fisher thanked the judge for the talk he had received, and left court happy.

MISS DUNHAM GUEST AT MISCELLANEOUS SHOWER

Miss Geraldine Dunham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Dunham, of East Second street, was the guest of honor at a surprise miscellaneous shower arranged by Miss Julia Aller at the latter's home on East Second street, Saturday night. Guests were present from this city, Dunellen and Cranford. The dining-room was artistically decorated in pink and blue. A cupid sitting at the crossroad of single blessedness and double happiness, under a parasol, decorated the table. After refreshments were served the bride-to-be searched for useful gifts which had been hidden from view. The evening was spent in playing progressive games, Miss Bessie Morris and Mrs. Walter Vail being the winners.

Miss Dunham will become the bride of William Tier, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William Tier, of Westervelt avenue, early in the fall.

STATE DEPARTMENT ASKS FOR REPORT ON ARABIC FROM GERMAN GOVERNMENT; OUR PLANS MADE

PRESIDENT WILSON SAID TO BE READY TO ASK CONGRESS FOR A STRONG ARMY—SITUATION IS NOW GRAVE.

FRENCH BOATS SINK A GERMAN DESTROYER

Naval Victory at Riga Announced In Official Statement From Petrograd—Russian Army Resumes Offensive Along the Dniester—Italian Subjects In Turkey Being Arrested By Hundreds—British Government Says Arabic Was Unarmed When Attacked.

Washington, Aug. 21—The State Department today ordered Ambassador Gerard, at Berlin, to inquire of the German government whether it had received any report from the commander of the submarine that sunk the White Star liner Arabic last week. This action is expected to spur the Berlin authorities to make certain Germany's attitude.

All the information in the possession of the department, it was announced, necessarily is fragmentary, and no definite announcement of policy will be made until complete details have been received.

Secretary of State Lansing did deny, however, a persistent report that an explanation of the sinking of the Arabic, amounting virtually to an apology, had been received from Germany. Nothing, it was said, thus far has been forthcoming from Berlin on the subject.

In Government circles there is no discussion now of an alternative to action, if the facts reported in the news despatches are officially established, for it became known today that the Government methodically planned the next step at the time of the sending of the last Lusitania note in case Germany should "deliberately" pursue a course which this Government pronounced "unfriendly."

The procedure outlined by a high official of the Administration as having been already decided upon in case circumstances should warrant the dismissal of Count von Bernstorff and the recall of Ambassador Gerard is in general as follows:

If the immediate situation was sufficiently critical, the President might call Congress together in extra session; otherwise, he would wait until the regular session in December and then personally ask for legislative authority to establish a standing army of probably 200,000 men, with a provision to increase it to a war footing of 600,000, and in addition to form a large reserve army.

Second—A large increase in the fleet, perhaps to the extent of six dreadnaughts and a considerable number of seagoing submarines, would be urged by the President, together with a substantial appropriation for aeroplanes and dirigibles both for the army and navy, and provision for an adequate number of scout cruisers, destroyers and transports.

Third—An appropriation would be sought for a system of increasing the coast defences of the country, for which the plans have already been formulated.

Fourth—Appropriations would be asked to increase the capacity of the United States Army and Navy, ordnance and ammunition plants, and measures would be adopted to encourage private munition factories to extend their facilities in acordance with the suggestion of Brig. Gen. Crozier, the chief of the Ordnance Department of the army.

Another step which, it is asserted, the Administration would contemplate, in case relations with Germany were ended, would be to show its resentment by adopting a policy equivalent to furnishing moral support to the Allies. No positive information upon this score, however, was obtainable.

Paris, Aug. 23—French torpedo boats of the Second Light Squadron sank a German destroyer off Ostend last night, the Admiralty announced today. The French boats were undamaged.

Petrograd, Aug. 21—An official statement issued by the Admiralty today confirmed the sinking of a German dreadnaugh by an English submarine in the Gulf of Riga. Russian warships sunk or damaged two German cruisers and eight torpedo boats, but the Russian gunboat Slyutch was sunk.

GERMANY TO SEEK PEACE?

Amsterdam, Aug. 23 (Bulletin)—Germany's new loan will completely exhaust the financial resources of the country and it is therefore necessary to effect a honorable peace. This statement was made by the German minister of finance, Karl Helfferich, according to the Telegraff, of this city, at a secret conference of the German cabinet held prior to the meeting of the Reichstag last Thursday.

Chief of the General Staff Von Moltke told the conference that it is impossible to hope for complete defeat of Russia, and only those not well informed could contemplate such a final result. The Imperial Chancellor, Dr. Vonbethmann Hollwek, told the ministers and politician leaders that he would resign his office if the Reichstag should prove irreconcilably opposed to any movements looking to peace as he is unwilling to accept the responsibility for Germany's disaster.

HEAR BULGARIA WILL NOT ENTER EUROPEAN STRUGGLE

Berlin, Aug. 23 (by wireless)—The Overseas News Agency today announced receipt of an official report from Sofia and Constantinople that Turkey and Bulgaria had signed a new treaty granting Bulgaria its desires of direct communication with the sea. Bulgaria is observing a benevolent neutrality, if not more, added the agency's statement, demonstrating the definite failure of the Ententes efforts to revive the Balkan State alliance to join the war against Turkey.

FIRE THREATENS THE ASTOR THEATRE

Poor Insulation Results in $500 Damage to Moving Picture House.

Over $500 damage was done the interior of the U. S. Astor Theatre by a fire Saturday afternoon. The interior of one of the ante rooms was gutted and quite a quantity of theatrical property was burned, but no lives were endangered. The management announced to the patrons who were in the theatre at the time that an accident had happened to a moving picture machine, and the patrons thereupon left the building quietly and orderly without knowing that there was a fire within.

The origin of the fire is ascribed by the chief of the fire department to spontaneous combustion and by others to defective insulation. It broke out around the lights and quickly ran through the inflammable material stored in the room. The building soon filled with smoke. An alarm was telephoned to fire headquarters and the department responded. A few extinguishers and the chemical put out the blaze.

The fire occurred at 5:42, the official time the alarm was received at headquarters. The hour was one in which very few people were inside the building.

The property destroyed by the fire consisted of lithographs, chairs and miscellaneous articles stored in the ante room. Manager Walter Smith estimated the damage at more than $500.

King street, which forms the southern boundary line between the borough and township, is being repaired under the joint supervision of the street departments of the two places. Together with Westfield road and Summit avenue, that thoroughfare has been the object of a great deal of dispute between the two governing bodies, as no decision could be reached as to who should bear the expense of the upkeep of the three roads. In each case the borough line runs along the inside gutter of the street, and if the borough has compromised in this one instance by defraying half the expense they will probably do so in the other two cases.

Mr. Ralston had a fair-sized congregation considering the warm weather, and delivered a short sermon, preaching for less than an hour.

The text was, "Forgetting Those Things That Are Behind." The speaker urged his hearers to follow the teaching of the text literally, and forget not only the regrettable things we have done ourselves, but also the unkind things other people have done to us.

ARREST FOLLOWS DISPUTE OVER REALTY TRANSACTION

A disput over a realty transaction between Frank Lutz, of Dunellen Terrace, and Henry Seldman, of New York, who is president of the Dunellen Terace Development, culminated yesterday afternoon in the arrest of Lutz on a warrant sworn out by Seldman that the former had threatened to take his life. Lutz was arrested by Marshal Walter Sisty, of Middlesex Borough, and arraigned before Judge Moore, of Bound Brook, who held him for the Grand Jury under a bond of $300 and gave him until 9 o'clock last evening to furnish the bond. He was unable to do this and was taken to New Brunswick.

Lutz bought ten lots from Seldman with the understanding the total would aggregate one acre. When a surveyor had measured the ground, it is said, Lutz found out that it did not measure that at all and accordingly accused Seldman with the charge. The latter refuted that no such provision or agreement was made in the contract, whereat, Lutz threatened to stab Seldman with a screw driver, it is said.

Yesterday Lutz cornered Seldman again and requested him for the additional land or a money refund which Seldman refused to do. Matters grew worse and concluded with the arrest of the former.

JORDAN LET GO.

Frank Jordan, the colored man who was arrested Saturday morning shortly before the Republican outing left this city, and was let go by the judge so he could go on the outing appeared in court this morning. He said that he had not used offensive language on the station platform, as was claimed by Patrolman McCarthy, who arrested him, and after hearing the case Judge DeMeza decided that the best thing to do was let Jordan go with a warning that he behave himself in the future, and not give the police cause to arrest him.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD COLLECTOR.

Mr. Hamilton is secretary of the South Plainfield Building and Loan Association and is also connected with various other organizations. His friends consider him well equipped for the office of collector.

SPEAKERS EXPOUND SUFFRAGE DOCTRINE

C. C. Wheeler, Francis Bodin and A. C. Pleydell Address Open Air Meeting.

Suffragists were in evidence at their usual Saturday night stand, at Front street and Madison avenue, in spite of the threatening weather, a large turnout of enthusiastic supporters greeting the speakers. C. C. Wheeler opened the meeting with an excellent address in which he made clear his belief that every human being of proper age should have the privilege of the ballot, and voiced his fullest confidence in the ability of women. "The two greatest questions of the day," he continued, are "temperance and woman suffrage and they go hand in hand." He alluded briefly to the war. "Women have proven themselves indispensable in war as in peace," he said, "but that does not mean they will be obliged to carry muskets." In closing he asked the men to give the woman "a square deal."

C. L. Riley, acting as chairman of the delegation, then introduced Francis E. Bodin, of Watchung, president of the North Plainfield Township Improvement Association. In part he said: "It is a pleasure to register a word of approval of the woman suffrage cause. Many men as well as women desire to include the women in the electorate. Our government is conceded to be the ideal form of government. Under it the object of an election is to obtain the opinion of the people. If you limit the electorate you are not getting a true expression of opinion."

Following Mr. Bodin, A. C. Pleydell spoke a few words holding his audience, in spite of the rain, by his earnest and the original way in which he presented the topic.

"Fellow citizens," he said, "fellow citizens means all inhabitants of the United States, all those who obey the laws or go to jail if they don't. I come to you as a neighbor, not an imported speaker, to tell you what I believe in." In illustration of the number of women out of the home he asked his audience to imagine that all the women in New York city should strike for one day, the telephone girls, the stenographers, the waitresses. Business would be at a standstill. "Even a Tammany politician will be fair enough to admit that there are so many women in business in New York today that it is right they should vote for laws under which they have to work." Lemuel B. Woolston and Dr Edward Krans were unable to speak because of the rain.

LOCAL CHILDREN ENTERED IN THE BABY PARADE

The annual Asbury Park baby parade, scheduled for Wednesday of this week, is an event of interest to many Plainfielders, inasmuch as three children from this city are entered in the affair thus far. The total registrations are now about 400, a figure which, in all probability, will be doubled by tomorrow night, for experience in the past has shown that a large proportion of people intending to put thir children into the exhibition wait until the last forty-eight hours before announcing their intention.

The participants in the parade from Plainfield are Logan Murphy, five years old; Dorothy Murphy, six years old, and Robert Murphy, nine years old.

Mr. and Mrs. DeWitt Hubbell, of this city, are registered at the Avon Inn, Avon.

The arrivals at Maple Lawn, Cairo, N. Y., include Mr. and Mrs. P. G. Newman, of Plainfield.

Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Corzeaux and A. L. Mills, of this city, are registered at the Llanymor and Columbia, Belmar.

Miss Idabel Conover, of Jackson avenue, is registered at the Ocean Rest Hotel, Ocean Grove.

PLAINFIELD THEATRE

"Potash and Perlmutter," a comedy woven about the characters and incidents made famous in the Saturday Evening Post stories by Montague Glass, which comes to the Plainfield Theatre, Saturday afternoon and night, August 28, following its second year at the Cohan Theare, New York, has caused more hearty, healthy laughter than any other play in the history of the stage. This simple, homely humorous tale of the cloak trade firm, whose partners quarrel violently over details, but would give their lives for each other, is wonderfully human. The lines scintillate with the most delicious humor, and the characters are as real as they are lovable. A deep vein of romance is developed through a Russian refugee, who is wanted by the police for extradition on a trumped-up charge, and who is passionately defended at the risk of enormous financial sacrifice by Abe and Morris, because of their loyalty to their own race and their spirit of fair play.

Make your Real Estate "ad" one which investors and home-hunters will investigate in their own interests.

THIS MAN WAS A HERO UNTIL OPPONENT WAS REINFORCED

Charles Garfinkle, who prior to two years ago had a police record of eight arrests, but who has been following the straight and narrow path since then, was in court this morning. Charles felt like a hero on Saturday night until he found that he would have to fight a half a dozen husky colored lads, when he changed his mind and called for a policeman. Patrolman Fritz happened to be nearby, and after listening to the story told by John Roach, one of the colored men, decided to take Garfinkle to headquartrs, and told Roach to be in court this morning. Garfinkle admitted that he had been disorderly in that he had tried to provoke a fight with Roach, until the latter showed that he had reinforcements. The judge, after hearing the testimony of both men and the policeman, told Garfinkle that hereafter, when he felt that he was aggrieved, he should make a complaint to the police and let the matter be settled in court, and not through a fight in some secluded corner. Garfinkle said that he had been behaving himself for the past two years, and he was glad to get a suspended sentence.

TWO COUNCILMEN AND MAYOR TO BE ELECTED

Besides a Mayor, North Plainfield voters will be called upon this fall to elect two members of Common Council to succeed Councilmen Edwin S. Boyer and Allan Cowperthwaite, whose terms expire; a collector for one year, to fill the unexpired term of the late George F. Brown, and to succeed the temporary collector, who will be selected to fill out the balance of this year at the adjourned meeting of the borough Common Council Friday night, and five county committeemen.

So far William L. Smalley is the only candidate who is known to be after the office of Mayor. Messrs. Boyer and Cowperthwaite are Republicans and have not intimated whether they will run again. There are a host of candidates for the office of collector for the few months remaining of the present collector's year, and the members of the county committee are elected every fall.

RIDING FREIGHT, ARRESTED.

Lowell Feature, a machinist, was arrested by Patrolman Welsh for disorderly conduct on Saturday having been caught riding a freight. He admitted to the judge this morning that the charge was true, and after being given a lecture about the danger to himself, the court let him go.

RECORDER IMPOSES $10 FINE ON HANNAH MEADOWS

Charged with being drunk and disorderly, Hannah Meadows, 37 years old, of 337 McDowell street, was fined ten dollars by Recorder Hand in the North Plainfield police court this morning.

The woman was arrested Friday night by Marshals Pope and Swody on Harmony street, who found her trying to gain entrance to the house of a relative who refused to admit her. She was given an opportunity to be arraigned before the recorder Saturday morning, but refused to leave her cell. As the recorder had to return to the court to hear another case Saturday afternoon, she was given a trial then.

ROBERT HART, JR., DIES SUDDENLY IN HARTFORD

Mrs. Charles Burnett, of this city, received a telegram today informing her of the sudden death of her brother, Robert J. Hart, Jr., which occurred in Hartford, Conn., on Saturday. The telegram was sent by another brother, John Hart, also of Hartford, but it gave no details. Arrangements will be made to bring the body to this city.

Mr. Hart, who was the son of the late Robert Hart, a well-known machinist, lived in Plainfield until four years ago, when he removed to Hartford. He was formerly employed by Councilman John H. Cose and had many friends here. He was unmarried. There survives a mother, Mrs. Robert Hart; four sisters, Mrs. Charles Burnett and the Misses Margaret and Mary Hart, of this city, and Mrs. James Garvey, of Bayonne, and a brother, John Hart, of Hartford.

FIREMEN'S DELEGATES.

Fire Chief T. O. Doane, V. W. Nash, Sr., Guilermo Thorne and J. Claassen will be the local delegates from the Firemen's Relief Association to the State convention of that organization at Atlantic City, which is to be held next month. The Exempt Firemen's Association will be represented by Mr. Nash and Daniel W. Littell. Mr. Nash has represented both organizations both last year and this. The remarkable part of his so doing comes from the fact that the two organizations are continually at loggerheads in almost every municipality, and in their State organization, except in Plainfield.

The man or woman who have not the habit of "trying again" very often fail as want advertisers, wholly for that reason.

MRS. HELEN S. FIELDS DIES AT PLEASANTVILLE, N. Y.

Friends in this city received the information this morning, of the death of Mrs. Helen Shipman Field, widow of the late Peter Wortman Field, yesterday, at the home of her brother, Peter Field, South Broadway, Pleasantville, N. Y. Mrs. Field was well-known in this city where she made her home for some time prior to her removal, to Pleasantville. The funeral will be held from the latter residence Wednesday and burial will be at Bound Brook on the arrival of the 12 o'clock train from New York.

MANY BOROUGHITES SEEK JOB OF TAX COLLECTOR

It is said that there are a number of petitions in circulation for borough collector. While the North Plainfield Common Council will appoint a man Friday night to succeed the late George F. Brown, the appointment will be for only four months, and a collector will have to be elected this fall to serve the one year remaining of Mr. Brown's term.

Several of the men who are in the lead for the appointment, or who think they are, are not doing anything in the way of circulating petitions and won't do so until they know "where they are at," after the meeting Friday night. As they have until September 7 in which to file a petition, they can get busy on the job after Friday night's meeting and still have plenty of time.

LOCAL SOCIETY LAUDED.

Henry Haurand, of Somerset street, has received a leter from Professor Karl Deichmann, who directed the members of the singing section of the Plainfield Gesang and Turn Verein, who took part in the singing contest at the Bronx last Sunday, in which the professor quotes part of a letter sent him by one of the judges who awarded the singing contest awards, complimenting the Plainfield society on its showing. The local contingent won third diploma, which is considered an excellent record considering that many of the competing societies were among the best in the country.

CARTED WITHOUT A LICENSE.

Charles Milford, a colored carter was told by Judge DeMeza this morning that his character was such that he would tell a lie before he would tell the truth, and therefore he got a suspended sentence, the sentence having been that he secure a license.

RUNYON'S CREDITABLE SHOWING IN MEET

Finishes Second In Two Events In Keansburg Athletic Games Saturday.

Ralph Runyon, the only local athlete who competed in the Keansburg Carnival Association's athletic games at Keansburg, Saturday, made a creditable showing. He was second in the running broad and second in the high jump. J. S. Hendrickson, of the Bronx Church House, outjumped him in the high jump, his mark being 5 feet 5 inches with a six inch handicap. Runyon made 20 feet 9½ inches in the running broad, but was second best. However, his efforts were rewarded with two beautiful silver medals.

Attention must be called to the fact that Runyon had to compete against 28 men in each event, among them being Lozier, the N. Y. A. C. wonder, and Nash, the Rutgers crack. However, neither of these placed.

The 600-yard novice was won by Frichter, a Pastime A. C. recruit. His feat exacted the wonder and admiration of all and even astounded Harry Obertubessing, the official handicap man.

BASEBALL CONTEST FEATURED OUTING

Plumbers' Association Makes Merry At Its Annual Picnic At the 'Plains.

The annual picnic and clambake of the Plumbers' Association took place Saturday at William Lee's grove, Scotch Plains. In the contests the North Plainfield members won on everything and made an enviable record for themselves.

In the quoit contest, George Perry was first, and was presented with a pair of chain tongs, the award coming from the Vulcan Manufacturing Company. The tug-of-war was won by a team of North Plainfield boys composed of "Dutch" Klein, "Dutch" Eckhart, "Nig" Hann and James Walker. For excelling in this contest each member of the team was presented with a two-dollar Stilson wrench, presented by the Stilson Manufacturing Company.

The largest event of the day, however, was the baseball game between teams representing Plainfield and North Plainfield. The prize offered the winning team was a loving cup given by John Hunt, president of the association. The latter team took the prize by the score of 9 to 2 despite the fact that the Plainfield contingent numbered among their players relatives of players on the big league nines.

"Jim" Taylor is a cousin of "Dummy" Taylor, formerly of the New York Nationals; Ed. Barry is a cousin to Jack Barry, of the Boston Red Sox; Jerry Driscoll is an uncle of Dave Driscoll, who used to manage the Hoboken team, and Jack Moran is related to Patrick Moran, manager of the Philadelphia Nationals.

PUBLIC SERVICE FALL.

Seventh and eighth-inning rallies netted the Westfield A. A. a 9 to 5 win over the Public Service baseball squad Saturday. Ability to hit Montross and Baker assured the Westfields their victory. Schroppe was a puzzle to the Service players, only eight well separated bingles being registered off his delivery.

FARMER A. C. WHITEWASH HIGHLANDERS IN OPENER

Kachlries hurled for the Farmers in the first half of a double-decker staged on Highland Field yesterday and shut the Highlanders out, 4 to 0. Immediately after he twirled against the White Sox, and allowed them only three runs. On Saturday he shut the Lincoln Tile Workers out 4 to 0. His work earns him a regular "iron-man" title. On no occasion did his opponents threaten to make things hot for him.

Tone Denny, the Abstiners' flinger, pitched for the Highlanders yesterday, and was touched for eight clouts, about half of which were made by "Iron-man" Kachlries. Ryan made two of the remaining four.

The Highlanders' line-up was an unusually good one, four City Leaguers performing with them.

Next Sunday "Kach" will get another shot at the Highland laddies. The score:

STANLEY BELLOWS DEFEATS PAUL COLLIER IN FINALS

The finalists in the Netherwood Tennis Club's singles' tournament competed yesterday morning, Stanley Bellows annexing the prize. His victim was Paul Collier. On Saturday a doubles' tournament was begun, three rounds being played. This tournament will continue for two, and, perhaps, three weeks, most of the club's crack tennis players being entered. Among those who will play are Jack Uhler, Dan Berry, Stanley Bellows, Paul Collier, Arthau Van Zandt, Andy Conway, Ed. Williams, Kenneth Phillips and Jack Cornwell.

Interesting matches are sure to result.

BROOKLYN CAYUGAS TOO STRONG FOR LOCAL TEAM

The Brooklyn Cayugas were too hard a proposition for the Plainfield Juniors Saturday, trimming them 10 to 3. Up until the lucky seventh "Sid" Butler had the older lads at his mercy, but in that frame a comedy of errors and an avalanche of bingles shot over nine tallies. This lead the Juniors could not overcome.

The Park Avenue Baptists were scheduled to meet the Cayugas, but were forced to postpone the game. However, the Cayugas came anyway and took on the Juniors. The score:

C. L. SLOCUM IS LEARNING RUDIMENTS OF WARFARE

C. L. Slocum, of this city is among the "rookies" at Plattsburg, N. Y., camp for business and professional men, along with Mayor Mitchel, of New York, and scores of other citizens who have given two weeks of their time to learn the rudiments of warfare.

All expect commissions in the regular army in the event of war, and by the time they graduate from the training school they will be well fitted for shoulder straps and chevrons. They have been put through the hardest kind of tactics, and two days of rain have not increased their comfort. A parade down Fifth avenue is scheduled on their return.

The New York Tribune

in The Ad-Visor Column conducted by Mr. Samuel Hopkins Adams under date of August 19th says the following:

"Of Mr. Samuel Rothberg and his store, Plainfield, N. J., the Ad-Visor knows little beyond the fact that their business is a prospering one. And it is building success on this kind of advertising."

OUR TWO STOCKS.

We sell Clothing; we sell Fixings and "Most Things Men Wear." This is our visible stock—the stock we sell over the counter.

But we have another "stock" which we are equally proud of. And that is our Character, our Reputation, our Method. These things go into every transaction—FREE. And while they are small things to look for, they are great things to find.

There is but one reason to patronize Rothberg's store, and that is: We sell the best possible goods at the lowest possible prices—and your money back if you don't think so.

To those vast emporiums whose high-paid advertising managers cling to the old belief that they can't do business without the continuous splurge of marked-down values and of soul-startling reductions below worth this simple and straight-forward advertisement is commended. It is worth attention for its restraint—for what it doesn't say. No blatant comparisons; no implied depreciation of competitors; just a plain, emphatic statement of standards—"and your money back if you don't think so." If the little fellow can do it successfully, why can't the big fellows?

PLANS FOR NEWSPAPER WRITERS' UNION PROGRESSING

Plans for the organization of a Newspaper Writers' Union, under the jurisdiction of the International Typographical Union, are now well under way, being perfected by Walter I. Firstbrook, who is securing the signatures of local writers who desire to affiliate with such an organization.

The purpose is to include news reporters of Union, Somerset and Middlesex counties, with about seven dailies and a dozen weeklies. A meeting will be held in this city Tuesday, September 14, possibly at the Building Trades' Council Hall. A large number of inquiries concerning the prospective organization have been received from various points in the State from writers who desire to become associated with the local body.

Don't forget that classified advertisements must be in by noon on Saturdays.

A MENACE TO THE POCKETBOOK.

An uninsured automobile is considered a liability rather than an asset in banking circles. When one goes to a bank to borrow money, he is quite likely to be asked whether he owns a car and if it is insured. If the car is not covered, the banker will point out that it is a menace to the pocketbook as the owner may be forced to pay $10,000 to $20,000 damages to some one. We can remove this obstacle. Plainfield, N. J., Aug. 23, 1915.

AN OFF YEAR.

This certainly is an "off year" politically. On the Republican outing on Saturday the only thing that created a ripple of excitement was the announcement that Peter J. Olde had decided to enter the lists for Assembly honors, and there was but little discussion of that, as a large number of those present seemed to favor the re-election of the present three Assemblymen. Aside from them the only persons to be elected are a coroner and the members of the Board of Freeholders, with a few minor officials in the various municipalities. The outing of the Republicans served to somewhat clear up the situation, and this will be furthered at the Democratic outing on Wednesday.

Most of the Republican freeholders whose terms expire will run again, the only avowed new candidate being an Elizabeth man. On the Democratic side the only candidates for the Assembly who have been mentioned are William A. Leonard, a former Assemblyman, and former Councilman Patrick J. Reville, of this city.

Present indications are that it will be the quietest primary and election that the county has ever known. But there will be plenty of excitement next year to make up for it, for every place from President down will then be ballotted for.

It will be two weeks tomorrow since the first active appeal was made through the columns of the Daily Press for funds for the King's Daughters' Day Nursery, and well over $300 has been given. That Plainfield people of means are interested in this home was never better proven than by the response to this appeal, which was made through our columns only. Usually the nursery needs but a few hundred dollars, but this year the demands for milk have been greater than ever, and in addition the house is badly in need of a coat of paint and a retaining wall has to be built to save the yard in the rear from washing down Green brook with each spring freshet. If the people of the city continue to subscribe as liberally as they have been doing in the past two weeks, those in charge of the home will be able to use the money so received for milk, and can use other funds for the repair work. No contribution is too small or too large, and we wish that there were many more small amounts to add to those of $5 and $10, which already been sent.

Congressman John H. Capstick has sent out 64,000 letters to his constituents, offering to help them in any way that he can, regardless of political affiliation. And he has been surprised to find that nearly fifty per cent. of them have been acknowledged by people who want specific government documents sent regularly. In the work of tabulating and preparing the lists, the bulk of the task has fallen upon John E. Nicol, the Congressman's secretary, and a former member of the reportorial staff of the Daily Press. Mr. Nichol has taken seriously the work entailed in connection with these replies, and what is seldom done by a Congressional secretary, has actually applied himself to the work while Congress is not in session. Mr. Nicol's success in the position for which he has been chosen is gratifying to his hundreds of friends in this city, and his name is but another added to the long list of those former members of the Press staff who have succeeded in a great measure, following the training received with this newspaper.

Mayor Clark, of North Plainfield, has given his final answer. He will not be a candidate to succeed himself. To scores of his friends this will be a disappointment, for no one disputes that he has been a faithful executive, always on the job, and intensely interested in anything that was for the good of North Plainfield The field is left open to William L. Smalley, although the latter invites opposition from those who urged Mayor Clark to again seek the place. Mr. Smalley, if elected, will undoubtedly make a good mayor. He has proven his independence of political thought on more than one occasion, notably when he supported Theodore Roosevelt for the presidency in 1912. He is the type of men who makes good in anything he undertakes, and at the same time is considerate of all. This is shown by the fact that he has invited opposition, and gone so far as to suggest the names of men of the borough who would make good mayors in case they should defeat him for the nomination and election.

After an inspection of a number of places of business in this city, in company with a local health officer, a State inspector reported everything here as being in the best possible condition. This is not surprising, for the men who are in charge of health matters in Plainfield have established a reputation for being more stringent than anywhere else in the State. Showmen who have come to Plainfield say that this city is more exacting about health conditions than any other municipality in the United States, large or small, which they have had occasion to visit.

There are some disadvantages in publishing the Daily Press at 1 o'clock on Saturdays, not the least of which is the necessity of acting as a source of news supply for at least one other paper.

According to Mayor Calkins, all that was needed to have the weather clear for the Republican outing, was for him to carry an umbrella, which he considerately did.

PROCTOR'S THEATRE

"The Roseary," the play of modern life, and of normal uplift, is scheduled for Proctor's Theatre this evening, and will be shown at no advance in prices, with such stars as Roland Sharp, Charles Clary, Kathlyn Williams and Gertrude Ryan, the good photography, the extraordinary setting, an excellent production is promised to those who attend the Proctor house tonight.

The second victrola contest closes this evening, and if you have not already filed your guess of the number of the beautiful musical instrument, be sure and do so tonight. The making of the award will take place tomorrow night.

For tomorrow a most magnificent production has been secured in "The Earl of Pawtucket," which is to be shown both morning and evening. This is a five-part World Film Company picture, with Lawrence D'Orsay, the famous English comedian, taking the leading role. Certainly a picture well worth seeing.

"The Warrens of Virginia" are booked in picture form for Wednesday, "The Country Boy" for Thursday, "The Ring-Tailed Rhinoceros" for Friday, and "The Stolen Voice" for Saturday.

A definite policy for the Proctor Theatre for the coming fall and winter will be announced through these columns during the course of this week.

The Sad Travelers

When I see some that travel 'round,
With basket, birdcage and what not,
With children dirty as the ground,
Get on the train from spot to spot
And fill the aisles with baby-cabs
And canvas telescopes and such—
The saddest-ever looking drabs—
I wonder very, very much.

The thing I wonder at, is this:
"Did these poor creatures, gaunt and grimed,
Who showed no trace of hope of bliss,
As on and off the cars they climbed—
Was it for joy that thus they went
From place to place, and suffered through it?
Did they start out on pleasure bent,
Or did they simply have to do it?"

HEALTH TALKS

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

The Other Side Of The Glass

WHAT do you know, young man? You who are about to get away from your mother's apron strings for the first time in your life. Do you know anything?

You intend to be a real fellow when you go off to school. That's right. Don't be a mollycoddle, nor a sissy-boy; be a man. A man is nobody's fool. He has the grit to do the right thing, no matter who laughs at him.

Away from home, you will be your own boss. Will you get "wised up" by the small talk of the mental imbeciles and physical degenerates who inhabit poolrooms, cigar stores, certain frat houses and certain barbershops? Going to follow in their footsteps—to the hospital, the insane asylum, the poor house? In short, are you planning to sow your wild oats as soon as you get away from home?

Boy, boy! You are a tragedy—your ignorance, your father's ignorance is a terrible tragedy. If you could only know the truth, know it before you leave home, before it is too late, you would never dare to do the things you will be led to do by your foolish college companions.

This is no sermon. The morality of the thing doesn't concern us in the least. We are speaking solely in the interest of health. Despite all the vicious and misguided teaching to the contrary, young man, we want you to realize that the fellow who gets the most out of life is the man who keeps absolutely clean and pure, no matter what fools may say.

It is like taking the first drink. Nine times out of ten a boy's first drink is forced down his throat by the jeers and the ridicule of his smart-aleck companions. If he has the nerve to say NO and stick to it, he'll never take that first drink, and moreover his companions will respect him for his firmness of character. But it is so easy to give in to the persuasion and wheedling of friends. Poor boy, you never realize that until too late.

Yet alcoholism, with all its penalties, is as nothing compared to the wages of worse sin. If you could look upon the other side of the glass, as doctors do day after day, we fancy, young man, what you would see there would hold you, all right.

Come back as clean as you were when you went away, son. Play the game decently, as your mother would have you. Come back clean. That beats any other sensation there is in this rotten old world—I tell you it is a wonderful thing for a young fellow to come home clean.

THE SNAIL

THE snail is a sort of perambulating shell which has aroused the envy of all flat dwellers and other spasmodic movers.

The snail carries its home on its back like many an over-burdened husband and father and is distinguished for the ease with which it moves it from place to place. Nature has, in fact, been very partial to the snail. It is as independent as the family which roams the country in a covered wagon living on other people's chickens. If man could pick up and move with as little exertion as the snail, landlords would have to use motorcycles to collect their rent.

The snail is also distinguished for the inconceivable deliberation with which it progresses. The war department is rapid beside it. After a snail has risen early and has journeyed hard all day it is still in the shade of the same apple tree. Still the snail has this advantage over the American battleship. It doesn't have to get anywhere. Our naval designers did not think of this fact when they reproduced the locomotive equipment of the snail in those magnificent $11,000,000 bulwarks of American liberty, which are just fast enough to serve as a landmark for a European battle cruiser.

The snail's shell is a beautifully coiled structure into which he retires when a stranger approaches, like an old resident in Boston. When no danger threatens he emerges and transfers his residence to the adjoining square yard, finding his way by means of two eyes set on the end of long horns. This shows the wastefulness of nature. The snail lives in the woods and fields while hundreds of human beings are run down by automobiles each year because they cannot wave their eyes about their heads while crossing the seething streets of our native land.

Landlords would have to use motorcycles to collect their rent

The snail is known to scientists as a gasteropodous mollusk, but is called even more reprehensible names by gardeners. This is because the snail is like any other tramp. It lives on other people's gardens. It will not be beloved by man until some means are found of making it obey traffic rules when traveling and stick to the streets instead of wandering through the leaves of the tender young garden sass.

Views Of The Press

A Freak Of Marine Architecture

THE correspondence between the general manager of the company owning the steamer Eastland, which turned turtle at her dock at Chicago, causing a loss of approximately 1,000 lives, brings out some startling facts regarding excursion business on the Great Lakes. Incidentally it shows that, regardless of the general merits of the new Federal seamen's law, which will go into effect in November, the present laws do not afford adequate protection to passengers on lake excursion boats.

Viewed in the light of the terrible catastrophe, the correspondence which has been made public by Secretary W. C. Redfield of the Department of Commerce is instructive as well as gruesomely interesting. According to the statement of the general manager of the company operating the Eastland, made before the accident, the boat was licensed to carry 2,570 people, including its crew of seventy. It is claimed that the requirements that life preservers for that number of people and lifeboats and rafts for 771 people should be provided had been complied with, thus meeting the technical demands under the law governing the operation of the boat during the present season of lake navigation.

It is noticeable that Secretary Redfield does not in terms criticise the operation in the open lake of the Eastland while possibly having on board 1,799 persons for whom there were neither lifeboats nor rafts. He contents himself with saying suggestively: "It is at present the permitted thing."

Singularly enough, the correspondence which has been unearthed by the accident to the Eastland has no real bearing on the catastrophe or its causes. The vessel capsized while at her dock in the Chicago River and in doing so, it severed the hawsers with which it was moored. The question of lifeboats, life rafts and life preservers was not a vital factor. This factor eliminated, the only question remaining was the safety of the steamer when tied to her dock. The cold-blooded proposition, therefore, reduces itself to this: Before the steamer cast off her moorings and put into the open lake with her authorized load of passengers and crew, she capsized at her dock, causing the destruction of about 1,000 lives. Who is responsible?

The logical conclusion to be drawn from this lamentable catastrophe is that the inspection of the vessel before sailing was purely perfunctory. That is to say: The two government inspectors technically enforced the law. They refused to allow more than 2,570 persons on board. Obviously, the inspectors, as well as the general manager of the steamer company and the boat's officers, ignored the fact that the Eastland was a freak of marine architecture with a height of freeboard which should have warned even a novice that the craft was dangerously top-heavy. And the general manager, the officers of the vessel and the inspectors will have an opportunity to show whether they were aware of the alleged tendency of the Eastland to capsize, both while at her dock and while sailing on the lake.—Rochester Democrat.

Don't Sit On The Track

Q. What rights have the public in the use of that portion of the street occupied by a street railway company?

A. Since, obviously, street cars cannot leave the track for the accommodation of the public, it may be said that they have a superior right of way to general travel except at crossings. The public, however, have the right to travel upon the entire street and cannot be considered as trespassers, because of their use of that portion of the street on which the car tracks are laid.

Angus and Jock Tended the Sheep.

Daddy's Bedtime Story — The Collie That Was Very Wise.

"YOU have seen collies, kiddies," said daddy, beginning the evening story, "and you know what lovely dogs they are and how they have almost human intelligence. Their fine, soft hair is long and glossy, their pointed muzzles are so dainty, and their big dark eyes just sparkle with joy in living and doing, and they are among the most faithful of dogs and serve man as if they loved to do it.

"This collie of which I am about to tell you was a Scotch doggie. He belonged to an old Scotch shepherd named Angus MacDonald. Angus was employed by the laird of a great estate and had charge of a valuable flock of sheep that ranged the tall Scottish hills near a beautiful lake.

"Angus was getting to be an old man, and he was not nearly so active as when he was younger, but the collie, whose name was Jock, was such a help to him that this did not matter.

"Angus lived in a little cottage away up on one of the highest hills. It was many miles from the laird's fine mansion, and as it was quite a climb up there Angus did not see many people. But Jock and the sheep were company.

"Angus used to say that Jock knew more than most people. Jock used to watch the sheep with extreme care and would not let them come to any harm. He was kind to them, but they knew that he meant business. When some of them would try to stray away from the flock there was Jock at their heels to gently nip them and drive them back with the others. So summer and winter Angus and Jock tended the sheep, and the old laird never worried about his property, for he knew it was well cared for.

"At last one winter's day Angus tried to rise from his bed with the dawn as had been his custom all his life, and he just couldn't, for you see he was ill, and as the hours wore on he began talking wildly, for he had a high fever, and when people are like that they are delirious, or, what some folks call, 'out of their heads.'

"Now, Jock hadn't gone out with the sheep that day, for he had always gone with Angus, and when his master didn't get up he knew there was something wrong and was worried. He sniffed about, looking mournful and wise and by and by toward night he started down the hillside.

"And a few hours later men arrived, headed by the old laird himself, to take Angus to the mansion for treatment, for the dog had arrived at the mansion, and from his actions they knew something was the matter, so went up there. They found the old man very ill, but he recovered in time, and he and Jock continued to tend the sheep for many years."

Glimpses of Married Life

BY MRS EVA LEONARD

"This is Casey. Doesn't it look exciting?" asked Dick, as he helped his mother off the train. Near the track the huge oil tank bulked and the skeleton tower for the oil drill reared itself against the sky. A smell of new pine filled the air.

Early as it was, a crowd of loungers formed a circle around the drill and one fellow was discoursing in a loud voice on the indications of striking oil, as Dick and his mother approached.

"This shale is next to the vein. In the last three wells they sunk over by the creek they could smell the oil in the fragments brought up by the drill. Oil will run in today," he announced oracularly.

Mrs. Morton elbowed her way through the crowd, and going up to the man who was operating the drill began putting practical questions to him as to the cost of boring per foot, the average depth of the wells in that region, length of time they had been at work, number of paying wells in the vicinity, etc.

"You are interested in oil wells?" asked the man when she had finished the catechism.

"I should be; my people have enough money sunk in them," she replied laconically.

At this point the drill brought up some fragments of rock and all crowded around to see if they showed signs of oil. They were passed from one to another in the group, and the old lady sniffed at the sample disdainfully.

"I think that smells a little of oil," opined Dick hopefully.

"Let us see what the other wells look like," she suggested, turning away.

When the train for Kansas City pulled up at the platform she was in possession of all the data obtainable; knew the time each well had been running, the average output in barrels, and so on. Dick had only been able to follow her around and slip in an occasional question in the stream she poured on everyone who could give her any information.

She sat bolt upright in grim silence during the rest of the journey and marched into the office of the oil company like an avenger. Her questions soon probed below the suave manner of the manager and pricked his vanity.

"If your company is not paying expenses, how does it come that you have so much money in mahogany desks and electric fans?" She looked disapprovingly over her spectacles at the elegantly appointed office.

"Really, madam, were you sent to investigate the management by the stockholders?" The manager gave her a frosty stare.

"By two of them, yes," she answered tartly, "and it's my opinion it would pay the rest of them to investigate. I would like to have you explain to me what became of the balance of the first assessment; not much over half has gone into the sinking of new wells, according to my figuring."

"If I spent my time explaining the conduct of my business to every meddling woman who chose to come here I should be unable to do anything else."

"Exactly!" exclaimed his visitor, pinning him with a sharp look.

"Sims, show the lady to the waiting room," he called to the office boy, and swung his desk chair around and fell to work with the appearance of a man driven by affairs.

"Where are you going?" asked Dick, following, as she stalked in wrath to the street.

"To a lawyer. There must be a meeting of the stockholders called, and an investigation of this gas bag of a manager," she announced.

Denatured alcohol is excellent for cleaning purposes, being a good solvent of fats, oils and all kinds of grease. A slight addition of ammonia greatly improves its detergent qualities. It is especially useful for cleaning delicate fabrics, such as laces, silks and the like.

HUCKLEBERRY TOAST

Wash two cups of huckleberries, add one-half cup of boiling water, mash the berries with a spoon and boil slowly fifteen minutes, adding three tablespoons of sugar. Then mix one tablespoon of cornstarch with a little cold water, add to the berries and boil three minutes. Lay toasted bread on a platter and pour berries over.

TO CLEAN SUMMER FURNITURE

If your white enamel furniture becomes soiled or discolored it may be quickly and satisfactorily cleaned and restored thus:

Melt one tablespoonful of bicarbonate of soda in one quart of boiling water; when cool, wash the furniture with the solution, using an old flannel cloth for the purpose.

When reed or cane seats sag, wash them on both sides with warm soapsuds. Make the under side quite wet; dry in the air and sun.

SODA WATER.

Take two ounces tartaric acid, juice of one lemon, two pounds white sugar, three pints water; let boil together five minutes. When nearly cold, add (after beating together) whites of three eggs, one-half cup flour made smooth with a little water, and one ounce wintergreen essence. Mix well, put in glass jar or pint bottles and keep in cool place.

For a drink take two tablespoons of the sirup to two-thirds tumbler cold water, and one-fourth teaspoon soda; stir till creamy with foam, and drink.

THE TABLE.

Veal Loaf—Chop fine together three pounds leg or loin veal and three-fourths pound salt pork. Roll one dozen crackers. Put half of them in the veal with two eggs. Season with pepper and a little salt if needed. Mix all together and make a solid form; then take the crackers that are left and spread smoothly over the outside and bake one hour. Eat cold. This is very nice for picnics.

White Cake—Cream together one and three-fourths cups granulated sugar and three-fourths cup butter, add one cup milk. Beat whites of four eggs to stiff froth, add sugar, butter and milk, pinch of salt. Put four cups of flour in sieve, add three teaspoons baking powder, and sift in slowly, beating with silver fork. Bake in layers. To sift the flour in slowly and beat cake with a fork makes it much finer in grain and better.

Homemade Cheese—Take a gallon of thick sour milk and boil. Then drain dry and add one-half teaspoon of soda, salt to taste. Mix well, put in a double boiler and thin with sweet cream as it boils, till it gets smooth. Cook till it gets thick and leatherly, then pour out to cool. If wanted more yellow add yolk of an egg. This is good for use as soon as cold. For smaller quantity reduce in proportion.

SIMPLE LINES BEST.

Nos. 8886-8887

Simplicity of line distinguishes the afternoon frocks of the season, and certain it is that a simple, well-designed line has more elegance and dignity than can have any amount of elaboration. An excellent example of what can be accomplished by simple lines is the above Ladies' Home Journal patterns No. 8886-8887. The waist opens in front and has standing collar with turnover section and is perforated for low round neck, with Medici collar, full-length sleeves perforated for shorter length. The skirt, No. 8887, is slightly gathered to a hip yoke and can be made with or without patch pockets and belt. Pattern for waist, No. 8886, cuts in sizes 32 to 44 inches bust measure, and the skirt in sizes 22 to 32 inches waist measure, requiring for dress in medium size, 4¼ yards 42-inch material.

Patterns may be obtained at the store of A. E. Force & Co.

MISS KINNAMAN SANG AT MUSICAL SERVICE

Attractive Program Presented At Temple Baptist Bible School Session.

The fourth of the musical series of services was held by the Temple Baptist Bible school yesterday morning at 9:45 o'clock. One of the ceremonies observed by this school at each session is the salute to the American flag. At the conclusion of the first hymn, the pianist plays the first notes of "America," and an usher at once comes to the platform with a large American flag. The staff is placed in a socket prepared for it and the entire audience rise and sing one verse of "America." The flag remains in position during the entire session of the school.

Following this an opening service especially prepared and printed, consisting of responsive readings and hymns concluding with a prayer. This opening service was in charge of the associate superintendent, Frank Stewart.

Miss Ethel Kinnaman, contralto soloist with Pryor's Band, Asbury Park, was the musical attraction for this special service for the Temple Sunday-school. Miss Kinnaman possesses unusual muscial talent with a rich and beautiful voice that always gives pleasure. Her vocalization and training gives her productions a distinct enunciation not usually found in soloists.

The audience was delighted with her beautiful music. Her accompaniment was Clifford A. Braider, of this city. Whitney Frazee, cornetist, added much to the service by his solos given in his usual pleasing manner, two hymns, "Some Day" and "Not Half Has Ever Been Told."

Next Sunday the musical attractions will be two artists, vocal and instrumental. Some familiar hymns are to be given on an unusual and somewhat rare instrument. A cordial invitation is extended to any who may wish to attend.

REVISED PLANS FOR THE DEAN O'NEILL JUBILEE

Elizabeth, Aug. 23—Revised plans for the Dean O'Neill golden jubilee have been made at a meeting of the executive committee. Rt. Rev. John J. O'Connor, bishop of the Newark diocese, will be the celebrant of a solemn high mass October 14, which is to be known as "clergy day." In the evening the bishop may attend the dean's banquet at Y. M. C. L. A Hall.

The celebration will start Sunday, October 10, with religious ceremonies and ringing of bells. The Union County Federation of Holy Name Societies will hold its annual rally here that day. Rt. Rev. Monsignor Charles H. Mackel, of St. Patrick's church, will give benediction.

The rest of the program is as previously arranged, except that on Wednesday night, October 13, which is to be known as "society night," a purse will be presented to Dean O'Neill.

ELIZABETH LODGE FIGHTS ORDER DISBANDING CHAPTER

Elizabeth, Aug. 23.—More than 1,000 members of the Independent Order of B'rith Sholem met yesterday afternoon in Hebrew Charity Hall for the purpose of protesting to the national order against the official decree to disband Star of Elizabeth Lodge, No. 137. Charles Stamler, counsel for the local lodge, was instructed to apply to the courts for an injunction prohibiting the national committee from taking steps to dissolve the Elizabeth Chapter. An appeal to the State Banking Department will ask for a legal ruling on the rights of the national order to disband insurance societies under the statutes of New Jersey.

The trouble was caused when a member of the finance committee of the Star of Elizabeth Lodge was charged with misappropriation of the society's funds. An audit of the books showed that a surplus of several thousand dollars was missing from the treasury. The lodge immediately refused its treasurer and a member of the finance committee admission to its meetings, and later expelled them. The expelled members appealed to the national committee, who ordered the society to give them a hearing. When this was refused thirty members were expelled by the national committee. When the other members of the Star of Elizabeth voted to uphold the thirty who had been expelled the national committee ordered the disbanding of the association for the purpose of reorganization.

NETHERWOODS YIELD TO THE FAST GOING CLINTON AVENUE AGGREGATION

Hope Chapel Loses to Saurer, While Baptists and T. A. B.'s Fail to Score Owing to An Injury to "Kid" Brennan.

CITY LEAGUE STANDING.

Saturday's Results.

Clinton Avenue, 9; Netherwood, 0.
Saurer, 6; Hopes, 3.
T. A. B. S. vs. Baptists (called in fourth inning).

Games Next Saturday.

Clinton Avenue at First Baptist.
Netherwood at Saurer.
T. A. B. S. at Hopes.

As a result of Saturday's games the three league leaders are more closely bunched, the defeat of the Netherwoods causing a decided drop in their percentage, and the upset of the Hopes putting a crimp in their average. While all this was going on the Abstainers, though idle, were slowly creeping up, and are now safely entrenched in second place, a position which they did not earn, but which is theirs by half a game. And then, too, the East Enders are just eleven points ahead of the Tea-drinkers.

The beating administered to the Netherwoods by Benny Rosenson and his assistants came as a complete surprise, while the trimming the Saurers handed the Hopes was not unlooked for. The saddest incident of the day, however, was the accident to Frank "Kid" Brennan, a Tab player. As a result of the accident the Baptist-Tabs contest was called off after the fourth frame, and will be played after the season's scheduled games are run off.

Benny Rosenson was a complete puzzle to the Netherwoods, and allowed them only three bingles, two of which were doubles. George Miller could not be found by Chapel sluggers, while the Saurer boys had very little trouble with Jimmy Montross. Duncan Patterson hurled for the Baptist, and Jack Denny shot them over for the Tabs, but the tilt was called off before any real heavy hitting was done by either of the two clubs. Frank Conti, a High Bridge recruit, performed for the first time with the Hopes, and the exhibition he put up was of the best sort.

The work of the three umpires, Frank Malang, Hyman Abrams and Frank Coriell, could not be improved upon, while the attendance at all of the engagements was large and the crowd very enthusiastic. Just at present the race has resolved itself into an enigma. No one knows who is going to land the rag, and no one is sure that the winner will be one of the three present leaders.

HOPE CHAPEL EASY PICKING FOR SAURER

Inability to Hit Miller Responsible For Loss of Saturday's Game.

The Hope Chapel balltossers fell at the feet of the Saurer diamond ditties on Hope Field Saturday, the score of the engagement being 6 to 3. George Miller, who tossed them over for the winners, had his victims at his mercy at all stages of the game, while "Smiling" Jimmy Montross, the opposing boxman, was clouted almost at will. Miller and Johnny Dixon staged wonderful batting bees, while the fielding features of the day were furnished by Hirsch and Tommy Heron, with Freddy Mills a runner-up. Frank Conti, a new man, showed up well and played with a vim. He will prove a valuable addition to the clan. Mills was tried out also, and he, too, proved his metal. "Ans" Luthman took a shot at the catching assignment and got away with it to his own satisfaction and the admiration of his many followers.

By losing this game the Hopes dropped a little below the Tabs, who now are in second place, just half a game ahead of the Chapelites. At that, Netherwood is only thirty-seven points away. The scores:

PLAINFIELD (?) TEAM LOST.

NETHERWOODS HELD TO THREE BINGLES

Ex-P. H. S. Twiler Pitches Gilt Edged Ball For Clinton Avenue.

Tom Apgar's boys from the West End hung one on to the men from the other section of town Saturday, trimming them 9 to 0. Benny Rosenson was the reason. That's about all. The Netherwoods could not hit the ex-P. H. S. man at any stage of the game, getting only three meagre clouts during the full nine frames, while the Clintons found Stewart no puzzle at all. Hendry and Bax Apgar landed on Lefty's shoots for seven safeties all told, one of Apgar's slams going for four bags. "Herb" Pennoyer also banged out a homer, while doubles were trifles. Matty Coughlan landed on Benny for two doubles, while Bill Dodd pushed one out also. Outside of that no one hit.

Both teams put up splendid fielding exhibitions, and were it not for the fact that Rosenson twirled the brand of ball he did, it is the opinion the score would not be as it is. By falling down before the Clintons the Netherwoods dug an awful hole in their percentage, and paved the way for a Tab advance. The score:

WERE BENEDICTS AFRAID?

Another one of those married and single men engagements failed to materialize yesterday, when the Dunellen Benedicts failed to show up for their carded tilt with their more fortunate brethren. The last time the two clans met, the single boys experienced little trouble in walking off with "Miss Victory."

BREAKS HIS LEG STEALING A BASE

"Kid" Brennan, of the Tabs, Meets With Unfortunate Accident On Saturday.

Frank "Kid" Brennan, the midget second sacker of the Tabs, broke his leg sliding into second in the tilt with the First Baptist Saturday. The accident happened in the first half of the fourth inning when the Baptists were ahead 2 to 0. Tone Denny, the first man up in this frame, flied out and Brennan approached the pan. Patterson fed him wide ones and he annexed a base on balls. Once safely on he made a dash for second and Smalley threw to nail him. Brennan hit the turf feet first and Malanga called him safe and then called him out.

It seems that instead of hitting the bag Brennan ran into "Shakey" Clarke with such force that he was completely turned around and his leg was broken a little above the ankle. It hung limp and the players rushed to his aid. The unfortunate player was in great agony and his mates carried him as gently as possible to W. L. Smalley's auto in which he was rushed to the hospital. He exhibited remarkable gameness and this factor ought to prove of great use to his chances for a quick recovery. It will be a long time before Brennan will amble around the diamond again and this fact cuts down the Tabs' pennant hopes considerably. He was a promising player. He is known all over the city and he has the sympathy of every baseball fan who hopes he gets back into harness again next season.

Owing to Brennan's misfortune the rival managers decided to refrain from continuing the tilt. The game has been cast out of the league records as only four innings were played. The affair will be staged about the middle of September.

The injured lad is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Brennan of 756 Webster place, and has been playing ball in comparatively fast company for three years although he is only 17 years of age. Inquiries at the hospital this morning, brought out the fact that both bones in his leg were broken, but that he is resting comfortably. An X-ray of the break will be taken today. A number of his "pals" and fellow-players visited him yesterday and found him in his usual good spirits.

SPORT BRIEFS

Hans Ohrt, of California, won the world's amateur one-mile cycling title yesterday at Newark Velodrome.

The American Boxing Association has completed its organization in Cleveland, electing Matt J. Hinkle as president. The association has decided to recommend to the board of governors for passage a rule compelling champions to defend their titles, and a new scale of weights. The board of governors will be composed of one man from each boxing club.

Shortstop Crane, of the Richmond International League team, has been sold to the Philadelphia Athletics.

The New York National League Club has purchased Ray Kramer from the Vancouver Northwestern League team.

Fred Snodgrass, the former New York Giant, has signed to play with the Boston Braves.

Shortstop Roy Corhan, of the San Francisco Baseball Club, has been sold to the St. Louis Nationals.

William R. Granger, Jr., the Dartmouth College runner, representing the Irish-American A. C., won the Eccentric Firemen's Derby yesterday at Celtic Park. The distance was 900 yards.

ELIZABETH EAGLES FAIL TO PUT IN APPEARANCE

Owing to the fact that the Elizabeth Eagles failed to show up for their scheduled tilt with the local T. A. B. S. on Avon Oval, yesterday, no game was played. Manager Monahan had the Eagles out here once before and thought that they would surely put in an appearance yesterday. Hereafter the Abstainers are likely to face only local aggregations.

LYON WINS SWEEPSTAKES.

The only event at the Plainfield Country Club on Saturday was the weekly sweepstakes competition. This was won by E. A. Lyon with a score of 100, 23—77. O. H. Fleming finished second with a score of 95, 10—85.

Keep posted on building news. See Saturday's Press.

LINCOLNS ARE SHUT OUT BY FARMER A. C.

Local Aggregation Win Exciting Contest By Score of 4 to 0.

The fast Farmer A. C., of this city, handed the whitewash brush to the Lincoln Tile Workers, on Pierce Oval, Lincoln, Saturday, the score of the affair being 4 to 0.

Kachlries, the local's flinger, had the Tilemen at his mercy throughout the whole conflict, only five safeties being garnered off his shoots. Two of these were made by the opposing pitcher. For the winners Friele and Kachlries did the most effective clouting.

The Farmers meet the Highlanders on Emerson Oval next Sunday.

"CLIFF" RANDOLPH BEATEN IN ELEVEN INNING GAME

It took the Lincoln Giants eleven innings to hang one on Cliff Randolph and the Perth Amboy Pacer outfit at Olmpic Field, yesterday, the final count being 6 to 5. Langford started the hurling job for the colored team, but was pounded for three runs right off the reel and had to retire in favor of "Cyclone Joe" William, who lasted the rest of the game. Randolph went the whole distance, leaving eleven clouts to the enemy.

Six Lincolns bit the dust while thirteen Pacers fanned. Six errors made by the Pfau boys made victory for them a missing quantity. Many of the fans present thought that Randolph's heady twirling earned him a win, but, of course, the score proves otherwise.

Score, by innings:

DEFEATS McLOUGHLIN.

R. Norris Williams had little trouble defeating Maurice E. McLoughlin on the Newport, R. I., courts, Saturday. The play was for the Casino cups, and the scores were 5—7, 6—4, 6—3, 6—3.

That funny fellow scoop is on the classified page.

ROD AND REEL

Special midnight trips are becoming all the rage. The Sarlotta, of Jersey City, had such a party out, but we have not heard from Captain Lake about it. This boat makes mid-week trips, leaving every Tuesday and Thursday from the Grand street pier of the Jersey Central Railroad station.

Jamaica Bay is sending out wonderfully good news this year to the anglers. A few years ago it looked as though that beautiful body of water had reached the discard as far as fishing was concerned, but a few live wires got busy and soon put a stop to people polluting the water and also to illegal netting and there isn't a better weakfish grounds within forty miles of New York than this same bay today.

JR. O. U. A. M. PICNIC AND MEET A SUCCESS

Somerset Council's Annual Affair Attracts Many to Wayside Park.

Somerset Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., of this city, held its annual picnic and athletic meet at Wayside Park, Saturday, about five hundred people witnessing the contests and enjoying the outdoor lunch. The one hundred-yard dash opened up the athletic section of the program. All of the heats in this event were hotly contested and the winner, Johnny Stranahan, had a hard time annexing the prize, an alligator skin suitcase. Eddie Stranahan trotted in second while Chester Smalley registered third. Umbrellas were given to the winners of second and third place. The quoit match went to J. Goff and H. P. Clawson. A five-dollar gold piece was awarded to these men.

Miss Ethel Hohman, of Dunellen, winner of the girls' shoe race, was presented with an order for a new pair of shoes while Johnny Doyle, successful contestant in the boys' shoe race, got the same.

Nineteen athletes entered in the mile run, Alfred Day starting at scratch. Handicaps ranging from 10 to 200 yards were allowed the various entrants and the winner, Oscar Philipson, of this city, had a handicap of 60 yards. J. Cotgreave registered second and Elwood Gary third. They had handicaps of 60 and 150 yards respectively.

Johny Stranahan annexed the laurels in the 220-yard run. Harry Smero, running in the mile, stopped after the seventh lap, thinking that he had completed the required eight rounds. He had, up to that time, been considered a sure winner.

ELKS' FAIR WILL BE SOCIAL EVENT

Plainfield Lodge, No. 885, to Open Season With An Elaborate Bazaar, Oct. 18-23.

COMMITTEES NAMED

Members to Be Assisted By a Large Number of Women—Dancing, Vaudeville and Sale of Fancy and Useful Articles to Be Features.

Since completing their new clubhouse, the local lodge of Elks has been taking a leading part in the social affairs of the city, especially in the way of dances. This coming season will be no exception to the rule, and society generally is looking forward to the coming fall and winter when social functions will be in full swing at the Elks' clubhouse.

The first affair of the season is the mammoth fair and bazaar planned for the week of October 18 to 23. Although some time will elapse before the date set for the opening of the bazaar, plans for it are well under way and the committees are hard at work on the various details.

A general committee, consisting of the elective officers of the lodge, together with the members of the house committee, has been appointed to have charge of the bazaar. That committee is composed of Alfred Prudhon, Walter S. Marder, Francis J. Blatz, Dr. Chalmers L. Crist, S. P. T. Wilbur, V. W. Nash, Jr., C. F. Stout, W. R. Townsend, Harry B. MacDonald, E. C. Searing, J. Fred MacDonald, Charles S. Woolston and James Coleman. The committee has already organized by electing Mr. Marder chairman, Mr. Nash secretary and Mr. Stout treasurer.

One of the first acts of this general committee was to solicit the co-operation of the women friends of the lodge ,and the committee was greatly pleased to find so much enthusiasm over the idea of a bazaar among the members of the fair sex. A large number have voluntarily offered their services to help make the affair a success.

Besides dancing every night of the fair, there will also be some other form of amusement, such as singing, vaudeville entertainment, etc. The entire building will be given over to the bazaar. The lodge-room will be used for dancing and the booths for the display and sale of articles, will be ranged along the sides.

Following are the various bazaar committees:

HALF GALLON FOR MEDICINAL USE

So Night Clerk of Netherwood Hotel Says In Denying Liquor Sale.

AN IMAGINARY TRIAL

Considers Visit to Police Station As Hearing and Is Willing to Plead Guilty to Any Charge Which Police May Make.

The remarkable statement that they are willing to plead guilty to any charge the police may make, but that at the same time have not sold liquor illegally at the Netherwood Hotel, was made today to a reporter for the Daily Press by the night clerk of the hotel, who says that he was authorized to speak for Adolph Ruehl, the proprietor. At the same time he advises the Plainfield public that a trial was held this morning, and that he represented Mr. Ruehl. If there was a trial it is news to both City Judge and the police, as well as those who were in court at 9 o'clock, the regular time for court. The man did appear at police headquarters about 10:30, but the judge had left.

The alibi offered includes the naive admission that about a half gallon of whiskey was in the hotel for "medicinal purposes," and further that one of those who got the evidence against the house for the police, and is a former employe of the hotel, drank this half gallon, with one other man, in one day, and still lives.

It is further stated that the hotel does not want a license unless the people of the neighborhood want them to have it.

B. Erickson, night clerk at the hotel, who said he spoke for Adolph Ruehl, the proprietor, gave the following statement to a Daily Press reporter this morning:

"We never intended to conduct the Netherwood Hotel in a way contrary to law. Our guests do not ask for liquor and there is no reason why we should keep it.

"A former employe came to the hotel and obtained several bottles of beer which had been purchased for the use of the employes, working upon the friendship of the house and his former connection with it.

"Then on Sunday, August 22, he returned with two others and ordered a large bottle of ginger ale. They filled their glasses with liquid out of flasks which they took from their pockets, mixing drinks. The whiskey could not have been bought in the hotel, as it does not keep any on hand for sale. However, it appears that these parties are willing to swear that they did buy whiskey in the hotel.

"There was originally about half a gallon of whiskey in bottles brought to the hotel for medicinal purposes only. This whiskey was in the care of a clerk and under lock and key. On Monday, August 2, while the proprietor and manager were absent in New York, this whiskey was obtained by the clerk and drunk by him and another employe, who is willing to swear to the truth of this.

"Last Sunday morning when this party were drinking their ginger ale concoctions the police came and raided the hotel.

They searched every room they pleased to enter, but as there is no liquor kept in the hotel whatsoever, they found only three bottles of beer belonging to the help. Notwithstanding this evidence the police department insists that liquor has been sold at the house; that a drink of whiskey was given to the man who serves the hotel with milk, for which the milkman put down a dime and ran away so as to have evidence that he paid for his drink.

"The trial was called this morning. I represented Mr. Ruehl in court and offered to plead guilty to any charge the police did make or would make hereafter. I refused to make a defense against such connivances. Mr. Ruehl at the present time is in a highly nervous state as a result of the excitement at the hotel Sunday morning. Mr. Ruehl does not intend to run a hotel contrary to law, and rather than be hampered by such pettifogging business as Sunday's raid, will conduct the hotel without any license at all. An application for a license will be made only if the neighbors of the hotel consider it beneficial to the community. As far as the trade of the hotel is concerned, a license will not be worth the money it will cost to get it."

When City Judge DeMeza was seen this afternoon, he said that Erickson had visited him at his law office this morning and had offered to produce Mr. Ruehl, provided he was told in advance what the fine would be which is to be imposed upon him. The Judge told Erickson that the only reply he could give would be to produce Mr. Ruehl, learn the answer in

BORO BOND SALE AROUSES INTEREST

Many Inquiries Received By Clerk Dolliver From Professional Buyers.

Inquiries concerning the issue and sale of $35,000 worth of sewer collecting bonds by the North Plainfield Common Council are being made of Borough Clerk Charles M. Dolliver in increasing number as the date on which the bids are to be received draws near. So far Mr. Dolliver has answered twelve or fifteen such inquiries, chiefly from professional bond buyers, but the clerk has heard from such concerns in Cleveland, Chicago and Pittsburg, as well as in New York and Philadelphia.

Friday night is the date set for opening the bids, and speculation is rife in some quarters as to whether the bond market will be affected by the recent unrest and unsettled conditions in stocks. The last sale of North Plainfield bonds brought 1.04 17-000, which was considered a good price. That issue was for $100,000 worth of sewer collecting bonds and $50,000 worth of joint sewer bonds, and they were all bought in by the State Trust Company. That was in December.

The borough has the right to issue $200,000 worth of collecting sewer bonds and $150,000 worth of joint sewer bonds. So far $100,000 worth of collecting bonds have been issued and sold and $80,000 worth of the joint bonds, $30,000 worth having been disposed of previous to the sale last December.

Will and Codicil Admitted to Probate In New York Court Today.

New York, Aug. 24.—The will and codicil of Mrs. Bessie Reed Aspinall, a sister of Samuel P., Clara J. and Jennie M. Reed, of Plainfield, which was filed and admitted to probate by Surrogate John P. Cohalan here today, directs her estate of $1,000 in personal property to be distributed as follows, after all debts are paid.

In her will, executed May 2, 1913, all the personal property, with the exception of money, stocks, bonds, mortgages, notes and securities, is bequeathed to Anna Aspinall McClelland, a daughter, of Manila, P. I., absolutely. The rest of the estate goes to John W. Calvert, of Washington, and to the National Savings and Trust Company, in trust, as a life estate for Jennie M. Reed, of Plainfield, the principal, at her death, to be distributed equally "between my brothers and two sisters," Samuel P. and Clara J. Reed, both of Plainfield, and Lucy B. Mitchell, of Berkeley, Cal.

The codicil, executed March 17, 1915, at Berkeley, Cal., gives $50 each to Clara Williams and Elsie Mitchell, both of Berkeley; $100 each to Clara J. and Jennie M. Reed, the Plainfield sisters; $200 to Lucy B. Mitchell, a sister, of Berkeley, and the rest to Mrs. McClelland, the daughter. Mrs. Aspinall, who was 73 years old, was the widow of Rev. John A. Aspinall, rector of a church at Bay Ridge, L. I., for twenty-one years, and was the daughter of the late Samuel S. Reed. She died at Berkeley on May 3 last, while visiting her sister. In the documents admitted to probate Mrs. Aspinall refers to herself as being a resident of Washington.

RE-OPENING OF HARTRIDGE SCHOOL ON SEPTEMBER 27

Among the educational institutions in this city which begin their fall term of work within the next month will be the Hartridge School at 202 West Seventh street, re-opening on Monday, September 27. Under the principalship of Miss Emelyn B. Hartridge, the school has grown each year, many new equipments being added to its course each season.

The institution is a private school carefully graded throughout, special arrangements being made for children not prepared for regular grades. The number of registrations is limited in each department; pupils receiving individual instructions from a large corps of competent teachers. The Montessori and outdoor class for children under six years of age has proven especially popular during previous years.

TRAINING COURSE FOR FIRE LADDIES

Calisthenic Drills Are Now Part of Daily Routine at Headquarters.

EXERCISE IS ENJOYED

Floyd Carroll, Formerly of U. S. Infantry, Is the Efficient Drill Master—Probable That Course Will Be Extended to All Fire Houses.

Following the practice in vogue in the New York fire department, the Plainfield firemen at headquarters, on East Second street, are being put through a course of calisthenics daily. While the plan was introduced by Chief T. O. Doane as an experiment, it has been pursued for about a month now, and the results are proving it a benefit to the men. Both mentally and physically they are being built up, and it is probable that the calisthenics' course will be introduced into the other fire houses of the city very soon and made an obligatory part of the men's daily routine.

With the introduction of so much motor-driven apparatus in the Plainfield department, time began to hang heavily on the men's hands, and a short time ago they asked Chief Doane to provide a handball court at headquarters, where they could pass away some of their idle hours, and at the same time obtain the exercise they needed. Convinced that this would only be a temporary fad, and that the men would eventually tire of handball or similar games, which they would be at liberty to participate in or not, as the mood was upon them, Chief Doane cast about for a plan which would provide recreation and physical and mental exercise, and at the same time be obligatory upon the men to participate in. He decided in favor of the system of calisthenics in vogue in the New York fire department, which is also a part of the drill in the United States army, and about a month ago the system was introduced. The prospect is that it will be officially recognized as a part of the daily life of all the men of the Plainfield fire department.

Floyd Carroll, a private at fire headquarters, puts the men through the drill every afternoon between 2 and 3 o'clock. Carroll has served two terms in the United States Infantry, retiring a sergeant when he left the service. He is well qualified to act as drill master, and puts the men through the various movements called for in the drill with a snap and vigor which put them in fine fettle. The drill takes place on the main floor of the firehouse.

Besides the calisthenics drill, the men have frequent ladder drills inside the building and in the street in front of headquarters.

Chief Doane is well pleased with the efficiency shown by the men under him in a variety of ways. With the exception of machine work, all the repairs to the automobiles and the motor-driven apparatus at the firehouses is done by the men. A sample of their skill and quickness was given recently when they took down the chief's car and overhauled it and had it in commission again in five hours. A quantity of dirt has been obtained from various sources by Chief Doane free of cost to the city, and this has been used to fill in the rear part of the lot at fire headquarters. All the grading, with the exception of the finishing touches being put on the ground at the present time, was done by the men.

FANWOOD YOUTHS GET INTO TROUBLE

Kenneth Tullock and William Swaback Held In $300 Bail For Grand Jury.

Charged with breaking and entering the house of Edward Johnston, on Westfield avenue, Fanwood, and that of Mr. Johnston's mother, next door, Kenneth Tullock and William Swabach, two fourteen-year-old boys of that place, were held in $300 bail for the Grand Jury by Recorder Jahn of Scotch Plains, last night. Mrs. Swabach furnished bail for her son, but Tullock will be taken to Elizabeth and locked up in the county jail unless bail for him is forthcoming before night.

These are the two boys who, with Patsy Columbus, an Italian boy, are charged with having stolen a motorcycle belonging to Warren McCauley, of Scotch Plains, last Wednesday night. They were allowed to go on probation for that offense. The breaking and entering was done on the same night, it is alleged, while the Johnston family were away to the seashore.

Upon receipt of a letter apprising him of the fact that his house had been entered, Mr. Johnston returned to Fanwood, Sunday, to investigate. He found that the entire house had been ransacked, and while little of value was missing, the furnishings had been disturbed and tossed about. The thieves had evidently been hungry, for some eatables left in the house were missing. Suspicion pointed to the two boys and their arrest followed.

BORO YOUNG WOMEN ENJOY LONG HIKE

The Misses Emma H. Ryno and Stella Kline Describe Experiences of Tramping Trip.

Equipped with walking sticks and such necessary paraphernalia as it was deemed wanting, the Misses Stella Kline, of Somerset street, and Emma H. Ryno, of Codington avenue, the borough, successfully completed a four-day tramping trip through the country surrounding this vicinity. Starting on Thursday, the young women reached Annandale as their first stop, where they spent the night with relatives. Friday the walk was resumed and Stanton, Pleasant Run, Reading, North Branch and Raritan were consecutively visited on the way. Each night stops were made at the home of friends.

Both girls are lovers of the great out-doors and spend the larger portion of their vacation in the open, frequently taking long jaunts into the country, across the mountains, or investigating some historic spot. "Oh, we just love it," explained both girls. "If you want to see real beauty in nature the only place to do so is the country. The fresh air does one a world of good and then the splendid times one has cooking over a camp-fire and drinking sparkling spring water is worth more than anything else." Any doubt that the last statement is true would be dispelled with one look at the rosy cheeks of the two girls, glowing with the exuberance of health. A comment was made on the damage done by the recent storm to the crops throughout the farms, the corn suffering more than anything else from the heavy downpour.

Miss Kline was graduated from Oberlin College this year, while Miss Ryno was a member of the graduating class of North Plainfield High School this year. Queried as the probability of their forming a feminine walking club brought the response that they were seriously thinking of doing so.

SMALLEY ONLY CANDIDATE.

Now that he is positively out of the race for a re-nomination for Mayor in North Plainfield, Robert Clark, Jr., says he has left the field clear. As far as can be learned, however, William L. Smalley is the only openly avowed candidate, although there is plenty of time for petitions to be gotten out before September 7, when petitions for municipal offices have to be filed.

J. D. Loizeaux will address the men's noon-day Gospel meeting tomorrow at 12:30 in Rescue Mission Hall on Madison avenue.

VON BERNSTORFF ASKS DELAY BY UNITED STATES UNTIL HE CAN PRESENT GERMAN REPORT

WASHINGTON OFFICIALS WILL PROBABLY GRANT REQUEST IN ARABIC MATTER UNTIL KAISER'S SIDE IS PRESENTED.

ANOTHER CRUISER ADDED TO GERMAN VICTIMS

Petrograd Reported to Have Announced Additional Gain at Riga—Russian Black Sea Fleet Again Successfully Raids Turkish Coast—Constantinople Reports That Italy's Entrance In War Was Expected and Turks Are All Ready For What May Come.

Washington, Aug. 24—Coun Von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, formally requested this government to withhold any action or expression of opinion in connection with the sinking of the Arabic by a German submarine until he could present the official version of the affair from his government. The request came in the form of a telegram to Secretary of State Lansing from the ambassador in New York.

It is not believed that Ambassador Bernstorff has yet received the report from Berlin. His telegram was not clear on this point. It is understood his request will be granted.

While Ambassador Von Bernstorff would not make public his note to the State Department at Washington, it was learned from very reliable sources that the note says in part: "If the Arabic was sunk in the manner claimed by the English without warning, then it was against the intention of the German government." The note reiterates that it is against the wish of Germany to sink a passenger vessel carrying neutrals in any flagrant manner. Count Von Bernstorff is in New York today.

A report on the sinking of the Arabic was received at the State Department today from Ambassador Page at London. While officials of the department decline to make it public it is admitted that it is not of a decisive character and does not clear some of the circumstances surrounding the sinking upon which President Wilson desires additional data.

London, Aug. 24—A despatch from Pet Yoam says a semi-official statement issued in the Russian capital adds another auxiliary cruiser to the previous list of the German losses in the Gulf of Riga.

Three more lives were lost today when the Hull trawler Commander Dayle, was sunk by a German submarine. Nine members of the crew were saved, but three were lost.

Sebastopol, Aug. 24—The Russian Black Sea fleet has again successfully raided the Turkish coast, it was announced today. Coast fortifications and naval stations were destroyed and several colliers were sunk near Trebizond.

Constantinople, Aug. 24—"Italy was expected to attack Turkey and preparations were made to meet her," says an official statement issued today. "We had expected war with Italy since the outbreak of the Austro-Italian hostilities," the statement continued, "and are completely prepared to meet the Italians wherever they choose to fight."

Today's Turkish war statement follows: "Dardanelles front—Attacks by the enemy against our new front in the Anafarta sector of the Gallipoli Peninsula were repulsed with heavy loss. French and British official reports on August 10 regarding progress in the region of Krithia, together with the occupation of Chunuk Bahr, and the capture of 650 prisoners and machine guns are unfounded."

Petrograd, Aug. 24—Several thousand German soldiers are believed to have been drowned when ships on which they were being taken into the Gulf of Riga were destroyed by Russian artillery.

Geneva, Aug. 24—Italian forces have occupied the outskirts of Tolmino, according to information received today from Laibach. Italian artillery on the Isonzo front is again cannonading in the front of Dorizia.

Lugano, Aug. 24—Italian newspapers received here state that an agreement between Servia and Bulgaria will soon be effected, Se[illegible] having accepted the proposal th[illegible] Entente powers act as arbitr[illegible] territorial claims.

POLICE UNABLE TO FIND NETHERWOOD HOTEL MAN

Chief of Police Kiely has been unable as yet to serve the papers on Adolph Ruehl, manager of the Netherwood Hotel, for his appearance to answer to a charge of alleged illegal sale of liquor. As was told yesterday, the police believe that they have evidence which will result in conviction of the hotel management, as a result of work done for them on the two preceding Saturday nights. An officer was sent to the hotel yesterday with the warrant, but was unable to find Ruehl, so he was not arraigned before Judge DeMeza in court today.

LOITERING CASES BEFORE CITY JUDGE THIS MORNING

Carmen Ritzio and Mattio Casero were before Judge DeMeza this morning in the city court, charged by Patrolman Kriney with loitering in the rear of Randolph's drug store on West Front street, last Saturday night. Ritzio said that Casero and another man had invited him to go in the yard for a drink from a bottle which one of them had in his pocket. Winfield S. Angleman represented the men, and said that they did not deny being in the place, and had perhaps been indiscrete in going there, but that they had no intention of wrong doing. The court gave them a good talking to about frequenting the rear of stores at midnight, and let them go on a suspended sentence.

Andrew Santa Barbara was picked up by Patrolman Kelley last night on East Front street, being the first victim of a crusade to stop loitering and the insulting of passing women. He admitted that when the officer told him to move on he was a little show about it, but said that he had not been doing anything that he should not do. The Judge told him to tell all those who loafed about the streets that they were opening themselves to arrest and fine, and suspended sentence.

Benjamin Bernstein, of Washington avenue and Third street, had Robert Marks, colored, summoned for throwing a stone at his children. V. W. Nash, Jr., appeared for Marks, and the case was postponed until tomorrow morning.

NO WETTING, MUCH MOWING.

The abundant rain this summer has made it unnecessary to water lawns very much, but, of course, the grass has grown so rapidly that more frequent cutting of lawns has been called for. The lawn surrounding the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church is in well-kept condition this summer, and it was said last week that so far the lawn had not been sprinkled once this season.

Justice of the Peace Thomas H. Snape, of North Plainfield, is acting as clerk of the borough police court during the absence of Roundsman Charles Keller on a vacation.

All the Happenings of the Day In Plainfield's Hustling Suburb.

"GYP" OF BASEBALL FAME KILLED BY AUTOMOBILE

"Gyp," the widely known dog about town, is dead in his sixteenth year. "Gyp" was owned by Arthur Voorhees, of Jackson avenue, and Mr. Voorhees' sister, Miss Edith, discovered him lying dead on North avenue. From the dog's appearance it looked as if an automobile had hit him.

"Gyp" was a mongrel and in appearance he resembled a small fox. He was raised from a puppy by "Shorty" Alberts, who ran a lunch room with Arthur Vail in the present quarters of the National Beef Company.

About twelve years ago the lunch room was discontinued by Messrs. Vail and Alberts and Mr. Alberts left town leaving "Gyp" behind.

For about a month "Gyp" roved the streets of the borough without a home or a master. The dejected appearance of the animal showed that it was slowly dying of a broken heart and George I. Apgar, Jr., little then, but now grown and one of the head men of the Apgar Construction Company, took compassion on the animal and let him hang around the drug store of the late Dr. P. W. Brakley, where he was employed as a paper boy and general clerk. George became very much attached to "Gyp" and he not only saw to it that he had all the bones he wanted, but also allowed him to accompany him home at night.

"Gyp" has been famous about these parts since nine years ago when he won a game of baseball for the locals against the old Clinton Avenue team. With the game a tie "Gyp" picked up a ball which had been thrown over the head of the Clinton Avenue first baseman and ran away with it thus allowing the local runner, who got his base by the error, to score all the way from first with the winning run. Brit Martin was numbered among the Clinton Avenue players who joined in the futile chase after "Gyp."

Contractor Edward Ayers is repainting the Paul Reusch building on North avenue, which is occupied by George Zink, the local baker.

BUS BREAKS DOWN.

This pole stands on New Market road at the head of a short cut through the field owned by the Central Railroad. The young men were returning from New Brunswick and were taking this short cut. It was originally scheduled to be completed by the builders by September 1 in order to give the Board of Education time to secure their equipment before the opening of the fall term, but Charles Dennick, the general contractor, has had several strikes by the men who are working on the structure to contend with besides unfavorable weather.

It is still unsettled in the borough as to who will be the candidate for mayor at the fall election. But two men are now spoken of for the office, they being W. H. Hoar, the present incumbent, and A. I. Nichol, a member of the Common Council. Mr. Hoar has already served two terms as mayor, and has not yet definitely announced whether or not he will be a candidate for a third time. Mr. Nichol would not, it is known, run in opposition to Mr. Hoar. He is at present spending some time at his summer home in New England and knows nothing of his friends' work.

Miss Ruth Dunn, of Front street, is spending a few weeks at Asbury Park.

Several moving picture corporations have asked for the rights to produce the moving pictures of the "community picnic," which was held on August 11, and arrangements will probably be made with whatever company it is to either have the picture shown in Westfield or Plainfield so as to allow local people to see them. U. S. ASTOR THEATRE

"The Climbers," with Gladys Hanson and George Soule Spencer in the leading roles, will be the chief attraction on the screen of the U. S. Astor Theatre, this afternoon and tonight. This film is based on the famous play of that title by the late Clyde Fitch, in which Miss Amelia Bingham made one of the hits of her career.

Though Gladys Hanson and George S. Spencer, the Lubin stars, are cast in the leading roles in this subject, the most conspicuous part is that of Dick Sterling, which is done with consummate artistry by Walter Hitchcock. It is the thankless role of the weakling who gradually sinks lower and lower in the moral scale until he turns on his own wife. Mr. Hitchcock makes it convincing without making it maudlin. The funeral scene is a delightful bit of satire which lovers of the artistic in photodrama cannot afford to miss. The dinner scene is delightful and all the settings are richly ornate, in keeping with the lavish spirit of the Hunter family about whom the action centres. The costumes also are attuned to the piece.

Tomorrow's attraction will be Hazel Dawn, star of "The Pink Lady" and "The Debutante," in "Niobe," one of the best comedies of the year. It is safe to say there is more than a laugh a minute in this delightful visualization of a screamingly funny story. Miss Dawn, who is one of the most beautiful women now acting before the camera, is seen to advantage in this superb subject.

ITALIAN ORGANIZATION PLANNING BIG CELEBRATION

The fifth annual celebration of the San Nicholas Association will take place on Labor Day on the grounds at Park and Mountain avenues, Scotch Plains. There will be a parade through the principal streets of the village at 8 o'clock that morning, a band concert in the afternoon and a display of fireworks at night.

The committee having charge of the celebration consist of Verino Di Donato, Antonio De Pace, Gerado Tiritilto and Mariano Appozzato.

ABANDON PLANS TO RID BOROUGH OF STARLINGS

The idea of being able to drive away the starlings that frequent the vicinity of Jackson and Watchung avenues, North Plainfield, by means of unusual noises, has been abandoned. Chief Marshal Weiss, of the borough police force, fired thirteen shells in a shotgun Saturday night in an effort to scare the birds away, but the shooting had little effect upon the feathered pests.

At the first few shots the birds rose in the air and circled around the trees, but soon settled down again for the night, and finally the firing caused no disturbance among them at all. Unless permission is obtained from the State Fish and Game Commission to shoot into the flock with intent to kill, the residents of that section of North Plainfield where the starlings have made a nuisance of themselves will cease trying to frighten them away

Consolation is found in the thought that cool weather is coming soon, anyway, when the birds will take their departure. If they reappear next year the sufferers from the bird pest will take steps early in the season to invoke the aid of the law against them. It is said that the game laws may not protect starlings another year, for the birds are increasing in number very fast and do much more damage to the farmers' crops than they do good.

PROCTOR'S THEATRE

The second victrola number guessing contest was closed at the Proctor Theatre last night, and the beautiful musical instrument is to be awarded at this evening's show. This is the second contest to be conducted under the auspices of the Proctor Theatre.

The feature picture for this evening is "The Earl of Pawtucket," a screen production of the great stage success of a few years ago. The picture was produced by the Universal Company, with Lawrence D'Orsay, the famous English comedian, playing the leading role. A comedy in five acts which creates sufficient laughter to make the evening more than enjoyable.

Blance Sweet appears tomorrow in the supreme Civil War drama, "The Warrens of Virginia," a picturization of the extraordinary Belasco dramatic hit. This is a picture of veritable armies, realistic battles, the sorrows of impoverished homes and of broken romances. Miss Sweet is ably supported by a strong cast, including James Neill, Mabel Van Buren, P. E. Peters, House Peters, Richard La Reno and Sydney Deane.

The program for the remainder of the week includes the following: Thursday, "The Country Boy," with Marshall Neilan; Friday, "The Ring-Tailed Rhinoceros," with Raymond Hitchcock; Saturday, "The Stolen Voice," with Robert Warwick. Watch for the fall and winter announcements to be made this week through these columns.

GROWERS WATCH INTERESTING PROBE IN PHILADELPHIA

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 24.—A conference which opened today at the Byberry farms, between farmer, commission merchants and consumers, with the object of determining who gets the profits on produce, is being watched by producers and consumers of vegetables all over the country. The probe is being conducted by the Philadelphia Vegetable Growers' Association to determine who gets the difference between the price of products at the farm and the price the consumer pays.

The conference will strive to reach some understanding by which the cost of distribution can be cut to reasonable figures. The farmers and consumers place the blame upon the commission merchants, or "middle men," and these, in turn, place the responsibility for high prices upon the transportation companies and the hucksters.

All sides of this interesting question will be heard.

PLAINFIELD THEATRE

"Potash and Perlmutter," the greatest comedy success of the generation, comes to the Plainfield Theatre Saturday afternoon and evening, after its second year at the Cohan Theatre, New York. The Montague Glass' stories in the Saturday Evening Post, from which the play has been adapted, are among the most popular of modern fiction. Manager A. H. Woods, the producer, calls the play an "up-to-date garment in three pieces." While the three-act comedy is filled with laughter, the plot itself is serious enough, and comedy alternates with pathos. Pinochle and politics, love and law, contribute to the rapid succession of incidents. It is the advent of Ruth Goldman, the designer of the famous Arverne sacque, in the Potash and Perlmutter establishment, that starts the fun and excitement, and the rivalry for her hand in matrimony is fully as keen as the rivalry for her services as designer and business associate; but if this remarkable young woman keeps the hearts of the men a-flutter, so, too, does the good-looking young bookkeeper, Boris Andrieff, stir the hearts of the women. The arrest of Andrieff at the instance of the Russian Government brings "Abe" and "Mawruss" to the aid of their employe. In the warmth of their hearts they risk everything to save him from death or Siberia. They are brought to desperate straits through their sacrifices, but all ends well with Andrieff's exoneration and the announcement of two betrothals. The three acts carry the pricipals from the old-fashioned downtown establishment of the firm to a modern uptown office and workshop, and finally to the Potash home.

George M. Cohan's latest play, "Seven Keys to Baldpate," which is to be presented here at the Plainfield Theater, Thursday, September 2, is melodrama intentionally gone wrong to the point of side-splitting burlesque under the gravest of masks that remains unlifted until just before the last curtain falls.

George M. Cohan, that astonishingly versatile and always supremely self-confident incarnation of Broadway in its most swaggering mood, made this play from the Earl Derr Bigger's novel of the same name.

The languidly venturesome plot of "Seven Keys to Baldpate" fools audiences to the top of its bent throughout about nine-tenths of the time required for the acting of the piece. At the opening of the story one learns that the imaginatively fertile William Hallowell Magee has made a bet of $5,000 with the owner of Baldpate Inn, a summer hotel, that he can write a "best seller" novel within a period of twelve hours' time from the momont his fiction-grinding machine makes it first click on the work.

To give away any more of the unique plot would be unfair to the author and a distinct loss to the imaginative minds of his prospective audiences. It is sufficient to say that the hero wins the $5,000 bet, but in its accomplishment he is confronted with an accompaniment of weird happenings that lift the piece out of the conventional and keeps its onlookers at a point of high tension through every minute of the enactment of the piece.

ROW OVER MOVIE FILM.

Atlantic City, Aug.24—The "Birth of a Nation," which stirred up old Boston into theatre riots and legislative action last spring, has Atlantic City by the ears. Through a temporary injunction the city officials are restrained from stopping the film. Today a hearing is under way before the Court of Chancery as to whether the injunction will be made permanent. The colored population resent the portrayal of the negro in the manner which the film producers chose, particularly objecting to the scene where the vicious negro chases the white girl, who jumps to death from a cliff rather than fall into his hands. When the objection was voiced vigorously at Boston, that scene was cut out. It is possible that a similar agreement will be reached here.

MOVIE THEATRE OWNERS WILL FIGHT FILM MEN

Chicago, Aug. 24.—Picture theatre owners from all parts of the United States are gathering here today to perfect their organization, formed in Chicago last month. It is said that a two-million dollar combine will be the result of the meeting, which will be formally held tomorrow, and that the object of the organization is to break the domination of film owners. It is planned to combat the dictatorial policies of the film producers in forcing exhibitors to show all of their productions or none. The movie owners desire to standardize the productions of the producers and enforce the policy of individual selection to please their own patrons. It is also planned by the theatre owners to manufacture one big film each year, to be shown to the public in all of the theatres of the combine at popular prices.

Many of the larger cities of the United States will be represented when the ogrnization is perfected tomorrow. All the details of the combine will be worked out, and the theatre owners will work in harmony for their objects.
